RED LAKE COURIER.

VOL. VIII—NO. 11. RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 4, 1906. WHOLE NO. 377.

A SAD ACCIDENT AT TERREBONNE

B. T. Thelander, a Prominent Farmer of Wyandotte Accidentally Kills Himself With a Shotgun.

One of the saddest tradgedies enacted in this county occurred at Terrebonne Saturday when B. T. Thelander, a farmer living in Wyandotte accidentally blew the left side of his head off with a shot gun while preparing to start home with a load of grist from the mill.

Chas. Kankel, the miller at Terrebonne, hurried to this city for the coroner, but from the facts set forth no inquest was deemed necessary.

From facts learned from Mr. Kankel regarding the tragedy it is, in substance, as follows: Mr. Thelander drove up to the mill platform and having loaded the sleigh and while he was standing talking with Mr. Kankel, with one foot on the platform and the other on the load he reached over and proceeded to wedge his shot gun, an old single-barrel affair, in between the sacks and box when the hammer evidently caught, discharging the cartridge, the charge entering above the left eye tearing about the whole top of his head away, death resulting instantaneously.

Mr. Thelander was about 46 years of age and leaves a wife but no children. He was in good circumstances and was one of the largest land owners in Wyandotte.

WILL GET A RULING.

Thief River News: Two homesteaders, Ole O. Lien and John P. Amb who filed on land in the vicinity of Mud Lake, northeast of Thief River Falls several years ago appeared before the local U. S. Land office today to make final homestead proof. They had their witnesses and everything was all straight with the exception of the character of the land upon which they had settled which it is claimed is somewhat of a swampy character, making it somewhat difficult to comply with all of the provisions regarding the cultivation of a certain acreage and the making of other improvements.

The proofs were not accepted neither were they rejected, the matter being simply held in abeyance till the local officials can get a ruling on such cases from the department at Washington, where all the papers will be forwarded at once. The reason for this is that there will be a large number of similar cases from the same section in the near future, and the local authorities did not wish to assume the responsibility of establishing a precedent. The land is generally wet and unfit for cultivation, and while proof of residence in the cases were fair, they were not perfect. Under such conditions it is difficult for the homestead entrymen to comply with all the provisions of the law fully, and while it seems unfortunate that the lands of such a character were opened for entry, as many of the filers were under the impression that while the land was wet at the time of filing, a large state ditch was to be constructed which would thoroughly drain it. The ditch has not yet been built.

The ruling of the department on the question will be awaited with great interest as scores of settlers in that vicinity will be vitally affected—Crookston Times.

NORTH SIDE SCHOOL HOUSE

For educational facilities Red Lake Falls needs not apologize and the completion of the North Side school and its acceptance from the contractor gives the city unequaled school facilities. The building is ready for occupancy and on Monday, when school starts, the pupils attending should feel proud of their new quarters.

The structure is four rooms and architecturally one of the neatest school buildings it has been the writer's pleasure to see. The cost of the structure, without school furniture, will be in the neighborhood of $6,000.

THE COUNTY DADS IN SESSION

The Board of County Commissioners Transacted a Vast Amount of Business at Meeting—Shaw Chairman

The board of county commissioners of Red Lake county met at the auditor's office Tuesday morning of this week in the most important business session of the year, and have been busy all week making new contracts, looking after the officers' needs, etc.

Daniel Shaw, the Thief River Falls member of the board, was elected chairman and W. C. L. Demann, of the second district, vice-chairman. Mr. Shaw is recognized as a very able business man, and can be relied upon to look after the county's interests at all times.

P. A. Eckstrom of Black River took his seat with the board in place of James Sutor, resigned, and is already getting down to work in first-class style, his actions indicating that he will make a first-class commissioner.

J. O. Gjerberg was elected janitor for 1906 at a salary of $50 per month.

The petition of Lars Brandon for a new school on the reservation was set for hearing at the next meeting.

An auctioneer's license was granted to L. A. Nelson.

The sum of $1100 was transferred from the county revenue fund to the road and bridge fund.

JAMES E. FORD
AUDITOR

The sum of $100 was appropriated out of the road and bridge fund to aid in constructing a bridge across the Clearwater at section 35, Deer Park township.

The joint bid of the publishers of the six legal newspapers of Red Lake county to do the printing of Red Lake county for the ensuing year in all of the papers of the county was accepted, the St. Hilaire Spectator being designated as the official paper.

The bid of S. Atkinson to furnish 50 cords of green wood at $2.75 per cord was accepted.

A list of names for grand and petit jurors for 1906 was selected and filed with the Clerk of Courts.

The financial statement of the county for 1905 as submitted by the Auditor was approved and will be published during the present month.

The application of H. W. Lee of Thief River Falls for abatement of taxes was granted.

The chairman, county auditor and county attorney were named as the purchasing committee for the year 1906.

Numerous bills and some ditch matters were looked after, and the official proceedings will appear next week.

COUNTY TREASURER RECEIVED CERTIFICATES

Parties Having Bought State Lands at October Sale May Obtain Certificates from Treasurer.

County Treasurer Hansen this week received from State Auditor Iverson the certificates covering the state lands sold in this county by the latter during the October sale. Parties having purchased lands may receive their certificates by making application at the treasurer's office. Something like 5000 acres were sold at an average price of $9 per acre.

WARD TAKES ADVANTAGE OF NEW LAW

he First of the Thief River Falls Box Car Thieves Says Guilty and Gets One Year.

County Attorney Germo was at Crookston Tuesday to prosecute Jim Ward, one of the Thief River Falls box car robbers who was caught at Winnipeg. Ward, knowing his guilt, and certain of conviction, took advantage of the new law which provides that a person pleading guilty of a crime needs not wait, until the regular session of the district court for trial but may plead guilty and what ever sentence is imposed by the judge at the time of his plea starts from that time. He plead guilty of grand larceny in the second degree and Judge Watts sentenced him to one year at hard labor in the Stillwater penitentiary.

Edson, the Soo switchman, and one of the leaders of the gang, stands "pat" and will not commit himself in any way, preferring to be tried at the spring term.

NEW BRIDGE AT HUOT

At the meeting of the county commissioners yesterday the Auditor was instructed to advertise for bids for the construction of a new bridge over the Red Lake river near Huot in Louisville township and the official notice will be found elsewhere in this paper.

The bridge will be a combination wood and steel structure of a 200 foot span, and is an improvement that has been much sought by the people of that part of the county for several years past, but owing to the condition of the road and bridge fund could never be ordered.

The proposed bridge will be at Huot, a postoffice in Louisville and will give the people living north and west of the river the chance to come here or go to St. Hilaire or Wylie, and will always be the means of inducing some of the trade of the east line of towns in Polk county to come this way.

The commissioners will meet on the 19th of January to act on the bids, and the work of constructing the bridge will likely be commenced before the ice goes out.

CITY OFFICIALS-ELECT TAKE OATH OF OFFICE

Red Lake Falls City People Can Depend Upon the Integrity of Their New City Dads.

The board of city aldermen elected at the November election have qualified and held their first meeting on Thursday evening last.

The board as elected is composed of the following:

Mayor—J. A. Duffy.

Aldermen—1st ward, Jas. Brady; 2nd ward, Fred Borchers; 3rd ward, Simon Paul.

Aldermen-at-large, W. P. O'Brien and Henry Hennemuth.

The president of the council for the ensuing term will be Fred Borchers.

The following were elected:

Street commissioner, John Deforge; city attorney, Chas. Boughton; assessor, Adam Zeh.

Mayor Duffy has not made public his appointments on the police force but it is surmised the present efficient force is in line for reappointment.

Torture of a Preacher

The story of the torture of Rev. O. D. Moore pastor of the Baptist church of Harpersville, N. Y., will interest you, He says: "I suffered agonies because of a persistent cough, resulting from the grip. I had to sleep sitting up in bed. I tried many remedies, without relief, until I took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which entirely cured my cough, and saved me from consumption." A grand cure for diseased conditions of Throat and Lungs. At all druggists, price 50c and $1.00, guaranteed. Trial bottle free

No Case of Pneumonia on Record

We do not know of a single instance where a cough or cold resulted in pneumonia or consumption when Foley's Honey and Tar had been taken. It cures coughs and colds perfectly, so do not take chances with some unknown preparation which may contain opiates, which cause constipation, a condition that retards recovery from a cold. Ask for Foley's Honey and Tar and refuse any substitute offered. Sold at W. A. Schreiter.

What with high finance and chorus girls this is a bad year for millionaires.

The king's cup has filled the cup of the New York yacht club full of joy to overflowing.

The Northwest Passage has been found, but it doesn't appear to be good for much, after all.

The tallest shaft in the cemetery won't prevent a man from being forgotten after he is dead.

Death is a mistake, according to a young female lecturer in New York. So many of us make it, too.

Notwithstanding Mark Twain's venerable appearance, the heart of him seems to be as young as ever.

That alleged comet which the papers announced, has gone. It was only a little celestial fuzz, anyway.

It isn't really hard to quit smoking; the only difficulty is to avoid changing one's mind, and taking it up again.

About all there is left for Lord Rosebery is to sit on the fence and throw stones at both parties as they go by.

The Rochester Globe prints this scare headline: "Robbed in a hotel." Such an obvious statement to put in a head!

Mark Twain says he doesn't believe in exercise. Evidently he has never had to frame an excuse for belonging to a golf club.

Mme. Calve says Milwaukee is "a bum town." We are sorry that Milwaukee's opinion of Calve's voice is unfit to print.

"Give your stomach a vacation," says an advertisement. Lord, don't we wish we could! When our stomach goes, we go.

The height of the atmosphere is 109 miles, but there is so little of it, five or six miles up, as to take one's breath and freeze one's ears.

The Chinese have a game called "chefa," which is said to be very much like policy, even to the detail that the Chinese printers play it.

A Chicago woman refused to pay for a new coat because she said it made her look like a camel. Chicago women like to hump themselves.

Owing to a sudden attack of influenza, Mr. Tellum Whott has been forced to defer writing his article on "How to Avoid Catching Cold."

It must not be forgotten that Mme. Bernhardt presents a more conspicuous mark for egg throwers now than she did in her younger and leaner days.

A young woman in New York has coyly owned to being 2,000 years old. This is a whole lot safer than mentioning a limit that looks suspicious on the face of it.

The Emperor of China is talking of going abroad. Perhaps the dowager empress has been looking in his hand and informing him that he is going on a long journey.

The Chicago typewriter girl was has just inherited a fortune of a million dollars will continue to work as a stenographer, but hereafter she won't take much "sass" from the boss.

Mark Twain's moderation in making it his practice never to smoke more than one cigar at a time will be commended by everybody, with the possible exception of the tobacco trust.

Capt. Bernier says he would not go to the North Pole in a balloon. The Cap. has seen icebergs at close range and has an inward presentiment that they would not be desirable things to fall on.

The dyspeptic who is ordered by his physician to walk five miles a day, and who recovers his health by following the advice, ought not to complain because he has to have soles put on his shoes.

It is this way with the man at the races: If his pony wins he will have a pony of brandy after a good dinner, but if the horse he bets on sails in loser, then he will have a schooner with his sandwich.

When U. S. Grant Smith of Minnesota became a grandfather a few days ago it was clearly shown that people who were born during or immediately after the civil war no longer have the right to pose as "young folks."

While in his case the winds are not tempered to the shorn lamb, the bald-headed man congratulates himself that there are no more flies to crawl slowly across his cranium, evoking muttered curses and frenzied, if awkward blows.

We are surprised to learn that a fashionable young man wore a pink shirt at a day wedding in Pittsburg. Everybody knows that the proper thing to wear at a fashionable wedding in Pittsburg is a white shirt flecked with sooty spots.

SHIP WRECKED, ALL HANDS LOST

BRITISH BARK FOUNDERS ON ROCKS OFF VANCOUVER ISLAND.

TWENTY-SEVEN ARE DROWNED

ILL-FATED VESSEL IS POUNDED TO PIECES DURING TERRIFIC GALE.

Victoria, B. C., Dec. 30. — In all about 27 men are believed to have been drowned when the British bark Pass of Melfort foundered on the rocks off Amphitrite Point.

The salvage steamer Salvor, maintained at Esquimalt by Lloyds' agency and the Canadian government, yesterday went to the scene of the wreck from which broken wreckage is still coming ashore, including much of the cabin fittings. More bodies are reported to have been seen near shore. The greater portion of the wreckage, all of which is much broken, is being washed on the rocks in a small bay a quarter of a mile east of Amphitrite Point. Settlers from Uncleuet, the nearest village, about seven miles from the scene of the wreck, have started a for the corpses of the wreck's victims to give them burial ashore.

The wreck of the Pass of Melfort, badly broken, is submerged about fifty yards from shore, with two spars anchored to it, buoying the location. An Indian is said to have seen the ill-fated ship firing rockets just before she foundered. The steel bark went on the reef to the eastward of Amphitrite Point and fifty yards from shore, and the wreckage was washed ashore in a small bay twenty yards wide with steep jagged rocks at the mouth on both sides and fully exposed to the which still swept monstrous seas onto the rocks. The sea rushes into the bay as though in a tide race. While settlers were searching among the wreckage they saw two bodies, both of which were recovered with boat-hooks found among the wreckage. Two other bodies which were beaten against the rocks could not be recovered, but it is reported that they have since come ashore. It is considered impossible for a man to land alive, so rocky is the vicinity where the wreck occurred.

HYDE IS TOUCHY.

Fails to Appreciate Attentions of the Newspaper Men.

New York, Dec. 30.—James Hazen Hyde, as he was sailing for Havre and Paris, yesterday on the liner La Lorraine, paid his respects to the newspaper men on account of the attention he had received from them in the past year. Mr. Hyde declared that he was heartily sick of the insurance investigation, and that the attacks upon him had become a persecution. He said the newspaper men had lied repeatedly about him, had made a butt of him,o had photographed him wearing violet when the violet was not his favorite flower, and now that he was going away for a rest he hoped that the investigating committee and the newspapers would let him alone. He denied emphatically that he intended to retire from the insurance business, and said that when he returned in six months he expected to resume relations with the Equitable.

SAYS CLERKS MUST BE GOOD.

Secretary Shaw Provides New Year Resolutions for All.

Washington, Dec. 30. — Secretary Shaw will dismiss clerks of the treasury department who are habitually "dead broke" and who mortgage their furniture. He will not make the treasury department a collection agency for loan sharks. He will also dismiss any one employed in the department engaged in loaning money at usurious rates of interest. The new order forbids the clerks visiting each other or to receive visits during office hours. It also forbids them frequenting the corridors, smoking in the file rooms, reading newspapers, eating their lunches in the department and then taking a half-hour for lunch.

737,280 Acres Withdrawn.

Washington, Dec. 30.—Withdrawals from public entry and settlement of 737,280 acres of land in Washington were ordered by the general land office yesterday. The withdrawals are thirteen townships in the Walla Walla and nineteen townships in the North Yakima districts, and are made for irrigation projects.

Will Meet in St. Paul.

Chicago, Dec. 30. — The executive committee of the American Bar association at a meeting here last night decided to hold the next meeting of the association in St. Paul. The dates selected for the meeting were Aug. 29, 30 and 31.

Fast Train Wrecked.

Kankakee, Ill., Dec. 30.—Fast mail train No. 37 on the Big Four railway was wrecked at Waldron, Ill., four miles east of here yesterday. Five persons were injured.

MORALES MEANS TO FIGHT

FUGITIVE PRESIDENT OF SANTO DOMINGO WILL ESTABLISH NEW CAPITAL.

Cape Haitien, Haiti, Dec. 30. — The greater part of Northern Santo Domingo is said to be in favor of Gen. Morales, the fugitive president of the republic.

It is understood here that Morales left the capital in order to join his partisans in the north, and Gen. Rodriguez, the governor of Monte Christi, with his followers, have gone to meet Morales. Roderiguez's forces are said to be numerous.

It is claimed here that the report that Morales intends to establish a new capital at Monte Christi is correct, and that he will use that place as a base from which he will endeavor to suppress the uprising of the Caceras party at the old capital of San Domingo. A censorship of all the messages has been established at Monte Christi. Important news from San Domingo is expected momentarily.

DUMPS EIGHTEEN INTO DITCH.

Several Epworth Leaguers on "Hay Ride" Are Seriously Hurt.

Yankton, S. D., Dec. 30.—Eighteen Epworth league members were dumped into one ditch and all were injured when a heavily loaded rig capsized at a narrow culvert. Mrs. G. W. Rosenberry, wife of the M. E. church pastor, was taken from the wreck in a supposed dying condition; she has rallied, but is still in a critical condition with a fractured skull. Frank Emerson, Mrs. Rosie Adamson, Miss Stella Williams and others, including the minister, received severe strains and bruises, but all are recovering, with the exception of Miss Williams, who is thought to have received serious internal injuries. The party was on a "hay ride."

BUY AT HOME TO GET OFFICE.

Country Merchants Unite to Oppose Men Not Their Patrons.

Iowa Falls, Iowa, Dec. 30. — Any patron of the catalogue houses who seeks political preferment in Wright county in the future will find he has formidable opposition in an organization that is formed to protect the retail merchants of the county. It is said that officeseekers who are known to buy goods from other than home merchants will be opposed by a county merchants' organization, so that only men loyal to home industries may be given political honors.

CHLOROFORM FOR DEFECTIVES.

Prof. Alexander Johnson Suggests Heroic Extermination Method.

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 30.—Prof. Alexander Johnson, secretary of the National Charities conference, in addressing the state school teachers yesterday suggested that in the matter of defective children, the easiest way to exterminate this class was either segregation or chloroform. The law prohibited chloroform, but segregation was permissifle. His idea is that lunacy breeds lunacy, and that three generations of segregation would probably eliminate the defective.

Lake Captain Accidentally Killed.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Dec. 30.—Capt. Orman Johnson, who had sailed lake and river craft for nearly forty years, was accidentally killed yesterday at the George Hall Coal company's plant, where he was employed as superintendent.

Summer Hotel Burned.

Larchmont, N. Y., Dec. 30. — The Mitchell house, a summer hotel, was destroyed by fire with a loss of $20,000, early yesterday. The burnod building was unoccupied.

MOSCOW REVOLT CRUSHED OUT

ONLY A FEW FANATICS ARE NOW CONTINUING THE STRUGGLE.

MASSACRE OF "REDS" FEARED

BLACK HUNDRED MAY COMPLETE WORK BEGUN BY THE TROOPS.

Moscow, Dec. 30. — The revolt is practically over and the strike will be called off Monday.

Comparative quiet prevailed yesterday. Only a few fanatics are continuing the struggle.

All the members of the social revolutionary committee have been arrested and a quantity of bombs, infernal machines and correspondence seized.

Kill Chief of Police.

Three hundred revolutionaries yesterday invaded the residence of the chief of the secret police and killed him.

At the medical bureau 650 wounded and 105 killed have been registered, but it is known that there are fully 1,000 unidentified dead in the Loutchow quarter alone. A mob of armed revolutionaries attacked the police bureaus but were repulsed with serious loss.

Acts With Great Energy.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 30.—According to advices received by the government last night the "rebellion" at Moscow is entering on its final stage. The same guerrilla warfare was continued yesterday, but on a smaller scale.

Gov. Gen. Doubassof is acting with great energy and hundreds of members of the "Drujins" are already behind the bars.

The strikers have lost heart and the workmen's council is considering the question of calling off the strike.

Fear Massacre of "Reds."

The principal danger now seems to be that the "Black Hundred" will complete the work begun by the troops and end the revolt with a horrible massacre of the "reds." The lower classes are represented as enraged at the attempt of the revolutionaries to overthrow the emperor, and even with the best intentions, it may be impossible for the authorities to restrain the fury of these classes once the opportunity is offered them. The attacks made on striking railroad men at wayside stations shows the temper of the peasant class.

Strikers Destroy Railroad.

Four thousand strikers marched out of Moscow and completely destroyed several miles of the railroad track between St. Petersburg and Moscow thirty miles outside of Moscow, in order to prevent the arrival of troop trains bearing the Seminovsky battalion of the horse guard and the trains backed twenty miles to Clyne, whence it is understood the troops will proceed to-day on foot for their destination.

Rebels Only Lacked Arms.

London, Dec. 30.—The Times this morning prints a dispatch from Moscow, dated Dec. 27, which says:

"If the revolutionaries could secure guns they would be assured of victory and the troops would be obliged to take refuge in the Kremlin, where the governor general and other authorities have already sought safety. Fortunately the arsenal is inside the Kremlin."

Fleeing From Russia.

Berlin, Dec. 30.—The emigration of nobles and well-to-do persons from Russia continues almost to the limit of the means of transportation. The trains going to Russia are nearly empty, but those coming from that country are full.

Rebels Want to Surrender.

London, Dec. 30.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from St. Petersburg says that the revolutionists in the Pressnay quarter of Moscow are negotiating for terms of surrender with the authorities.

FROM CELL TO SHERIFF.

Iowa Banker Is Met at Prison Door With Fresh Indictment.

Eldora, Iowa, Dec. 30.—Sheriff Mitterer arrived here last evening with Edwin O. Soule, the defaulting Iowa Falls banker who has just finished his sentence at the Anamosa penitentiary, and who was arrested yesterday morning at the prison on a charge of embezzlement as bailee as the result of an indictment found at the October term of the Hardin county court. Soule gave bail here last night and must appear at the January term of court. He is said to have embezzled over $50,000 of the funds of the Home Savings Bank of Iowa Falls three years ago.

BODY RIDDLED WITH BULLETS.

Negro Who Attempted Life of a Policeman Killed by Mob.

Athens, Ga., Dec. 30. — Alexander McDonald, a Birmingham negro, who attempted the life of Policeman Henry Nichols at Elkmont, was pursued by a hundred men and brought back to the town with a rope around his neck and his body riddled with bullets, more than a hundred shots having been fired into him. The body disappeared mysteriously after the affair.

GOV. ODELL IS VERY BITTER

ROASTS HIGGINS AND ROOSEVELT AND PROMISES TO TELL THINGS.

New York, Dec. 30.—Former Gov. Odell, chairman of the Republican state committee, made a statement yesterday concerning the contest for the speakership of the assembly, in which he is backing E. A. Merritt, Jr., against J. W. Wadsworth, who has the support of Gov. Higgins. Mr. Odell said:

"The gentleman up at Albany who is doing so much yelling just now has had some starch injected into his backbone by Roosevelt. He never had any before. When you hear him these days the voice is the voice of Jacob Higgins, but the hand is the hand of Esau Roosevelt. Few persons are deceived by the talk about Roosevelt not interfering in politics in this way in other states.

"The fools may be taken in, but you can't fool the old birds by throwing salt on their tails. It is entirely clear that Roosevelt is back of Higgins. I tried in every way to avoid factional trouble, but it has been forced on me, and when a fight is so forced, I am not a quitter."

"Is the report true that you will have something to say about the collection of campaign funds by Mr. Cortelyou last year," Mr. Odell was asked.

"Before this fight is over I may have a good deal to say about this and other matters of interest, including the Depew-Black race for the United States senate. It is altogether probable that I will contribute something to political literature in the near future —some chapters that may interest people."

BROKEN BANKER IS INDORSED.

Secretary Shaw Says Walsh Did No More Than Others Are Doing.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—Secretary of the Treasury Shaw arrived in the city from Washington yesterday morning, and in an interview practically declared that there would be no criminal proceedings growing out of the closing of the Chicago National bank and the Home Savings bank of this city. He said:

"John R. Walsh did not take one dollar dishonestly. He did no more than many other bankers in the United States are doing all the time."

MADE MAD BY CIGARETTES.

Massachusetts Youth Is Insane From Excessive Smoking.

Springfield, Mass., Dec. 30.—Excessive cigarette smoking has made Morris Kavanaugh insane. Kavanaugh, who is twenty-three years old, and when in normal condition of gentlemanly instincts, was removed from a poolroom where he was smashing chairs and hurling the ivory balls at windows and patrons. A straightjacket was necessary at police headquarters. The physician who was summoned attributed Kavanaugh's condition entirely to cigarettes.

DESPERADOES KILLED.

Gang of Five Men Escape From the Marshals.

Perrysburg, Ohio, Dec. 30.—Caught in the Perrysburg Interurban station early yesterday, five young men, believed to be members of the safe-blower gang which raided the Central avenue car barns Saturday, drew revolvers and wounded Frank Thornton in the stomach. He will probably die. Deputy Marshal William Scott was also shot in the right foot, causing a painful but not dangerous wound. The desperadoes then scattered and escaped.

THROWN FROM TRAIN.

Injured Man at Clinton Says Tramps Attacked Him.

Clinton, Iowa, Dec. 30. — R. J. McIntyre, who says he is a stonemason from New Jersey, is at Agatha hospital, suffering from serious and perhaps fatal wounds. He was picked up in the North-Western railroad yards in a semi-conscious condition. Later, he declared that he had been thrown from a passenger train on which he had ridden from Cedar Rapids, by two tramps who had shared his quarters on the head end of the baggage car.

Dry Dock Starts on Long Trip.

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 29. — The gigantic dry dock Dewey made an auspicious start yesterday afternoon on its 14,000-mile trip to the Philippine islands under the direction of Commander H. H. Hosley, U. S. N. Three vessels in tandem are towing the Dewey.

Unknown Miner Killed.

Rapid City, S. D., Dec. 30. — News has come in from the Big Bend mining camp on Rapid river stating that an unknown miner while working in prospect work accidentally was killed. The man has no relatives in this part of the Hills.

Fatal Shooting at Dance.

Brooks, Ga., Dec. 30—A shooting affray occurred last night at a dance at the home of Tony Biles, a few miles south of here, which resulted in the death of the host and the wounding of three others.

Santa Claus Jests.

Omaha, Dec. 30.—United States District Attorney Baxter, who was dismissed by the president on Christmas day, received on Christmas morning a set of Roosevelt's books as a gift from a friend.

JEROME GETS THE EVIDENCE

GRAND JURY WILL TACKLE INSURANCE WHEN THE COMMITTEE FINISHES.

TO BE CALLED IN FEBRUARY

PAYN AND CADY ARE STAR WITNESSES BEFORE THE INQUISITORS.

New York, Dec. 30.—Louis F. Payn and J. Rider Cady, who was employed at times as counsel by Mr. Payn while the latter was state superintendent of insurance, were the witnesses yesterday before the insurance investigating committee who furnished practically all of the interesting testimony, notwithstanding the fact that more witnesses were examined than on any day since the investigation began.

District Attorney Jerome yesterday received a copy of all the evidence thus far submitted to the insurance investigating committee. There are numerous volumes.

Acting District Attorney Nott said that a special grand jury probably will be empannelled in February to consider the testimony.

Payn Makes Denial.

Mr. Payn was called to complete his testimony interrupted by adjournment Wednesday, and in reply to one of the first questions asked him emphatically denied the report that he had received $40,000 from the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance company and had allowed the company to write its own report of an investigation which Mr. Payn had caused to be made in 1899. Mr. Payn characterized the report as absolutely false in every particular, and said it grew out of a fight between James D. Wells, former vice president of the Mutual Reserve, and President Burnham of the same company.

Refuses Retainer.

Judge Cady was brought into the investigation by reason of his having appeared before Mr. Payn in the interests of Prussian insurance companies seeking admission to the state. This application was denied by Mr. Payn, but two years later was granted. President McCurdy, of the Mutual Life Insurance company, had asked that this permission be held up until he could see Mr. Payn. This request was refused, but Mr. Payn had Judge Cady call upon Mr. McCurdy.

Mr. Hughes asked if Mr. McCurdy said the Mutual Life would pay any money for a contrary decision. Judge Cady said he did not, but that Mr. McCurdy offered him a retainer in behalf of the mutual life, which he refused.

ANTI-SMOOT DEMONSTRATION.

Women's Clubs Will Drop a Million-Name Petition Into Senate.

Washington, Dec. 30. — A grand attack upon the senate at some psychological moment during the hearing of the case against Senator Reed Smoot of Utah is planned by the National Federation of Women's clubs. Several of their leaders, including Mrs. Margaret Dye Ellis, are here making arrangements for the presentation of the million-name petition. It is proposed to have these attractively bound and displayed in some conspicuous place at the capitol near the senate. The women expect a report from the committee on privileges and elections, urging the unseating of the Utah senator, and that event, they reason, would be opportune for presenting the petitions.

REFORM IN FOOTBALL.

Concerted Movement Started by Colleges and Universities.

New York, Dec. 30. — A concerted movement toward reforming the game of football in the colleges and universities of America was begun here yesterday when the representatives of sixty-eight institutions of learning agreed to act together in securing the adoption of rules and an enforcement of them, that are expected to materially lessen the danger to players, do away with mass formations and secure permanent officials for intercollegiate contests.

CARTOONIST PASSES AWAY.

Death of Louis Dalrymple, the Well Known Artist.

New York, Dec. 30. — Louis Dalrymple, an artist whose caricatures of politicians and cartoons on political situations have appeared in well known newspapers and periodicals, died suddenly last night of acute paresis in the Long Island home, in Amityville, where he was taken a month ago.

New Year's Night Noise Is Limited.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—Whistle blowing, horn tooting and revolver shooting, as a celebration of the arrival of the new year will be limited to fifteen minutes Sunday night by Chief of Police Collins. The order prohibits the making of any kind of noise in the vicinity of hospitals.

Falls to His Death.

Janesville, Wis., Dec. 30.—William Harvey, a wealthy Mexican mine owner, fell from an eighteen-foot roof last night. He was instantly killed.

OVER MILLION FOR BUILDINGS.

Minnesota Awaits Spring to Launch Boom.

A tremendous amount of building at an aggregate cost of $1,080,000, is to be undertaken by the state board of control at various state institutions as soon as spring breaks.

Perhaps the most important in general interest is the work at the state university of building the superstructure for the new main building, the foundation having been completed last fall. Work will be rushed as soon as the weather permits, but it is doubtful if the building can be advanced sufficiently next season to permit of its being used the following school year, on account of the magnitude of the structure, representing, as it does, an expenditure of over $400,000, including equipment.

Another state university building to be begun next spring and completed during the season is a new plant house to cost $10,000. Bids already have been called for and will be submitted to the board of control Jan. 1.

Another big building to be pushed in the spring is the new main for the state agricultural school at St. Anthony Park. This, with equipment, is to cost $250,000.

Other state institutional structures to be erected in the spring and completed during the season are a women's cottage at the Anoka asylum to cost $40,000. A similar cottage at Hastings will cost $40,000. The auditorium in the Anoka asylum is to be torn out and the building remodeled and enlarged at an outlay of $15,000.

At the St. Cloud normal, a new model school building will be constructed for $25,000. A new state prison is to be built, for which $75,000 is available. The state reformatory at St. Cloud is to be benefited by having a new contagious ward hospital to cost $5,000.

At the Faribault school for feeble minded, the shops are to be enlarged at a cost of $22,000; a new laundry will be built at an outlay of $5,000; a central kitchen building will be erected, costing $15,000.

Fergus Falls hospital for the insane is to have a handsome, commodious dormitory for nurses, costing $75,000; also a new contagious ward costing $5,000. At the Rochester hospital for the insane there is to be erected an extension to the main building for $16,000, and also a $5,000 contatgious ward.

St. Peter hospital for the insane is to have a new $40,000 dormitory which the nurses have long needed, and a contagious ward to cost $5,000.

At Walker, where the board of control last fall had a caretaker's cottage erected, in the spring will be built the state sanitarium for consumptives to cost $50,000.

It is hoped to have the plans for all these institutions completed by spring that work may advance without delay as soon as continued milder weather permits.

MAY HOLD EXTRA SESSION.

Delay in Printing of Code Will Tangle Things Badly.

An extra session of the Minnesota legislature may result from the delay in the printing of the new code caused by the printers' strike.

"There is a possibility that Gov Johnson may be compelled to call a session of the legislature to have a law enacted to postpone the date the code goes into effect," said Frank A. Day, Gov. Johnson's secretary, in discussing the matter. "What in the world can be done without any existing written law?

"The code vitally changes various laws now in effect. There are also a large number of laws which were amended by the last legislature which are entirely superseded or repealed by the effect of certain portions of the new code. The non-publication of the code before it goes into effect is a matter which becomes more immense in its power to create trouble the more it is contemplated.

"It may become a necessity for a session of the legislature and the subject will probably be put up to the governor to contemplate as soon as he returns home."

TAKES FIRST HONORS.

Minnesota Live Stock Wins Prizes in Chicago.

Minnesota live stock is again to the fore and the latest scene of its triumphs is the arena at the international stock exposition in Chicago. In competition with thousands of the premium cattle of the world the herd exhibited by W. H. Dunwoody carried off first honors in the Shorthorn class, as announced in a telegram received at the office of W. H. Brown.

In the final exhibition Mr. Dunwoody was represented by five head of cattle, including an aged bull, an aged cow, a two-year-old, a yearling and a calf, all of whom were raised on his stock farm at Lake Minnetonka. The victory, which again demonstrates the superiority of Minnesota stock, is the greater because thousands of the best cattle raised in all parts of the United States and Canada were on exhibition. The attendance at the exhibition exceeded 70,000 people.

Another honor which came to Minnesota was the election of H. F. Brown as president of the American Shorthorn Breeders' association.

"HIGH SCHOOLS" IMPORTANT.

Danish Educational Institutions Exert Powerful Influence.

Among the various social and intellectual influences brought to bear in Denmark on the lives of the people none stand higher, both in aim and in result, than do those brought about by Danish national "high schools," says the London Post. These schools have been in existence now for about forty years and were founded by a Dane of exceptional patriotism and of strong religious feeling. The term "high school" is to the English somewhat misleading, as we naturally associate it with secondary education, whereas "high school" in the Danish sense is a school for young people and adults of both sexes and all classes, mostly between the ages of 17 and 27.

The Danish high school was the outcome of a recent period in Daulsh history when the nation passed through a crucial period of trouble, loss and humiliation, when its language and even its nationality were threatened from without, and when it seemed for a time as if even its intellectual and spiritual independence might be destroyed or absorbed. During such periods, when "the reproof of chance" lay heavy on one of the smaller nations, the true proof of its men and women was tested to the utmost, and Denmark at this crisis in its history was not found wanting. After the storm had passed and the province of Schleswig-Holstein had been wrested from the nation, Grundtvig and other patriots conceived and carried out the high school scheme, and succeeded finally in attracting to these schools all that was best and most aspirational in the life of the peasantry and people. The aim of the teacher was not so much to impart knowledge as to stimulate the reflective powers, so as to arouse in the minds of their pupils thoughts on the value and purpose of life.

The Danes themselves attribute the marked rise and intellectual development of the peasantry and the power of combination displayed by the tillers of the soil to the ever increasing influence of the high school movement. Tme agriculturists save money and make sacrifices in order that their sons and daughters may enjoy the intellectual and spiritual culture that the high schools offer. The only analagous movement we have in Great Britain is the burning desire on the part of the Scotch peasantry and small Scotch farmers for education; in England it would appear difficult to create a similar demand among our rural population. This may be because in the past country life has not been synonomous with intellectual life, except for the rich and well-placed.

Now that the intellectual needs of various classes are being more scientifically studied, an intimate knowledge of the working of these Danish schools, which have been so successful in revolutionizing intellectually and spiritually the rural life of Denmark, might be of special value to members of rural educational councils in England. Mrs. Browning wrote: "It takes a soul to move a body." In Denmark of to-day the body, through its steadily growing co-operative undertakings, can be seen moving and gaining in strong and healthy national life. It is claimed by the more patriotic and intelligent among the Danes that the soul which moves and quickens the body was reborn in the daily life and aspiration of the high schools.

DIGGING FOR IRON.

Great Activity in Various Parts of New Norway.

Iron mining will be a big industry in Norway next year as new claims are being opened in several parts of the country. At Oestvaag island in Nordland a Norwegian-Dutch company is sinking two shafts, and is building a wharf and railway line to connect with the mines. The locomotive has already arrived and next season the force of 100 men will be greatly increased. The ore contains 60 per cent iron and is free from sulphur, phosphorus and other undesirable elements.

The immense fields in Dunderland valley were visited by numerous representatives of the big mining industries of England and Germany, and if the prospects are fulfilled it will become one of the largest fields in the world.

There is much activity in the vicinity of Arendal. Carl Lundergreen of Stockholm has invested heavily in mines in that district. He has only 70 men at work now, but this force will be greatly increased. A French company has secured two claims in this district and wants more.

MARKETS FOR SWEDISH GOODS.

They Are Eagerly Sought in All Foreign Countries.

Excellent work has been done in recent years by the Swedish Export association in finding foreign markets for Swedish products. There is already a considerable export to Egypt, Transvaal, Argentina and other countries in consequence. The attention is now directed toward the Orient with promising outlook.

HORRIBLE STORY IS INTERRUPTED

MOSCOW IS CUT OFF JUST AS CORRESPONDENT STARTS TO TELL IT.

PLAN BAPTISM OF BLOOD

REDS PREPARE FOR WIDESPREAD APPLICATION OF TORCH OF WAR.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 29.—There is no further news from Moscow. The Associated Press correspondent there succeeded in getting the St. Petersburg bureau by telephone last night, but he had only uttered the words: "I am going to tell you a horrible story," when he was cut off.

Since then nothing has been heard from the correspondent.

The Seminosky regiment of guards was dispatched to Moscow by train last night. This is considered rather ominous.

List of Casualties Swelling.

An earlier dispatch from Moscow said:

"The cannonading continues and the list of casualties is swelling. The revolutionists are operating in three sections. There is about 1,000 of them in each section. They are all armed with revolvers and rifles. The women who are participating in the fighting are guilty of the worst cruelties."

Plan Series of Outbreaks.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 29.—The reds of Russia are planning widespread application of the torch of civil war. In the face of a declaration by the Witte government that the Moscow revolt is almost crushed, the revolutionist profess hope of success by means of a revolt here, an uprising there, a disconcerting, baffling series of outbreaks in every city in the tottering empire of the czar.

An inspired statement in the Slavo says the government expects the revolt at Moscow to be completely crushed within four days.

15,000 Fell in Moscow.

From an independent source the Slavo declares it has learned that the bloodshed at Moscow has been frightful and that the casualties will reach 15,000 and that about 100 Red Cross workers have been sent from St. Petersburg to Moscow to aid in caring for the wounded.

Big Revolt in Poland.

According to information received by the revolutionary leaders here an armed rebellion on a large scale has been planned in Poland.

The socialist revolutionaries, encouraged by the success of the insurgents in the Baltic provinces and of the situation at Moscow and in Russia generally, have decided that the moment has come to try to cast off the yoke of the autocracy.

The tactics to be followed are the same as those adopted at Moscow.

Armed With Rifles.

Following the example of the authorities at Moscow, about half the police of St. Petersburg are armed with rifles and the unwonted spectacle of police with bayonets on their rifles adds to the public alarm.

The news from the provinces shows an alarming extension of the strike. Kovno, a fortress town of Lithuania, having about 80,000 inhabitants, seems absolutely in the hands of the socialists, who have summoned the people and the situation is so serious at Krementchug, South Russia, that the governor has declared martial law "for the purpose of restoring peace and insuring the elections to the national assembly."

To an Armed Resistance,

At Saratoff, in Eastern European Russia, wholesale arrests have been made, but the strike is extending. At Kieff serious collisions have taken place between the troops and strikers, during which about forty persons were killed or wounded.

Rebels Capture Railroad.

London, Dec. 29.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg to a news agency says it is reported that the railroad for a hundred miles southward of Minsk has been captured by the revolutionists and that there has been serious rioting at Kolpino, near St. Petersburg.

KILLS HERSELF IN ROME.

American Girl Jumps From Third Story Window.

Rome, Dec. 29. — Miss Anna Randolph, and American twenty-nine years old, committed suicide yesterday by jumping from a window of the third floor of her residence. Miss Randolph, who had a brother, Leopold, an artist, in this city, had been two months in Rome studying languages. She suffered from nervous prostration.

ROOSEVELTS TAKE OUTING.

Presidential Party at the Country Home in Virginia.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 29.—The president and Mrs. Roosevelt and their children, Ethel, Kermit and Archie, arrived at North Garden, below Charlottesville, yesterday afternoon and took vehicles there for the twelve-mile drive to "Pine Knob," the Roosevelt company in Albemarle county, where the presidential party are now comfortably established. They will return Sunday.

GRILL FOR STANDARD OIL

FEDERAL AGENTS STRIKE TRAIL AND BIG SENSATION IS PROMISED.

Chicago, Dec. 29. — A Philadelphia special to the Tribune says: For nearly a year agents of the United States government have been slowly and patiently but persistently gathering facts and figures on which it was hoped to base a successful attack upon the gigantic monopoly known as the Standard Oil company. Great as this organization is, the United States government is greater, in spite of the boast of some of the Standard managers, and federal agents and detectives have struck a trail which seems at least to lead into the heart of the famous system.

Following upon the footsteps of government agents in Washington, Philadelphia, New York and other cities, I have learned sufficiently to convince me that during the present winter and possibly not long after the holidays, there will be presented to congress a report which will be far more sensational than that prepared against the beef trust, and at the same time another report will go to the attorney general with a suggestion that prosecution be instituted.

The work of the special agents of the government is not entirely concluded, but nearly so. They have developed enough to startle the country, and the paid spies of the Standard Oil company already have learned this and have begun to cover up evidence in anticipation of a criminal prosecution by the federal government.

The investigation into the affairs of the Standard Oil company has been conducted by Commissioner Garfield of the bureau of corporations.

TO LAY EGGS ALL THE TIME.

California Professor Believes He Can Control Habits of the Hen.

Berkeley, Cal., Dec. 29.—Within a short time hens will lay eggs according to program, whether they want to or not, instead of refusing to work for so long a season every year that the price of eggs mounts up to famine rates, if the plans of Prof. Jaffa, nutrition expert at the state university, do not go astray. Prof. Jaffa is conducting some experiments which he expects will be completed by Jan. 1. He announces that his researches have justified his belief that he would be able to control the moulting period of hens, which normally begins in the middle of the summer and continues into September, October or November.

IS A BADLY BUFFETED BARK.

Vessel Has Forty-Day Siege With Typhoons on Pacific.

San Francisco, Dec. 29.—The bark Hecla, which sailed from Manila on Oct. 20 for Port Townsend, put into this port yesterday in distress. While off the Island of Luzon she was exposed to a succession of typhoons which began Oct. 30 and continued for forty days. Her sails were blown away, part of the sheathing was torn from her hull and other serious damage was sustained. On Dec. 18 she was struck by a hurricane with a heavy cross-sea, which threw her on her beam ends and severely strained her. With only five sails left she made this harbor, where she will be repaired.

DASTARDLY OUTRAGE.

Four Men Take Young Woman From Escort and Assault Her.

Destus, Mo., Dec. 29. — The community is greatly excited here over the fact that Miss Hessie Neisler, eighteen years old, was taken from her escort by four men at the point of a revolver last Saturday night as the couple was returning from a Christmas entertainment, forced to go into a woods, where she was assaulted and then allowed to go home, arriving almost unconscious. Charles Kelley, Harry Bezarth, Paul Bischler and William Mason have been arrested. Bozarth is a nephew of Miss Neisler's uncle, with whom she has been visiting for three months.

Stevens for a Lock Canal.

Washington, Dec. 29. — Chairman Shonts, accompanied by Chief Engineer J. F. Stevens of the isthmian canal commission, has arrived in Washington. Mr. Stevens has come to Washington to give his views to the commission on the type of canal that should be constructed. He is in favor of a lock canal and at a moderately high level.

NO ACCOUNTING BY LOBBYIST

HAMILTON IS HEARD FROM BUT REFUSES TO ACCOUNT FOR MONEY.

HIS WORK DONE IN SECRET

CASH USED IN MAKING PAYMENTS—PAYN CALLS BURNHAM A CROOK.

New York, Dec. 29.—Andrew Hamilton, the legislative agent of the New York Life Insurance company, who, according to testimony, has been entrusted with hundreds of thousands of dollars by the company and has not accounted for $235,000, has been heard from by the legislative insurance investigation committee, but has declined to make an accounting.

A statement by Mr. Hamilton was read for the record yesterday. It was presented by Secretary John C. McCall of the New York Life, who went to Paris to secure an accounting from Hamilton. In his statement Mr. Hamilton says that he is any books or accounts because he undertook the legislative matters for the life insurance companies with the express understanding that he was to make no accounting. Absolute secrecy was necessary in retaining assistants, therefore no checks were used in making payments.

Mr. Hamilton went into an exhaustive explanation of the reasons for organizing this confidential service, as he characterized it, covering his methods of work, and citing a number of legislative bills in which he had been interested. A list of expenses from 1899 to 1904 was appended to the statement. The sum of $235,000 unaccounted for, he says, would be greatly reduced by his running account still unsettled and open, and, as a pending a settlement, he offers to deposit $100,000 with the company.

Secretary McCall was questioned by Mr. Hughes as to what further light he could throw on the statement of Mr. Hamilton, but he said he could give no information. He did not question Mr. Hamilton's figures nor the large accounts for traveling expenses. He asked Mr. Hamilton for a full statement and relied on his honesty to explain everything. He did insist that Mr. Hamilton produce checks or check books, but Mr. Hamilton said he had none.

When Mr. McCall was excused Henry D. Appleton of the state insurance department was called.

Calls Morgan a Liar.

He completed his testimony begun last Friday, and during the examination was told that Mr. Morgan, former president of the Bankers' Life Insurance company, had testified that Mr. Appleton had said it would cost the Bankers' Life $50,000 to reincorporate. Mr. Appleton somewhat heatedly said:

"If Mr. Morgan said that he is a liar."

Louis F. Payn, former state superintendent of insurance, was called to the stand and explained a large number of appointments of confidential examiners on the ground that an unusual number of examinations were made during his tenure of office.

Thought He Was a Crook.

The affairs of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance company were taken up with the witness, and during this line of examination Mr. Payn stated that he had been opposed to Mr. Burnham as president of the Mutual Reserve and said that he had tried to get him out.

Mr. Hughes asked why he had tried to get him out, and Mr. Payn flatly said "because I thought him a crook." Mr. Payn will resume to-day.

SAYS LIVES ARE IMPERILED.

Steamboat Inspector Criticizes Carrying of Crude Petroleum.

Washington, Dec. 29. — In submitting his annual report as supervising inspector of the general steamboat inspection service, George Uhler expresses considerable anxiety regarding the present practice of carrying crude petroleum in passenger steamers in quantities which jeopardize the safety of the ship and passengers. Much of this oil, he says, is so highly inflammable that it will flash at the ordinary summer temperature of the atmosphere.

Three Are Asphyxiated.

Marquette, Mich., Dec. 29. — Mrs. Helen Decher was found dead yesterday afternoon, asphyxiated by coal gas. Her daughter, Mrs. August Thoney, and the latter's son, were in a nearly lifeless condition, and were revived with great difficulty.

Bourke Cockran Is Ill.

New York, Dec. 29.—Bourke Cockran has been ill for ten days at the Waldorf-Astoria, and his physicians have advised him to go to Arizona in the hope of regaining his health. He was threatened with pneumonia and the attack left his lungs weak.

Killed by a Train.

Bloomington, Ill., Dec. 29. — Harry Collison, a prominent banker at Rantoul and Thomasboro, was struck by a train at the latter place last night and instantly killed.

Lumber prices have been advanced five times during the past year. Wouldn't it be well to raise the tariff to keep out the cheaper and inferior Canadian lumber?

President Roosevelt has been given assurance of support of his railroad rate legislation by the Democratic minority, but what has the Republican majority done about it?

It is claimed now that the tariff on hides does the farmer no good. Tariff protection is seldom found useless to the farmer except when it conflicts with manufacturing or monopalistic interest.

Farm, Stock and Home gives this bit of advice: "We had to break away from party trammels to get rid of party bosses; now keep away from the trammels and there will be no more bosses."

The Albert Lea Standard wonders if Prof. Osler's advice to elderly men to keep away from men of their own age and associate with their juniors mean that they ought to go out with the boys.

The Albert Lea Tribune is opposed to the free seed graft and draws a parallel. It says: "The free seed nuisance that has grown up in congress is one of the worst grafts that has sprung up mush-room-like to plague and annoy the country. There is no more reason why ordinary garden and field seeds should be purchased and given to those who apply at the bargain counter for them."

Labor Commissioner Williams wants the legislature to obey its own laws by refusing to hire boys under sixteen as pages. In the first place young boys cannot be employed in Minnesota, and again they violate the truancy law by remaining out of school. It is time the legislators took a dose of their own medicine, and doubtless they will know that attention has been called to the matter.

Winona Republican-Herald: It is poor politics for any republican newspaper to make personal attacks on Gov. Johnson. This is one sure way to aid in his re-election. He is at present governor of the state without regard to the political complexion of its citizens, and as such he is entitled to courteous and fair treatment. Personally Gov. Johnson is a clean and honorable citizen, and he should be treated as such by everybody.

The Murray County Herald believes the state warehouse and railroad commission needs a shaking up. It is again as useless a piece of furniture as it was prior to Lind's administration, when the people defeated the republican gubernatorial candidate in order to get a new deal in the commission. If farmers and merchants would sink partnership and vote as their business interests dictated, the people, and not the railroads, would have representatives on that commission.

Impoverished Soil

Impoverished soil, like impoverished blood, needs a proper fertilizer. A chemist by analyzing the soil can tell you what fertilizer to use for different products.

If your blood is impoverished your doctor will tell you what you need to fertilize it and give it the rich, red corpuscles that are lacking in it. It may be you need a tonic, but more likely you need a concentrated fat food, and fat is the element lacking in your system.

There is no fat food that is so easily digested and assimilated as

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil

It will nourish and strengthen the body when milk and cream fail to do it. Scott's Emulsion is always the same; always palatable and always beneficial where the body is wasting from any cause, either in children or adults.

We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

THE DEAF HEAR

Remarkable Results Obtained From Use Of Strange, Newly Discovered Medicine.

There can no longer remain any doubt that this new remedy known as Cooper's New Discovery is truly a marvel in medicine.

So wonderfully and miraculously does this strange medicine effect disease that it seems beyond our comprehension. Yet, what we see with our own eyes and hear with our own ears we are forced to believe. Catarrh, Deafness, Stomach and Kidney Troubles, Blood Diseases and Paralysis quickly disappear, as has been repeatedly proved, where the new medicine is used.

In some mysterious manner it transforms poor, poisoned or diseased blood into rich, pure vital fluid and sends it rushing through the body to nourish and strengthen every part. Its action is immediate and it is the rapidity and completeness and permanency of its effect that is so puzzling medical men.

Miss. M. A. Dodge, a stenographer of 1009 3rd Ave., S. Minneapolis, who had to give up her position on account of deafness tells a remarkable story of her experience with the new remedy.

"I was so deaf that it was impossible for me to retain my position and had almost given up hopes of finding any relief. After one weeks treatment with Cooper's New Discovery and Quick Relief I am wonderfully improved, am confident my hearing will soon be entirely restored and am indeed grateful for the benefit I have received."

Cooper's New Discovery, and Cooper's Quick Relief, the assistant remedy which is used in connection costs one dollar per bottle and fifty cents per bottle respectively and can only be obtained from

The sidewalk and railing leading across the G. N. right-of-way on Main street has been put in good condition by the company the past week.

Peter Hensel, the well known blacksmith at Wylie has purchased the Theo. Smith property on the north side and will start up a blacksmith and machine shop there.

Mrs. Jas. G. Brady and daughter came up from Brandon to spend a few days with Mr. Brady's folks in this city. Mr. Brady has a good position with an elevator company in North Dakota near Devils' Lake.

Harry Healy, who last week essayed to emulate the feats of some of Norway's sons in ski jumping—and of course came to grief—is once more able to be around and the question arises who got the worst end of the deal: Healyson or Stumpson.

Don't forget the basket social which will be given by the M. B. A., lodge at their hall on the 15th. The ladies are all requested to bring baskets and the members of the lodge and others should not make it a point to leave their pocket books on the bureau.

Messrs Frank H. Howe representing the Hennepin Bridge Co., and M. McCollum of the A. Y. Boyne & Co., bridge contractors were in the city last week prepared to submit bids for a bridge across the Red Lake river in section 28, but it appears a question has arisen regarding the legality of the call for bids and the matter consequently is still up in the air.

The sixteen year old son of night patrolman Eizee met with a rather peculiar accident Friday while out hunting rabbits. In tramping thru the snow drifts the gun barrels evidently became clogged with snow and in discharging the gun the recoil was so strong as to throw it from the shoulder position the hammer of one of the barrels striking the young man squarely in the forehead and inflicting a very nasty gash.

A. E. Roycraft, of Two Harbors, was in the city this week visiting friends.

G. A. Anbol, of Crookston, deputy collector of internal revenue, was in the city today.

A marriage license was issued Tuesday to Chas. Booth and Emma Larson of Wylie.

Try an "I Lead" cigar, only 5c, guaranteed to give satisfaction; if you want something better smoke a "B. B."

Nels Haakenson, the Thief River Falls laundryman, was in the city Tuesday looking after his business interests.

The New Years' dance given by local parties in the Kaus block Monday evening proved a decided social success. The Freund orchestra furnished the music.

A bunch of young people enjoyed a sleigh ride about the city Saturday evening with Carl Krueger acting as chaperone. It was Carl's 21st birthday and he may now be considered on the eligible list.

Through prompt action taken by the health officers, and strict observance of the laws by Mr. Healy, the threatened epidemic of scarlet fever has been confined to the Healy residence and the quarantine will be raised the latter part of this week. A report has gone abroad that a vast number of cases were prevalent here and that an epidemic raged. The fact that just one isolated case has been under quarantine shows the vigilance of the board.

Mr. S. M. Sivertson, manager of the Red Lake Milling Company returned last week from an extended business trip to New York and other eastern points.

The COURIER was not able to learn the object of Mr. Sivertson's mission in the east, but speaking of the financial condition in the money circles he found matters on a sound basis and that the whirlpool of Wall street was a matter merely speculative and which had no bearing on legitimate business enterprises.

The band concert at the opera house Friday evening was given popular approval by the turning out of a large audience who thoroughly appreciated every number of the program. Notwithstanding the fact of the crippled condition of the band owing to the absence of some of the players due to illness every number was enjoyed and rendered in such a way as to add further popularity to these monthly concerts. The instructor, Prof. Miller, handles the boys admirably and a "knack" of bringing the gifts of music in his pupils out to the fullest extent. After the concert the young people enjoyed a social dance.

GAVE HIM "TOUCHY" MUSIC.

A number of the band boys who are noted for their proficiency in rag time music treated the people of the city to a choice selection of their reportoire Christmas evening in the nature of an open air concert. After a very liberal selection of pieces the boys assembled in front of Mr. Jeffer's residence and "Old No. 6" proved the key to his unlimited hospitality.

Oanada's Great Moral Issue.

While Canadian life in many phases is like life in the United States, there are some points of difference. One is illustrated by an affair that has been agitating the public mind in Ottawa. A Greek confectioner, who had been selling ice cream and ice cream soda on Sunday, was called to account for his crime and he offered in defense that he had a restaurant license entitling him to sell foods and that ice cream was food. This subterfuge was sustained by court, but the press of Ottawa indignantly demanded the revocation of his license. We, however, are proud of our liberty, and the excellence of golden grain belt beer. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson Crookston.

Order to Examine Accounts.

STATE OF MINNESOTA } ss
County of Red Lake }
IN PROBATE COURT
Special Term, January 3rd, 1906.

In the matter of the estate of Cyprien Asselin, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Cleophas Asselin and Onezime Asselin, executors of the estate of Cyprien Asselin, deceased, representing, among other things, that they have fully administered said estate, and praying that a time and place be fixed for examining and allowing the final account of their administration, and for the assignment of the residue of said estate to the parties entitled thereto by law:

It is ordered that said account be examined, and petition heard by this Court, on Saturday, the 27th day of January, A. D. 1906, at 10 o'clock a. m., at the Probate Office, in the city of Red Lake Falls, in said county.

And it is further ordered, that notice thereof be given to all persons interested by publishing a copy of this order once in each week, for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, in the Red Lake Courier, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls in said county.

Trembling at every joint the king proceeded to the work. He pulled off the robe of purple silk, and cast it down; then he took off the crown; and then the golden chain. Julian picked them up, and turning once more to the king, said:

"I will grant you one favor before I go. You came hither to see me. If you have any question to ask, I will answer it."

The king started up as though he had received promise of some great blessing.

"Once I asked you who your parents were," he said. "You would not answer me. Will you answer me now?"

"No, sir," replied Julian. "I will not speak their names in your presence; nor will I give to you the name of the friend whom I love."

"Be not too headstrong, sir robber," urged the king.

"Is that all for which you sought me?" asked the chieftain, taking a step backward.

"I sought thee to find out who you are. I have a reason for asking."

"What reason?"

"There is something in your face which interests me."

"Perhaps it looks like my father's," said Julian, bitterly. "O, if you were not a poor, decrepit old man, I should smite thee; and I will take myself away as speedily as possible, lest my resolution fail me. Stand back—I will have no more to say unto thee. Thy slaves will find thee here in the morning."

The king would have followed Julian to the door, but the robber put him forcibly back, and then, having picked up the lantern from the floor, he hastened out from the dungeon, after which Selim closed the door and bolted it.

"His cries for help cannot be heard?" suggested Julian.

"No," answered Osmir. "These solid walls will drink up the sound of his voice before it reaches the end of this first passage."

"Then we have nothing more to wait for. One lantern will suffice, so I will leave this one behind."

Julian extinguished the light, and then proceeded to array himself in the royal apparel; and when he had donned it and stood with his form bent and trembling, his companions assured him that he would pass for the monarch well enough. His face alone could betray him, and that could be easily concealed.

And now for the upper world. They stopped when they reached the place where the captain lay, and when they had assured themselves that he could not move until he had received help, they passed on. Up they went, Selim going ahead with the lantern, while Osmir followed close behind the disguised robber. Thus they passed on to the upper chambers, where sentinels were posted; but no one molested them. The seeming king walked with his head bent, and his arms folded upon his bosom, and none dared to approach him. Osmir and Selim were known to be two of the most favored of the monarch's slaves, so their presence seemed all proper. On they went, as freely as though moving over a desert plain, until they stood without the gate of the garden wall, at which point Julian stopped and threw off the royal robe.

"This chain of gold I shall keep," he said; "not for its value as a trinket, but that I may have a memento of this night's adventure with the king of Damascus. And now, good Osmir, let us hasten to the place where my faithful Hobaddan waits for me."

In the darkness of the night, by well known ways, the blacks led the robber chieftain towards the dwelling of the prime minister, being still ready to serve him in the face of any danger.

CHAPTER XIII.

From One Danger Into Another.

Ulin would not retire until she had heard from Osmir, who had gone out in behalf of the robber chieftain. She sat in her chamber, with a single lamp dimly burning, and her faithful bondmaiden kept her company.

"I feel," said Albia, breaking in upon a long silence, "that we have done no more than our duty in lending our aid to the cause of the imprisoned chieftain."

"We have done our duty to the city," returned Ulin, hesitatingly. "If Julian is set free it will save much trouble to our king."

"Or" cried the bondmaiden, impulsively, "I don't care for the king. When he is your husband, then I may respect him, but I do not care for him now. I care more for the noble, generous, handsome Julian. I cannot forget how kindly he treated us, and how like a brother he bore himself. And, one thing more, I cannot forget how sad he looked when he left us in the Palace of the Valley. As true as I live, I think I almost love him. He is the best looking man I ever saw."

"Albia, you must not talk in that manner before me."

"Pardon, my lady. I meant no harm."

"I do not chide you—I do not blame you. But—the name of the daring robber is not one that should be used in my presence."

"Dear lady," plead Albia, "had I regarded Julian as a real criminal, I should not have used his name as I did. But I looked upon him as a man more honorable and true than—"

"Enough, Albia. Let us drop that subject now. What is the hour?"

"It is past midnight—I should think an hour past."

"Then go down into the garden and see if Osmir has returned."

Albia departed without speaking further, and when the princess was left alone she arose from her seat and walked across the floor.

"I do not think I have done wrong," she said to herself, "in lending my aid to this robber. I shall never see him again. I do not wish to see him any more. And I do not suppose he would care to see me. I hope he will escape—I hope he will prosper in the years to come."

She ceased speaking aloud, and pressed her hand upon her heart as though the other feelings must not come forth.

In half an hour Albia came back. Her step was light and quick, and a look of satisfaction beamed on her handsome face.

"O, my dear mistress," she cried, as soon as she had closed the door behind her, "Julian is saved!"

"Thank heaven!" ejaculated the princess, devoutly.

"He is saved, and has now started to leave the city."

"How was it done?"

"Osmir and Selim came with him: and I only know that they led him forth from his prison. Hobaddan was in our garden, and when he saw his noble young master he fell upon his neck and kissed him, and wept for joy. They did not stop long, for they had not the time to spare. Hobaddan came to me and blessed me, and bade me assure my gentle mistress that he would pray for her while he had life and reason. I saw them depart, and then I turned back."

"I hope they will meet with no more danger," said Ulin half to herself.

"They will not be long in finding a place of safety," returned Albia. "And now, my mistress, what of ourselves?"

The princess started, and clasped her hands.

"It is now almost two hours past midnight, and in three more hours the light of day will be upon us."

"O, Albia, I must flee from Damascus. I dare not remain here."

"Of course we are to flee," said the bondmaiden. "We had promised that before Hobaddan came. You told me you would flee this very night."

"And I will keep my word if I can," responded Ulin, resolutely. "You were to plan for our departure."

"It is all arranged, my mistress. Shubal will accompany us. I have talked with him, and he is ready. He says he can procure horses just without the gates of the city; and he knows the way to the cave of Ben Hadad. Once with the kind old hermit, and you are safe."

Ulin had no need for further thought upon the subject, for she had firmly resolved that she would flee. The more she thought of union with the king the more terrible appeared the fate. At times she blamed herself for having admitted the idea of marriage with Horam; but she did not feel that she had willingly done wrong. When she gave herself to the royal acceptance she knew nothing of the world—knew nothing of the trials she would have to endure—and knew little of the character of the man who wore the crown. Since that time she had gained knowledge, and her eyes had been opened. The case dwelt in her mind now as one of life or death, and she felt that she must save herself.

"I must write a few words to my father," she said.

"But you will not tell him where you have gone?"

"No. I will only tell him why I have gone. I must do that. Get me the writing materials, Albia; and while I am writing you may go and find Shubal. We will get away as soon as possible."

The bondmaiden brought a piece of parchment, a sharpened reed, and a small pot of ink; and when she had arranged them upon the table she left the apartment. Ulin sat down to the work without further hesitation, and wrote to her father the reason of her flight. When she had written all that she deemed necessary, she placed the parchment where he would be likely to find it, and then proceeded to gather up the few articles she meant to take with her. She moved steadily about the work, and if she trembled, it was more from anxiety than from fear of what she was doing. She took her jewels, of which she possessed a rich store, and also packed up a few articles of clothing. She had just accomplished this when Albia returned.

Shubal was a stout, kind-hearted slave, who had been many years in the family, and his attachment for his young mistress was strong and true. When she called upon him to serve her, he had no questions to ask, save how he should please her best.

"Shubal," said the princess, "do you know what you have to do?"

"Yes, my lady, I have to serve you."

"But do you know why I have called for you now?"

"Yes. I am to go with you from the city."

"And you are willing?"

"Yes, lady—I am willing and I am glad."

"Then we have nothing more to detain us. Albia, are you ready"

"Yes, my mistress."

Ulin stepped back to her dressing-table and picked up her jewels, and for a moment she bowed her head upon her folded hands. When she looked up her fair brow was serene, and the tremulousness had gone from her lip. Shubal took the bundle of clothing, and then the party moved out from the chamber. They gained the garden, and passed out by the small gate; and when they had reached the street they led off with a quick step. There was a sentinel at the city gate, but he did not trouble those who passed out. As Shubal had promised, he found horses at a small stable beyond the wall, and in less than an hour from the time of leaving her chamber the princess was safely in the saddle, with her face turned toward the northern mountains.

At the distance of two leagues from the city they came to a small strip of wood, through which their path lay, where they stopped to let their horses drink from a living spring. Shubal had dismounted to hand some water up to the females, and was just in the act of dipping the cup, when he was startled by the sound of a step close at hand, and upon lifting his head he found a man standing directly before him. It was too dark to distinguish features, but Shubal could see that the stranger was tall and stout, and that his garb was not of Damascus.

"Ha! Who is this" demanded Shubal moving back a pace.

"I am a man, and have sought the spring for fresh water," was the answer. "And now, who are you?"

Shubal recognized the voice of an Arab; and as he gazed more sharply on the fellow, he was able to see that the garb was wild and filthy.

"I have sought this spring as you have, Sir Arab."

"Ah, you recognize my tongue and nation, do you?"

"Yes, and it would seem that you are even with me."

"I know you are a slave, but that does not tell me whence you come."

"I come from Damascus."

"Ah—from Damascus! And you have ladies with you. Perhaps they have money with them. Perhaps they have jewels. Damascus is a wealthy city, and her people seldom travel with empty purses."

Shubal started up, and laid his hand upon the hilt of his sword.

"Your words give token of a curious disposition, Sir Arab."

"Words are nothing. With a simple contracting of the lips I can produce a sound that has power to call up spirits from the earth. Hark!"

PURE WATER.

Boiling or Cooking in Any Form Destroys Germ Life.

A pure water supply is rightly looked upon as one of the greatest essentials to the healthfulness of a community. Many foods, salads, for example, cannot be cooked, or subjected to the effect of a high temperature, while, on the other hand, washing them in infected water may render them the means of conveying disease. Among the chief ways of preventing typhoid fever must be mentioned the care of the stomach itself. It seems highly probable that the natural juices of the healthy stomach are able to destroy many germs of disease; but the number which any stomach may be able to digest must always be uncertain, and it is not desirable to test its capacity in this direction. The fact that only certain persons out of a number who have partaken of food or drink infected with disease germs may suffer is explainable on the ground of their different general physical condition, or of the varying stages of their digestive organs. Boiling or cooking in any form destroys all germ life; and food or drink about which there is a question of typhoid infection should be subjected to one of these processes before it is taken into the stomach.—Health.

Tending to the Girls.

Employers who keep children from school in Germany will be fined not less than 150 marks. Parents and guardians are obliged to provide material for needlework and other means of instruction for girls. Otherwise the school board has the right to obtain these things by compulsion. According to the district physicians' act of April 1 all public and private schools are, in hygienic matters, under the control of an official physician, who must, at certain intervals, winter and summer, visit every school in his district and examine the buildings as well as inquire concerning the health of the pupils and the schoolmaster.

Odd Game of Chance.

The traveler over the Kansas prairies finds many towns that once had water works system, now containing only a dozen people. The fire plugs are sticking out in the buffalo grass and they are the playgrounds of prairie dogs and the roosting places of the prairie owls. The tendency to clean up the deserted buildings is taking away many of these features. The courthouse of what was Garfield county has recently become the property of H. Herman, and he lives in the sumptuous building which did not cost him a cent, as he homesteaded the quarter section after the county organization was abandoned.

KING OF CARIBBEAN ISLAND

Capt. C. C. Rivers is now absolute ruler of the Island of Orchilla, in the Carribean sea, says the Baltimore Sun. He threw out his lines and made fast there twelve years ago, and will probably make it his harbor the rest of his life—this though he is the only white man on the island, and though he has seen the members of his family, who live at 2103 Gough street, only twice in fifteen years.

Capt. Rivers is king and cabinet combined; and not one of his thirty West Indian negroes under his sway dares question his rule, but when he leaves Orchilla he leaves his royalty behind.

The captain is not a comic-opera king. He doesn't wear birds of paradise plumes when he's on the throne, but down there in that lonely little spot, with the blue Caribbean about him and the tropical nights above, he superintends the gathering of guano from the coral reefs, which the sea is eternally uncovering. Boston capitalists first bought the product of Orchilla. They secured Capt. Rivers' services fifteen years ago. The island is now owned by a company of Baltimore. Other islands are to be acquired by the company, and the captain is here loking for a viceroy to aid him in the management of his kingdom.

Do the cares of royalty wear heavily upon him? No; he simply sees that the men get out at their work at sunrise—there are no women on the island—and that they keep at it until sundown, save for the two-hour rest at noon. Need an army or courts of justice? The captain smiles. No; of course, there are times when discipline must be enforced, but then a man knows how to do that. The captain had not had twenty years of seafaring for nothing before he took charge of the island.

"My greatest difficulty," he said, "is the fact that the men will get drunk. How do they get it? Easy enough. Orchilla is surrounded by a number of smaller islands. In the seasons when birds are there there are many men hunting their eggs. They always carry rum. Suddenly you find your crew drunk on you, and you know that somewhere out on the keys are the egg hunters. What amusements have they? Sleep. When they've been working from sunrise to sunset they want that.

"Of course you can't keep the men from their women and children all the time. They come from Bonaire, in the Dutch West Indies and once every six months I take the old crew in the footsteps of the father and grandson in the footsteps of the son. They are a quiet, easy lot."

OTHER TIMES, OTHER GIRLS

Oh, Time, from o'er thy hill of shades bring back the day I knew;
Bring back the little village church; bring back the "preacher," too.
There let me sit, as oft I did, and hear the parson drone
Of man's first fall, the judgment day, the lightnings round the throne.
The winter days were cold, I wot, but little was the harm,
For he could paint a hell so hot it served to keep us warm.
There let me yawn till "tenthly" past, we heard our final doom;
Then let me haste to join the boys out in the anteroom.
It was that anteroom, I fear, that led us church to try,
For there we stood in shuffling rows to see the girls go by.

Ah, Time, if you will be so kind, turn back unto that day,
And let me stand with shuffling boys, and wait for Millie Ray.
Her eyes were like the shining stars or gems that know no flaws,
Her lips were e'en the crimson bow that only Cupid draws;
And though a clumsy oaf was I, I'd registered a vow
That some night I would see her home, or ask her, anyhow.
And so I stood with shuffling boys within that anteroom,
And tried to screw my courage up to meet her spoken doom.
Alackaday! and woe is me! or woe, at least, was I!—
Some other chump would ask her first, before the girls got by!

I think I stood thus in that room some seven times or more,
And each time saw some other chap escort her from the door;
And every time that other chap was one that I could lick—
I tell you, men and brethren, it made me mighty sick—
Yes, I could lick him, and I knew; his name was Willie Drew,
And I thrashed him once a week for, say, a year or two.
And so I said: "Well, blame it all! If that has got a show,
I guess that I need only ask, and it will be a 'go.'
I'll ask her sure next Sunday night." How run our schemes awry!
I stood there like a leaden chump, and saw the girls go by.

Ah, Time, thou art a sullen wight, nor heed our worst mishap;
Yet bring me back those days again, and "fire" that other chap.
Bring back sweet Millie; let her smile, as oft she used to do—
But do not let her waste those smiles upon that Willie Drew.
Still as the weeks went drowsing by, no more in life to roam,
I vowed, and vowed again, that I would ask to see her home
I never did; I never dared—confession is the thing—
But, oh, the years, the freakish years, some strange conditions bring,
For Millie married Will, and when to church last week went I,
I saw the boys stand at the door, to see her girls go by.

—A. J. Waterhouse in San Francisco Call.

TEACHING THE YOUNG CHINESE

Writing of schools for Chinese children a resident of China says: "Usually the father teaches his sons the first rules of arithmetic, reading and drawing. But when his son is 6 years old he sends him to school, so that the teacher can be tormented with him. The school is in most cases the private undertaking of some better situated Chinese or of a small community; the government has rarely anything to do with it. The teacher, a former disappointed expectant official, does his best to pour into his scholars his own scanty knowledge. The value of such a school education is of course very small. In spite of this, many well-established Chinese merchants in the treaty ports have had no other school education and have attained at most only to some pigeon English, and yet they are in active and successful dealings with the Europeans, knowing well how to count and to hold their own. We have to admire the gift of preception and the business capacity of the Chinese under such circumstances as these.

"School lasts usually from 8 o'clock in the morning till sunset, with one hour's break for the midday meal. Chinese boys have no Sunday, but on the way to and from school there is as much rushing about and playing as with our schoolboys at home. Then the primer and the slate, wrapped up a cloth, are quickly laid on the ground when it is the time to give a cuff or a blow. We see boys enjoying the games of ball, blind man's buff, soldiers, robbers or horses, where the pigtail serves as reins, flying kites and many other well-known games.

"Girls as a rule are not sent to school; the mother superintends their training in housework. As soon as the girls are old enough they are taught to cook, sew, make and mend clothes and indeed to do all domestic work. But the enlightened Chinese sends his daughter to school when the nearness of a mission or some other school gives him an opportunity.

CALL FOR AN EXPLANATION

Now, what are you going to do with a story like this, when it comes from two dignified, veracious men, who solemnly declare it to be true?

David and Zebulon, bachelors, are old cronies—not so old that they have to tie their teeth in with brown yarn, you understand, but old enough to have settled down to the serious matters of life, such as hair invigorators and obesity belts. For a long time they have lived together, occupying adjoining rooms, between which the door is seldom closed. According to the testimony of both, neither of them is given to talking in his sleep.

The other night, however, Zebulon dreamed that he was telling a funny story to David. It seemed excruciatingly funny to Zebulon and he was annoyed at David's apparent inability to see the humor of it, so he told it again, emphasizing the point of the joke so energetically that he actually spoke aloud, thus waking himself. He was sure he had spoken, for when he was well awake the tone of his own voice still lingered in his ears.

For a moment he lay, trying to recall the story, which on the instant of waking, had vanished from his mind, when suddenly David, in the next room, uttered a loud laugh, which, in turn, awoke him.

Zebulon hopped out of bed and went to David's room.

"What are you laughing at?" he asked.

"Did I laugh aloud?" David wanted to know. "I thought I did."

"You certainly did. Were you asleep?"

"Yes," said David; "I woke myself laughing at a funny story you were telling me." He then went ahead and told the story, which Zebulon recognized as the one he had dreamed of telling to David.

Now, then, ye psychologists and metaphysicians, get to work on that and see what you can make of it.—Brooklyn Eagle.

NOVELIST AS A DETECTIVE

Scotland Yard would no doubt scorn to take Sir Conan Doyle into its counsels as an American detective consulted R. L. Stevenson. Arthur Johnstone, in his "Stevenson in the Pacific," tells the striking tale. As they sat together one evening in the veranda of an inn at Waikiki the detective confided to Stevenson a case of extreme difficulty he had in hand, and also his theory of its solution. As Stevenson hardly seemed to attend, for he sat looking dreamily at the sea, the detective left him to have a chat with the more responsive landlord. On his return to the veranda, however, Stevenson suddenly roused himself to say, "I think I have solved that riddle of yours. You see, it's just like writing a story. If you go at it right, it will work out right. Now, your theory does not do at all, because it will never work out. Let me give you my theory of the case, and then tell me what you think of it." The detective did not at first think anything of Stevenson's theory of the case. It was daring even for a theory, and dangerous to work if it did not happen to come off. But on thinking it well over, with Stevenson's shining eyes fixed intently on his face, the professional began to believe there was something in it. When Stevenson at last asked, triumphantly, "Well?" he replied, "Well, sir, I shall try your theory; but if it don't win you and I will lose between us the $1,000 fee I am to be paid for a conviction." At this Stevenson laughed and said, "Sir, if it doesn't win I will pay you the $1,000 and thrown you the theory for nothing." But it won.

MALARIA???

Generally That Is Not the Trouble.

Persons with a susceptibility to malarial influences should beware of coffee, which has a tendency to load up the liver with bile.

A lady writes from Denver that she suffered for years from chills and fever which at last she learned were mainly produced by the coffee she drank.

"I was also grievously afflicted with headaches and indigestion," she says, "which I became satisfied were likewise largely due to the coffee I drank. Six months ago I quit its use altogether and began to drink Postum Food Coffee, with the gratifying result that my headaches have disappeared, my digestion has been restored and I have not had a recurrence of chills and fever for more than three months. I have no doubt that it was Postum that brought me this relief, for I have used no medicine while this improvement has been going on." (It was really relief from congestion of the liver caused by coffee.)

My daughter has been as great a coffee drinker as I, and for years was afflicted with terrible sick headaches, which often lasted for a week at a time. She is a brain worker and excessive application together with headaches began to affect her memory most seriously. She found no help in medicines and the doctor frankly advised her to quit coffee and use Postum.

"For more than four months she has not had a headache—her mental faculties have grown more active and vigorous and her memory has been restored.

"No more tea, coffee or drugs for us, so long as we can get Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

A Trite Saying.

It is a trite saying that no man is stronger than his stomach. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery strengthens the stomach—puts it in shape to make pure, rich blood—helps the liver and kidneys to expel the poisons from the body and thus cures both liver and kidney troubles. If you take this natural blood purifier and tonic, you will assist your system in manufacturing each day a pint of rich, red blood, that is invigorating to the brain and nerves. The weak, nervous, run-down, debilitated condition which so many people suffer from, is usually the effect of poisons in the blood; it is often indicated by pimples or boils appearing on the skin, the face becomes thin and the feelings "blue." Dr. Pierce's "Discovery" cures all blood humors as well as being a tonic that makes one vigorous, strong and forceful. It is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes that contains neither alcohol nor harmful habit-forming drugs, and the only one, every ingredient of which has the professional endorsement of the leading medical writers of this country. Some of these endorsements are published in a little book of extracts from standard medical works and will be sent to any address free, on receipt of request therefor by letter or postal card, addressed to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. It tells just what Dr. Pierce's medicines are made of.

The "Words of Praise" for the several ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed, by leaders in all the several schools of medical practice, and recommending them for the cure of the diseases for which the "Golden Medical Discovery" is advised, should have far more weight with the sick and afflicted than any amount of the so-called "testimonials" so conspicuously flaunted before the public by those who are afraid to let the ingredients of which their medicines are composed be known. Bear in mind that the "Golden Medical Discovery" has THE BADGE OF HONESTY on every bottle wrapper, in a full list of its ingredients.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation, invigorate the liver and regulate stomach and bowels.

Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for 31 stamps. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Auction Sale of Circus.

Sanger's circus, which has been on the road for fifty years, was sold by auction recently in London, with band wagons, chariots, horses, menagerie animals and everything else. An eccentric mule, out of which Sanger remarked that he had made $35,000, was sold for $55.

Railroad in Wild Country.

It has been decided to construct a line of railway right across British North Borneo, at a cost of $7,500,000. A considerable portion of the line, which runs close to the Dutch boundary, will traverse country inhabited by some of the wildest tribes of these regions.

CALL OF THE NORTH

ONCE HEARD, IT IS REMEMBERED A LIFETIME.

Men Who Have Made Fortunes in the Gold Fields of Alaska Have a Struggle to Tear Themselves Away for a Short Vacation.

The grip of the gold seeker's fever was curiously demonstrated upon the arrival of the last Skagway steamer at Victoria, B. C. She brought among her passengers Donald McGillivray and Harry Johnstone, both from Yarmouth, N. S., who went in with the rush of '97 to the Klondike, have staid there ever since and now are rated wealthy men.

They had been planning for three years to come "outside" after the autumn work of 1905 and spend Christmas at their old home. Their business affairs in the north were arranged and they started for civilization and childhood's scenes four weeks ago.

By the time they reached Skagway they had developed a genuine homesickness for the pick and shovel and they "had a half mind to turn back."

On the trip down from Skagway they got talking of what the "boys" were doing far away in the northland—of what work would be accomplished during the winter, and of what might happen prejudicial to their interests.

Result: When Victoria was reached about their first investment was a return ticket, and the next steamer sailing for Skagway carried them north again. They expect to go into Dawson over the ice.

Lawrence Sinclair, A. K. Jewitt and George Greenhow, three other Yukoners who have been staying at the Hotel Dominion for some days past, say that they too know the feeling of the "call of the north." This is their first visit to the outside in eight years, and already they are becoming restless and anxious to be back at the mines.

"Half the Yukoners who start out to give the old folks at home a surprise think better of it before they are well started, and hike back to the mines," said Sinclair.

"The gold fever is something mortal queer. Once you've got a real good touch of it you can't shake it off.

"When it gets such a hold of you that you are willing to go hundreds and hundreds of miles away from home and friends and the comforts of life to the hardships of the frozen north and then learn to think it is the very finest country on the face of the earth—why then you've got the genuine article. That's the kind of a case I got."

The three partners separated when they reach San Francisco—Sinclair to visit his former home in Colorado, Jewitt to go to Australia and Greenhow to New Zealand. One or all will return to the north in March to look after their interests on French creek.—New York Sun.

Lady Florence Dixie's Brave Deed.

Lady Florence Dixie, who died Nov. 7. not only wrote and spoke against cruelty to animals, but practiced what she preached. Some years ago she was in the inclosure at Newmarket, together with another woman, conversing with King Edward, then prince of Wales, when suddenly an excited shout arose from the crowd. Some men had started a hare and immediately a gang of roughs rushed away in chase of the terrified animal. Sticks and stones were flung at the poor creature, until eventually it was captured by a great navvy. The interest of the fashionable crowd quickly died out, but not the anger of Lady Florence. Leaving the prince's side, she went over to the man who was leading her horse about and, jumping on the animal's back, rode over to the mob. Forcing her horse up to the navvy, she suddenly made a snatch, rescued the trembling beast and then galloped away to a distant thicket, where she dismounted and set the hare free.

Butter Balls Not New to Her.

Mrs. Delia Lathrop Williams, secretary of the Methodist Woman's Home Missionary society, was describing the wretched life that poor children lead in the slums of great cities.

"Why," she said, "such children can not open their mouths without revealing some deplorable home fact or condition.

"A friend of mine game a Thanksgiving dinner to some eight or nine slum children from Cleveland, with their mothers. She had them all out at her farm in the country for the day. To one child, a little girl, she said at dinner as she put on her plate a pretty butter ball:

"'There is something you don't see in Cleveland.'

"'Don't we, though?' said the little girl. 'That's where you're mistaken. There's three great big butter balls hangin' outside of the shop where mother takes our clothes every Monday morning. Ain't there, mother?'"

She Walks in Beauty.

She walks in beauty like the night
Of cloudless climes and starry skies;
And all that's best of dark and bright
Meets in her aspect and her eyes:
Thus mellowed to that tender light
Which heaven to gaudy day denies.

One shade the more, one ray the less,
Had half impaired the nameless grace
Which waves in every raven tress,
Or softly lightens o'er her face—
Where thoughts serenely sweet express
How pure, how dear their dwelling place.

And on that cheek, and o'er that brow,
So soft, so calm, yet eloquent,
The smiles that win, the tints that glow,
But tell of days in goodness spent,
A mind at peace with all below,
A heart whose love is innocent.
—Lord Byron.

POSTAL SERVICE AT ST. KILDA

Floating Mail Bag Used by Inhabitants of Island.

The island of St. Kilda lies about fifty miles to the westward of Scotland, and it is without regular mail communication of any kind, the only connection being by means of an occasional trading steamer, which goes in spring and autumn to take off some of the products of the island.

When they wish to communicate with their friends in Scotland or elsewhere the St. Kindans are obliged to resort to a floating mail bag, which consists of a sheepskin buoy plugged with a piece of wood, and attached thereto a label on which is roughly cut the inscription, "St. Kilda Mail. Please Open." Inside the buoy is placed a tin canister containing the letters.

The last "mail" was sent off from St. Kilda on June 21 last and drifted to Shetland in two months and one day. (It contained two letters and eight post cards, which were duly forwarded to their destination from Lerwick postoffice. The addresses on two of the post cards were almost obliterated through damp. The sum of 1 shilling was inclosed for postage of the missives. It appears that three similar "mails" were sent off from the island on the same day, but only one, so far as is known, has been picked up.

SHOWS POPULARITY OF PRUNES

Billions of Pounds Annually Consumed in the United States.

Who ever supposed that in the United States in one year are consumed 100,000,000 pounds of prunes? These, however, are the figures that the Department of Commerce and Labor gives out. And nearly all of this vast amount of the fruit is raised in this country, much the larger portion of the prune supply coming from the southern part of California, where climate peculiarities are extremely favorable for its production.

In Santa Clara county alone there are 3,700,000 trees growing on 37,000 acres, 100 trees to the acre. The quantity of prunes produced in the United States somewhat exceeds 110,000,000 pounds, 10,000,000 pounds more than required for consumption in the United States, but Great Britain, Germany and France take these 100,000,000 pounds.

Less than twenty years ago the supply of prunes of the United States came almost wholly from France and the Danubian provinces and was sold under the designation of "French" or "Turkish" prunes. In 1886 prunes of American growth appeared on the market, and with each succeeding year the domestic supply has increased until the importation of foreign fruit has been reduced to very small proportions.

The Old Year.

Cleared to-day from the port of earth,
The good year Nevermore;
With the skipper time and passengers Twelve,
For the harbor "Heretofore";

December asleep in the open air
On the old year's deck was lying;
And a sad old man with frost in his hair
To himself was softly sighing.

Beyond him a matron in rich brocade
Reclined on a cluster of sheaves;
And a maid in green with a ranbow zone
Was trimming her girdle with leaves.

Away, by himself in the vessel's bow
A nameless old creature had crept;
His heart had grown old and his eyes grown dim
And 'twas plain to be seen that he wept;

And a radiant girl with deep blue eyes,
(She is named in the list as June).
Had bent like a rose-tree over a tomb.
An her words themselves were a tune.

Her breath softly played on his shriveled cheek
Till it melted a frozen tear
That sparkled as bright in the wintry air
As if April herself were near.

The anchor came up with a right good will;
Blue waters sank under the lea;
The groupings grew dim and the sails a film
And the vessel was out at sea.
—B. F. Taylor.

A Deadly Tide.

A Philadelphia girl was recently overtaken and drowned by the incoming tide on the west coast of France. A transplanted Breton said of this fatality:

"Can you, who see your own tides crawl in at the rate of ten feet or so an hour, imagine tides racing like wild horses up that flat sands at the rate of half a mile a minute?

"The extraordinary flatness of our Breton coasts gives us these phenomenal tides. The sea does not rise and fall. It appears and disappears. You have a vast and flat plane of sand. At a set hour the sea rushes in, white, wild, submerging this vast plain. At a set hour an unseen hand sucks the waters back—thirty, forty, fifty miles—and nothing is visible but the plain of pale sand again.

"Woe unto such as walk on this desolate plain when the tide begins to rise, for they must drown! Nothing can save them."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Wax Farms in China.

White Chinese wax affords an income to hundreds of farmers in the Chien-Chang valley, where the insects flourish which coat their eggs and cocoons with the pure white wax.

They feed upon the leaves of a plant which grows only in that valley, but if left to remain in their birthplace die before it is time to deposit their eggs.

For that reason a wax farm consists of plots of ground some distance apart, the insects being transported from the valley to the outside farms by porters, who carry thousands at one time upon their backs.

The industry is almost as profitable as the raising of the silkworm and requires even more care, but the painstaking farmer looks as carefully after his minute charges as the American farmer does after his cattle.

The One Little Darling.

"No," said the gossip, "the divorce case of Mr. and Mrs. Swellman has not been finally decided yet. There's some hitch in the proceedings."

"Yes?" replied Cutting. "I suppose it's over the question of who is to have the custody of the pug dog."—Catholic Standard.

Discredited.

"Yes; he found a roll of bills in the street and gave it to the man he saw drop it."

"Well?"

"The roll held nothing in it but stage money, and now they claim he must have known it all the time.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Discouraging.

Gaston—I tell you, old man, Miss Watkyns is a mighty sensible girl—the most sensible girl, I think, I ever knew.

Alphones—I think you're right, my boy. I wouldn't advise you to propose to her.—Somerville Journal.

That's All.

"'Corruption wins not more than honesty,'" quoted the poetical citizen. "This recent election means the permanent overthrow of the bosses."

"Not at all," the practical citizen retorted. "As Tennyson would say, it's only a rift in the loot."—Houston Chronicle.

Suits.

Nordy—My wedding suit cost me $150. Pretty expensive, eh?

Butts—Yes; but that isn't a marker to what my divorce suit cost.—Houston Chronicle.

More Than Interest.

Prisoner—I confess I embezzled from my partners, but I was always a hard worker. No one took more interest in the firm than I did.

Judge—Nor more capital. Four years.—La Figaro.

Just Wonderful.

Vestry, Miss., Jan. 1st (Special)—The case of Mrs. C. W. Pearson, who resides here, is a particularly interesting one. Here is the story told by Mr. Pearson, her husband, in his own words. He says:—

"My wife's health was bad for a long time. Last July she was taken terrible bad with spasms. I sent for the doctor, and after making a thorough examination of her he said undoubtedly the cause of her trouble was a disordered state of the Kidneys. His medicine didn't seem to be doing her much good, so as I heard about Dodd's Kidney Pills, I got her a box just to give them a trial. Well the effect was just wonderful. I saw that they were the right medicine and I got two more boxes. When she had taken these she was so much better that she had increased thirty pounds in weight. She is now quite well, and we owe it all to Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Most people are willing to accept tainted money after they get their eyes on it.

The above cut represents one of Red Lake county's up to date semi graded schools. It is built of cement blocks manufactured by Reed Bros., Dugdale. It is situated in Dist. 81 Terrebonne. Has a stone basement and is heated by a furnace. So far no dampness has appeared on the inside of the walls, it is easily heated and is proving satisfactory to the patrons of the district.

SUMMARY OF SCHOOL WORK FOR YEAR

Supt. McAnulty Shows Great Progress Made by the Common Schools of Red Lake County

Unusual activity has been shown in improvements and building.

A fine two-room building has lately been completed at Brooks in Dist. No. 26. It 26x50 feet, has a good basement, is heated by furnace, and is built in accordance with the most modern plans. Miss Olga Iverson is employed as principal.

The "Prairie Queen" school house in Dist. No. 80 was built last summer. It is a commodious one-room building equipped with a good system of heating and ventilation, has a well selected library, and all the other requirements for a first class rural school. The school site contains two acres of well drained land a portion of which has been cultivated preparatory to planting of trees, and no doubt this will be one of the beauty spots of the neighborhood in the future.

At a special meeting held in Dist. 153, Louisville, a new school site in a beautiful natural grove was purchased. the school house has been removed there to placed on a stone foundation. enlarged and fully equipped with the necessary requirements, for special state aid. Over two hundred dollars was expended for improvements.

One of the neatest new buildings in the county was erected last spring in Dist. 23, Lake Pleasant.

Ten new districts have been organized in the "Eleven Towns" and several school houses are now under construction. About five hundred dollars have been expended for the purchase of library books in the rural districts of Red Lake county in 1905. Of this amount the state paid one half.

In districts 112, 88 and 154. the library funds were raised by entertainments and basket socials. All of these were well attended. A social was held in Dist. 81, and the proceeds used to purchase a bell.

At the close of the recent school year the rural schools of Red Lake county will receive $1,875.00 special state aid.

The atate apportionment this year will amount to nearly $5.00 for each pupil attending school forty days or more during the school year.

The people of Red Lake county during the year 1905 have taken advantage of the school law which entitles a district maintaining eight months school having suitable buildings, a well selected library, Webster's International dictionary supplementary readers, a good system of heating and ventilation, and employing a teacher who holds a 1st or second grade state certificate, to special state aid of $250 for semi-graded $125 for 1st-class and $50 for second class rural with the result that the following districts havfully complied with the law and will be entitled to the aid.

Dist. No. 79 Terrebonne. semi-graded $250.

Dist. No. 81 Terrebonne, semi-graded $250.

Of Interest to Mothers

Thousands of little ones die every year of croup. Most of them could have been saved by a few does of Foley's Honey and Tar, and every family with children should keep it in the house. It contains no opiates and is safe and sure. Mrs. George H. Picket, San Francisco, Cal., writes: "My baby had a dangerous attack of croup and we thought she would choke to death, but one dose of Foley's Honey and Tar relieved her at once after other remedies had failed. We are never a minute without it in the house." Sold at W. A. Schreiter.

FIRST STATE BANK ELECTS DIRECTORS

Stockholders of One of the Solid Financial Institutions of the City Hold Annual Election.

At a meeting of the stock holders of the First State Bank held on Tuesday evening at the bank, the following directors were elected for the ensuing year: Theo. Garceau, Frank E. Hunt, Chas. N. Bourdon, Dr. N. J. Pinault, W. A. Schreitor, Dr. N. M. Watson and A. P. Toupin.

The directors will meet sometime next week at which time officers will be appointed. It is probable that the directors will select Dr. Pinault as president, F. E. Hunt, vice president; Theo. Garceau, cashier, and C. L. Hansen, asst. cashier.

The First State Bank was never in a more prosperous condition than at the present time, due to the conservative and clean-cut business methods of the officers, and is considered one of the soundest financial institutions in this section of the state.

For a city of the size of Red Lake Falls it is admitted that it has the soundest and best managed banks in the state and their management are in the hands of people in whom all have confidence.

DISSOLVED PARTNERSHIP

The real estate and insurance firm of Lewis & Higinbotham of this city have by mutual consent dissolved partnership, Mr. Lewis retiring and Mr. Higinbotham to continue the business. The firm has done a very nice business the past few years, both being popular young men as well as thoroughgoing and prompt in business affairs.

It is with great regret the people of this city learn that Mr. Lewis has decided to leave this city and remove to St. Louis where he has a flattering offer from an insurance company to work as their agent. "Lew" as he is familiarly called, has been a loyal citizen to Red Lake Falls and has a heart in him as big as an ox. Energetic, keen-witted and always "willin'" it is no great stretch of imagination to see Lew at the head of some big insurance company before long.

TWENTY-FIVE HAPPY YEARS.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kaufer, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage on Monday evening and the event was most certainly an enjoyable one both to Mr. and Mrs. Kaufer and the relatives who attended the event. A six o'clock dinner was served and good cheer, happiness and good will prevailed throughout the evening. As a memento of this notable event in their life they were presented with several precious silver articles and it is the wish of all that 25 years hence there will be an occasion to embellish them with diamonds.

DISSOLUTION NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the partnership heretofore existing by and between S. L. Lewis and V. M. Higinbotham under the firm names of Lewis & Higinbotham and Lewis-Higinbotham Land Co., has this day been dissolved by mutual consent. All accounts due the firm become the property of V. M. Higinbotham and all accounts due, owing or unpaid by the said firm are to be paid by V. M. Higinbotham.

Dated this 5th day of January, 1906

—V. M. Higinbotham.

ENJOYED DELIGHTFUL EVENING.

About fifteen couple surprised Judge Toupin and his estimable wife Saturday evening, but the host and hostess proved equal to the occasion and the result was one of the most enjoyable social occasions of the new year for those attending. Mr. and Mrs. Toupin are charming entertainers and the evening passed only too quickly for the surprisers.

OF INTEREST TO SELLERS OF OATS

State Railroad and Warehouse Commission Sends Out Letter to Farmers and Grain Dealers of Minn.

"There are many complaints coming to this office claiming that in many places in the state grain buyers are taking 33 and 33½ lbs. per bushel when buying oats. The legal weight for a bushel of oats is 32 lbs., and the taking of any other weight unless by special contract is made a misdemeanor under the law. The facts are that all oats are sold at the terminals at 32 lbs. per bu. and taking of more than 32 lbs. when buying in the country, is an injustice and a practice which should be discontinued at once.

"Some buyers made the excuse that it is on account of the dockage. This excuse is not tenable because the extra weight is taken from the farmer with clean oats as also from those with oats containing much dirt. Again, there is no dockage on oats at the terminals.

"We respectfully urge grain dealers to buy all oats on 32 pound per bushel basis.

"Our advice to the farmer is to refuse at all times, and at any price, to sell at any other weight than 32 pounds per bushel. The farmer with clean oats is entitled to the full market price, and if his oats contain a large amount of foreign matter, he must expect to sell for a reduced price.

"The Commission will undertake to prosecute any case where proper complaint is lodged supported by evidence that will convict any buyer of taking more than the legal weight for a bushel of oats, except by special contract. If the farmer refuses to enter into the contract, the case seems easy of solution.

"The only way one can know that he is getting the market value, is to have grain bought and sold in the country and at the terminals on the same basis.

PENALTY SHOULD BE EXACTED,

The COURIER believes in law enforcement and one of the most flagrant cases of burglary committed in this city was enacted Saturday night and that was aided and abetted by an officer of the law. Such lawlessness is inexcusable and we would advise avery housewife hereafter to rent a safty deposit vault box in which to lock up her cookery.

In the meantime Joe and Arthur are at large and Paul avers the the beans were the most delicious he ever ate—and with that suavity peculiar to him, the judge seconds the motion.

NORTHERN MINNESOTA FIREMEN

Mr. M. A. Converse, vice president of the Northern Minnesota Firemen's association, went to Crookston, Monday, to attend its annual meeting and at which time the place was designated for the annual tournament to be held sometime in June. Warren won out and the fire fighters of the association will meet there. Red Lake Falls will be there and it is a safe bet that our boys will carry home the prize money. The Warren people will please take notice.

SLEIGH RIDE AND LUNCH.

The Sunday School of the Presbyterian Church will give a sleigh ride and lunch on Friday night of this week. All are invited. Sleighs will leave the church at 7 p. m., and the ride will be to Rev. Conrad Nauman's where lunch will be served. The charge will be 15 cents for each person, and the proceeds will go to defray the expenses of the Christmas entertainment.

HOUSEHOLD GOODS FOR SALE.

Owing to the fact that I am going to leave the city I offer my household goods, which are practically as good as new, at a most reasonable figure. This is a snap.

ANOTHER RESIDENCE GOES UP IN SMOKE.

The Westphal Residence, An Old Landmark Remains No More. Fire Starts In Kitchen.

Shortly after 1 o'clock on Friday morning the fire department was called out to squelch a fire in the August Westphal residence located in the hollow near the river.

All available hose on the reels was found insufficient and before additional hose could be obtained the fire had gained such headway that no part of the structure could be saved. A part of the household goods were saved.

Mr. Westphal carried $500 insurrnce on the house and $500 on household goods.

MUST MAKE AN APPLICATION.

Owing to delay in the completion of the State School of Agriculture Building at Crookston, it will be impossible to open school before Feb. 5th. This will give time only for a two or two and a half months term, and this notice is given for the purpose of allowing those who desire to attend to send in their application to Prof. Wm. Robertson at Crookston, the head of the school. Such application should reach him not later than Jan. 20th if possible. The expense to the students for board, lodging and tuition will be about $15 per month, and while it is realized that many have already got themselves located for this winter's school, several applications have come in, and those who wish to avail themselves of this opportunity should be prompt in sending in their application, and the first applications received will be accepted in their order, and those who cannot be accomodated will be promptly notified. No formal application is needed. simply state your age and post office address. Applications will be received from both girls and boys.

RESUME OF THE NEWS

Fresh——Reliable——Brief

From the Capital.

Maj. Estes G. Rathbone, who was director general of posts in Cuba when scandals were developed in that service, will make another effort to have a congressional investigation of the whole matter in the hope of obtaining vindication.

President Roosevelt will personally present to Capt. Church, now in the medical corps of the army, the medal which is to be awarded to him for conduct at La Guasimas, when, as assistant surgeon of the Rough Rider regiment, he distinguished himself in face of the fire of the enemy.

Charges have been filed against W. T. Vernon, principal of the Quindaro institute at Quindaro, Kan., who is a candidate for appointment as registrar of the treasury to succeed J. W. Lyons. The nature of the charges has not been disclosed, but they have been forwarded to Mr. Vernon for answer. Both Vernon and Lyons are negroes.

From Other Shores.

Alfonso fell with his horse as he was leaving the palace to attend a review. He was not injured and was able to remount his horse and proceed.

In his annual address to the Salvation Army, Gen. Booth attributes his robust health to the fact that for the past seven years he had been a strict vegetarian.

Lieut. Gen. Count von Moltke has been appointed chief of the general staff, succeeding Field Marshal Count von Schleiffen. The latter, who is nearly seventy-three years old, was kicked severely by a horse and was forced to retire.

President Castro of Venezuela has again insulted the French government, and representations will be made to secure an apology. Castro ignored M. Taigny, the French charge d'affaires at Caracas, and did not invite him to the New Year's reception.

At a meeting at Dundalk, Ireland, Timothy M. Healy was chosen to contest North Louth, his present seat, against the prospective candidate of the Irish National league. Mr. Healy said he had been willing to come to terms with his opponents, but he added that the latter had declared war on him, and war they should have.

Samuel Smith, the American consul at Moscow who frequently has had occasion to inspect the Japanese prisoners who were confined at Medvid and who arranged for their transportation to Germany whence they were embarked for Japan, in an open letter emphatically denies the Berlin reports of their ill treatment. On the contrary Mr. Smith pays a high tribute to the care and attention bestowed on them.

At a meeting of the board of the Underground Electric Railways company at London, Edgar Speyer was elected chairman of the company in succession to the late Charles T. Yerkes. Sir G. Gibb, general manager of the Northeastern railroad, was elected deputy chairman and managing director of the Underground company, and also chairman and managing director of the Metropolitan District Railway company, vacated by the death of Mr. Yerkes. B. W. Perks continues as deputy chairman of the company.

The German government has semi-officially disavowed any relation with the persons arrested as spies at Marseilles and Toulon. Several uncommissioned officers of the French navy were arrested owing to the discovery in their domiciles of detailed plans of the new French battleships and submarine boats. This, it is said, will solve the mystery of the disappearance of the plans of the submarine boat Airgette, which vessel, it was asserted, was duplicated in Germany, supposedly from the French plans.

Accidental Happenings.

Fire in the four-story brick factory building at Fourth and Fort streets, Detroit, did approximately $100,000 damage.

Samuel Husted, a prominent citizen, was killed by an Illinois Central train at Waterloo, Iowa. He was deaf and did not hear the train.

The entire plant of the American Shipbuilding company in Bay City, Mich., was destroyed by fire, entailing a loss of over $250,000.

Fire at Cleveland practically destroyed the Bradley building. The loss is $50,000. A fireman fell through an open elevator shaft and was seriously hurt. He may recover.

John Sievers, who has served five terms in the Anamosa (Iowa) penitentiary, for each of which he was sent up from Clinton, was arrested on a charge of robbing three Clinton business houses. He returned from prison less than two weeks ago.

The total loss caused by the fire which destroyed the main portion of the city block at Main and Ward streets in Brocton, Mass., is estimated at nearly $300,000.

Two trainmen were killed and several injured in a head-on collision between two freight trains on the Big Four railroad four miles west of Columbus, Ohio.

Fire at Hagerstown, Md., destroyed the large four-story brick plant of the Hagerstown Storage and Transfer company, entailing a loss of between $125,000 and $150,000.

Crimes.

John Ellis, a former banker of Beatrice, Neb., and former county treasurer of Gage county, despondent over financial affairs, committed suicide by taking carbolic acid.

The grand jury at Baltimore which has been investigating the affairs of the Maryland Trust company, under the old regime, returned presentments against three of the former officers.

At Duke, Okla., W. Goodnight shot and killed his wife and then himself. He was jealous, it is said. Mrs. Goodnight was but sixteen years of age. They had been married but a few days.

Mrs. Herbert Aldrich, residing near McDonough, N. Y., arose and threw her sick baby into a well. Then she threw herself in also, but somehow saved herself from drowning. She is insane.

Paul Soudell, aged forty, a familiar character of the red light district of Cleveland for the past several years, shot and killed Jessie Smith, aged twenty-three, in a resort, and then committed suicide.

In attempting to quell a New Year's riotous celebration in his saloon, at Belleville, Ill., William Tannehill shot and killed William Borden and dangerously wounded Fred Hopwood. Tannehill was arrested.

Miss Barbara Toxer, twenty-five years old, of Oklahoma City, Okla., shot and killed F. C. Clayton, a business man of that city. The woman asserts that Clayton attempted to assault her and she shot in self-defense.

The appeal of the counsel for Charles L. Tucker, who was convicted nearly a year ago of the murder of Miss Mabel Page at Weston, Mass., for a rehearing of two of the exceptions taken at the trial has been denied by the full bench of the supreme judicial court.

William Murphy, thirty-one years of age, son of Jeremiah Murphy, wealthy pork packer of St. Louis, was arrested and is being held on the charge of having stabbed his friend, David Leahy. The stabbing occurred on Jefferson avenue, and Leahy is stated to be probably fatally wounded. Murphy claims highwaymen attacked them and stabbed Leahey when they resisted. Leahey refused to talk of the matter.

A dynamite bomb was thrown against the front door of the Giovanni Fazzi macaroni factory at Scranton, Pa., and the whole front of the building was wrecked. The Arlington hotel adjoining was badly wrecked. Fazzi, who is an aged and well-to-do Italian, has received three letters since Oct. 6, signed "The Iron Head," which made demands on him for $1,000 under penalty of death of himself and family. He paid no heed to the letters and did not even notify the police. The scene of the explosion is in the very heart of the city.

Otherwise.

The year closed at Niagara Falls, N. Y., with the proud boast that not one arrest was made during 1905. There was not one call for a police officer.

Gen. Francis Fessenden, aged 66, one of Maine's most distinguished soldiers of the Civil War and a former mayor of this city, died at his residence in Portland, Me.

F. L. Snyder, supreme scribe of the Tribes of Ben Hur, of which fraternal insurance order he was founder, is dead at Crawfordsville, Ind., from cancer of the stomach.

Nearly $50,000,000 is to be spent by the city of New York in public improvements in 1906. Besides the new improvements, many important undertakings already begun will be carried on.

A letter has been received at San Francisco from one of seven vessels frozen in the ice near Herschel island. At the time it was written, Oct. 15, the crews of the vessels had been reduced to half rations.

George Bernard Shaw's comedy, "Cashel Byron's Profession," was given its first presentation on any stage at the Hyperion theater at New Haven, Conn. Miss Margaret Wycherly, who played the role of Lydia Carew, was supported by a strong company, and considerable incidental interest was attached to the appearance of James J. Corbett in the part of Cashel Byron, the gentleman pugilist.

Capt. William Mogg, the companion of the celebrated Norwegian explorer Raold Amundsen on the 700 mile journey across the Arctic ice fields, arrived in San Francisco yesterday from the north. Capt. Mogg brought down 400 letters from the crews of the whaling fleet now imprisoned in the Arctic on the ships. He says they are in no danger and are well provisioned to carry them through the severe winter.

A great co-operative store owned and operated by negroes is promised for Chicago. It was announced by G. F. von Chinn, one of the speakers at a meeting in honor of the colored people's national holiday on the forty-third anniversary of the emancipation proclamation.

The Chicago board of trade commission men are agitating the proposition to double their present rates of brokerage for executing deals in grain. A number of them have started a movement to make the rate ¼ of a cent a bushel instead of ⅛ of a cent as at present.

CHAMP CLARK HOLDS FORTH

DELIGHTS AND ENTERTAINS MEMBERS OF HOUSE FOR THREE HOURS.

Washington, Jan. 6.—"Champ Clark Democracy" was expounded to the delight and entertainment of the house for three hours yesterday by Mr. Clark of Missouri, and constituted the feature of the debate on the Philippine tariff bill. Mr. Clark's speech took a wide range and he labeled his political beliefs as above in answer to a question as to what kind of a Democrat he really was. He talked of the Philippines and favored the pending bill. He discussed the general tariff question and in particular the German tariff situation. He reviewed William J. Bryan's record on silver and paid his respects in characteristic oratory to Republican leaders. He ascribed future greatness to what he termed the "great stand pat" disciples, and declared that one of these, Secretary Shaw, whose record as secretary of the treasury included, he said, classifying frog's legs as poultry and ponies as "household articles," for the collection of revenue, was a logical Republican presidential possibility unless the mantle should fall on "the gray and grizzled speaker, Uncle Joe Cannon."

The fight against the bill was opened in the interest of the beet sugar industry by Mr. Fordney of Michigan. He recalled the Republican members to their pledges on the stand pat policy of the party.

THIRTEEN HURT.

Freight Train Ditched Because of Broken Flange.

Larimore, N. D., Jan. 7. — An eastbound freight on the Great Northern was derailed west of Shawnee yesterday morning. Fifteen cars of grain were thrown down a fifteen-foot embankment. One bunk car, occupied by laborers, also rolled down, and the thirteen occupants were injured, ten of whom have been taken to the county hospital at Arvilla. None are seriously injured, although the bunk car was consumed by fire. The derailment was caused by a gong hanging on the side of the bunk car coming loose and falling under the wheels, breaking a flange and ditching the cars.

NO QUARTER WAS GIVEN.

Turkish Troops' Brutality Disclosed in Official Report.

Salonica, European Turkey, Jan. 7. —A return issued by Turkish authorities shows that 1,032 casualties resulted from the fighting in Macedonia, between Turkish troops and Bulgarian, Greek and Servian revolutionary bands during 1905. Altogether 119 encounters took place in the vilayets of Salonica, Monistar and Uskub, in which the insurgents lost 520 men killed and 20 wounded. In addition the troops captured 225 prisoners. The troops lost 122 killed and 145 wounded. A comparison of the number of men killed with the number wounded shows that no quarter was given.

HOLD-UP NETS $1,000.

Saloon, at Basin, Mont., Is Scene of Daring Robbery.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 7. — A daring hold-up took place at Basin yesterday morning when two masked men entered the saloon of Hays Axtell and got away with $1,000. Axtell started for the bank Thursday afternoon with about $800 in his pocket. En route he met Capt. Winn, an old friend whom he had not seen for some time, and chatted with him until it was too late to enter the bank. Axtell tucked the roll of bills into his wallet, intending to deposit the amount the next day. The saloon safe was cracked for about $200. Axtell was alone when the bandit surprised him. After taking every firearm in the place and bidding Axtell good night the robbers disappeared. Several posses of miners are scouring the mountains for the cracksmen.

BREAK JAIL TWICE.

With Only Ten Days More to Serve Two Prisoners Make Escape.

Deadwood, S. D., Jan. 7. — While serving a sentence of twenty days for stealing wire William Underwood and Edward Jones broke jail twice and have not been recaptured. They had served half their sentence, but apparently were unwilling to wait the remaining ten days. After escaping from Deadwood they were recaptured in Lead and placed in the city jail, where they spent but a short time. Since their escape from Lead no trace has been found of them, although the sheriff and his officers have scoured the country ever since and are still making efforts to locate them.

PASTOR'S BODY NOT FOUND.

Rev. T. M. Edmands' Disappearance Still Is a Mystery.

Wahpeton, N. D., Jan. 7. — The report from Breckenridge which stated that the body of Rev. T. M. Edmands, who is supposed to have been drowned in the river here, had been found, seems to have no foundation in fact. A crew of men has been at work on the river cutting ice and dragging the bed of the river ever since the drowning two weeks ago, but the body has not been recovered.

REVOLT STILL IS SMOLDERING

SITUATION IN BALTIC PROVINCES IS STILL A VERY SERIOUS ONE.

MANY CLASHES WITH REBELS

CELEBRATION OF THE RUSSIAN CHRISTMAS WILL BE GLOOMY AFFAIR.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 7.—The Associated Press has been permitted to inspect a report prepared for the emperor regarding the situation in the Baltic provinces.

The report declares that though open revolt has been crushed in many parts of the provinces and though the local authorities who were deposed by the revolutionists are resuming the reins of government under the protection of the troops, the situation is still a very serious one.

Ranks Torn and Shattered.

In the districts of Dorpat and Pernau, in Northwestern Livonia, the troops are unable to move except in heavy force. A body of cavalry which made a forced light march from Walk, surprised an insurgent band at Rueu, but the peasants resisted until their ranks had been torn and shattered, when they surrendered their arms and their leaders. There is a strong concentration of insurgents in the villages of Melzekul and Lemcal, further to the westward, which must be attacked and broken up. A band of insurgents attacked Gen. Orloff and his escort of a squadron of cavalry near Marienburg, but the

and the leaders captured. The latter was immediately tried by a drumhead court-martial and shot.

The advices received by the government report the capture of an important arsenal of the revolutionists' at Temernik, in Southern Russia, in which were found not only rifles, bombs and explosives, but also a small field piece. Another arsenal near Nakhitechevan caught fire and an explosion followed, resulting in the killing of twelve persons and the wounding of nine others.

Will Be Sad Christmas.

The Russians love nothing so much as their holidays, but depressed in spirits and purse in these revolutionary days, the celebration of Russian Christmas Sunday will be a sad one. The streets of the capital have put on a pitiful semblance of holiday attire, but none of the heavy buying characteristics of the prodigal Russians in former days is in evidence, while in the industrial sections, the workmen, exhausted by a long series of strikes are without money for Christmas trees. The green trees and gewgaws were brought into the city by the country people, but the trees remain unbought in the streets.

Quiet Is Promised.

The holidays, however, promise at least superficially, a period of comparative quiet, the proletariat organizations having decided to refrain from activity until they are ended.

The Novoe Vremya is printing a series of articles in defense of Premier Witte, which are attracting much attention and are supposed to be inspired by the premier himself. The most important statement made is that Witte has taken a definite resolution to retire as soon as the national assembly meets. With the turning over of to the people's representatives he will regard his task finished. The whole course of events since the reform manifesto was issued is attributed by the paper to the refusal of the Conservatives to support the government.

All the rumors that Witte's position is shaky are characterized as pure inventions. The writer of the article says:

"Witte is as firm in the saddle as ever. His health is good and he is proceeding on the conviction that at least three-quarters of the Russian people approve of his struggle against the revolution."

BODIES ALL RECOVERED.

Twenty-Three Victims of Explosion Taken From Mine.

Roanoke, Va., Jan. 7.—The bodies of all the twenty-three miners killed in the gas explosion in the Cooper Coal mine at Coaldale, W. Va., Thursday, have been recovered. Nearly all of the victims were found lying with their hands covering their faces. One body was in a sitting posture on a pile of coal, the hands covering his face.

EARTH GAPES AND MANY DIE.

Ten Houses Engulfed by Earthquake in Italian Village.

New York, Jan. 7. — A cable dispatch to the Herald from Rome says: At Genzano, a town of 8,000 inhabitants in the province of Potenza, the earth suddenly opened Thursday, engulfing ten houses and shattering many others, which threatened to fall. Many persons were buried in the ruins. Fourteen dead bodies have been recovered and a corps of engineers is at work on the debris.

ATTACKED THE PRESIDENT

MAN WHO WROTE OFFENSIVE LETTERS TO ROOSEVELT IS ARRESTED.

Montclair, N. J., Jan. 7.—John Peabody, who lives just over the Orange mountains here, was arrested by secret service officers from Washington yesterday on a charge of annoying President Roosevelt. For months the president, it is alleged, has been receiving letters attacking him for his position on the Panama canal question, on railroad rebates, and, in fact, on every prominent public matter that has come up for discussion. These letters are said to have been offensive. The writer gave his name but not his address, and there was much difficulty in finding him. The detectives say he was finally found here in a public library, where he was preparing another letter when he was arrested. Peabody was taken before the authorities, and after a severe lecture, upon promising to cease annoying the president with his letters, he was allowed to go.

QUICK AID TO ROUGH RIDER.

Roosevelt Asks Colorado Governor to See About a Pardon.

Denver, Jan. 7. — In behalf of a rough rider named Curtis Waggoner, President Roosevelt has written a letter to Gov. McDonald asking that Waggoner's application for a pardon be investigated. Waggoner is serving a penitentiary sentence of two and one-half years for stealing a horse and buggy. A friend wrote to the president, describing Waggoner as the man known by the sobriquet "Stick Tight" in the president's regiment. The result was prompt. The president's secretary wrote the request for the governor to investigate, but the president in his own chirography edited in "please have some one investigate." Gov. McDonald will comply immediately.

BRITAIN WILL BACK FRANCE.

Foreign Secretary Announces His Policy at Moscow Conference.

London, Jan. 7.—The Standard this morning says it learns that Sir Edward Gray, the foreign secretary, has formally announced through diplomatic channels his intention to carry out the policy of his predecessor, Lord Lansdowne, with regard to Morocco. Therefore, the paper adds, the apprehensions entertained abroad concerning the attitude to be assumed by Great Britain under the Liberal government have been removed with satisfaction to the interests concerned.

UNKNOWN GRAFTER PAYS UP.

Sends $1,295 to Philadelphia City Treasurer, With Explanations.

Philadelphia, Jan. 7.— The largest donation to the conscience fund ever received here was handed to City Treasurer Schoch yesterday by a messenger boy. The package contained $1,295, and the unknown sender in a note stated that it was an overcharge for city work.

The year just closed was kind to Albert Lea. The improvements of various kinds amount to more than $250,000. In the past five years improvements to the extent of $1,145,867 were made, a showing few cities of the size in Minnesota can equal. The total assessed valuation of Freeborn county, including Albert Lea, is $10,538,950, and the city has about one-fifth of the total. The total taxes levied amount to $225,060.09, of which amount Albert Lea has $75,958.88, or almost exactly one-third. The rate in the city is 32 mills, and in Alden village it is 57.60 mills, while in Alden township it is 51.54. The high rate in the two latter is caused by a levy to pay the old Southern Minnesota railroad bonds.

FIRM STAND FOR LAW.

Game and Fish Commission Scores Agitation to Permit Sale of Game in State.

The state game and fish commission held its annual meeting last week, with all the members present except President Uri L. Lamprey, who is ill. The principal business of the day was the framing of an annual report, which will soon be presented to the governor.

The report declares the new game license law satisfactory. Speaking of the past season, it tells of a scarcity in chickens and upland birds, but a good season for duck shooting. Minnesota is coming to [illegible] more and more a resort for hunters from Eastern cities looking for moose, and before long will lead Maine in this respect, bringing large sums of money into the state. F. M. Leupp, the Indian commissioner, is praised for his firm stand against illegal hunting on the reservations which has put a stop to supplying the Indian schools with game under contracts. The board takes a strong position against the sale of game, and will say in the report:

"Once in a while some small soul writing in some Minnesota paper advocates opening up the market for the sale of game. Our board would like to say to all such: 'Minnesota was one of the first states in the Union to incorporate that plank in her game laws, and she will never go back and allow her game to be sold on the market for the benefit of the worthless market hunter and the rich fellow who is too lazy to go afield himself, but has the money to buy.' These two classes would be the only ones benefited and they are a very small part of the citizens of the state."

There were 15,810 resident game licenses issued this year by county auditors at $1 each, and 255 licenses were sold to non-resident hunters at $25 each."

LAW IS GOOD.

The state highway commission law is declared to be good by Attorney General Young and his assistant who had taken the matter up at the request of Hennepin county good roads advocates.

Notwithstanding the proposed constitutional amendment which leaves out all reference to the creation of the highway commission it is held that the constitution authorizes the highway commission through the general implied authority which it gives to the legislature to create boards and commissions of various kinds.

C. S. Kelley, special attorney general, has transmitted a formal opinion to George W. Cooley of Minneapolis, president of the State Good Roads association, in which it is held that the adoption of the proposed amendment to the constitution will not invalidate the highway commission law.

The section of the constitution to which the amendment relates authorizes a tax for road and bridge purposes and the creation of a road and bridge fund. It is the contention of the attorney general that the legislature does not need any express authority to constitute a board or commission for the expenditure of that fund.

The amendment increases the road and bridge tax from one-twentieth of a mill to one-fourth of a mill, or approximately from $60,000 to $240,000.

The ruling was asked of the attorney general because of the fear that the adoption would legislate the highway commission out of existence. But with the assurance of the legal adviser that there is ample authority left for the creation of the commission the good roads people will pork energetically for the adoption of the constitutional provision, which will increase the fund fully five-fold.

The members of the highway commission will probably be appointed this week by Gov. Johnson. The commission consists of three members, to be selected from different sections of the state. There are many applicants for positions on the board. The good roads association recommended six men and the governor will give their recommendation serious consideration in selecting the commission.

VALIDITY OF LAW UPHELD.

Inheritance Tax Measure Passed by Last Legislature Constitutional.

The inheritance tax law passed by the last legislature is constitutional.

The supreme court so decided in an opinion filed last week. The findings are sweeping.

The estate covered is that of the late Paul D. Ferguson of St. Paul, and under it both Probate Judge E. W. Bazille and the Ramsey county district court are reversed and County Treasurere Foote sustained in his application for a writ of mandamus to compel the carrying out of the law.

In addition, the findings of the supreme court are made applicable to the estate of John Martin of Hennepin county, and also the estate of V. Simpson of Winona, the executors of which contested the validity of the act.

The ruling of the supreme court at once makes available nearly $600,000 in inheritance taxes which have been held up pending the court's findings.

The executors of the Paul D. Ferguson estate will have to pay the state a tax of $12,500.

The constitutionality of the law was the principal bone of contention, those fighting it contending that the statute was in violation of the constitutional mandate of equality in taxation.

This the court refused to allow, holding that while the mandate applied to property, this was not a tax on money, but simply on the right to inherit.

WILL TAX MINERAL RIGHTS.

New Law Reaches Class of Property Before Untouched.

A new item of real estate will be listed by Minnesota assessors this year. Under chapter 161 of the General Laws of 1905, which was introduced by Representative Hinds of Park Rapids, all mineral, gas, coal, oil or similar interest in real estate, owned separately from the land itself, are to be assessed and taxed separately hereafter. If the taxes are not paid, these interests may be sold for taxes the same as any other real estate.

The effect of this new law promises to be far-reaching, if it is generally compied with by the assessors. Land men say that most of the land in the timbered section of the state which has been sold carries mineral reservations. The purchaser gets title to the land, but the first owner, who is usualty a lumberman or a railroad company, reserves the right to anything that may be found under the surface. If iron ore is found, he has the right to mine it, and he would have the same right to appropriate any other mineral wealth found under the surface of the land. These mineral reservations have been made almost invariably in the northwestern part of the state, but they are a common practice in all the newer sections, even hundreds of miles from the iron range country.

These reservations have only a speculative value, and have never been taxed heretofore as property. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, it is presumed, they will bring nothing whatever to the holder. The theory of the new law, however, is that if they are worth reserving at the time of sale, they are property, and must have some value. They should, therefore, be taxed and stand a share of the public burden.

When local assessors begin their work May 1 listing real estate, they will have instructions to look up the mineral reservations on file with the register of deeds and assess them to the owners under the head of real estate. Even if they are assessed at a few cents per acre, they will add many thousands to the taxable valuation of the northern counties, and if the taxes are paid they will make the law worth while.

Land men do not expecte the owners of these reservations to pay the taxes to any extent. As mineral rights have only a speculative value, the owners will object to paying a yearly tax. As long as they could carry these rights without costing them anything, they have hung on, but it is predicted that the assessment of these reservations will bring about a wholesale relinquishment. Such an outcome, it is declared, will be one of the best things that could happen to Northern Minnesota. The mineral reservations have been a stumbling block to sale of lands and development of the country. Other things being equal, buyers will not touch land to which they cannot get full control and title. When they buy land they want it all, including what may be under the surface. The mineral reservations have gung like an in cubus, loading down the land and sending prospective buyers away to purchase elsewhere. This state of things led to the passage of the new law. It is not expected to produce very much revenue, but will accomplish its purpose if it clears the undeveloped cut-over lands of the Northern Minnesota counties and does away with mineral reservation holdings.

CAPITOL REPORT FILED.

A portion of the report of the public examiner upon investigation of the accounts of the state capitol commission has been placed in the hands of Gov. Johnson.

Mr. Kerst was in conference with the governor immediately after the chief executive returned. Shortly afterward, in an interview with a newspaper man, the governor said he had not received the report and that it had not been filed with him. Secretary Day was called in, however, and the governor then learned that the first portion of the report had been in Mr. Day's hands for some time and had been finally filed in the governor's office.

Gov. Johnson had not examined the record and had nothing whatever to say concerning the report. The examiner's report is a voluminous document and practically every contract of the capitol commission during the past twelve years has been gone into. There is much speculation as to the nature of the public examiner's recommendations.

It is generally believed that whatever criticism there is contained in the report will not affect the personal reputation of the members of the commission. That there will be little of a sensational nature disclosed is confidently believed.

Harry McCormick, the author of a number of mysterious burglaries in and around Winona which kept the police guessing, and against whom separate offenses of grand larceny and burglary are charged, took advantage of the new law and entered a plea of guilty to the charge of burglarizing the store of J. J. Speeter of St. Charles in November. He was sentenced by Judge Snow to an indefinite term in the reformatory at St. Cloud.

The Pipestone city council is investigating the advisability of installing an electric lighting plant in the city pumping station. A committee is now at work. The purpose of the movement is to furnish power for lighting the streets.

CZAR'S PROMISES WORTH LITTLE

Tyrannical Ordinances of Bobrikoff Not Removed.

Finland is greatly disappointed over the much lauded concessions granted by the czar. They are more shadows than substantial reforms, and although conditions are much improved with regard to the oppressive measures of the Russian police, the restoration of the ancient rights of the Finns has not come. None of the unjust and tyrannical ordinances promulgated under the Bobrikoff regime has been repealed.

Among the ordinances which the Finns hoped to see repealed were the following:

Providing for the summary dismissal of officials; the regulation which forbade any one to bring action against any official except after obtaining permission from his superior; the prohibition of meetings; the employment of Russian gendarmes in Finland, and the inclusion of them in the Finnish estimates, which involves an expenditure of more than 600,000 Finnish marks; and the necessity for obtaining the governor general's permission for the convening of church synods.

Then there were other measures introduced by Bobrikoff, such as the following:

The employment of Russians in the Finnish public service; the substitution of the Russian language for the native tongues, Finnish and Swedish, in all the more important public departments; the transfer of the governmental power from the Finnish senate to the governor general, in whose person the administration of the country, apart from the dictatorship, has largely been focussed; and above all, the manifesto of Feb. 15, 1899, by which the principle of autocracy was virtually proclaimed in Finland.

The czar made at the last moment of the session concessions on two points only in so far as the army edict of 1901 was suspended, and the principle that judges should be irremovable was restored. Though these concessions did not materially alter the situation they were at that time taken as a good omen for the return of legal conditions, and the estates decided to proceed to the voting of grants.

No summons for an extraordinary diet has so far been issued, and there is little chance of its being convened, since the senate has received instructions to elaborate, and has elaborated, a plan for a provisional regulation of the budget for 1906 and 1907. The senate has therefore recommended to the czar that a diet should be convoked. There are many questions involving grave constitutional principles which still remain unsettled and the temper of the Finlanders has been sorely tried in many ways.

A Unique Enterprise Started by Stockholm Institutions.

An interesting combination of building associations and life insurance has been started by Capt. Adlerstrahle for the workingmen of Stockholm. The main idea is to assist a worthy man in securing his own home on easy conditions and at the same time enable him to carry a substantial life insurance for the protection of his family. The annual payments are to apply on the purchase of his home, the interest on the mortgage and the premium on the life insurance. At the end of fifteen years, if all goes well, the man will own a tract of land and a cottage which cost 3,000 kroner, and will have a paid-up policy for 1,500 kroner.

The plan is supported by the Gustaf Adolf association, of which Capt. Adlerstrahle is secretary, and the Brage Life Insurance company.

Four tracts of land in the suburbs of Stockholm, all easily accessible by railway, have been secured. The details as to payments have been arranged and the plan will be set on foot at once.

WOMAN PREACHES PEACE.

Ellen Key Advocates the Scandinavian Idea by Hedin.

Ellen Key, the noted Swedish novelist, does not take kindly to the doctrine that Sweden stands isolated in relation to Norway and Denmark, although this thought is magnified on many sides. In a recent lecture before the Verdandi society in Upsala, she maintained that the time was now ripe for united work on the general idea of a Scandinavian union as advocated by the late Adolf Hedin. The future lay not in isolation and enmity toward the neighboring countries, but in harmonious and friendly work in everyday matters and cultural development. Politically a united Scandinavia could not be realized at once, but a common neutrality treaty was possible and would form a good basis for mutual confidence and respect.

Reindeer for Anticosti.

An order has been received by Bailiff With in the Lapp districts of Norway for a herd of reindeer and a tribe of Lapps to accompany them to Canada. Menier, the chocolate king, has decided to introduce these hardy animals on his desolate island Anticosti, which he is trying to colonize. After studying the Lapps and the reindeer he believes that both will thrive better on Anticosti than in northern Europe.

TWENTY-ONE DIE IN MINE HORROR

FEARFUL DISASTER OCCURS IN A COAL MINE AT COALDALE, W. VA.

EXPLOSION HEARD FOR MILES

ONLY ONE BODY RECOVERED AND THAT IS LITERALLY TORN TO PIECES.

Bluefield, W. Va., Jan. 6.—Twenty-one miners were killed in an explosion of gas in the shaft of the Cooper Mine company at Coaldale, W. Va., at noon yesterday. Up to midnight only one body had been recovered. Immediately following the explosion, which was heard for several miles, rescue parties set to work to explore the wrecked shaft.

Fearful Disaster.

Never but once before in the history of the Pocahontas coal field has there been such a fearful disaster. The victims of that other disaster sleep in the cemetery at Pocahontas.

Yesterday at noon while the Coaldale coal mines were crowded with men, there was a sudden and heavy rumbling a mile and more in the depths of the mountain, and through the miles of passages and air shafts of that immense mine the shock was felt. Before the detonations had died out Bank Boss Thomas Williams, who was a long distance from the explosion, staggered to his feet, and, feeling his way to a mine telephone, called to those on the outside that there had been a terrific explosion of mine gas and asked for help.

Literally Torn to Pieces.

Gathering about the entries, hastening crowds urged by cool heads and anxious hearts, hurried to prepare for the rescue of the missing ones and an exploration of the wrecked workings. At 4 o'clock one man had been brought out. He was H. C. Conrad, and his body was literally torn to pieces. His clothing was hanging in shreds.

Up to a late hour no other bodies had been recovered. There was considerable smoke and gas in the entries, and notwithstanding the fact that big fans were in good order and were working with full capacity, the gas and smoke were not being driven out very fast.

MORALES IS DEFEATED.

Hard Fighting Outside Puerto Plata In Which Rodriguez Is Killed.

Cape Haitien, Haiti, Jan. 6. — Following the attack made Jan. 2 on Puerto Plata, on the northern coast of Santo Domingo, by Gen. Dometrio Rodriguez, commanding the troops of the fugitive president, Gen. Morales, which resulted in the repulse of the Morales forces by the Caceres garrison after sharp fighting, the Caceres troops, commanded by Gen. Cespedes, attacked the Morales troops yesterday in their positions outside Puerto Plata. Stubborn fighting followed, during which many men were killed or wounded on both sides, resulting in the defeat of the Morales forces, who were dispersed. Among the killed was Gen. Rodriguez, former governor of Monte Christi.

WAS LOSING HER MIND.

Woman Fatally Wounds Son and Attempts Suicide.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 6.—After kissing her husband good-bye, Mrs. Sallie Blancagniel Pollard shot and fatally wounded her three-year-old son and then attempted suicide by shooting herself in the head yesterday afternoon in the apartments of her brother, Dr. W. N. Blancagniel.

"I felt that I was losing my mind. I did not wish to become a burden on any one else and I could not bear the thought of leaving my child to others."

Mrs Pollard gave this reason for her deed.

MADE SOUP OF HUMAN FLESH.

Revolting Cannibal Dish Is Used as a Cure for Leprosy.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 6.—News is received from Tokio by the Empress of Japan, that the Japanese police have solved a strange crime when proving the murder of the celebrated Japanese poet Nezel Noguchi, by Osaburo Noguchi, an adopted son. It was found that some years ago Osaburo murdered a boy and cut a piece of flesh from his victim to make soup, which he fed to his foster parents who were leprous. He did so because he read that soup made from human flesh would cure leprosy.

AGED COUPLE ELOPE.

Deserted Husband and Wife Secure Warrant.

Hamilton, Mont., Jan. 6.—The little town of Darby was the scene of a sensational elopement. G. L. Shook, sixty years of age and father of six children, is said to have left with Mrs. Charles McPhee, aged forty-five and the mother of five children. The pair took with them Mrs. McPhee's youngest child. The sheriff is after the elopers on a warrant sworn out by the woman's husband and Mrs. Shook.

SCHIFF SEES PANIC AHEAD

UNLESS SOMETHING IS DONE TO MAKE CURRENCY MORE ELASTIC.

New York, Jan. 6.—Unless there is currency reform, a panic beside which former panics will seem insignificant was predicted by Jacob H. Schiff, head of the banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., in a speech yesterday before the New York chamber of commerce. Mr. Schiff said he did not regard such a panic as imminent, but he believed it will come unless something is done to remedy the lack of elasticity of the present currency system. He declared that he did not favor the plan proposed by Secretary of the Treasury Shaw for relief of the situation, it being his opinion that the secretary's plan rather than legitimate business. Mr. Schiff favored a currency based on commercial paper as more helpful to the general business interests of the country.

The speech created a sensation in financial circles and caused a sharp break in prices on the stock exchange. The meeting of the chamber was attended by a large number of business men and financiers and a resolution on the subject offered by Mr. Schiff was unanimously adopted.

Supplements His Speech.

After the close of the market Mr. Schiff made this supplementary statement:

"My remarks were dictated simply by the conviction that something must be done to correct our inelastic currency system if we are not to run in time into great disaster. We are trying to play the role of giants while still in our swaddling clothes.

"If the president could be made to see that this is a question of vastly more importance to the material interests of the country than that of railroad rate regulation, to which he has devoted himself with such admirable energy, congress would soon set at work to remedy our circulation evil in a manner which would safeguard our prosperity."

MUST PAY $5,280,333.

Wrecker of Cincinnati Fidelity National Bank Loses Big Suit.

New York, Jan. 6. — A verdict for $5,280,333 against Edward E. Harper, once vice president of the Fidelity National Bank of Cincinnati, was affirmed yesterday by Judge Coxe in the United States circuit court. Eighteen years ago Harper was convicted of causing the failure of the Fidelity bank and served six years in prison. The verdict which he was yesterday ordered to pay grew out of this failure. The original amount sued for was $2,500,000, and yesterday's verdict of over $5,000,000 represents this claim plus the interest which has accrued during the eighteen years which the suit has been pending in the courts. Mr. Harper is vice president and general manager of the Union Iron and Steel company, with offices in this city.

NAN GETS HER GOODS BACK.

Actress' Effects Given Up by District Attorney.

New York, Jan. 6.—The last crumb of the Nan Patterson case was swept out of the county's criminal machinery yesterday when J. Morgan Smith, Nan's brother-in-law, discontinued his suit brought against District Attorney Jerome and his former assistant, Mr. Rand, to recover goods seized by the district attorney's detectives. The seizure was made at the time of Smith's arrest in Cincinnati, and consisted mostly of a few trunks containing personal effects and letters. Smith brought suit for them in the supreme court. All property has been returned to Smith, Mr. Jerome keeping copies of the letters.

$18,000 IS MISSING.

Taken From Express Pouch between Atlanta, Ga., and New York.

Washington, Jan. 6. — It developed yesterday that about $18,000 was taken from an express pouch between Atlanta, Ga., and New York. The Southern Express company received the package at Augusta; from there it went to Columbia, S. C., and it arrived in Washington early Sunday morning. The Adams Express company then sent it to New York, and there the loss was discovered. Officials of the express company are making an investigation, but nothing has been found so far to indicate who took the money.

Dies to Avoid Scandal.

Pretoria, Jan. 6.—Capt. J. Hopkins, quartermaster of the Second dragoon guards, whose name had been mentioned in connection with the South African war stores scandal, is dead. Circumstances point to suicide.

NO REPRIEVE FOR PATRICK.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 6. — Gov. Higgins yesterday announced that he would deny the application for a reprieve for Albert T. Patrick, the lawyer who is confined in Sing Sing prison under sentence to die Jan. 22 for the murder of the aged New York millionaire, William Marsh Rice. The application was made to enable Patrick's attorneys to examine the 6,000 pages of testimony taken on the trial in order to perfect an appeal to the United States supreme court.

In Colorado women forfeit notarial commissions when they marry. But then they wed someone else to do their swearing for them.

The Owatonna Chronicle will not accept poetry on "Beautiful Snow." It is up to the Pioneer Press to reproduce its editorial on "Beautiful Spring."

Our counery brother editors seemed to have fared fairly well in the letting of county printing contracts. Harmony and peace seems to have prevailed. It is well.

Frank Eddy declares that "any man who thinks it will be a leadpipe cinch to beat Governor Johnson this year hasn't sense enough to be governor of Minnesota."

Republicans are scurrying to cover on the tariff revision proposition. i. e., with the exception of the little school master. McCleary, and he don't know it is raining.

The insurance inquiry made a new record for official investigations, anyway. It showed that investigations like many other things depend most upon the man behind the guns.

The COURIER will donate a year's subscription to any one who can point to a single bill of benefit to the public that Depew ever introduced. And the COURIER is looking for subscribers.

As pictured by Walter Wellman, going to the north pole is just a pleasant little vacation jaunt. After he makes the trip next June perhaps a regular "Seeing the Arctics" service will be put on.

The Stewart Tribune very tartly hints in a two-colum ad that the "[illegible]'s for sale to any enterprising merchant." We'll watch the Tribune if Stewart has any enterprising merchants.

An heretical exchange professes to know women are more selfish than men because they will often make tremendous sacrifices in order to get whatever they may happen to want. Then they are more perserveing, too?

No report has come to us that the citizens of Mankato intend to give Congressman McCleary a non-partizan banquet by reason of the fact that he has been honored with membership on the great committee of ways and means.

Teddy's big stick seems to have fallen with considerable force on one Odell of New York. Perham Enterprise.

Don't stop, brother, but go down the aisle of our national house and observe the averted faces and flushed cheeks.

Frank M. Eddy has commenced to make a noise that sounds like a winner in the gubernatorial fight. Anyway, its a big field and Frank is riding well up in front. The Spectator. Frank always was willing to go against any proposition but a losing one. In the meantime keep close watch of Sixth district congressional matters.

President Eliot of Harvard doesn't want foot ball reformed by its friends, and tersely says: "For myself, I find it impossible to believe that the committees, coaches and umpires who have ruined the game are to be trusted with its reform or replacement." He would have intercollegiate foot ball done away with for a year or two so that the colleges may demonstrate on their own grounds that they can play a clean game.

Now that the adherents of Thief River Falls have control of the board of county commissioners, there may be something doing in the county seat fight. St. Hilaire Spectator.

Well, Harry, sleighing is fairly decent since the recent snow fall, but some are of the opinion that the wagon bridge will first have to be widened before the conrt house can be moved across it—and besides, the bridge was not built for overly-heavy loads.

Frank Eddy's Sauk Centre Herald pays the bright little woman who presides over "Notes and Comment" this tribute: "We have known Mary D. McFadden ever since she was a barefoot girl in Graceville years and years and years and years ago. She is a red-hot little Irish Democrat. She never could be anything else, and it's a standing mystery to us how she can write such good Republican stuff for the Duluth News-Tribune."

The new law, which goes into effect next March, regarding the sale of domestic fowls and such, will be of interest to butchers, merchant and others, and reads as follows: Every person who shall offer or expose for sale at retail, for human food, at any public market, store shop or house, or in or about any street or other public place, any domestic fowls, or any slaughtered rabbits, squirrels or other small animals, wild or tame, unless the entrails, crops and other offensive parts are properly drawn and removed, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Secretary Shaw makes a lame apology for the failed Chicago banks. He says that while the provision of the banking laws that not more than ten per cent, of a bank's capitalization shall be loaned to one man was violated by Walsh's institutions, it was no more than has been done by almost every bank in the country. The violation, he says, is not a criminal one, and there is nothing to do but to liquidate. It would seem that a cabinet officer of the United States might make a little better stand for the observance of law than is indicated by this expression. Mr. Shaw makes a good deal of the fact that every depositor will be paid in full, but if the clearing house association of Chicago had not come to the relief of Walsh's banks that would not be true. What is the banking law for, anyway?

Dr. Washington Gladden has paid his respects to predatory wealth again. He also punctures a fallacy which is becoming too common in extenuation of its crimes. He says: "But when judgment is pronounced the cry is heard that these men are no worse than all the rest; that all rich men are alike. It is not true. The battle of the mart is often fierce, and men are often tempted to be hard and false and cruel. But the ordinary American merchant or manufacturer is not, in intent or in fact, a thief or a plunderer. He does not wish to live by despoiling his fellows. He means to obey the laws of the land; he is not a briber or a corruptionist. We may admit that he is not a saint, but he is not a pirate, and there are a lot of things he will not do for the sake of money."

The Illinois manufacturers' association has shown that 132 plants have been established in Canada by Americans, resulting in a trade loss to us of $50,000,000 annually. Fifteen of these enterprises migrated from Chicago alone. The New York Times, commenting on this, says: "It is fair enough for the opponents of reciprocity to estimate lightly the benefits claimed for stimulation of trade. Such expectations are not always realized result of the alternative to reciprocity. On the one hand we reject cheap raw materials for our factories and cheap food for our breakfast tables, and on the other hand we expel capital, restrict trade and recruit the numbers of our Canadian competitors—not to mention the political considerations—out of regard to Canadian susceptibilities and alleged allegiance. We do not like the picture, nor do we see how it can be painted in colors alluring to any fair minded, practical person."

AN ELOQUENT TRIBUTE.

St. Cloud Times: Seldom or never has a higher compliment been paid to a governor of a state, by a president of a great institution of learing than was bestowed upon Governor John A. Johnson by Cyrus Northrop, president of Minnesota's University. The occasion was nonpolitical. He was addressing the Minnesota Educational association, comprising 1,000 or more of the instructors of the youth of the state, who represented every nook and corner of the commonwealth. He wished these teachers to present to their pupils as their model some man whom they might strive to pattern after, and he paid this high compliment to Minnesota's governor:

"If there were a campaign in progress my lips would be sealed. As the president of the State University, I am not expected to publicly indorse the candidacy of any man for public position, but I am free to say this now, and whether Governor Johnson is re-elected governor or not, the teachers of the state may still say to the children of the state that they have a man who as governor may be pointed to as an ideal of the honest, independent type of a man in public life, loyal to what he conceives to be his public duties."

No words of ours can add to the force of such an endorsement. President Northrop's eulogy is not that of a partisan friend anxious to extol a political benefator. He fills a nonpartisan position—he speaks as an educator, anxious to point the young people of the state to one whom they might well emulate.

Minnesota's people may well be proud that they have a governor who is worthy to be held up as a model for the children of the commonwealth.

SOME REPUBLICAN TESTIMONY.

Worthington Herald, (Rep.:) Governor Johnson has made a good governor and his administration has given general satisfaction. He also comes from a small country town and is a man of fine ability and appearance and, no doubt absolute honesty, and but for his Democratic politics (which is not a bar to good citizenship) he would be preferable to some of the Republicans mentioned to date.

Sauk Centre Herald, (Rep.:) "He was an experiment but he made good, and the Republican that goes up against Governor Johnson's mixing powers, his oratorical gifts, his skill as a campaginer, his phenomenal luck, his unquestioned ability and his excellent record, will have something to do and then a whole lot more to do to win."

Windom Reporter, (Rep.:) Johnson's administration as compared with Clough's Merriam's or Van Sant's has been faultless, and we Republicans experienced no self-stultification in voting for them, by the side of whom John A. Johnson and his record loom up as the Eiffel tower above the gigantic structures which seem pygmean in comparison. Since the adminstration of C. K. Davis the state has had no governor so free from the control and influences of the cities and the bosses as Johnson, nor one for whom the common people have voted with a feeling of greater confidence than for this country editor in 1904; nor one of more brilliant attainments or with more sincere desire to give the state the best that was in him.

Every Two Minutes

Physicians tell us that all the blood in a healthy human body passes through the heart once in every two minutes. If this action becomes irregular the whole body suffers. Poor health follows poor blood; Scott's Emulsion makes the blood pure. One reason why is such a great aid is because it passes so quickly into the blood. It is partly digested before it enters the stomach; a double advantage in this. Less work for the stomach; quicker and more direct benefits. To get the greatest amount of good with the least possible effort is the desire of everyone in poor health. Scott's Emulsion does just that. A change for the better takes place even before you expect it.

STRANGELY CURED

Minneapolis Man Has Most Remarkable Experience With Strange Medicine That Has Wonderful Power

W. H, McClurg, a well known citizen of Minneapolis, living at 2601 Newton Ave., North, who has recently recovered from a violent attack of stomach trouble and rheumatism tells a most remarkable story of his experience. According to his statement Mr. McClurg declared: "My suffering for some time past has been at times almost unbearable. My appetite was poor and variable and my digestion was greatly impaired. I could seldom eat anything without suffering intensely afterwarp, My rheumatism also bothered me very much and it was often very difficult for me to get around. Nothing that I had tried seemed to afford me any relief and finally after hearing of so many people who had been cured by the Cooper medicines I resolved to try them. Two bottles each of the two remedies wrought a wonderful change in me. From the very first I begin to improve. My appetite returned my digestion became better, the rheumatic pains left me and now I am better and stronger in every way. They are wonderful medicines and I am indeed grateful for the benefit I have received."

Cooper's New Discovery, the medicine that did so much for Mr. McClurg, cures rheumatism, stomach and kidney trouble cotarrh, deafness, blood diseases and paralysis and sells for one dollar per bottle. Cooper's Quick Relief the assistant remedy costs fifty cents. Both remedies are sold in this city only by W. A. Schreiter.

"Bill" is a prime favorite with both old and young in the city as was testified to by the number at the depot to bid him goodbye and good luck for the coming year.

It was the writer's good fortune to enjoy a sleigh ride to the farm of Peter Matthies, living five miles northeast of the city, and for which we are indebted to Mr. Lewis, the insurance man. Mr. Matthies was one of the fortunate ones last fall and his crop as threshed ran 20 bushels of wheat to the acre, 53 of barley and 40 of oats. It was easily noticeable that his farm is kept in a highly cultivated state and made to produce to its fullest capacity.

D. Douglas, of Thief River Falls, was at the court house Tuesday to collect bounty on three wolves which he killed near Thief River Falls. The county pays a bounty of $7.50 for female wolves. Mr. Douglas stated wolves were plentiful in that neighborhood and it was not uncommon to see two or three together when making a drive thru the county. He also stated that Ole Peterson, one of the noted wolf hunters in Northern Minnesota, who practically makes it his business to hunt wolves during the winter months, had killed so far 30 of the animals.

The COURIER reporter heard a good story the other evening which will bear repitition because it carries a moral attached. A young autocrat of the family who was delving into the literature of a supply house catalogue and admiring the alluring pictures in it was informed by the nurse that a new brother had arrived to keep him company and asking where he came from was put off with the reply that he just arrived. O, well, I suppose papa sent to Sears & Robuck for him and as he has already paid for him I suppose we'll have to keep him.

NEW RULING FOR RESERVATION SETTLERS

The Department of the Interior Interprets Steenerson Act Which Affects Red Lake Settlers.

A ruling has been made by the Interior Department which affects the settlers on the Red Lake Indian reservation. The department holds that under the Steenerson act the settler cannot acquire title to his holding either by five years' residence or commutation unless he has full citizen papers. The Thief River Press in speaking of the ruling says:

"Heretofore it has been supposed that homesteaders on the Red Lake lands opened by the Steenerson bill could commute after fourteen months in accordance with section 2301 of the revised statutes of the United States, which provides that a homesteader who has taken out his first papers is entitled to final proof and a government warrant at the expiration of fourteen months of residence and the payment of a stated sum of money. The Steenerson bill is so worded that a conflict of meaning results. In one place it says that commutation proofs may be made in accordance with section 2301 and in another portion of the bill, it is stated specifically that no homesteader can acquire title to his holdings unless he is a bona fide resident of the United States and has taken out his second papers.

"The department of the interior after considering the matter, rules that the bill intends the latter and the result will be the application for second papers by a whole lot of homesteaders who heretofore believed themselves able to commute and prove up with only their first papers."

HIS FIRST RAIL TRIP.

Frank P. Hinman of Mount Morris, N. Y., has just had his first railroad ride, on the Erie railroad, to Rochester and back, and he used a ticket that was issued in 1864 to his grandfather, and had never been cancelled. When the purchaser of the ticket died in 1891, he bequeath- it to his favorite grandson. The latter has since been waiting to "get a holiday," which he recently enjoyed. Speaking of enjoying a holiday let us remind you of ordering a supply of golden grain belt beer. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson Crookston.

GARCEAU & ZAISER

The Scourge of Damascus

A Story of the East...

By SYLVANUS COBB, JR.

Copyrighted 1891 by Robert Bonner's Sons.

CHAPTER XIV.

As he spoke the Arab gave a loud, shrill whistle, at the same time leaping across the spring and striking the slave in the face. But Shubal was not to be overcome so easily by one man. The whistle had alarmed him, and when he saw the fellow leap, he was not wholly unprepared. The blow in the face blinded him for a moment, but as soon as his eyes served him, he caught his assailant by the throat and hurled him to the ground.

"What sort of a man are you?" the slave cried, as he held the rascal down.

"I am a juggler," replied the Arab, holding fast upon Shubal's tunic.

"Let go my clothing, or I'll kill you."

The slave might have carried out his threat, but before he could make any decided movement to that end he found himself surrounded by a body of armed men. Quick as thought he leaped to his feet, leaving a piece of his tunic behind him, and made a movement toward his horse; but he was too late to reach the saddle. Half a dozen strong hands were laid upon him, while as many more were busy with the horses of the females. The princess cried aloud for help, and would have leaped from her saddle had she not been held back.

"Fair lady," spoke a rough voice, in a harsh, strange dialect, "you must keep still, and give us as little trouble as possible."

"But you will not harm me, good sirs."

"You have no occasion for fear, lady. But tell me—who are you?"

"I am the daughter of Aboul Cassem, the prime minister of Damascus."

Could Albia have moved quickly enough, she would have prevented her mistress from answering this question, but the story had been told. Ulin innocently thought that the name of her father would strike the marauders with awe, and that they would fear to molest her further, but in this she was somewhat mistaken, as subsequent events proved.

"By my life, comrades," cried he, who seemed to be the leader of the party, "we have found a rich prize. Hold still, noble lady. We will not harm you. Let us look to this unruly slave of yours, and then you shall be properly cared for. You might have fallen into worse hands than ours."

When Ulin had collected her senses, so that she could observe and comprehend things about her, she looked to see her real situation. She counted eight of the Arabs, and she had no doubt that they were robbers. Four of them were securing the slave, while the other four were watching the horses. Shubal was very soon pinioned, and restored to his feet, after which she and Albia were lifted from their saddles.

"Don't be alarmed," said the leader, as the princess cried out for mercy. "You shall be restored to your horses very soon. We have horses close at hand, and when they are brought, you shall be on your way again."

"You will set Shubal free?"

"He shall be free soon enough. Rest easy a few moments, lady. One of my men has gone after our animals. We left them upon the other side of the wood."

"But why have you taken us from our horses?" asked our heroine.

"You will see that anon, fair lady. Ah—here comes my man. Now, my fair damsels, you shall understand the whole matter. These horses of yours are not such ones as I would have you ride. I have some here much better."

"What does he mean?" asked Ulin, speaking in a low tone to her bondmaiden.

"Wait," replied Albia, trying to conceal her real suspicions. "They may inform us."

Before Ulin could ask another question the Arab leader came forward with two horses, upon which he directed his companion to fix the ladies' saddles; and when this had been done he turned to the princess, and informed her that she might take her seat again. She would have opposed the movement, but a strong hand was laid upon her, and, almost before she knew it, she was once more upon her saddle.

"You will excuse me," the fellow said, "but as this horse will not carry you quite so easily as your own, I will secure you in your place."

As he spoke he passed a strong cord about Ulin's body, and fastened it to the girth upon either side. The same thing was done for Albia, and then attention was directed to Shubal, who was seated upon another strange horse, and likewise bound in his place.

"What can they mean?" asked the princess, gaining another opportunity to speak to her attendant.

"I dare not guess," said Albia.

"Do not speak in that way," urged Ulin. "Tell me what you think—I command you."

"My dear mistress," replied the bondmaiden, reluctantly, "their meaning is evident enough. These horses will follow their masters!"

"Ha!—and are we prisoners?"

"I fear so. But let us hope for the best. We may not be harmed."

At this juncture the Arabs had mounted their horses, three of them taking the animals which belonged to their prisoners, and at a word from the leader they were on the move. Ulin instinctively clung to the rein to hold herself steady, but her horse noticed not the guiding of her hand. The leader of the party rode in advance; then followed two more of the gang; then came two females; and behind them followed the others, with the slaves under charge. Through the wood they rode at an easy pace, and when they had gained the open plain beyond they struck into a swift gallop. Ulin had discovered to her satisfaction that the strange horse paid no attention to the rein, so she only sought to keep an easy seat. She was weak with fear and alarm; and all sorts of dreadful pictures arose to her imagination as she sped on. She could not speak with Albia, for the clattering of hoofs drowned her voice. What did it mean? Where would it end?

On they sped, straight over the plain—on, on, on—without halting or turning—on through the darkness of the night—on, league after league—until the gray streaks of morning appeared in the eastern horizon. Another wood was before them, and when it was reached, the party stopped. Not far distant, where a clump of noble palms reared aloft their plaited foliage, a crystal spring burst forth from the green earth, and the Arabs held their panting horses back from the tempting beverage.

"Now, lady, you may find repose," said the leader, as he came and lifted Ulin from her seat. "We shall remain here a few hours. I will be with you again presently."

He turned and handed Albia to the ground, and then went to where his followers were taking care of Shubal.

"Albia, what will they do with us?" cried the princess, clasping her hands in terror.

But the bondmaiden could not answer. If she held suspicions, she dared not speak them.

"O, I wish I had not taken this false step! It is a punishment for my sin!"

"Hush, dear mistress. It is our fate. It is no punishment. Wait until we know what this Arab means to do with us."

"What can he mean?" It must be something dreadful. Why has he taken us away so far? O, Albia, I am frightened."

"No, no, sweet lady. Have a hope. They will not kill us."

"Ah," murmured the princess, with folded hands, "there may be a fate from which death would be a happy escape!"

The bondmaiden shuddered, and from her thoughts at that moment she could frame no reply which she dared to speak aloud.

CHAPTER XV.

The Arab's Purpose.

As Ulin sat upon the greensward, with her back against a palm tree, and one hand resting upon Albia's arm, she could take a clear view of her captors. The sun was just tinging the distant mountain tops with its golden light, and the last shadow of the night had gone. The Arabs had watered the horses and left them where they could crop the green grass, and were now gathered together, listening to the words of their chief.

They were rough, dark looking men, these Arabs. Their clothing was sparse and poor, and their skin swart and dirty; but their weapons were bright and keen and their horses in most perfect condition, both as to health and cleanliness. A little while they conversed together, and then one of them brought forth the bundle which had been taken from Shubal. It was opened by the leader, and the articles of clothing which it contained were spread out upon the ground. Folded up in a silken scarf was found a purse, from which fell a score or more of broad gold pieces; whereupon the marauders gave utterance to various exclamations of satisfaction.

"They are robbers," said Ulin, as she saw them dividing the gold.

"Certainly," responded Albia. "I have suspected that from the first."

"Can they belong to Julian's band?"

"Why should you ask such a question, my mistress? You know that Julian would never have such men about him!"

As she spoke, the Arab leader came towards them, and after gazing upon them for a few moments, he said, addressing the princess:

"I hope you find yourself none the worse for this little deviation from your original course; for, let me assure you, the meeting has afforded me much pleasure. Does the princess Ulin know who is speaking to her?"

"No, sir," replied Ulin.

"Then she shall know into whose protecting hand she has had the fortune of falling. I am Al Abbas. Does the name sound familiar?"

"No, sir."

"It is familiar enough to me," said Albia.

"Ah, pretty one—and what know you of it?"

"I have heard the name, sir, when speech has been made touching a certain Arab robber, whose deeds had caused him to be feared by honest travelers."

The rascal seemed pleased with this remark, and smilingly returned:

"You have hit the truth, my fair damsel. I am the robber, Al Abbas, and I am a terror to those who fear to lose their money. But, my fair lady," he continued, turning to the princess, "you cannot have any such fears. We have found some little money belonging to you, and I take the liberty of asking you if you have any jewels about you."

He approached nearer as he spoke and held out his hand. Ulin knew not how to refuse, and she furthermore saw that refusal would be useless; so she drew forth from her bosom a casket of chamois skin, bound with bands of gold, and handed it over. The robber took it, and opened it; and as his eyes rested upon the sparkling jewels—pearl, diamond, emerald, topaz and opal—he gave utterance to an exclamation of delight.

"By my life, lady, you came well provided. I will take care of these gems for you. They will be much safer in my custody."

"I understand you," said the princess, as she saw the fellow close the casket and place it in his own bosom. "You mean to keep those jewels, as you do the gold which you have found."

"You are shrewd at guessing, lady."

"I think I have good grounds for my opinion, sir. Take them if you want them; and in return I only ask that you let us go free. You are welcome to all that you have if you will give us our liberty."

"You will rest before you go."

"I do not wish to rest long."

"Nor would I have you. But for the present you had better lie down upon this soft grass, and find some slight repose. I will call you when we move." And as he thus spoke, he turned away and joined his companions.

"Will they let us go?" murmured Ulin, letting her head fall upon her companion's shoulder.

"I hope so, my mistress. But come—we cannot learn their intent until they please to tell us; and in the meantime you had better seek some rest. You are tired and worn. Lay your head upon my lap—so. And we will hope for the best."

Albia drew the head of her mistress gently down, and in a little while the weary princess was asleep. And the bondmaiden did not long remain upon the watch. Her own lids were heavy, and very soon her senses were locked in slumber.

Al Abbas moved noiselessly to the spot where the worn maidens slept, and presently others of his band joined him.

"By the blood of Cush," muttered the robber chief, "they are beautiful enough! The lady Ulin is the fairest maiden I ever saw."

"They are both of them far too beautiful to be roaming at large," said another of the gang.

"They are worth more than jewels," added a third.

"You are right," responded the leader. "This princess would sell for a diadem, beyond the Syrian desert. But let them sleep, and when they are rested we will call them. If we would turn the prize into gold, we must not suffer it to fade from neglect."

After this the robbers sat down to their morning's meal; and when they had done eating some of them went to sleep upon the grass.

At the expiration of two hours Ulin awoke with a sharp cry, and caught her companion convulsively by the arm, and cried:

"O!—and it was only a dream. How frightful it was."

"Only a dream, dear mistress. We are safe and well."

"Thank heaven!"

Al Abbas, as soon as he saw that the girls were awake, gave a shrill whistle, such as he had sounded on a previous occasion, and in an instant his men were upon their feet. The horses, also, noticed the signal, for they lifted their heads and moved up together, as though ready to serve their masters.

The Nigeria Region.

Nigeria is an important region in Africa and comprises the whole of the British sphere (with the exception of the colony and the Protectorate of Lagos), within the lines of demarcation arranged by the Anglo-German agreements of 1885, 1886 and 1893, and the Anglo-French agreements of 1889, 1890, and 1898. The region covers between 400,000 and 500,000 square miles, and its population is variously estimated at from 25,000,000 to 40,000,000, but in the absence of any census, no reliance can be placed on such estimates. It is certain, however, that a great number of towns in Nigeria contain considerable population. For administrative purposes Nigeria is temporarily divided into two governments, Northern Nigeria and Southern Nigeria, but in the absence of any data it is impossible to say which section has the largest population. Brigadier-General Sir F. J. D. Lugard, K. C. M. G., C. B., D. S. O. is the high commissioner for Northern Nigeria—Montreal Herald and Star.

How Ruskin Learned Obedience.

John Ruskin, who wrote so many famous books, said the first lesson he learned was to be obedient. "One evening," he says, "when I was yet in my nurse's arms, I wanted to touch the tea-urn, which was boiling merrily. It was an early taste for bronzes, I suppose, but I was resolute about it. My mother bade me keep my fingers back. I insisted on putting them forward. My nurse would have taken me away from the urn, but my mother said: 'Let him touch it, nurse.' So I touched it, and that was my first lesson in the meaning of the word liberty. I got, and the last that for some time I asked."

Truth, not eloquence, is to be sought.—F. Kemble.

WONDROUS FAD OF FASHION

How fearfully and wonderfully is the feminine of the hour built up in back!

A man with a discerning eye for these things swears that a fashionable young person who hat in front of him on the train the other afternoon towered yards above the back of her seat. Her collar, according to his calculations, was built up quite six inches high. It supported four diamond pins, each at least two inches long, so he reasons that this was a modest calculation. Where her collar left off, her back hair began, and he states that never in his experience has he witnessed hair erect to such a sky-scraping height. He cannot undertake to say how it was done. He only knows that it was waved and puffed far above his level, and he could only peer toward its dim, retreating billows in wonder. He says he knows her maid must have stood on a stepadder to dress it.

Away up on top, he says, there was set something in the nature of a hat, he couldn't clearly tell what, except that it was mounted on coils and coils of velvet, tilting it, as near as he could judge from that distance, at least a yard above her back hair. The top of it, he says, was not for man to contemplate, nor woman, either, unless she were a Brobdignagian.

When this extraordinary elevation turned around, the man says he got a distinct shock. The precipice that had been reared to such a lofty altitude behind tumbled straight down sheer, threatening to slice off her pretty nose in the descent.

"It looked," said he, vainly struggling to express his emotions, "like somebody had taken a sharp knife, trimmed her off close in front, as my mother used to slice the dough off the pie-tin. I must say, after the amazing quantity of hat and hair aft, I wasn't prepared for such an anticlimax forward. She was an awfully pretty girl, but she appeared to feel that her hat didn't quite balance in front, and she kept thrusting out her chin as if she hoped to make up for the deficiency. Poor thing! I suppose it's the fashion!"

Of course, what this man was talking about is the new felt sailor, erected to great heights behind and chopped off sort over the nose. Fashionable? Well, rather! As many feminines as can pay the price are annexing the same, and many, many men are bound to be amazed thereby.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

MATINEE HAT'S SAD FATE

Just before the curtain rose for a matinee performance recently, a woman very far above the weight that well regulated scales describe as normal, ambled down the aisle and took her seat, an end one. The whole balcony seemed to vibrate when she sat down. Not more than a few minutes later a small, wiry, business-like woman hopped down the aisle, and with great difficulty and extraordinary gymnastic effort managed to climb over the fat lady and take the seat next to her. Everything was peaceful until after the first act, when the thin spectator decided to climb out again to speak to a friend ten or twelve hows back. She had a new hat, which she had been holding lovingly in her lap. With a last fond look at it, she hesitatingly left it on her chair, went through the same gymnastic act, landed safely in the aisle and went quickly back to her friend. Now fat people are always counted good natured, and the end seat occupant was no exception. Realizing the hardships her neighbor would have to go through to climb back again, with a most divine expression of sympathy and good will on her face, she stood up, moved along, sat down in the second seat—on the hat. In the meantime the friends ten rows back finished a rather excited conversation, during which the wiry lady had become more and more excited, and then she came back. Forgetting all about her cherished hat and seemingly intent on some other business, she unquestioningly took the end seat. In two minutes she shot up—the hat was lost! She did not know just where she had left it, but it must be there! She searched under the seats within a radius of twenty feet. No hat was to be found. The fat lady, sympathetic but immovable, did all she could to help look for it, except stand up. Ushers were summoned, ice-water boys, programme boys. The whole balcony was having a nervous chill over the mysterious disappearance. Only the girl from Brookyn, in the seat behind, knew the answer to the question, and she was too exhausted from the strain of suppressed laughter to explain. At the end of the play she did not wait to see the finish. Her conscience wouldn't permit her, for she caught one glimpse of the crushed hat when the fat lady arose.—Brooklyn Eagle.

GHOST SHOWED HIM GOLD

Bringing a bottle filled with almost pure gold, taken from a lode long hidden in mountain fastnesses, not far from here, W. E. Bartlett and M. C. Black, both well known business men, are back after a perilous trip to the Cascades.

Theirs, however, was labor richly rewarded, though the story is so interwoven with spiritualism and romance that it is well nigh incredible. Bartlett is the grandson of D. E. Ingels, a miner of the early '50s in these parts, who was murdered in the hills by his partner. The Bartlett family are spiritualists, and Bartlett declares his dead and murdered grandfather, through a Portland medium, sent word to him to find the lost mine and he would be independent for life.

Bartlett swears positively that he received specific directions from the spirit of his grandfather how to proceed to the lost mine. Moreover, he was told to select M. C. Black to accompany him. The men will not tell of the location of their find, but say it cannot be reached save by making an extremely dangerous trip and one filled with hardship, especially at this time of the year, when the mountains are firmly in winter's icy grasp. In the spring they will return and develop their find.

In a rough and mountainous section, they say, they found a gray quartz ledge, literally filled with precious metal. Small pieces were broken off, pounded up in a frying pan which they had with them and the gold picked out by the men's fingers and placed in a bottle. Should the ledge prove as rich as the samples, a man could make a mortar and gold pan, and in a week's time take out enough of the gold to make him wealthy.

As an evidence of their find they have the little bottle of gold dust, which has already been viewed by dozens of people, and tests have been made by O. D. Johnson which prove that the mineral is genuine.—Wenatchie correspondence Seattle Times.

COULDN'T HURT THE WATER

The late Eugene Field, while on one of his lecturing tours, entered Philadelphia one bright spring morning after that city had endured a three days' rainstorm.

There was some dalay at the bridge over the Schuylkill river, and the humorist's attention was attracted by the turgid, coffee-colored stream flowing underneath. "It reminded me so much of my own dear Chicago river," he afterward explained. He placed a detaining hand on the arm of the colored porter, who was passing at the time, and inquired, in his languid tone, if he were a resident of the Quaker City, says Success.

"Yassir!" replied that important functionary. "I was bo'n an' raised yere. Yassir!"

"Don't you people get your drinking water from this stream?" queried Field.

"Yassir! Ain't got no yuther place to git it frum 'cept th' Delaweah, an' dat's des a lil' mo' soupy dan dis yer wattah. Yassir!"

"Is it filtered before you drink it?"

"No, sah, not as I, evah hea'd tell of!"

"I should think," said the humorist, "that you would be afraid to drink such water; especially as the seepage from that cemetery I see on the hill must drain directly into the river and pollute it."

"D'ye mean dat big bu'yin' groun' up yander by de tu'n ob de ribber?" inquired the son of Ham. "I reckon yo' all doan' know Philadelphy ve'y well, sah, aw yo'd know dat's Lau'el Hill cemete'y!"

"Well, what of that?" asked Field, somewhat puzzled at this unlooked for rejoinder.

WILD TIMES IN ODESSA

Here is a correspondent's record of the minor hooligan outrages or one day in the city of Odessa recently: "Shortly before sundown a drunken member of a small military picket staggered across his rifle and fired wildly as a passing drosky carrying two women and a young girl. The bullet missed its mark. An officer, attracted by the shot, rushed over, and the drunken soldier ran as best he could, after dropping his rifle, but was brought down by a shot in the leg from the officer. On the opposite side of Cathedral place, 300 paces away, about the same time, an intoxicated policeman reeled out of a vodka shop and commenced blazing about with his revolver, one shot wounding a young woman in the hand. He was shot dead by a member of the nearest picket.

"Earlier in the day two small merchants returning through a busy thoroughfare from the custom house were stopped by hooligans and robbed of everything. Thirty yards away stood a picket of two soldiers and a policeman. The indignant victims demanded to know why the picket did not come to their assistance. One of the soldiers replied it was none of their business; they were there to control the traffic only.

"Two other cases of robbery with violence occurred in the afternoon close to my residence. In the outer districts of the city there were seventeen similar assaults and robberies, and, between nightfall and midnight, about twenty. In three of the latter cases the military pickets were the bandits. A little girl of nine years, chased by the hooligans, was shot dead on her own doorstep."

An Awkward Error.

An American at Gibraltar entertained Charles Dana Gibson at dinner in the late fall at the Bristol.

When Mr. Gibson rose to reply to a toast he was a little embarrassed. "I have not the gift of oratory," he began, "and that is awkward. Indeed, to be deficient in anything is awkward, isn't it? It is especially awkwardt o be deaf.

"At a dinner at Dark Harbor last summer a deaf old man sat beside a young and beautiful girl.

"'Do you like bananas?' this girl said to the old man, during the first course, in a loud, sweet voice.

He, however, misunderstood her in his deafness. He thought she had said 'pajamas,' and he replied:

"'No, I like the old-fashioned nightshirts best.'"

The following incident is related of Nat Goodwin, the actor. Not long ago Goodwin was standing on the corner of Broadway and Thirty-fourth street, where three car lines converge, when a seedy-looking individual, apparently from the country, approached him questioningly.

"Very well," said Goodwin, severely, "you can go this time, but never ask me again."—Harper's Weekly.

INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION.

How Food Headed Off the Insidious Disease.

The happy wife of a good old-fashioned Michigan farmer says:

"In the spring of 1902 I was taken sick—a general breaking down, as it were. I was excessively nervous, could not sleep well at night, my food seemed to do me no good, and I was so weak I could scarcely walk across the room.

"The doctor said my condition was due to overwork and close confinement and that he very much feared that consumption would set in. For several months I took one kind of medicine after another, but with no good effect—in fact, I seemed to grow worse.

"Then I determined to quit all medicines, give up coffee and see what Grape-Nuts food would do for me. I began to eat Grape-Nuts with sugar and cream and bread and butter three times a day.

"The effect was surprising. I began to gain flesh and strength forthwith, my nerves quieted down and grew normally steady and sound, sweet sleep came back to me. In six weeks' time I discharged the hired girl and commenced to do my own housework for a family of six. This was two years ago, and I am doing it still and enjoy it." AN AWFUL ITCHING ON SCALP.

Hair Finally Had to Be Cut to Save Any—Scalp Now in Good Condition Cured by Cuticura.

"I used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment for a diseased scalp, dandruff, and constantly falling of hair. Finally I had to cut my hair to save any at all. Just at that time I read about the Cuticura remedies. Once every week I shampooed my hair with the Cuticura Soap, and I used the Ointment twice a week. In two months' time my hair was long enough to do up in French twist. That is now five years ago, and I have a lovely head of hair. The length is six inches below my waist line, my scalp is in very good condition, and no more dandruff or itching of the scalp. I used other remedies that were recommended to me as good, but with no results. Mrs. W. F. Griess, Clay Center, Neb., Oct. 23, 1905."

The Theory of Telegony.

As all of our readers are by this time doubtless aware, stallions in Wisconsin, after January 1st, 1906, must be certified to by the Department of Horse Breeding of the College of Agriculture at Madison and stand for public service for what they really are as to breeding. The pedigrees must be submitted to the department, and the college certificate will pronounce the stallion a "Pure-bred," "Grade" or "Cross-Bred," as the case may be. This certificate must then be recorded with the register of deeds of the county in which the stallion is owned and used, and copies of it must be printed upon all posters, cards, advertisements, etc., relative to the stallion's breeding and used to procure patronage, writes A. S. Alexander in Farmers' Review.

The other day a stallioner who had always called his horse a pure-bred animal and advertised him as such by means of a large poster which gave his alleged pedigree, and which, by the way, gave the breeding of the sire alone, as the dam was a scrub, asked, in making application for the college certificate, "What will you do with a colt that is the progeny of a pure-bred mare that has been bred at the previous time to a stallion of an alien breed and produced a colt to that service? I claim that such breeding taints the mare for all time, so that she will not breed true, and that she is therefore no longer pure-bred when it comes down to the facts, as her future colts will always be marked for the previous alien sire." He did not use these exact words, but they give the "sense" of his contention, which, however, is no longer held to be sensible or true in fact.

A mare is not tainted by alien service so that her future progeny to sires of her own breed will be marked for the previous sire. This theory has long been held by breeders and is still stoutly upheld by those who have not kept up with the times in their study of the literature of breeding. The theory is termed "telegony," and it has been fully exploded or proved untrue by Prof. Cossar Ewart of Scotland. If there were any possibility that a mare could be so tainted or affected by mating with an alien sire, surely breeding to a zebra would cause that effect. This method of breeding has been tried in every possible combination. Zebra with mare: result, a striped colt looking much like the zebra sire. Zebra to same mare several seasons in succession; result, same marking of colts favoring the zebra sires. Same mares then bred to stallions of their own breed, and resultant progeny in no case marked in the slightest particular for the previous zebra sires. Mares have been bred alternate years to zebra and their own breed stallions and colts have resulted in each case, the zebra product being zebra marked and the native stallion product being marked for that sire. It may be said that every possible way was tried to prove that the theory was correct, but all failed, and the professor is still making experiments along similar lines.

When, then, shall be said to be the explanation of instances which apparently bear out the contention that the womb of the female or her "mind," perhaps, through the eyes, may be left affected or tainted by mating to an alien sire? The explanation is the theory of atavism or reversion to the lost type or character of a remote ancestor or ancestry. Polled cattle thoroughly established as polls sometimes produce calves having scurs or rudimentary horns. The polled parents had horned ancestors, and the scurs suddenly appearing, trace to the horns of long ago. Such cases are common in all pure-bred animals. The black polls sometimes throw red calves. Where such a case happened and it was known that the cow in question had at some previous time been bred intentionally or accidently to a red-colored bull of alien breed, the owner might naturally enough claim that the present red calf was due to the previous cross to an alien red bull. On the contrary, the explanation would be the reversion to the lost color of remote ancestry, for such were found of a red color in the Aberdeen-Angus breed, and some breeders own to-day a few red specimens of the breed.

Great Business in Hereford Cattle.

Our breed of cattle extends almost over the entire United States, we having some breeders in nearly every state in the union. We also do quite an extensive business with breeders residing in Canada and a little work for those residing in Old Mexico. During our fiscal year which ended September 1st we transacted more business than any year since our association has been organized, and from the way business has been running from that date to this, the year we are now in bids fair to even eclipse last year. This past year we have done business for breeders in forty-eight different states and territories and have added two hundred and ninety-four new breeders to our membership roll. Herefords are being raised very extensively in all of the districts that are subject to Texas fever. This year Texas was the second state in the amount of office receipts, being led only by Missouri.

The herds of the South are nearly all supplied by bulls from the North, but these are usually inoculated after arriving in the South. A good many females are also shipped from the North, which are likewise inoculated after arriving there. Most breeders in the South think the best age to ship from the North is from eight to fourteen months old, as they seem to stand inoculation better at this age than when older. There is not very much being done in the district north of the fever line in the way of shipping to Mexico, Cuba, Central and South America, but quite a number of shipments have been made in the last year or two from Texas to these points. The cattle that are shipped from points below the fever line to these places are usually cattle that have already passed through the fever and are, therefore, immune.

American Hereford Cattle Breeders' Association.

Killing and Dressing Cattle.

Where much meat is prepared for use on the farm it will be best to provide such tools as are necessary. Get a seven-inch curved skinning knife, a meat saw and a block and tackle with six-inch pulleys. Have the tackle suspended from the limb of a tree or some cross beam. Secure the animal by means of a rope so that it cannot get away and stun completely by a heavy blow with an ax, or shooting has the same effect. Bleed by sticking the animal just in front of the sternum or breast bone. Lay open the skin from the breast bone, ten or twelve inches toward the chin. Insert the knife with back toward the breast bone and point of knife toward the spinal column at top of shoulders. Cut just under the windpipe and about five or six inches deep the vein and artery which cross at this point, and if they are severed the blood will flow out very rapidly. Not as much skill is required to cut the animal's throat back of the jaws, but it is at the expense of quick bleeding. Begin skinning as the carcass lies on its side by splitting the skin through the center of the face from poll to nose. Skin the face over the eyes on both sides and down over the cheeks and cut around the base of the horns, leaving the ears on the hide. Split the skin from the chin down the throat to breast bone. Skin on the sides of the neck and down to jaws. Remove the head by cutting just back of the jaws toward the depression back of poll. It may be easily unjointed with the knife. Roll the carcass on its back and it may be held in place by chunks of wood placed on each side of the shoulders or by a stick three feet long sharpened on end and inserted in the side of the brisket and the other end in the ground. Split the skin over the back of forelegs from the dew claws to the back of the knee. Skin around the knee and shin and unjoint the knee at lowest joint clear down to the hoof. Cut across the cord of hind foot to relax the foot. Split the skin from dew claws to the hock, removing the leg at the lowest joint of the hock. Split the skin over the thigh, from hock to center line of udder. After legs are skinned, split the skin over middle line from breast to rectum. Begin at the flanks and skin along the mid-line until the side is nicely started, then remove the skin down over sides, holding skin up tight with left hand and with steady down strokes of knife with other hand skin down as far as possible on each side and also buttocks. Open the carcass at the belly with a knife. Open the brisket and pelvis with a saw or sharp ax. Now raise the carcass by your block and tackle to a convenient height and remove the hide over the thighs, rump and hips. While in this position loosen rectum and small intestines and let them drop down over the paunch. The intestines are attached to the liver, from which they may be separated with a knife. Remove the paunch and raise the carcass higher. Take out the liver, lungs and heart and finish skinning over the shoulders, arms and neck. Split the carcass in halves with a saw, if one can be had, or use a cleaver or sharp ax. Wash the carcass thoroughly and wipe dry. Leave the beef to cool before quartering.—E. Myer, Tarrant Co., Texas, in Farmers' Review.

The Value of Mutton.

Prof. M. Cummings, of the Ontario Agricultural College, says: As to the valuable part of the mutton carcass, the highest prices are paid for the leg, the loin and the back. The precise valuation varies in different markets and at different times of the year. At the present time in the Chicago market, the highest price is paid for the hotel rack, which runs from the third to the twelfth rib. The next highest price is paid for the leg, and then the loin. In our markets, and in the average markets of the world, the highest prices are paid for the leg, then the loin, and then the rib. That serves to indicate that, in judging mutton sheep, a little more stress should be laid upon the leg than upon the same part in beef cattle. As far as our test here is concerned, the aim has been to put the highest premium on the highest class mutton, and the judgment has inclined towards the slightly fat rather than the lean carcass. A good piece of mutton should be fairly fat, perhaps rather more so than is consistent with beef; at the same time, there should be as much natural flesh as possible.

Hairiness of Clover.

The hairiness of clover is the cause of much of the dust that is sometimes found in clover hay. It is possible that before many years we will have all kinds of clovers that are without hairiness. Some of the European clovers have not this hairiness and they are being grown in the United States at the present time with the idea of developing kinds that shall not have this drawback. As yet little work has been done in the line of hybridization.

WOMEN WHO SUFFER

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the One Remedy Particularly Suited For Feminine Ills.

To women who suffer Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are worth their weight in gold. At special periods a woman needs medicine to regulate her blood supply or her life will be a round of pain and suffering. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are absolutely the finest medicine that ever a woman took. They actually make new blood. They are good for men too —but they are good in a special way for women.

"It was three years ago last spring that my health failed me," says Mrs Arthur Conklin, of No. 5 Coldwater street, Battle Creek, Mich. "I suffered from leucorrhœa and other troubles that, I presume, were caused by the weakness it produced. I had sinking spells, nervous headaches, was weak and exhausted all the time and looked like a walking skeleton.

"My back and limbs would ache almost continually and there were days when I was absolutely helpless from sick headache. I tried one doctor after another but cannot say that they helped me at all. My liver was sluggish and I was troubled some with constipation.

"One day a physician who has now retired from practice met my husband on the street and inquired about my health. He advised my husband to get some of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for me, said they were a good medicine, better for my trouble than he could put up. I tried them, improved steadily and soon was entirely cured. As soon as the leucorrhœa was cured the headaches and other pains stopped. I am entirely well now but intend to continue to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a spring tonic."

The genuine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists and by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Coeducation.

A well-known university professor has a dilemma in which he is wont to entrap advocates of coeducation.

"If you lecture to twenty boys and twenty girls in the same room," he asks, "will the boys attend to the lecture or to the girls?"

"Of course the coeducationist, to be consistent, must say that they will listen to the lecture.

"Well, if they do," replies the dean, "they are not worth lecturing to."—

SHE WORKS ON AT 80.

Mother of Olympia's Captain in the Land Office.

There are some fine old women in the service of the federal government, and not the least of them is Mrs. Ann Gridley, a clerk in the land office at Washington. A short time ago she celebrated the eightieth anniversary of her birth. Mrs. Gridley is the widow of a gallant naval officer, who lost his life in the fight between the Monitor and the Merrimac. Her son was that brave captain of the Olympic who figured in the battle of Manila. For forty years Mrs. Gridley has worked faithfully at her desk, never missing a day from her duties. She is always an honored guest in Admiral Dewey's home on Manila day, May 1, and for two years she has been escorted to the banquet by the admiral himself. Mrs. Gridley scorns the idea of old-age pensions, and says she will keep on working until she reaches the century mark. The death of her grandson two years ago saddened the old woman more than any of her previous troubles; but she has brightened up, and on her recent anniversary she held a levee.—New York Press.

A New Being.

Shephard, Ill., Jan. 8th (Special)—Mrs. Sarah E. Rowe, who is residing here, says she feels like "A New Being," although she is in her fifty-seventh year. Why? because she has taken Dodd's Kidney Pills, that well known medicine that has put new life into old bodies, and has come as a God-send into homes of sorrow and suffering. She says:—

"No one knows what awful torture I suffered with Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble, until I got cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills. This grand remedy drove the Rheumatism out of my body, nothing else ever did me any good. Dodd's Kidney Pills are worth one hundred times their price, for they have made me, though I am fifty-seven years old, a new being. I am in better shape now than I have been for many years, and I owe it all to Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Cheek of a Stowaway.

Young Capt. Sealby of the Mediterranean liner Cretic was talking about stowaways.

"Most of those fellows," he said, in his deep, resonant voice, "have an excessive quantity of cheek, of brass. Once we discovered a stowaway a few days out from New York and put him to work in the galley.

"A lady, on a tour of inspection, paused by the stowaway, as he sat peeling potatoes.

"'How soon do you think we'll reach Naples?' she said to him.

"'Well, madam,' he replied, 'I'm doing all I can to get her in by Tuesday.'"

Brazil's Blue Butterflies.

The exceedingly high prices often asked and paid for butterflies are rendered possible by the extreme uncertainty of the market. There is no means of knowing how long a butterfly will remain a rarity. It may continue unique for a quarter of a century or it may become common in the course of a few months. A case in point is that of a beautiful blue butterfly from Brazil. When the first specimens of this butterfly were sent to England some years ago they readily sold for $50 or more apiece. Since then, however, collectors have sent it home in numbers, and the price has fallen to a paltry 60 cents.

OPEN PUBLICITY THE BEST GUARANTY OF MERIT.

When the maker of a medicine, sold through druggists for family use, takes his patients fully into his confidence by frankly and fearlessly publishing broadcast as well as on its bottle wrappers, a full list of all its ingredients in plain English, this action on his part is the best possible evidence that he is not afraid to have the search light of investigation turned full upon his formula and that it will bear the fullest scrutiny and the most thorough investigation. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the cure of the weaknesses, periodical pains and functional derangements of the organs distinctly feminine, is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for woman's special use, the maker of which is not afraid to take his patients into his full confidence by such open and honest publicity.

A glance at the published ingredients on each bottle wrapper, will show that it is made wholly from native, American, medicinal roots, that it contains no poisonous or habit-forming drugs, no narcotics and no alcohol—pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength being used instead of the commonly employed alcohol, both for extracting and preserving the active medicinal properties found in the roots of the American forest plants employed. It is the only medicine for women's peculiar diseases, sold by druggists, that does not contain a large percentage of alcohol, which is in the long run so harmful to woman's delicate, nervous system. Now, glycerine is perfectly harmless, and serves a valuable purpose by possessing intrinsic value all its own, and besides it enhances the curative effect of the other ingredients entering into the "Favorite Prescription."

Some of the ablest medical writers and teachers endorse these views and praise all the several ingredients of which "Favorite Prescription" is composed—recommending them for the cure of the very same diseases for which this world-famed medicine is advised. No other medicine for women has any such professional endorsement—worth more than any number of ordinary testimonials. If interested, send name and address to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for his little book of extracts from the works of eminent medical writers and teachers, endorsing the several ingredients and telling just what Dr. Pierce's medicines are made of. It's free for the asking.

VOL. VIII—NO. 13. RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 18, 1906. WHOLE NO. 379.

THE WATER POWER TO BE EXTENDED

A Project on Foot to Transmit Electric Current From Red Lake Falls to Grand Forks.

Mr. E. L. Healy who for some time has been at work interesting Eastern capital in the utilization of the tremendous power of his dam which now practically goes to waste in nearing the goal of his ambition and possibly by next summer Red Lake Falls will be furnishing electric and motor power to Grand Forks as well as local power for this city.

The Grand Forks Herald of the 13th in commenting on the matter has this to say:

"Ed. L. Healy, who owns a large water power and a flouring mill at Red Lake Falls, will ask the Grand Forks city council for an electric light franchise, granting the use of the streets and alleys for transmitting electricity for lighting and power purposes.

"Mr. Healy was in the city yesterday, accompanied by A. H. Savage, St. Paul manager for the Ft. Wayne Electric company, and while here interviewed a number of the aldermen on the subject of a franchise. Should Mr. Healy be given a franchise he will transmit an electric current from Red Lake Falls to Grand Forks, a distance of thirty-five miles. Three wires will be used for that purpose, for use should one of the wires become disabled, and in the large plant that he will put in at Red Lake Falls there will be a duplicate set af machinery for use in case any part of the plant should become disabled from any cause. Mr. Healy and Mr. Savage figure that an electric current can be transmitted that distance with a loss of not to exceed 6 per cent.

Into St. Paul electricity is transmitted a distance of forty miles with such a loss and there is no reason why the loss should be greate in this case.

"Whether application will be made for a franchise at the next meeting of the city council has not been determined, but one will be asked for within a very few weeks at the farthest, and should it be granted Mr. Healy figures that he will be furnishing electric current to Grand Forks patrons by midsummer.

"A power house will be erected at Red Lake Falls at a cost of a hundred thousand dollars, and Mr. Healy promises that the plant will be as modern as experience and money will make it."

COMMISSIONERS TO MEET

A special session of the county commissioners will be held at the court house tomorrow for the purpose of letting the contract to build a bridge across the Red Lake river at Huot, in section 28. Several contractors are on hand prepared to make bids for its construction.

The Proper Way To Cook Rice.

North Star Health Union voted to send free to interested parties a printed recipe for cooking rice in twenty minutes in an ordinary sauce pan, leaving rice three times its size, whole, snowy white, light, dry and more palatable than cooked in any other way, no utensils or rice for sale. Address J. Weis, 318 Phoenix Bldg., St. Paul, Minn. Return postage enclosed, agreeable not demanded.

NEXT BAND CONCERT PROGRAM ELABORATE

The Band Boys Have Another Musical Treat In Store For Red Lake Falls People.

Prof. Miller this week announces the program for the next monthly concert to be given at the opera house on Friday, the 26th. As will be seen it comprises of selections that are exceptionally meritorious and the boys are assidiously practicing to make this concert the prize winner of the season. Owing to the illness of two or three of the band's clever players and the lack of heat in the hall the last concert was not up to the usual standard, but the management has assured that the audience need not fear a repetition—and the band boys will see to that the audience will have no cause for regret in attending. Following is the program and the program starts promptly at 8:30 o'clock:

MORE WORK FOR SOME.

Thief River Falls Press: Settlers living on the reservation south of the Red Lake river report that deer are unusually numerous in that vicinity this winter and that it is no uncommon thing to see two or three around most every hay stack. Andy Smith and L. J. Higgins report having seen eight together one day last week. Mr. Smith says that the deer have eaten up most of his hay and believes that Game Warden Fullerton should send a deputy out in that section next year to cut hay for the deer, as the settlers are becoming out of patience with the animals and may violate the game laws if things continue as they are now.

HAS PAPER TO READ

Dr. Argue left Monday for Fargo where he had been invited to deliver a paper before the Fargo District Dental society, which convened there on the 16th and 17th, the subject being "Porcelain Inlay." Dr. Argue has acquired a wide reputation on this class of work among the dental profession and his paper on that subject will naturally be of great interest to those attending the meeting. This gathering of dentists will be a notable one as it is proposed to organize the Fargo district into a North Dakota Dental association.

ANOTHER FAMILY QUARANTINED

Notwithstanding the extraordinary precautions taken by the health board and the close observance of its provisions by the Healy family who was recently released from quarantine from scarlet fever the disease has again broken out and a young daughter of Jas. Carver, living in the neighborhood is now down with the disease. It is in a mild form and the patient is getting along very nicely.

NOTICE.

Sealed bids will be received by the undersigned until January 20th 1906, for one hundred and fifty cords of green poplor and fifteen cords of green oak. All of which is to be delivered at the school buildings in this city, on or before March 1st, 1906. By order of the board of education. —A. P. Toupin, Secy.

HOUSEHOLD GOODS FOR SALE.

Owing to the fact that I am going to leave the city I offer my household goods, which are practically as good as new, at a most reasonable figure. This is a snap.

THE SOCIAL WHIRL OF THE WEEK.

Society Doings the Past Few Days Have Been Many and Joy Has Reigned Supreme.

Social events have been coming thick and fast the past week in Red Lake Falls and it has been one continual roune of pleasure and gayity.

The basket social and dance given by the M. B. A., Monday evening at the Kaus hall was a notable event and after the baskets were sold dancing and good cheer prevailed until in the early morning hours. The baskets brought something over $80 and the lodge members feel very pleased over the outcome.

The Modern Woodmen of America held a public installation of officers at their hall Wednesday evening after which followed a dance. The Royal Neighbors provided the lunch and to say they brought forth the best in the culinary skill would be but a half told story. It was an enjoyable occasion and both old and young will long remember it.

Mrs. E. F. Marshall and the Misses Effie Hamry and Pauline Nieland entertained over 50 couples at a dancing party at the opera house Wednesday evening which proved one of the most delightful social occasions of the new year. The music by the orchestra under the leadership of Mr. Berthon was superb.

A 12 o'clock lunch was served the guests at the Grand View hotel and the service by Mr. Kreuger was perfect in all of its appointments. Covers were laid for 109 people.

The hostesses of the evening are certainly charming entertainers and the attention given every guest proved them equal to what must have been a difficult, though to them, a pleasant one.

E. J. Regan, assistant road master of this division, was happily entertained at his home Thursday evening, the occasion being his 50th birthday. His neighbors and friends attending met with a cordial welcome and all wish him many a happy return of his natal day.

Mr. and Mrs. Bray entertained a number of their friends Wednesday evening. The generous hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Bray is so well known that it is needless to say the guests were royally entertained.

A bunch of young people from this city drove out to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Patnode, of Gervais, Monday evening, it being Mrs. Patnode's birthday. A very enjoyable evening was spent in dancing, their commodious residence being amply large to admit of a dancing party.

DAIRYING SPREADING.

Red Lake county farmers who only a few years ago thought of nothing but raising wheat and who depended upon nothing else as returns for their labor are following in the footsteps of prosperous southern Minnesota farmers in turning some of their efforts to diversity and the creamery industry is fast becoming known as a sure source of income the year round. The farmers in the neighborhood of Graygla, in Marshall county, have arranged for the establishment of a creamery and have already placed an order for modern machinery. More cows and less wheat should be the slogan for Red Lake county farmers.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE.

J. M. Richards, manager of the Crookston Lumber Co., had a narrow escape from death in the West hotel fire. Mr. Richards had a room on the sixth floor and was awakened by the smoke and heat. He smashed the window of his room and climb onto the narrow window ledge where he stayed until the firemen could reach him. By keeping cool and encouraged by the crowds below he undoubtedly owes his life.

The News of the Week

From the Capital.

The state department has received a cablegram from Nicaragua announcing that the Alber brothers, who have been in prison, have been pardoned by the Nicaraguan government.

A bill was introduced by Representative Burke of South Dakota appropriating $3,600 for the benefit of a half-dozen Sioux chiefs who rescued six white captives in the custody of the White Lodge Sioux Indians at the mouth of the Grand river in Dakota territory in November, 1862.

Civil service rules and regulations will not hereafter apply, so far as the isthmian canal commission is concerned, to the employment of what is termed in a general way "outside men;" that is, track layers, skilled laborers, foremen, etc. To other classes of employes—stenographers, clerks, bookkeepers and other "inside men"—the civil service rules will continue to apply.

Crimes.

Bank robbers blew open the safes in the bank at Jefferson, S. D., but failed to secure any money. The robbers escaped.

A daring holdup took place at Basin, Mont., when two masked men entered the saloon of Hays Axtell and escaped with $1,000.

Attorneys for Johann Hock, who is in the Cook county jail at Chicago, under sentence of death for wife murder, filed in the state supreme court a motion for a rehearing of the case.

Pat Crowe was arraigned in the district court at Omaha on the charge of robbing E. A. Cudahy of $25,000 in the kidnapping case. He pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for Feb. 7. His bond was fixed at $7,000.

Leonard B. Imboden and James A. Hill, convicted of conspiracy to wreck the Denver Savings bank and convert its funds to their use, were sentenced by Judge Palmer in the district court to be confined in the state prison from nine to ten years at hard labor.

Alaysius Jaeger, confined in the county hospital at San Francisco, as the result of a self-inflicted gunshot wound, has confessed that at Sioux City, Iowa, seventeen years ago, he robbed the American Express company of $1,000. He desires to surrender.

Domingo Bocurt, an old negro, and Victor Molinifi, a mulatto, were garroted in the prison at Havana. Both men were regarded as witches by their associates. Their crime was the hideous murder of a white baby, Zolla Diaz, for the purpose of procuring the heart of a white female child, which the witches prescribed as a poultice for a certain woman as a cure for barrenness.

Accidental Happenings.

In the destruction by fire of their home at Cove, Pa., Robert Adams, his wife and two children were burned to death. The fire resulted from a defective flue.

The stable and yards of the Overland Freight and Transfer company at San Francisco were partially destroyed by fire. Twenty horses, many vehicles and a quantity of valuable freight were burned. Loss, $100,000.

Information was brought to Lewiston, Pa., recently, that Isaac Saylor, his daughter, Mrs. Peter Martin, and her five children were burned to death at their home in Pleasant View, Juaniata county. Charles Saylor and his wife escaped.

Fire of probably incendiary origin broke out in the kitchen of the Morrison cafe in the Marquardt building at Des Moines, destroyed the cafe and caused $100,000 damage to the block and contents. Most of the loss is covered by insurance.

After seeing Joseph Hanson, twelve years old, break through the ice while skating at Fairport, Mich., Willie Larkins, aged ten, ran to a farmhouse and failed to report the accident until three hours later. When rescuers reached the spot Hanson had disappeared.

Near Crane, Mo., while laborers on the Missouri Pacific extension to Springfield were thawing dynamite, the explosive caught fire. In attempting to save it one of the men kicked the dynamite and it exploded. William McNeal and Joe Kepoe were killed and several others were injured.

Foreign.

Emperor William is keeping his bed because of a slight cold. He is receiving the usual reports in his apartment.

Charles T. Ritchie, first Baron Ritchie, former chancellor of the exchequer, died at Biarretz, France. He was stricken with paralysis.

Prof. Kukula successfully performed at Prague university at Vienna the operation of separating the Siamese twins, Rose and Josefa Blazek, and thus made two persons out of one.

A body of reservists attacked the police station at Guayaquil, Ecuador. The police fired, dispersing the reservists, one of whom was killed and two were injured. Part of Col. Larrea's troops have gone over to the revolutionists. Col. Larrea has returned to Quito.

M. Doumner has been elected president of the chamber of deputies by a small majority over M. Sarrien. The result insures M. Doumer's candidacy for the presidency of the French republic Jan. 16, and also indicates M. Sarrien's growing strength as a presidential candidate.

A Paris cable car descended a decline at full speed, the brakes not working. The passengers jumped from the car and fifteen were injured, three of them dangerously.

William J. Bryan in a speech at Iloilo said that the officials and other citizens of the islands were representative Americans who have the best interests of the Philippines and natives at heart.

From Other Shores.

A Danforth, New York state treasurer from 1889 to 1893, is dead, aged fifty-five years.

J. Benoist of the firm of Track & Co has paid $7,500 for a seat on the St. Louis stock exchange. This is a record price for a seat on that exchange.

Ellis E. South, general agent at Terre Haute, Ind., of the Big Four railroad, was fatally injured by falling down the cellar stairs at his home.

Robert Henderson, who served with distinction during the Civil war, a well-known archeologist and a pioneer of Kansas, is dead, aged seventy-two years.

Gov. Warner of Michigan has received the resignation of Warden Vincent of Jackson prison. Business reasons are responsible for Mr. Vincent's resignation.

Hydrophobia, resulting from the bite of a pet dog six weeks ago, caused the death of Miss Julia Curtain, aged twenty-one, at the home of her parents in Philadelphia.

Notwithstanding their agreement to do so on Jan. 15, Western railroads have decided not to put in through rates on grain from Missouri river territory to the Eastern seaboard.

The Hotel Andwur and the block in which it was located at Elyria, Ohio, were destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at $120,000, the bulk of which is sustained by the hotel property.

James Conway, a farmer five miles east of McHenry, Ky., is dead as the result of eating a dozen large oranges and two dozen apples. The attempted gastronomic feat was the result of a $10 wager.

The owners in Mobile, Ala., of the Norwegian schooner Laguna, which sailed from Mississippi Point, Miss., on Sept. 1 for Colon, Panama, have given her up for lost. She carried a crew of nine men.

While making cuts through Kingsboro Heights, a suburb of Suffolk, Va., for the Tidewater railroad, a steam shovel unearthed the remains of a Union army officer in the Civil war. The epaulettes are in a fair state of preservation.

The largest donation to the conscience fund ever received in Philadelphia was handed to City Treasurer Schoch by a messenger boy. The package contained $1,295, and the unknown sender in a note stated that it was an overcharge for city work.

The case of Hong Wing against the United States, involving the Chinese exclusion act, was decided in favor of the United States in the United States circuit court of appeals in Cincinnati, the court holding that the act of April 7, 1904, continued the exclusion act in full force, congress having full power to do so.

Bethel hens, by their own unaided efforts, support four missionaries in Japan. At a meeting held by the Bethel Missionary society of Louisville, Ky., some months ago, it was decided that all the eggs laid by the hens on Sunday should be sold for the benefit of foreign missions. The hens have given the scheme their heartiest co-operation.

State Senator F. M. Molsberry of Des Moines introduced in the legislature an act providing for the appointment of a joint committee of the house and senate to conduct an investigation of the life insurance business, revise the statutes, frame new bills and report to the next general assembly, which meets next winter. The resolution went over under the rules.

The Rough Riders will send to Miss Alice Roosevelt on the occasion of her marriage to Congressman Longworth next month a handsome present. United States Marshal Colbert of Ardmore, Ind. Ter., secretary of the Rough Riders' association, who is behind the movement, has made a request upon each Rough Rider, including President Roosevelt, for a donation toward the present.

Chicago's tallest church, the largest religious edifice in the downtown district in any city in the world, soon will rise at Washington and Clark streets, if plans which have been undertaken are carried to completion. These plans contemplate a $1,000,000 skyscraper on the site now occupied by the First Methodist church. Within the great building will be a huge auditorium for the accommodation of the worshippers. The rest of the building will be devoted to offices.

A Cossack dressed in a fur cap and coat and wearing high-heeled boots, such as the soldiers of the czar are supposed to wear, appeared at the Eighty-fifth street gate of the Illinois Steel company's plant in Chicago, seeking employment, and was stoned by the employes.

COSSACKS TAKE REVENGE FOR ATTACK OF BOMB THROWERS.

DEATH MACHINES FOR WITTE

DISPATCHES TELL OF SERIOUS OUTBREAKS IN SIBERIA DURING STRIKE.

Tiflis, Caucasia, Jan. 14. — Nearly 350 persons were killed or injured as an outcome of an attack made by Cossacks yesterday on the Armenian seminary here, following the throwing of two bombs from that institution at a passing patrol. Four Cossacks were wounded and a boy killed by the explosion of the bombs.

Artillery was immediately called and the seminary was surrounded and shelled. The building soon burst into flames and bombs and cartridges stored therein exploded. Thirty-three persons perished during the fire, while 300 were injured by fire or wounded by shells.

The troops subsequently shelled another Armenian house where bombs and weapons were hidden and killed eight revolutionists.

Rebels Are Captured.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 14.—A detachment of infantry surrounded the town of Novominsk, Russian Poland, at daybreak yesterday and captured a large number of revolutionists.

The Nasha Shisn says Admiral Doubassoff, governor general of Moscow, will succeed Count von Vorontzoff-Dashkoff as viceroy of the Caucasus. The Novoe Vremya says that the official figures show that 282 persons were killed during the recent uprising at Moscow.

Infernal Machine for Witte.

Infernal machines, addressed to Premier Witte, Interior Minister Durnovo and other high officials, which have been discovered in the postoffice, indicate that a regular group of terrorists is at work, but the efforts of the police to trace their whereabouts thus far have been unavailing.

Serious in Siberia.

The first advices received from Siberia after the restoration of telegraphic communication show that the most critical conditions prevailed there during the recent strike, but that now, with the arrival of reliable troops from Manchuria, the worst is over.

Divisions under Gen. Sukhotin have now arrived and taken possession of Irkutsk, Omsk, Krasnozarsk and other towns and are arresting the leaders of the insurgents and disarming the unreliable troops. The first telegram arriving from Irkutsk was a from the financial agent there for some one to take over the administration of the city, the viceroy, the chief of police and all other officials having been killed or wounded during the insurrection. He reported that for several days the revolutionists were in control of the entire town except the administration building, and this was only held because of the devotion of the military school, who swore on the colors to fight to the death against the revolutionists.

Plan One-Day Strike.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 14.—The workmen's council, after consultation with the leaders of the other proletariat organizations, yesterday decided that the celebration of the anniversary of Jan. 22 ("red Sunday") should take the form of a general pacific strike for a single day. Delegates were appointed to go to France, Germany and England as well as other places abroad for the purpose of thanking the workers of those countries who propose to join in a general observance of the anniversary.

JAILED FOR STEALING BIBLE.

Thief Expresses Familiarity With the Decalogue.

St. Louis, Jan. 14.—James P. King, who stole a Bible from a store, entered a plea of guilty when brought before Judge Moore yesterday afternoon.

"Do you know the commandments?" inquired the court.

"Oh, yes," answered King.

"Is there such advice therein as 'Thou shalt not steal?'"

"Yes, sir; I am familiar with that."

"But you don't follow it," commented the court, and before King could reply Judge Moore sentenced him to twenty days in the workhouse at hard labor.

FAVORS STAR ISLAND BILL.

Senate Committee Reports Favorably on Nelson's Bill.

Washington, Jan. 14. — The senate committee on public lands yesterday reported favorably the bill introduced by Senator Nelson, ceding to the State of Minnesota for park or forestry purposes Star island in Cass lake. The measure provides that if the state ever ceases to use the island for the purposes stated the title shall revert to the federal government.

OIL MAGNATE GETS DELAY

ROGERS OFFERS PLEA THAT COUNSEL IS ENGAGED IN ANOTHER COURT.

New York, Jan. 14.—Before Justice Gildersleeve, in the New York supreme court yesterday, counsel for H. H. Rogers of the Standard Oil company, were successful in securing postponement until this morning of the rule against Mr. Rogers to show cause why he should not be compelled to answer certain questions asked by Attorney General Herbert S. Hadley of Missouri, in the hearing in this city.

Mr. Hadley, through counsel, strongly opposed the postponement on the plea that it was necessary for Mr. Hadley to close the hearing to-day in order that he might meet court engagements in the West on Monday. The delay was secured through a plea that one of Mr. Rogers' counsel had a case on hearing in another court. Attorney General Hadley resumed the hearing before Commissioner Sanborn yesterday afternoon, and A. V. Jockel, formerly of the Standard Oil company and later with the Waters-Pierce company in Oklahoma City, was again called as a witness. He refused to answer a question asked by one of the oil company's attorneys. He said he did so on advice of counsel.

FIRE IN BIG HOTEL.

Manager and Steward Receive Serious Injuries.

Montreal, Que., Jan. 14.—A section of the Windsor hotel was destroyed by fire last night, causing a loss estimated at $150,000. The remainder of the hotel, which is one of the largest in Canada, was saved by heavy brick walls and fireproof doors which confined the flames to the section where they originated. The guests had plenty of time to remove their belongings and at no time was there anything like a panic. Manager Weldon and Steward Dunn were injured. Their clothing caught fire, and a heavy beam fell on Mr. Weldon. Both will recover.

CAVALRYMAN FALLS DEAD.

Soldier at Fort Meade Is Victim of Heart Disease.

Sturgis, S. D., Jan. 14. — Jay H. Speers, twenty-two years old and a soldier in H troop, Sixth cavalry, Fort Meade, died last night while on his way out of the city with other boys of the troop. Death was due to heart disease. The authorities at the post were notified. Spears is said to have relatives in Detroit, Mich.

FOX PELT FOR MISS ALICE.

Fur Valued at $500 Shipped East From Wisconsin.

Janesville, Wis., Jan. 14. — Lucian Kennedy, a fur collector, yesterday shipped to New York a silver fox pelt valued at $500, which will be a wedding gift to Miss Roosevelt from a wealthy New Yorker. Crowds have viewed the pelt here, which was purchased from a Canadian trapper for a small sum.

FLOOR COLLAPSED.

Ten Firemen Are Precipitated Twenty Feet at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Jan. 14.—With a crash which was heard blocks away, the floor of an annex in the rear of the plant of the Rock Island Battery company, on Sixth street, fell yesterday, carrying ten firemen twenty feet into the cellar and injuring four and bruising the others. The accident followed an all night battle with the fire that destroyed the plant, causing a loss of $50,000.

SCHOONER CAPSIZES AT SEA—STEAMER'S PASSENGERS IN PANIC.

San Francisco, Jan. 14.—Struggling desperately all the night against a terrific southwest gale that swept upon the coast Thursday afternoon, the tug Sea Rover clung to a dredger and two lighters, upon which were thirty-five workmen bound for San Pedro, until it was beaten back in the seething breakers on Duxbury reef and was compelled to abandon the unwieldy craft and their human freight to their fate.

Before leaving her charges, however, the Sea Rover succeeded in saving eight of the men on the barges, several of whom jumped into the sea and swam to the tug. One or two were seriously injured. The other twenty-seven men succeeded in reaching the shore of Bolinas bay in the small boats which were carried on the dredges and lighters. The Sea Rover returned yesterday afternoon to the scene of the accident in an attempt to save from a total loss the dredges, valued at $100,000, and the lighters, each of which is worth from $15,000 to $20,000.

Lost With All Hands.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 14.—The schooner Samuel L. Russell of Norfolk lies capsized in lower Chesapeake bay. The five men of her crew are missing and are believed to have drowned. The schooner, lumber laden, sailed from Norfolk for Baltimore in tow of the tug Volunteer. The tug was towing a barge and behind this the schooner.

A heavy show was falling when the tug with her tow passed up the bay. The master of the towing tug is said to have reported upon arriving at Baltimore with the barge that the schooner's crew cut her adrift from the tug in the storm. It is believed that this was done because the schooner was leaking under the strain of towing and her master believed she would ride more easily under sail.

Passengers in Panic.

Philadelphia, Jan. 14. — The South Brigantine life saving crew reports that a steamship ashore near that station is the Clyde liner Cherokee from San Domingo for New York. The vessel is undamaged. The life savers found the passengers on board the Cherokee in a panic, demanding to be taken off immediately. After assuring them that they were in no immediate peril the life savers stood by the steamer to be ready for any emergency.

The Cherokee rolled badly on account of a heavy sea. Tugs from Atlantic City will try to put her into deep water at high tide.

ROBBERS USE WAGONS.

Carry Off Stock of Store After Knocking Down Proprietor.

East St. Louis, Ill., Jan. 14. — Six men drove two wagons up to the general store of Halifax & Lewis yesterday afternoon, knocked down John Halifax and guarded him with a knife while the store was looted and considerable stock loaded into the wagons. The six escaped but were pursued and arrested. They gave their names as James Gallagher, John S. Sweeney, Conrad Hart, Frank Fitzgerald, Oliver Stearns and William T. Miller, and refused to discuss the robbery.

INDIANA OFFICIAL ARRESTED.

Ex-Auditor Sherrick Charged With Embezzlement and Conspiracy.

Indianapolis, Jan. 14. — David E. Sherrick, former auditor of state, was arrested yesterday on two additional indictments, charging him with embezzlement and conspiracy to commit a felony. The trial of Mr. Sherrick has been set for Feb. 5. Bond was given in the sum of $10,000.

BOY SHOT IN THE EYE.

Lad Accidentally Wounded Will Be Partially Blind.

La Crosse, Wis., Jan. 14. — While hunting rabbits yesterday afternoon in a swamp, Joseph Marteau, aged sixteen years, shot Percy Lovejoy, aged seventeen, accidentally. A number of bird shot lodged in the boy's right eye, which had to be removed to save the sight of the other.

THREE TOTS BURNED TO DEATH.

Locked In House by Their Mother and Unable to Escape.

Pittsburg, Kan., Jan. 14. — Three Belgian children, the oldest of whom was six years old, were burned to death at the Cornell Coal company fields, five miles northeast of here yesterday, in a fire which destroyed the home of their mother, Mrs. A. Guerin. The mother upon leaving the house for a few moments, locked all the doors so that the children would have to stay inside.

GROWING GRAIN IN NEARBY STATES

Five Northwestern States Lead in Production of Grains Other Than Wheat—Barley, Oats, Rye and Flax at Front.

While the great crops in Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Iowa and Wisconsin are wheat and corn, these states are far in the lead in the production of barley, oats, rye and flax seed.

While we, in the United States, know little or nothing about barley bread, it was for centuries the bread food of all of Europe. Until the last half century it was only the wealthy classes of Europe that could afford to use wheat bread. Great armies were fed on bread made from barley, and it was the important crop of nearly all European nations, just as wheat and corn is our most important crop to-day. A failure of the barley crop would have meant to them what a failure of the wheat or corn crop would mean to us at the present time. With us, however, barley was never used as a bread food, and is important only because of its use in the manufacture of malt liquor. Its usefulness, however, for this purpose is fast growing, and for many years past the production of barley has been on the increase.

In 1900 Minnesota as said to be the second greatest of the barley states, raising 24,750,000 bushels of that cereal, while California, which had the greatest crop, only raised 25,100,000 bushels. In 1900 Wisconsin came third, with 18,700,000 bushels, and Iea fourth, with 18,100,000 bushels, while North and South Dakota both harvested a fair-sized crop. This year Minnesota and the two Dakotas raised between them 63,634,000 bushels of of barley, while Iowa and Wisconsin did almost as well.

The value of any crop, of course, depends upon the use there is for it. In California we find that barley is fed to the horses as feed, being a greater crop in that state by five times than oats, and being too far removed from the great breweries of the country to be of use in the manufacture of beer and other malt liquor. The great crop of barley grown in the five states above mentioned, however, all finds its way to the great breweries, and nearly every bushel of it that is not used as food by man is turned into beer and malt liquor of other sorts. The greatest breweries in the country are, as every one knows, those found at Milwaukee and St. Louis. But there are some large breweries at St. Paul and Minneapolis, and many small ones scattered all over the Central Northwest. For this reason the barley crop is one of great value to the farmers of this section of the country. The barley crop of Minnesota and the two Dakotas is valued at $23,429,854 to the farmers this season.

The history of barley in Minnesota shows that there has been a steady increase in this cereal since 1850, in which year the crop was only 1,216 bushels. Ten years later it was 109,668 bushels, and in 1870 1,032,024 were harvested. In 1880 the crop reached 2,972,965 bushels, and ten years later was 9,100,682 bushels. In 1900 the great crop of 24,314,240 bushels was harvested.

The largest increase in the production of barley in the United States during the ten years from 1889 to 1899 was in Minnesota. The increase was 15,213,557 bushels more than the crop harvested in 1889.

Fifty years ago the center of barley production was just east of the center of the state of New York. To-day it is near the junction of Iowa and South Dakota, 1,500 miles further west.

An interesting feature connected with barley is the fact that for the last year thousands of Japanese soldiers have been living upon it and fighting great battles on it just as Napoleon's soldiers did a hundred years ago. A great deal of barley is now being shipped to Japan and the Philippines, and it is quite possibie that in the near future we will be raising barley as an Eastern export.

The present year saw a harvest of 33,487,100 bushels of barley in Minnesota, 685,000 bushels in North Dakota and 390,006 bushels in South Dakota, valued at $23,429,854 to the farmers.

Another crop that is of great importance in the five states about which we are writing is flax. In this cereal North Dakota stands first, with 17,328,000 bushels, valued at $15,595,200, and Minnesota second, with 6,786,000 bushels, valued at $6,175,260; South Dakota produced 3,737,500 bushels, valued at $3,326,375.

A review of the history of these states show that flax has been raised in Minnesota and the Dakotas all during the fifty years past, and like barley has been on the increase since the very first. There is less reliable statistical information obtainable about this crop than there is about any of the other crops ,but every one admits that it is one of the Northwest's most important crops. The crop of 1905 was the largest in the history of the Northwest, and the outlook is that the crop will be even larger next year, although the real figures cannot be guessed until December.

There are, however, several very good reasons why this should be so. Much of the crop is used within the State of Minnesota, where there is at least six great linseed oil mills and several small ones. This state alone last year crushed out 18,750,000 gallons of the oil and made 150,000 tons of oilcake. Much of the product is exported to all parts of the world, the greater part of it going to Europe. Antwerp, Glasgow and Hamburg are some of the heaviest buyers.

Much of the flax crop of these states is shipped by rail to Duluth, 15,322,003 bushels arriving at that port last season. All Eastern mills keep buyers at Duluth, and each year millions of bushels of flax cross the great lakes to Chicago and Buffalo and other lake ports from where it finds its way to the many linseed oil mills of the East.

While the United States grows over one-fourth of all the flax grown in the world, Minnesota and the two Dakotas grow over 80 per cent of our national crop.

Whether or not rye whisky or corn is the finest in the world is largely a matter of taste. But that Wisconsin grows the largest crop of rye in the United States is a matter of fact. Wisconsin grows over 5,000,000 bushels of rye each year and Minnesota and Iowa are both found among the ten leading rye states, each growing over a million bushels every year. This season Minnesota and the two Dakotas grew between them 2,945,631 bushels of rye, which had a value of $1,206,118 to the farmers of those states.

While rye is the least important of all the grain crops of the Northwest the rye area in Minnesota and the two Dakotas has increased every year for several years past. Most of that which is raised in these states is shipped to the Eastern and Southern states where the big distilleries are found. Much of it, however, is milled in Minnesota, and comes to us in the form of rye bread and other foods.

Rye may have a much greater future in this section of the country than a great many people think at present. There are many farmers in the state who look forward to the time when they shall grow a much greater crop of rye than they are now doing.

The most important crop raised in the five states named, after wheat, is oats. This, however, was not so until very recently. Only about two years ago began the great expansion in oats. For fifty years Minnesota had produced oats, and the Dakotas had raised this cereal ever since they were settled. In Minnesota oats jumped from 68,809,174 bushels raised in 1903 to 87,887,000 bushels raised in 1905. In the two Dakotas the increase was about as great. The yield for Minnesota this year was nearly forty bushels to the acre. Those who have traced the stimulus of the oats expansion say that it came from both the East and the West. One reason for it was that a great oats market had been established at Minneapolis, right in the heart of the oats-producing states of the Northwest. To this market have come the buyers for the great cereal houses of the country.

Wherever a great war is on, the demand for oats increases. It was so in the Civil war. Before 1861 the production of oats in this country had been becoming less and less with each year. In 1862 it was found to be greatly increased. The war in the far East no doubt increased very largely the demand for oats, hence the increase in that cereal. At first it would look as though this was a mistaken conclusion at which to arrive, as a war would not have the tendency to increase the number of horses and mules to eat the oats. But just as a man when he enlists as a soldier and goes into the field is put upon a straight ration of bread and beef and beans, so is a horse or a mule put upon a straight ration for oats. For this reason a war creates a great demand for oats. During the last two years millions of bushels of oats raised in Minnesota and the two Dakotas have been shipped to the Orient and the Philippines. The oats crop in Minnesota and the two Dakotas this year was worth $37,946,100 to the farmers.

It may be interesting to know the manner in which the center of oats production came West. In 1850 the center of the oats production was eighty miles east by south of Columbus, Ohio, and ten years later had reached a point forty-eight miles southeast of Cleveland, Ohio. The year 1870 saw te center of production thirty miles west by south of Fort Wayne, Ind., and in 1880 it was only sixty-two miles southwest of Chicago. The year 1890 saw it thirty miles north of Peoria, Ill. The year 1890 saw it reach Iowa at a point fifty-eight miles north of Burlington. To-day it is a little farther to the Northwest. In 1850 only 150,600,000 bushels of oats were raised in the United States. This year over 1,000,000 bushels were raised.

Taken all together, the principal field crops of Minnesota and the two Dakotas for this year are valued at $262,249,747. And that only includes wheat, oats, corn, flax, rye and barley. Is it any wonder that the jobbers of St. Paul report that the country merchants are buying greater stocks of all sorts of goods than they have ever before done, and that prices are firm in all lines, and collections good? Every jobber in St. Paul reports that he cannot supply the demand for goods fast enough, and that the entire West has the money to buy all manner of goods that our jobbing houses sell.

HILL TO PAY ONE-THIRD

DRAINAGE SYSTEM WILL GREATLY INCREASE VALUE OF RED RIVER VALLEY LANDS.

INTERSTATE EFFORT ASKED

PRESIDENT OF THE GREAT NORTHERN MAKES SPEECH AT GRAND FORKS.

Grand Forks, N. D.—President James J. Hill, of the Great Northern railway, gave a practical demonstration of his interest in drainage when he offered to pay a third of the cost of getting the work started right.

"If it costs $30,000," he said, "count on me for $10,000, or whatever the cost is."

The announcement was greeted with great applause and the question, "What's the matter with Jim Hill?" was answered with a thunderous chorus, "He's all right!"

Mr. Hill's address was the feature of the session of the state's drainage convention. The Metropolitan opera house was packed to the doors. It was an audience of men—there was a bare sprinkling of women—men who were there for the practical purpose of learning how to better themselves materially, and they listened eagerly to Mr. Hill's address, which was of the good, practical kind he always makes, full of meat from beginning to end. Mr. Hill was introduced at the meeting by Chairman J. L. Cassel of Grafton "as the father of drainage, the man who paved the way to the coast, and who opened markets across the sea."

Mr. Hill said:

"I am not going to flatter you to-day. It is too cold to pass you bouquets. I came here to add my voice, while I have any left, to what is being said, and with the hope that more will be done to put your land where it ought to be.

Can Double the Value.

"I remember when people said I was crazy because I said publicly that every acre of land in the Red river valley was worth $50 an acre fifteen or twenty years ago. It was, and it is to-day worth $100. If you will go to work intelligently and systematically to prepare this system of drainage that will take the water off your land so that you can cultivate it thoroughly, and then handle your crops with some good system of rotation, you can double the value of everything in the valley. And why shouldn't you do it?

"I feel greatly encouraged to see a lot of gentlemen here on an occasion like this. You have never undertaken before anything that means so much to you, means so much to th eState of North Dakota, and to this valley in particular.

"I want to talk with you, and I want every man to feel that I speak from an interested motive entirely, and my interest is your interest. I represent the railway that is at the foundation, next the soil itself. Next to the mother earth, the railway is the foundation of your progress.

"We make it possible for you to go out and live on these distant prairies and to cultivate the soil and market what you raise from the soil with a profit. You can go away whenever you are tired, but we can't take our railway away. We have to prosper with you or be poor with you. The growth of the country, the development of better methods of agriculture, the increased crop, all bring fish to our net; and the contrary takes them from us.

"Some of the people on the other side of the river in Minnesota took exception, in a very kindly way (and they are all friends of mine), to what I said about portions of the valley on the other side. They have a wrong notion. We won't pass over or ignore any part of the country through which our lines are laid, but, as you would if you had a field that would raise two bushels of wheat or twice the yield of hay that any other field would raise, you would cultivate that field and you would think more of it than you did the field that with the same labor raised less. That is why we feel so much interested in North Dakota. You do more. We get more from you and we are glad to be able to put means within your reach in any way that we can to get more out of your land, and to get it to market at a cheaper and lower rate of carriage.

Is Next to Lowest.

"Let me say this: Some of our friends on the other side of the river rather intimated in an article I saw that if it was not for the Red river valley we would have been broke. I want to tell you right here that the Red river valley yields a density of traffic—which is measured by the number of tons carried one mile for each mile of railroad—not to exceed one-third that of the Milk river valley. It is next to the lowest of any division on the entire system, and it always has been, and it is the richest land on the entire system of the railroad. Naturally it ought to have the heaviest production. And how are you going to get it?

"Let me say: You will get it, first, by an intelligent system of drainage. It is just as necessary for you to get rid of the surplus water as it is that you should have an abundance of water to nourish your plants. If you have too much you drown them out.

"It is heart-rending at times to ride through the valley after crops have grown above the ground and the earth is covered with a bountiful green; two or three days and nights of heavy rain—and a week later the whole thing has turned yellow. We feel for the man who has lost his crop and we feel for ourselves. We might as well run through a sand desert instead of running through the most fertile soil in the country. The fall for drainage in the Red river valley is nearly uniform for its entire length; that is, for the portion nearest the Red river, and that is where the greatest trouble lies, as a rule.

Comparison Is Striking.

"The fall is between four and five feet to the mile. The Mississippi river between St. Paul and Rock Island has a fall of five or six inches to the mile and it drains an immense area.

"But to inaugurate a system of drainage you must have a correct topographical map of every township and of every square mile in the valley where you expect to furnish any drainage. Ultimately most of this land will be tile drained, and you must make main drains to carry off the surplus water collected by the tile. Now, to do this you might get the general government interested, but at this time it is interested in a great many things.

"It is building a canal. Nobody knows what it is going to cost. Nobody has any idea. The man who was our chief engineer for seventeen years or thereabouts is the chief engineer and he has it in charge. If they will build a lock canal, he thinks he can finish it during his life time. We are told that it is to bring the trade of the west coast of South America to the United States. It is to enable our country, in case of war, to protect our long coast line on the Pacific coast.

"Now as to the question of our South American trade: Five per cent or less of the population of the world lives south of the equator and less that 1 per cent of that 5 per cent lives on the west coast of South America. So that the hundreds of millions, if it costs hundreds of millions, spent for the canal is rather a high price to pay.

A Long, Very Long Wait.

"Maybe you can persuade some of your representatives to get an appropriation for you. But if you wait for that, I am afraid some of you will have to wait a long time.

"Some of you old gentlemen who, like myself, use white hair dye, may get to a place where we won't need irrigation. We hope we won't anyway. However, before you can do anything else, you must make a thorough and accurate examination of the surface of the earth and find the direction in which the water runs. The water will always follow the line of the least resistance, and you must find where that line is and having done so the rest of the work is comparatively easy. The rest of the work is simply to put your hand in your pocket and pay the money out.

"Sometimes people have put their hands in their pockets and paid money out and got nothing for it. What little has been done that hasn't been done under exact measurements, under close scientific supervision, has practically been useless. One man might get rid of the water and get it on to his neighbor's land, and there is a lawsuit and bad neighborhood feeling. That won't do. You have got to have a comprehensive plan that takes the water to the river and carries it north of the boundary. The most fertile spot in the world is the Nile and the overflowing of the Nile is the source of its great fertility. But they have taken care of it for long, long centuries, so that that water could get back into the Nile and run away.

"You all know your trouble is because the water, the melting snow, lies on the land too long. It has got to wait practically until it evaporates; then comes some rain that ordinarily would do good, but that lies too long and drowns the crop out.

"It is fair to say it would cost $6.50 an acre to raise and harvest a crop of wheat. If you can get thirty bushels to an acre for $6.50 an acre you are a lot better off than if you get 12 or 15 bushels for $6.50, and that is what I would like to see you do. We won't ask you to give us any more of that additional yield than our modest toll for carrying it to market and you take all that is in it after you have sold. We will take care of ourselves on getting something out of it for hauling it to market. We have to. If we didn't we couldn't give you the service. Whenever a man starts out to get something for nothing in this world he is doomed to disappointment.

Best of Investment.

"Now, suppose that this land that we propose to put under a good system of drainage costs $5, $6 or $10 an acre. I am looking to a perfect system of drainage, where a man's fields would be tile drained and everything taken care of, and if you add for an expenditure of $6 or $8.50 to your land or to a field that will represent the interest on $50, let me tell you that it is an investment you could not afford to miss.

"There is no more public domain where men can go and make a homestead and make a living without irrigation, and it is estimated that the government can reclaim 50,000,000 acres at an expense of $25 or $30 an acre. What will a poor man do with land worth $25 or $30 an acre? He has got five or six little children and a good wife and some courage.

"Let him try to make up $25 or $30 an acre and pay it during his lifetime and he won't find it so easy and he won't have so much courage when he gets through. But suppose he did, and then you allowed these men on that irrigated land, fifty acres to a farm, you would take care of a million families.

"The last year a million people came from Europe to America and settled in our country. The natural increase is a million and a half more. To provide one million homes is a drop in the bucket and no more. What you have got to do is to learn to cultivate your land better,—more intensely. I think the average yield of wheat in England is from 27 to 30 bushels to the acre. With the same kind of cultivation, you would raise forty or more. They are very careful; they have to be.

"Get to Work."

"Now what will you do? Have you a state organization? Have you authority to organize, or have you any organization that can establish credit? If you haven't, you must get one. If you can get the state or the United States to do it, all right; but if you can't, don't postpone it. Take it up; have it taken up by intelligent men. I can't come here to help to dig a ditch or to make a survey, but I am like the miner who went to California. I can write home, and I will gladly bear a third of the expense with you. If it costs you $30,000, you raise $20,000 and I will raise $10,000. (Great cheering and shouts of enthusiastic approval.)

"What was done on the other side, in the State of Minnesota? In the first place, to get the map we hired engineers, and it was so unpopular that we had to abandon it. It was 'a railroad measure'—and because it was 'a railroad measure'—or rather because we looked upon it with favor—that was enough to kill it. But time is a great healer and has the power of convincing people to a degree that is marvelous, and year after year, with the water standing on the surface of the ground, these gentlemen began to think that drainage wouldn't be amiss, and when we sold our land at $5 an acre we rebated $2.50 an acre for all the land that a man would drain, our object being to get that land under cultivation in the best form.

"We tried some ditching ourselves. We built a ditch called the Euclid ditch, and the gentlemen who lived in the neighborhood were afraid we were going to wash the face off the earth, and they brought suits to restrain us. We had suits brought in Minnesota for land damages where we were able to show by the surveys of the county engineer that the man's farm was six feet higher than any place on our ditch, and water to get on his land had to turn a back somersault and get up six feet. It isn't a new question with us.

Loss Exceeds Cost of Ditch.

"I remember at one term of court we had about $90,000 of damage suits for draining the Red river valley on the other side. Down here at Argusville we paid the county commissioners the cost of digging a ditch; showed them just what to do. They sent a bill four times what it cost to dig the ditch. We paid what it cost, but we didn't try any more experiments of that kind; and as to that ditch, the farmers would haul in a load of straw and dump it so they could drive across, and leave it there. So that ditch has been 'damned' in a good many ways. The loss of crop last summer on land that that ditch might have drained would build four such ditches, and I don't know but that it would build ten. It seems too bad.

"I want to impress on you that this is your job. This job affects not only the farmer on the land but every man, every town, the school and the church, and the merchant and the banker, and the lawyer and the doctor, and the tailor; it affects them all. Because, if you can't raise a crop on the soil of North Dakota your state is a wilderness at once. You have got a most fertile soil and you have got a climate. And soil and climate are all you have got in the way of natural resources. I want to impress upon you the importance of making good, intelligent use of the soil. It is your funeral or it is your fortune—one or the other. Now, see that it is not your funeral; see that this work is put into the hands of a competent commission, men who are in earnest, men who mean to do their full duty, and men who won't put in bills for four yards for one. But, whatever you do—and we ourselves will put our hands in our pockets and raise some money for this purpose—don't squander it. Have the work intelligently done; get the best experienced engineer you can get, and, my word for it, your land will double in value.

"At your state fair here last fall I saw a herd of Shorthorns. I saw five or six herds, and I shall not soon forget those fine cattle, as fine as I ever saw anywhere, in this country or abroad—fit to show in Smithfield, fit to show at the Royal Agricultural society show of Great Britain, or anywhere, and at no place would they fail to get a place in the prize list, and some of them as individuals would be hard to beat for the very first place. If you can raise that kind of cattle on Mouse river or up toward the mountain you can raise them here.

Fields Are the Basis.

"No matter what you do in the way of teaching young men, if the fields of the good old mother of humanity, the earth itself, are not properly cared for all your other labor is in vain. When you have cattle you can enrich the land and restore its fertility by rotation of crops and by manure. You can't continue to take wheat out of the soil without putting something back that makes wheat, any more than you can go and take it out of an elevator without putting any more wheat in. I know that the state sold swamp land at $2.50 an acre and the man gave them up, and I know that within the last three years the state sold lands there at $15 an acre and the man did not give them up. And from the man who bought the land for $15 an acre, I will undertake to say you can't buy it $30 an acre. All this sums up in what we have said before—go to work. Get the nation or the state to do it if you can, but don't wait, whoever is to do it, because every year it is put off will cost you, at the present price of grain, more than you get out of your land. Eight dollars an acre would be a low estimate, because with the same cultivation, the same plowing and harrowing and seeding and drilling and harvesting and everything up to the threshing, you will get twice the yield with good cultigation—and the last half is profit up to the time you thresh it. You can't afford to put that away, and you can't afford to delay it. Take it up, and whether I am here or elsewhere, whether I am in St. Paul or in New York, when you are ready and have got your organization, whatever you want to raise, count on me for one-third of it and I will pay it as cheerfully as I ever did anything in my life, because I know, to begin with, that it is going to do more good and it will do more good to more people, and it will put you on an entirely different basis.

Workers, Not Preachers.

"You will be able to serve not only yourselves but every man living in the valley and set an example to all the rest of the Northwest as to what this land can do, giving it a fair show. Whatever is best to do let us do it as well as can be done and do it so it won't have to be done over again. Somebody has got to put his hand to the plow and the work has got to be done by intelligent men.

"Now, I would rather have a fellow that would work if I wanted this ditch built; I would rather have a fellow with a spade or a plow than all the preachers you could send me who would tell me how to do it. The fellow who will take hold and help to do it is the fellow you are looking for, and stand with him, and we will see if we can't do something for this valley that will be creditable to us all."

The addresses at the morning session of the convention were by C. G. Elliott and John T. Stewart, both of the drainage bureau of the department of agriculture.

Resolutions Adopted.

The drainage convention adopted the following resolutions.

"We recommend that the convention organize a North Dakota state drainage league, with officers as follows: President, one vice president for each county joining with the league, secretary and treasurer. These officers to constitute an executive committee and have authority to call conventions at such times and at places as they deem best.

"Resolved, That this convention pledge its support and co-operation with the Minnesota Drainage league in its efforts to secure a congressional appropriation for the straightening and the opening and dredging of the Red River of the North.

"That the governors of North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota and the premier of Manitoba be requested to appoint a conference committee of five members each to discuss matters of interest common to the Dominion and the states indicated.

"That a committee be appointed to solicit the co-operation of every Red River Valley county and of the state legislature and of congress to the end that water overflow of land be prevented.

Federal Aid Asked.

"Resolved, That a memorial to congress be adopted requesting that the irrigation laws be amended so as to allow a part of the national reclamation fund to be expended for the reclamation of our overflowed lands, as well as for irrigation, and that the irrigation act be amended so as to allow $1,000,000 of the irrigation fund credited to this state to be loaned on the lands embodied (or embraced) in our drainage district, to be a lien of the lands as may be equalized, according to the benefits, by the drainage commissioners, to be paid back to the government in twenty annual installments, it to be a lien against the lands the same as state or other taxes and collected by each county respectively, without charge, and remitted to the United States treasurer.

"Resolved, That the thanks of this convention be extended to the Commercial club and to the citizens of Grand Forks for the energy displayed in getting up this convention and for courteous treatment of the delegates while in the city; to the officers, for the very efficient manner in which they have conducted the business before the convention; to the press for its liberality in advertising this convention and publishing the proceedings thereof, and to the railway companies for the reduced rates; to President James J. Hill for his attendance here this afternoon and his address to the convention and for the financial aid which he so generously offered; to Engineers C. G. Elliott and John T. Stewart of Washington for their able addresses and their presence with us; to Scott Rex for his valuable opinion on the drainage law; to A. L. Fellows, state engineer, and to H. N. Hays, secretary of the drainage commission of Minnesota; to George A. Ralph, engineer of the Minnesota drainage commission, and to J. L. Cashel, chairman of this convention.

Cashel Made President.

Chairman Cashel spoke of the importance of perpetuating and carrying forward the work commenced at the convention and of the necessity for a permanent organization.

The election of officers was the next item of business on the program. H. A. Mayo of Walhalla presented the name of Mr. Cashel for president, and he was chosen by acclamation.

Vice presidents for each of the Red river valley counties were named by members from the respective counties and the choice ratified by the convention, as follows: Traill county, F. L. Goodman; Cass county, Treadwell Twichell; Grand Forks county, E. J. Lander; Richland county, George E. Wallace; Walsh county, N. Unham; Pembina county, W. J. Louden; Sargent county, G. E. Blake. F. A. Brown of Grand Forks was elected secretary and Dr. J. D. Taylor treasurer.

Girl Manager of Big Ranch.

Miss Georgia Burns, formerly a Kansas City girl, is the manager of the Arrow Heart cattle ranch, consisting of some 11,000 acres in Beaver county, O. T., thirty-five miles from the nearest railroad, and has under her control about 100,000 acres of proven oil and mineral land in the Choctaw and Chickasaw nations, Indian Territory.

Miss Burns lives alone excepting for her ranch help and household help. She spends much of her time in the saddle. She mounts a broncho and works as one of her cowboys works, never taking advantage of being a woman to pass up any kind of a difficult or dangerous task that falls to her lot.

Miss Burns can ride, shoot and rope cattle with the same dexterity and skill of which any of her cowboys can boast. Miss Burns is the youngest woman ranch owner in the United States, and for three years has held this distinction. She entered upon a claim of 160 acres, which was the nucleus of her extensive holdings, when she was eighteen years old, which age was necessary for her to reach before being able to secure a patent from the government to a tract of land.—Kansas City Journal.

The Hanover Artisans' Gazette wants an editor. He must be a man who is "competent to remove all difficulties and misunderstandings between every branch of industry and every description of craft, and to re-establish all unfavorable trade conditions on a sound and satisfactory basis."

Not on the Bill.

He was a stout, pudgy individual, liable to be irritated early in the morning, evidently subject to indigestion, and he walked into the dining room in anything but good grace. The hotel was new and the prices not mellowed. Their stiff front "riled" the guest still more.

Turning to the freshly imported, white shirted mummy at his side, he said:

"Haven't you people any conscience here?"

Getting no answer, his face grew red and he blurted out:

"Conscience! Conscience! Have you no conscience—conscience—conscience here?"

"Eef eet ees not on ze bills eet ees charge' extra for," suavely replied the importation.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

DON'TS FOR AUTOMOBILISTS.

Some Things to Avoid in the Interest of Safety.

Don't allow your chauffeur to drink liquor while in charge of your car. If running your own car, avoid rum yourself.

Don't run on the wrong side of the road except at narrow, intersecting streets.

Don't try to see how close you can run to a pedestrian. Give him even more room than they require. Many walkers have heart trouble.

Don't take any kind of a curve or turn at twenty miles an hour; better go four miles and be able to do it again.

Don't put oil on your registration number and throw dust on it. An honest man isn't afraid of identification.

Don't toot your horn in passing horses unless in approaching from behind, and then not unless absolutely necessary. There are still some spirited animals.

Don't blow your Gabriel horn continually in a city street; a little of it is music; too much is disagreeable, irritating racket.

Don't forget to light your lamps one hour before sunset; then you will have more chance than the wagon ahead without lights—and be within the law.

Don't grab at things that concern the chauffeur, and don't take a passenger again that has grabbed once—if you are ever able to go out again.

Don't run away after running down anybody; you'll stand a better chance if you stay.

Don't ever act like anything but an intelligent gentleman.—Outing.

THE CALL OF THE CANADIAN WEST.

The Greatest Wheat Crop of the Continent.

The year that has just closed has done a great deal towards showing the possibilities of Western Canada from an agricultural standpoint. The wheat crop has run very near to the 100,000,000 bushel limit that was looked upon as too sanguine an estimate only a short time ago, and the area that has been broken to fall wheat for the coming harvest will go a long way toward enabling the farmers of the West to overlap on the 100,000,000 bushel estimate next year. And while the spring and winter wheat have been doing so well during the past few years, the other cereals have been keeping up with the procession. Rye and barley have made immense strides, and peas and flax have been moving steadily along. Dairying, also, has been successfully carried on in the new provinces, and in every stage the farmer has been "striking it rich." To such an extent has the success of the West taken hold of the outsiders that the rush of our Americans to Saskatchewan and Alberta, which was looked upon as marvelous last year, bids fair to be largely exceeded in 1906, and as there are still millions of acres of free homesteads available, which the building of the new railways will render accessible to the markets, new wheat lands will be opened ere long. Amongst the first to avail himself of the opportunity presented will be the American settler. In a large number of American cities Dominion Government Agents are located, who are able and willing to give the latest and best information in regard to the new districts which the railways will open up, and there will be no abatement of the rush to the Canadian prairies during the coming season. Some time since a poet in the columns of the "Toronto Star" had the following stirring lines, which throb of the Western spirit:

There's a stir in the air, there's a thrill through the land,
There's a movement toward the great West;
And the eyes of all men for the moment are turned
To the country that we love the best.
For 'tis Canada's day in the world's calendar,
And to this merry toast let us sup:
"Here's to the land, the young giant of the North,
Where the prairies are opening up."

They come from the East and they come from the South,
They come o'er the deep rolling sea—
They come, for they know they will dwell 'neath a flag
That makes all men equal and free.
Then, once more the toast, and let every man rise
And cheer e'er he sips from the cup:
"Here's to the land, the young giant of the North,
Where the prairies are opening up!"

Latest for Smart Women.

Ladies are beginning to be interested in politics; it is growing to be the correct thing. Smart women are now to be found in their boudoirs surrounded by serious and heavy books of all kinds, trying to acquire the knowledge and understand the burning questions of the day, necessary if they are to converse on abstruse topics. The fashion is likely to make their pretty heads ache. But who would not suffer in a good cause?—Graphic.

OFFICIAL PAPER RED LAKE FALLS CITY

$1.00 Per Year, in Advance,

There is a well defined report that Senator Stephens has lieutenant gubernatorial aspirations. On with the dance!

"Bemidji threatens a newspaper on every corner" says the Crookston Times. O. Lord, where, where, will the saloons move to.

What five men would you select to be given places in the Hall of Shame?—Crookston Journal.

Take a hat full of slips and the first five drawn will do. Ask something harder.

The editor of the Roseau Region is an amusin' cuss. He calls Jake Jacobson the "watchdog of the treasury." Jake may be a "watchdog" but his bark ended at the state convention three years ago.

The editors of the Red River valley will meet in Crookston on the 19th in annual convention. This meeting promises to be one of great importance and all editors in the territory should attend. Red Lake county's bunch of beauties, including Harry Ives will be there.

The COURIER has been favored with the formal announcement of Julius Schmahl's candidacy for the office of secretary of state on the Republican ticket. Julius has the office-holding habit having been an officer of the Minnesota legislature since the mind of man runneth not to the contrary.

It occurs to us that there has been enough printer's ink used in this section of the country lately to have built the Duluth-Thief River Falls extension of the Soo road without any assistance from the company. The surveyors have been expected to reach Thief River Falls within ten days for many moons. The Soo will please take notice that ink costs money.

Marshall Field of Chicago one of the world's most sucessful merchants died in New York Tuesday. From a small and insignificant beginning this great merchant worked his way up to the top rung of the ladder in the mercantile field and his name will stand as a monument to thrift, energy and ambition which every American lad can profit by.

County Auditor Ford returned today from Minneapolis where he attended a meeting of the auditors of the state. The question of assessment of real and personal property was taken up with the governor and Auditor Iverson. The governor upon request of the auditor's association has called a special session of the state board of equalization to meet with the auditors on the 8th of February to try to agree upon a schedule for a basis of assessment. The governor is heartily in favor of a schedule that will meet with approval of assessors and county boards of equalization.

State Librairian John E. King arrived in the city today to look after business interests and to meet his many old friends and business associates. Mr. King is, as ever, alert and observing on the political trend and an interview given yesterday to the Crookston Journal man expresses the political situation in Minnesota to a dot:

"The political situation has been enlivened recently, by the announcement of the candidacies of numerous patriots ready to serve the dear people at the regulation salaries. While the only candidates for the republican nomination for governor so far made public are Senator Lord of Kasson and A. H. Lindeke, the St. Paul dry goods man, it is the general expectation that Julius Block present State Treasurer, and J. F. Jacobson, the Lac qui Parle firebrand, along with several others will come out into the open within a few weeks. The Republicans realize that they have an opponent worthy of their steel in Governor Johnson and a good many strong men who would ordinarily like to make the race for governor are afraid of the cars. Governor Johnson seems to have the confidence of every faction of his own party, and a good many thousand republicans are apt to conclude that one good term deserves another. The governor's recent speech before the municipal league has undoubtedly convinced the voters that he is for a square deal for more equitable railroad rates, for honesty and reform in all departments of state government. Republicans generally are willing to admit that Johnson has made a good governor and set a high standard of executive righteousness and political probity."

One of the ablest speeches ever heard in this state was delivered by Governor John A. Johnson, before the Commercial and Municipal league at the St. Paul Commercial club last evening. The governor discussed the importance of draining the swamp lands of the state, and talked of the work being done by the various branches of the state government, dwelling upon the necessity of reform in the conduct of the life insurance business. Discussing the question of municipal ownership of public utilities, the governor contended that the people of a municipality are entitled to water, light and kindred service, and that municipalities should control their own public service utilities. The problem of transportation was reviewed at length, and the governor emphasized the right of the government to regulate or rather secure proper tariff rates. He did not believe the time is ripe today for government ownership of railroads, but he warned those controlling the corporations that, if they resist the right of the government to regulate and control common carriers, government ownership may result. He cited many instances of rate discrimination in this state, and contended that common carriers should not have the right to discriminate between individuals or between communities.

"SAVED MY LIFE"

—That's what a prominent druggist said of Scott's Emulsion a short time ago. As a rule we don't use or refer to testimonials in addressing the public, but the above remark and similar expressions are made so often in connection with Scott's Emulsion that they are worthy of occasional note. From infancy to old age Scott's Emulsion offers a reliable means of remedying improper and weak development, restoring lost flesh and vitality, and repairing waste. The action of Scott's Emulsion is no more of a secret than the composition of the Emulsion itself. What it does it does through nourishment—the kind of nourishment that cannot be obtained in ordinary food. No system is too weak or delicate to retain Scott's Emulsion and gather good from it.

BURNING A WIDOW.

The Story of a Witness of This Cruel Indian Custom.

I had the opportunity of seeing a young widow burn herself by the side of her deceased husband. The funeral pile was about ten feet high. In the middle of the pile lay her deceased husband, an old and miserable looking man. The devoted victim was a young creature about seventeen, dressed in white, with all her jewels on. There was a confused noise of singing and shouting, intermixed with the sound of tomtoms and at intervals the hollow and sonorous sound of gongs and trumpets. The priests and her friends crowded round her, all speaking to her at once, apparently to distract her attention and to prevent her shrinking at the last moment from sacrificing herself.

There was a small tank of water close to the funeral pile. They led her to this. I was very near her when I saw her quietly take the jewels from her ears, her nose; unclasp her gold bracelets as well as the bangles from her ankles and every ornament she had on, which were received by her relations.

She then stepped into the water, divested herself of her clothes of pure white and replaced them with clothes of a yellow color. She then performed her ablutions, came out of the water and, unassisted, walked three times round the pile, followed by the priests and her friends, who at this period appeared to be more urgent and loud in their discourse to her to distract her attention. She then, unassisted, mounted the pile, laid herself down by the side of her husband and put his head under her arm, turning herself toward him.

Then they sprinkled large quantities of oil and straw on the pile. The fatal fire was then applied, and amid loud shouts and while the fire reached her I distinctly heard her utter the words "Nirva! Nirva!"

I was very near her during the different parts of the ceremony and could have saved her life by merely touching her, as she would then have been defiled and would not have been permitted to have the honor of sacrificing herself.

But in saving her life I stood the chance of being torn to pieces, and I certainly should have been brought to a court martial for disobedience of orders, for the English in those days were strictly forbidden to meddle with the customs and prejudices of the natives.—Georg Ebers' "Memoirs."

PITH AND POINT.

In order to be popular forget to say a good deal.

Wisdom is always conceded to a rich man until he loses his riches.

Do not emphasize your own virtues by enlarging on the failings of others.

A safe way to judge a man is to ascertain just what friends he doesn't make.

A genius is a man who refuses to believe in the impossibilities of other people.

The claims to wisdom of owls and a multitude of men rest upon their looks, and nothing more.

To get rid of a bore ask him to repeat his longest and favorite story twice. Even he cannot stand that.

Only a smart man can conceal from a woman the fact that he isn't as smart as he would wish her to think he is.

One of the curious things about a man who wants to borrow money from you today is his eager determination to repay it tomorrow.

There are three stages in the existence of the average man when he is of particular interest to his community—viz, at his birth, marriage and funeral.—Success.

Another Way Out.

In one of Glasgow's finely laid out cemeteries a rich citizen, who was notorious as a skeptic, had erected a massive mausoleum on what he terms "his ancestral plot." One day he met a worthy elder of the kirk coming away from the vicinity of the imposing mass of masonry, so he said to him, "Weel, Dauvit, ye've been up seein' that gran' erection o' mine?"

"Deed, hiv I, sir."

"Gey strong place that, isn't it? It 'll tak' a man a' his time tae raise out o' yon at the day o' judgment."

"Hoot, ma mon," said David, "ye can gie yerself little fash aboot risin' gin that day comes. They'll tak' the bottom oot of o't tae let ye fa' doon."—Spare Moments.

Forestalling Trouble.

Sam Tate at one time owned a big cotton plantation on the Mississippi river. Once Tate called on the governor of Arkansas and said, "Governor, if you're not too busy this morning I'd like to have a pardon."

"Who for?"

"For myself."

"Ah, for yourself! And what for?"

"Killing a nigger."

"When did you kill him?"

"Oh, I haven't killed him yet—thought I'd get a pardon in advance, so there wouldn't be any trouble about it."

Publicity Has Its Disadvantages.

"You weather prophets make a great many mistakes," said the man who sneers.

"Yes," answered the observer, "and if other people had all their mistakes published in the daily papers as we do I suspect that our record would seem pretty good."—Washington Star.

ON A DIVERSIFIED FARM.

There Is a Greater Demand on the Farmer for Skill and Energy Than on Single Crop Farms.

The man that has to run a diversified farm has his "hands full," if we may use a slang expression that has almost ceased to be slang. The man that has to look after 20 different crops needs a mental development far above that of the man that has to look after one crop only. The man with many crops to look after has to acquire 20 times the information about crops that the man does that has to look after one crop only. On the other hand, he does not have to do so much worrying about the sale of his crop, as the community around any farm will largely absorb the crops of the farm where diversified farming is practiced.

On a diversified farm all the ground is kept in use, and sometimes several crops are grown on the same piece of ground in one summer. One crop may be dove-tailed into another crop, so that a new crop is being started before the old one is off the ground. The mixed farmer generally breaks the old Jewish commandment not to sow mixed seed in the field. He does not find that the growing of two, three or even four crops in the same field the same season damages his fields provided his land is kept well manured and well supplied with humus.

On a diversified farm, declares the Farmers' Review, labor can be used to better advantage than on a farm devoted to the production of any one crop. On the diversified farm there is a demand for labor from one part of the season to another, and the owner is also enabled to utilize all of his own time. This is a great thing to the man that is running a small farm. In this day it is not possible to make money out of any establishment that is run on half time, even a farm.

A ROPE FIRE-LADDER.

Safety Device Which Every Farmer Should Have Handy in Case of Fire.

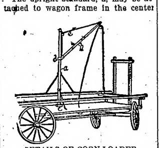
There is always danger of fire catching the roof of farmhouse or barn. Quick work will often save much loss. But if one happens to be alone, it is almost impossible to raise long, heavy ladders, especially the one needed to reach any place on the roof. A very convenient ladder to keep on hand is one made of light ropes, as shown in the cuts, suggests the Farm Journal. At one end are two hooks and a connecting cross-bar which any blacksmith can make in a few moments. To the center of the cross-bar is attached a long cord with a bit of weight fastened to its outer end. It is but an instant's work to throw this cord o the ridge-pole of a building, and having secured the weighted end upon the other side, to draw the ladder up over the roof until the hooks cross the ridge. Then pull the ladder back into place with the hooks biting into the wood of the saddle boards, and one can go anywhere upon the roof. This ladder should be long enough to reach the ground from any building. One person alone can raise a wodden ladder to the eaves, and with this rope roof ladder he has command of the situation. The "rounds" of the rope ladder need not extend to the ground, but the ropes should, that the ladder may be manipulated from the ground. It will be seen from Fig. 2 that a staple over the rope keeps the latter from slipping off the "rounds."

SHOCK CORN LOADER.

Device Which Will Save the Farmer the Back-Breaking Work of Hand Loading.

For the man who has loaded corn fodder from the field to the wagon with a fork all day until his back feels as though it had been pounded with a club, the arrangement shown in the picture will be much appreciated, says the Farm and Home. It is a device for elevating shocks or bundles of fodder from the ground directly to the wagon.

The upright standard, a, may be attached to wagon frame in the center or at the front or the hind end and braced in such a manner as will hold it rigid. The boom, b, is attached to a by an iron band or collar shown at d so arranged that the boom may swing entirely around upright a, which may be secured to the bed of wagon by anchor chains or by setting into block as shown at c. The cable, e, is used to adjust the height of boom, elevating it to highest point in finishing out the load.



DETAILS OF CORN LOADER.

HASTY SCIENTISTS.

The haste of some of our scientific investigators to announce their discoveries and to ventilate the theories base thereon, is contrasted unfavorably in the editorial columns of the Electrical World with the cautious conservatism of Sir Isaac Newton, who waited for years before giving to the world his law of gravitation, because some of his data appeared at the time not to be in accordance with the new principles. It took years to attain the high excellence of golden grain belt beer, but now all you have to do to enjoy its superior qualities is to order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson Crookston.

Fred Landis Couldn't Explain His Own Lincoln Metaphor.

Young Fred Landis of Indiana, who this week made a reputation for himself in the house, is regarded as a finished orator in his home district. A story is told on him in the Republican cloak rooms now illustrating his methods of getting the admiration of his constituents.

A few years ago, according to this story, Landis spoke at the unveiling of a monument to Abraham Lincoln. Throughout his speech, which was full of history and apt mythological allusions, the speaker frequently repeated this sentence:

"Abraham Lincoln—that mystic mingling of star and clod!"

Going home on the train that evening, a friend of his sat beside him, and read aloud several times the oratorical sentence. Finally he turned to Landis, saying:

"Will you kindly tell me what that means?"

"I don't know," confessed Landis "I don't know, but it gets 'em—it gets 'em every time."—Washington Times.

Hanna, Wyo., Jan. 15th (Special)—Delays are dangerous. Don't wait until all the awful symptoms of Kidney Disease develop in your system, and your physician shakes his head gravely as he diagnoses your case. If you suspect your kidneys, turn at once to the great Kidney specific—Dodd's Kidney Pills. You can do so with every confidence. A few of Dodd's Kidney Pills taken in time have saved many a life. The early symptoms of Kidney Disorder may be the forerunner of Bright's Disease, Diabetes and Dropsy. Dr. W. H. Jeffries, a resident here, tells below how he treated an attack of Kidney Trouble. He says. —

"Before I commenced taking Dodd's Kidney Pills I had always a tired feeling every morning when I got out of my bed, and my Kidneys were in very bad shape. There was always a dull, heavy pain across my loins, and I had hard work to stoop. I took two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, the tired feeling and back pains have entirely gone, and I am now cured."

UNCONSCIOUS POISONING.

How It Often Happens From Coffee.

"I had no idea," writes a Duluth man, "that it was the coffee I had been drinking all my life that was responsible for the headaches which were growing upon me, for the dyspepsia that no medicines would relieve, and for the acute nervousness which unfitted me not only for work but also for the most ordinary social functions.

"But at last the truth dawned upon me. I forthwith bade the harmful beverage a prompt farewell, ordered in some Postum and began to use it. The good effects of the new food drink were apparent within a very few days. My headaches grew less frequent, and decreased in violence, my stomach grew strong and able to digest my food without distress of any kind, my nervousness has gone and I am able to enjoy life with my neighbors and sleep soundly o' nights. My physical strength and nerve power have increased so much that I can do double the work I used to do, and feel no undue fatigue afterwards.

"This improvement set in just as soon as the old coffee poison had so worked out of my system as to allow the food elements in the Postum to get a hold to build me up again. I cheerfully testify that it was Postum and Postum alone that did all this, for when I began to drink it I 'threw physic to the dogs.'" Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"I hope you have rested well," said the chief, approaching the princess.

"I have slept, sir," she replied, trembling as she looked into his dark face.

"Then you are ready to resume your saddle. We will ride before the heat of the noonday sun is upon us."

"You will not claim us for companions further, I trust."

"Only while our roads lay together, lady. Surely you cannot object to that."

"But I wish to go to the bank of the Pharaphar."

"Just as I expected; so I shall not be disappointed. Your horses are ready. I will have them brought this way."

The guard had already been placed upon a horse, and Ulin saw them binding him to a saddle. What did this mean?

Hardly knowing what she did, Ulin suffered herself to be lifted into the saddle; and in a few moments more Albia was by her side.

"Why have you bound Shubal to his seat?" she asked.

"That he may ride safely. He is a bungling fellow, and might tumble off if he were not secured. But don't let that worry you."

CHAPTER XVI.

The Strange Horseman.

At this moment the guard came near to the place where his mistress sat, his horse having moved of his own accord, and as she turned towards him he spoke to her:

"My dear good lady, they lie to you when they tell you that they mean you no harm. I have heard them talk and I know their plans. We are all to be sold into slavery in the kingdom beyond the Syrian desert!"

"Mercy!" cried Ulin, turning pale as death and clasping her hands in agony. "O, my dream! my dream!"

"Easy, fair lady," said Al Abbas "This black rascal knows not what he says. I allowed him to speak so that I might see how his mind ran."

"It is false," exclaimed Shubal. "I heard them lay the plan. You, my mistress, are to be sold for a—"

The guard's speech was stopped by two of the robbers, who threw him back upon his horse, and stopped his mouth with their hands.

"Sir robber," cried Ulin, stretching her hands out towards him, "deceive me no more. I think my poor slave has told me the truth."

"A pest upon the slave, lady! His tongue shall come out by the roots if he speaks again without my leave. Stick to your saddle, and keep up your courage."

As the Arab spoke he leaped upon the back of his horse, and ere the princess could ask another question, the party was upon the move, the order of arrangements being the same as before.

"We are not going towards the Pharphar," said Ulin.

"No," replied Albia. "We are going the other way."

"Then Shubal told us the truth."

"Alas, dear mistress, I dare not say."

"But you think so?"

"I cannot deny it."

"And you thought so before you heard Shubal speak?"

"I feared something of the kind."

Al Abbas overheard the girls as they thus conversed, and he was presently by their side.

"Lady Ulin," he said, and he spoke sternly and sharply; "you are now on the move, and when you stop again it will be far away from Damascus. I owe something to the officers of that city, and I will repay a part of the debt by taking you away from them. You are to go just as far as I please to take you; and the more quietly you go the better it will be for you; so you had better begin to accommodate yourself to the circumstances."

He rode back to his place and Ulin grasped the bow of her saddle for support.

"Courage," said Albia, riding as near as she could. "There may be some way to escape. The good spirits will not desert us."

The princess heard the words, and they had a marked effect upon her. She had naturally a strong resolution, and when she was once resolved to bear up, her strength was not long in coming to her assistance. On the present occasion she knew that she had heard the worst. In fact, she had reason to believe that her captor meant for her the most dreadful fate to which one in her station could be subject. For a while she was completely stunned by the fearful blow; but as she came to reason with herself, she saw that her only hope was in escape. The Arabs were low, brutal and sordid, and would sell her for gold. She could read in their evil faces that they were not to be touched by sympathy. What then could she do? She must get away from them. And if this was to be done she must summon all her energies to the work.

But, alas! the case looked hopeless enough; what could two weak girls do against such odds? Only some interposition beyond their own efforts could save them. So, after all, if help was to come, it must come from some unknown source. And could such help be found? If fervent prayers could be answered, and if the most holy need could be met, it might be hoped for.

At the end of some two or three hours the party came to a thick grove of palms; near which was a spring, and here they stopped just long enough to water the horses. They had started on again, and were at some little distance from the grove, when one of the Arabs who rode in the rear, came forward and informed his leader that a horseman was following them. Al Abbas looked back and saw that the stranger was a black, and that he rode a swift and powerful horse.

"He wishes to overtake us," said the fellow who had come from the rear.

"Then he must ride for it," returned the chief. "I cannot stop. I wonder where he came from."

"When I first saw him, he seemed to have just emerged from the grove."

In a short time the strange horseman had come so near that the light of his eyes could be seen, and Al Abbas saw that he must soon overtake them; so he concluded to drop behind and find out what was wanted, evidently desiring that the men should not see what manner of prizes he had in charge, at least until his character was known. The robbers were directed to slacken their speed a little, but to keep on their course, and having given this order, the chief turned his horse's head and rode back; and ere long he was within speaking distance of the stranger, who proved to be a stout, well-made man, with a face as black as night.

"Hallo!" cried Al Abbas, reining in his horse. "Who are you?"

"I am king of this plain," replied the African, at the same time reining in his own horse; "and I have come out to see who thus trespasses upon my domain. Who are you?"

The Arab hesitated in his answer, as he supposed the black must be crazy.

"Who are you, and what sort of company do you lead?" cried the African.

"I lead my own company; and if you want anything, come and get it," answered the Arab.

"I want nothing but to know who you are; and the next time you come this way, be sure and stop again at the grove of the date-palms. I will have a banquet prepared for you."

Thus speaking, the stranger wheeled his horse in a broad circle, and started back towards the place whence he had come.

Al Abbas rode back to his party, and when they asked him what manner of man he had met, he replied that it was only a poor crazy fool, who imagined that he owned the broad plain upon which they were traveling.

"He is worth capturing," suggested one of the robbers.

"We could not capture him if we would," said the chief. "He rides a better horse than we own."

While the Arabs were gazing back after the retiring horseman Albia drew close to the side of her mistress and spoke, quickly and excitedly:

"Did you recognize him?"

"Whom?"

"The crazy man who followed us."

"No."

"It was Osmir!"

"Osmir!"

"Hush! Not a word. As sure as I live it was Osmir; and be assured we have help at hand."

"But he has gone."

"Aye, for he only came out to see who we were. Be sure he has recognized us."

Ulin felt her heart bound up with springing hope; and her next prayer was uttered with returning faith in heaven's protecting power.

CHAPTER XVII.

By the Banks of the Pharphar.

Half an hour after Al Abbas had resumed his place at the head of his troop, the same robber who had before come from the rear, again rode to the front, this time bringing intelligence that a number of horsemen were pursuing them. The chief drew his horse aside and looked back, and saw four men coming. They were well mounted, and seemed to be in hot pursuit.

"There is something more than accident in this," said Al Abbas. "The fellow is with them who followed us before."

"Two of those men are white," remarked the robber who had ridden up from the rear. "What can they want of us?"

"Never mind," returned the chief. "If they want us, let them catch us. And if, beyond that, they want more, let them make their wants known."

Thus speaking, the Arab leader resumed his place, and urged his horses forward with increasing speed. Ever and anon he cast his eyes behind him, and it was ere long evident that the strangers were rapidly gaining upon him.

"We may as well stop now as at any time," said Al Abbas, addressing the man who rode by his side. "I will halt and ascertain what these fellows want. It is about time our horses had a breathing spell."

At a simple order from their chief, the Arabs wheeled their horses in a circle, bringing up in line, facing their pursuers, with their prisoners in the rear.

"Who are you that thus pursues and stops me?" demanded Al Abbas.

"I am Julian, the Scourge of Damascus!" replied the foremost of the opposite party.

At the sound of that name the Arab trembled, for he knew that no king's officer had been more persistent in driving petty robbers from the plains of Damascus than had Julian. But presently he recovered himself, seeming to think that, were the man's assertion true, the opposing force was not strong enough to be feared.

"If you be Julian," he cried, "you have come forth with a small retinue. But what seek you?"

"I have come to take from you those prisoners that you hold. Deliver them up to me, and I will trouble you no more."

"And suppose that I should refuse to do any such thing?"

"Then I should be forced to take them from you. As I address you, I recognize who you are. If I am not greatly mistaken, you are Al Abbas, the Arab—a villain who lives by robbing women and old men."

"Now, by the blood of Cush!" exclaimed Al Abbas, drawing his sword and urging his horse forward, "I'll make you feel another thing the Arab robber can do! What, ho, my men! Down with these rascals!"

In a moment the Arabs were ready for action, and hurried forward to strike with their leader.

As soon as Shubal found his guard gone, he called to Albia to come and set him free.

"Cut these cords," he cried, "and I may be of some help in this affair. Merciful heaven, is not this the work of a good spirit!"

The bondmaiden was not long in setting him free from his saddle, and as soon as he was clear he sprang forward to where the ring of clashing steel had already broke upon the air.

With something like a smile of disdain upon his handsome features did Julian behold the approach of the Arabs, while Hobaddan, who sat close by his side, looked grim and stern. Osmir and Selim drew to the front as the token of battle was given, and their cool, determined bearing, plainly showed that they were foemen not to be despised. Al Abbas rode directly for the youthful chieftain, with his sword ready for the stroke; but he had mistaken his man, if he thought to touch any vulnerable point. Julian knocked his weapon up, and quickly drove him from his horse; and then, seeking to make quick work of it, and feeling no great sympathy for woman-stealers, he simply rode the Arab leader down, cleaving open his head as he fell.

Shubal was close at hand when Al Abbas dropped, and quickly as possible he possessed himself of the fallen man's sword, and was just in season to join in the conflict as three of the Arabs had attacked Julian. The young chieftain struck down one of them by a winding blow across the bare neck, but he might have had severe work with the other two had not help arrived; for the rascals were strong, and the death of their leader had given them new impulse to conquer. It was not the impulse of revenge. No, no. The death of Al Abbas left more gold for those who survived. But the unexpected arrival of the freed slave upon the scene gave a new turn to the tide. One of the Arabs he struck down from behind, and the other one alone proved no match for the stalwart chieftain.

In the meantime Hobaddan, with Osmir and Selim, had disposed of the others. Two they had slain, and two had taken to flight.

BROKE BLAINE'S BOOM.

Ex-Governor Newell's Medical Opinion Turned Jersey Delegates.

Friends of the late William A. Newell, once Governor of New Jersey, have recalled an old story in which he figures as the rock upon which the Presidential hopes of James G. Blaine were wrecked in 1876. The ex-Governor, who was a physician as well as a politician, was a delegate to the Republican national convention in that year, and he was prominent among those members of the New Jersey delegation who favored Mr. Blaine's nomination. While the struggle for the various aspirants was in progress, the news came that Mr. Blaine had been stricken with what was variously described as apoplexy and sunstroke. This event was eagerly seized upon by the two or three Jersey delegates who favored Mr. Conkling, and these, hearing that Dr. Newell had expressed a fear that the effects of such a "stroke" as Mr. Blaine had suffered might seriously and permanently affect his mental faculties, saw an opportunity, as they thought, to help their candidate. They secured a conference of the delegation, and, when it had met, they called upon the ex-Governor to give his opinion, as a medical man, as to whether, in the circumstances, it would be prudent to nominate the Maine statesman. The answer, given with extreme reluctance and regret, and of course entirely sincere, was in the negative. Mr. Blaine's hold upon the New Jersey delegates was immediately broken, but their votes ultimately went, not to Mr. Conkling, but to Mr. Hayes. Those who like to ascribe great effects to small causes saw at the time, in the inaccurate, long-distance diagnosis of Dr. Newell the explanation of Mr. Blaine's failure to reach the Presidency, for they say that, though he was defeated in 1884, if he had been nominated in 1876 he would have been elected.—New York Times.

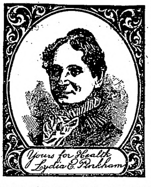
WHO SHE WAS

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF LYDIA E. PINKHAM

And a True Story of How the Vegetable Compound Had Its Birth and How the "Panic of '73" Caused it to be Offered for Public Sale in Drug Stores.

This remarkable woman, whose maiden name was Estes, was born in Lynn, Mass., February 9th, 1819, coming from a good old Quaker family. For some years she taught school, and became known as a woman of an alert and investigating mind, an earnest seeker after knowledge, and above all, possessed of a wonderfully sympathetic nature.



In 1843 she married Isaac Pinkham, a builder and real estate operator, and their early married life was marked by prosperity and happiness. They had four children, three sons and a daughter.

In those good old fashioned days it was common for mothers to make their own home medicines from roots and herbs, nature's own remedies—calling in a physician only in specially urgent cases. By tradition and experience many of them gained a wonderful knowledge of the curative properties of the various roots and herbs.

Mrs. Pinkham took a great interest in the study of roots and herbs, their characteristics and power over disease. She maintained that just as nature so bountifully provides in the harvest-fields and orchards vegetable foods of all kinds; so, if we but take the pains to find them, in the roots and herbs of the field there are remedies expressly designed to cure the various ills and weaknesses of the body, and it was her pleasure to search these out and prepare simple and effective medicines for her own family and friends.

Chief of these was a rare combination of the choicest medicinal roots and herbs found best adapted for the cure of the ills and weaknesses peculiar to the female sex, and Lydia E. Pinkham's friends and neighbors learned that her compound relieved and cured and it became quite popular among them.

All this so far was done freely, without money and without price, as a labor of love.

But in 1873 the financial crisis struck Lynn. Its length and severity were too much for the large real estate interests of the Pinkham family, as this class of business suffered most from fearful depression, so when the Centennial year dawned it found their property swept away. Some other source of income had to be found.

At this point Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was made known to the world.

The three sons and the daughter, with their mother, combined forces to restore the family fortune. They argued that the medicine which was so good for their woman friends and neighbors was equally good for the women of the whole world.

The Pinkhams had no money and little credit. Their first laboratory was the kitchen, where roots and herbs were steeped on the stove, gradually filling a gross of bottles. Then came the question of selling it, for always before they had given it away freely. They hired a job printer to run off some pamphlets setting forth the merits of the medicine, now called Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and these were distributed by the Pinkham sons in Boston, New York and Brooklyn.

The wonderful curative properties of the medicine were, to a great extent, self-advertising, for whoever used it recommended it to others, and the demand gradually increased.

In 1877, by combined efforts, the family had saved enough money to commence newspaper advertising and from that time the growth and success of the enterprise were assured, until today Lidia E. Pinkham and her Vegetable Compound have become household words everywhere, and many tons of roots and herbs are used annually in its manufacture.

Lydia E. Pinkham herself did not live to see the great success of this work. She passed to her reward years ago, but not until she had provided means for continuing her work as effectively as she could have done it herself.

During her long and eventful experience she was ever methodical in her work and she was always careful to preserve a record of every case that came to her attention. The case of every sick woman that applied to her for advice—and there were thousands—received careful study, and the details, including symptoms, treatment and results, were recorded for future reference, and to-day these records, together with hundreds of thousands made since, are available to sick women the world over, and represent a vast collaboration of information regarding the treatment of women's ills, which for authenticity and accuracy can hardly be equaled in any library in the world.

With Lydia E. Pinkham worked her daughter-in-law, the present Mrs. Pinkham. She was carefully instructed in all her hard-won knowledge, and for years she assisted her in her vast correspondence.

To her hands naturally fell the direction of the work when its originator passed away. For nearly twenty-five years she has continued it, and nothing in the work shows when the first Lydia E. Pinkham dropped her pen, and the present Mrs. Pinkham, now the mother of a large family, took it up. With woman assistants, some as capable as herself, the present Mrs. Pinkham continues this great work, and probably from the office of no other person have so many women been advised how to regain health. Sick women, this advice is "Yours for Health" freely given if you only write to ask for it.

Such is the history of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; made from simple roots and herbs; the one great medicine for women's ailments, and the fitting monument to the noble woman whose name it bears.

FOUR YEARS OF AGONY.

Whole Foot Nothing But Proud Flesh —Had to Use Crutches—"Cuticura Remedies the Best on Earth."

"In the year 1899 the side of my right foot was cut off from the little toe down to the heel, and the physician who had charge of me was trying to sew up the side of my foot, but with no success. At last my whole foot and way up above my calf was nothing but proud flesh. I suffered untold agonies for four years, and tried different physicians and all kinds of ointments. I could walk only with crutches. In two weeks afterwards I saw a change in my limb. Then I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment often during the day, and kept it up for seven months, when my limb was healed up just the same as if I never had trouble. It is eight months now since I stopped using Cuticura Remedies, the best on God's earth. I am working at the present day after five years of suffering. The cost of Cuticura Ointment and Soap was only $6, but the doctors' bills were more like $600. John M. Lloyd, 728 S. Arch Ave., Alliance, Ohio, June 27, 1905."

Shakespeare Not Obscene.

A curious mixture of literature and the law took place at Birmingham yesterday when a man named Sheridan was summoned for using obscene language in the public street. Sheridan told the bench that he was discussing books with a friend and he quoted to him a short extract from Shakespeare's "Winter Tale." The constable appeared to have overheard it, for in the quotation there was one of the words attributed to him by the other. The magistrates dismissed the summons. By an appropriate coincidence the incident occurred in Stratford road.—London Chronicle.

Treating Wrong Disease.

Many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous exhaustion or prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they all present alike to themselves and their easy-going and indifferent, or over-busy doctor, separate and distinct diseases, for which he, assuming them to be such, prescribes his pills and potions. In reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some uterine disease. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, encourages this practice until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better, but probably worse, by reason of the delay, wrong treatment and consequent complications. A proper medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said, that "a disease known is half cured."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, chorea, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

AGRICULTURE

Cleaner Seed, Bigger Yield.

If there is any one question in particular that should interest grain growers, it is the selection and grading of seed grain of all kinds. The writer saw, during his travels the past crop season, thousands upon thousands of acres of oats that would hardly pay for cutting. The trouble in every case which I investigated was lack of any care in the selection of the seed. As one grower put it, "the seed oats looked bright, and apparently did not contain many weed seeds." In the first place that seed oats was light, weighing scarcely 30 pounds to the bushel. On this account the ground was not well covered, and this gave the weed seeds a fine chance to grow.

Now the remedy: It never pays to sow light, chaffy oats. Unless you have good heavy seed, better get your supply from some reliable seedsman. If you have seed good enough to sow, then be sure to clean and grade it until it is absolutely free of all foreign seeds, and you have left only the heaviest, plumpest, grains. If your land is already foul, it will call for heroic measures to get it clean again, but the first step in the job is to sow only clean heavy seed, and seed of sufficient vitality to push its way along and help you eradicate the weeds.

What has been said of oats, will apply with equal force to wheat. Unless you have a variety that is giving you the maximum yield that your land will produce, better start fresh by getting new seed. Look up the work of your state experiment station and see which varieties are doing the best. You can always buy these varieties from reliable seedsmen. If you are saving your own seed wheat make sure that it is clean, and grade it over and over until you have a supply of only the heaviest grains. This will insure a good stand, and the seed will sprout quickly and push itself rapidly forward.

Of all grain crops, and in spite of the constant suggestions of experiment stations and farm papers, corn is treated the most shabbily. It has been proved by repeated field tests that yields may be increased from 10 to 25 bushels per acre, by planting uniform size grain, so as to insure an even stand in the hills. All good planters will drop mechanically, but one can hardly expect the machine to discriminate between small and large kernels. The way to overcome that is to plant grains of as near the same size as possible. This is more important than any other thing in growing corn. There is no profit in tending a half-stand of corn. Get good seed; pay any reasonable price for it, but insist upon its being good. Then grade it until your planter will drop two and three kernels. Then you have started right for a big corn crop. —L. C. Brown, Cook County, Ill., in Farmers' Review.

Cross-Fertilization of Cereals.

Within recent years new varieties of wheat have been produced by cross-fertilizing. Most of the varieties of wheat produced by Nature have been produced by cross-fertilization accidently obtained: It has taken Nature a long time to produce a few good varieties. Our scientists who have taken hold of the matter by pollenizing varieties with a pollen from other strong varieties, have been able to outstrip Nature in the work of producing good varieties. The evolution of the wheat plant is thus taken out of the domain of chance and introduced into the domain of science. Under the old regime a good variety was more likely to be pollenized by a poor variety than otherwise, because poor varieties are more numerous than good varieties. Man, however, is able to combine the good qualities of the strongest cereals and by selecting the best of their progeny get immediate results. There are to-day forty or fifty varieties of wheat that have been thus created. Such varieties have longer heads, heavier grain and produce larger yields per acre than the old varieties and are at the same time better able to stand adverse condition. Within the next twenty-five years we shall see the science of wheat-growing develop greatly, with the result of more fully using the land devoted to wheat growing. Hard wheats will be evolved for use on the semi-arid lands, while softer wheats resistant to fungous diseases will be produced for humid localities.

Permanent Fences.

The farmer should avoid building temporary fences, unless it is his intention to remove them occasionally to make way for his rotation of crops. Most farmers, however, do not do this; but expect always to keep one fence in place. One cause of loss on American farms is the lack of permanency in the fences. A man should build a fence that will last a lifetime. He should select posts that will not decay and have them so long that he can set them deeply in the ground. In fact they should be set so that neither the frosts nor gales nor floods can shake them. It takes a little longer to build a fence of this kind, but in the years to come the extra labor at the beginning will be found to be economy.

It is claimed that the manure made from a ton of clover fed to fattening cattle is worth about $7.50, and what is more important, the clover crop has not robbed the land of any fertility. In fact it made it better.

HORTICULTURE

The Kieffer Pear.

D. J. Hartzler of LaGrange County, Ind., in a letter to the Farmers' Review says:

"Will you kindly give your opinion on the Kieffer pear, which is not valued very much by most farmers? While the tree is young the fruit is not so good, but as the tree gets older the fruit gets better."

The Kieffer pear is considered a rather poor pear, but is extensively produced. We cannot expect to have all the good qualities in any particular variety. Generally if a variety has a high quality it lacks something else of great importance. The Kieffer pear is only a cooking pear. In no sense can it be called a dessert pear. Its flavor is generally lacking. One thing against it also is its tough skin, which must be removed before the pear can be enjoyed. The things in favor of the pear are, the productiveness of the tree and its ability to withstand adverse conditions. In spite of its lack of flavor the Kieffer sells quite well in the markets of large cities. We believe the quality of the Kieffer pear can be much improved by thinning the pears and producing larger and therefore better pears. Small Kieffer pears affected with scab are a very poor fruit. Spraying is often necessary to keep the scab under control. We have said above that the Kieffer tree is very productive, this is with the understanding that it is grown in the same locality with pears of other varieties that can act as pollenizers for the Kieffer. On many soils and in many localities the Kieffer pear does not respond to its own pollen; probably it needs more than any other variety to be crossed pollenated. It is therefore never wise or safe to plant Kieffer pears in large blocks. More than one such orchard has remained unfruitful; its owner did not understand the cause of it, and the orchard has been finally cut down. When grown in the vicinity of the Garbar or other pear blooming at about the same season the Kieffer tree produces enormous crops.

Poorly Keeping Apples.

Poorly keeping apples are of little value unless they be summer and fall apples grown near a market that will take them all. The winter apple that is hardly fit for eating in the fall and yet will not keep in an ordinary cellar is of little use on the farm, and it should be avoided. No matter how good it is, if it must be kept in a cold storage house to remain eatable it is an impracticable apple for the farmer to grow.

I bought a barrel of apples a short time ago from a neighbor. They were very fine in appearance when I purchased them, but in a short time they began to rot badly. We tried to eat them up to save them from the rot, and succeeded partially, but it is an expensive method of furnishing the family with fruit. I think it is just here that we have so much to be thankful for in the Ben Davis, Baldwin, Greening, Russet and other old standbys. When we put a barrel of these apples in the cellar we do not feel that we must hurry and use them up and exclude the use of all other fruit during the time they are being eaten.

It has been my observation that much of the poorly keeping fruit on the farm is due to farmers buying and planting the varieties recommended by the traveling agents. Many a farmer is soft-hearted and when the agent comes to him and talks to him about his particular variety—his novelty—which is always high priced, he does not like to refuse to buy it of him. If he suggests that he would prefer the standard varieties, he is discouraged by the agent, whose motive is to sell high-priced trees rather than low-priced trees.

The novelties are generally poor-keepers, because most of the apples that have been tried are poor-keepers. Only now and then does an apple have the combination of good quality in flavor and texture and good quality as to keeping. There are young orchards on some of our farms that never will amount to anything even if they bear heavily, because the fruit is of varieties that will not keep in cellars.—Milton Knight, Cherry Co., Neb.

Americana Plums.

Americana plums ought to be studied by all fruit growers living west of the great lakes and north of a line drawn through central Illinois, east and west. These plums are very suitable to this great region, more so than many other varieties. There are probably 100 varieties of Americana plums of good quality and of commercial value. These varieties grow in all parts of the country. Domesticas can be grown where this family of plums can be produced, as they are more popular plums than the Americanas, but the farmers of the northwest will find Americanas the most satisfactory for them.

Japanese Plums.

Japanese plums have become quite popular in some sections of the country where they do well. They do not, however, thrive in the Northwest, and readers of the Farmers' Review living in Northern Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota will generally make a mistake if they try to grow them. We say "generally," for the reason that here and there are situations in which the plums do fairly well. South of the Great Lakes and southeastwardly they do well. They do not seem to be adapted to cold, dry winters.

HIGH CLASS DRUGGISTS

AND — OTHERS.

The better class of druggists, everywhere, are men of scientific attainments and high integrity, who devote their lives to the welfare of their fellow men in supplying the best of remedies and purest medicinal agents of known value, in accordance with physicians' prescriptions and scientific formula. Druggists of the better class manufacture many excellent remedies, but always under original or officinal names and they never sell false brands, or imitation medicines. They are the men to deal with when in need of anything in their line, which usually includes all standard remedies and corresponding adjuncts of a first-class pharmacy and the finest and best of toilet articles and preparations and many useful accessories and remedial appliances. The earning of a fair living, with the satisfaction which arises from a knowledge of the benefits conferred upon their patrons and assistance to the medical profession, is usually their greatest reward for long years of study and many hours of daily toil. They all know that Syrup of Figs is an excellent laxative remedy and that it gives universal satisfaction, and therefore they are selling many millions of bottles annually to the well informed purchasers of the choicest remedies, and they always take pleasure in handing out the genuine article bearing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package. They know that in cases of colds and headaches attended by biliousness and constipation and of weakness or torpidity of the liver and bowels, arising from irregular habits, indigestion, or over-eating, that there is no other remedy so pleasant, prompt and beneficial in its effects as Syrup of Figs, and they are glad to sell it because it gives universal satisfaction.

Owing to the excellence of Syrup of Figs, the universal satisfaction which it gives and the immense demand for it, imitations have been made, tried and condemned, but there are individual druggists to be found, here and there, who do not maintain the dignity and principles of the profession and whose greed gets the better of their judgment, and who do not hesitate to recommend and try to sell the imitations in order to make a larger profit. Such preparations sometimes have the name—"Syrup of Figs"—or "Fig Syrup" and of some piratical concern, or fictitious fig syrup company, printed on the package, but they never have the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of the package. The imitations should be rejected because they are injurious to the system. In order to sell the imitations they find it necessary to resort to misrepresentation or deception, and whenever a dealer passes off on a customer a preparation under the name of "Syrup of Figs" or "Fig Syrup," which does not bear the full name of the California Fig Syrup Co. printed on the front of the package, he is attempting to deceive and mislead the patron who has been so unfortunate as to enter his establishment, whether it be large or small, for if the dealer resorts to misrepresentation and and deception in one case he will do so with other medicinal agents, and in the filling of physicians' prescriptions, and should be avoided by every one who values health and happiness. Knowing that the great majority of druggists are reliable, we supply the immense demand for our excellent remedy entirely through the druggists, of whom it may be purchased everywhere, in original packages only, at the regular price of fifty cents per bottle, but as exceptions exist it is necessary to inform the public of the facts, in order that all may decline or return any imitation which may be sold to them. If it does not bear the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, do not hesitate to return the article and to demand the return of your money, and in future go to one of the better class of druggists who will sell you what you wish and the best of everything in his line at reasonable prices.

"Y-a-as'r," replied the negro.

"Oh-h-h, ya-as'r," said the old fellow, with a low bow. "Ya-as'r; a co't is a place whah dey dispensis with justice!"—Saturday Evening Post.

DID A WORLD OF GOOD

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Cure Heart Pains, Dizzy Spells and Weakness.

Easy to get, hard to get rid of; that is what most sufferers think of dyspepsia. They are astonished when their stomach begins to trouble them seriously.

They had been eating hurriedly and irregularly for a long time, to be sure, but they supposed their stomachs quite used to that.

Some people know that the strength which the weak stomach needs, and for the lack of which the whole body is suffering, can be found surely and quickly in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In hundreds of instances these pills have succeeded where other remedies failed.

"My indigestion," said Mr. J. R. Miller, of Dayton, Va., "came in the first place from the fact that a few years ago I worked a great deal at night, and ate at any odd hour whenever the chance came, and always very hurriedly. One day I found myself a victim of terrible dyspepsia. It kept me miserable all the time for several years.

"I always had a great deal of distress after eating, and when I got up from my sleep my stomach would be so weak that it would hardly take any food. I had very uncomfortable feelings about my heart, and was dizzy and, whenever I stooped over and then straightened up, my eyes would be badly blurred.

"I read the statements of several persons who had got rid of obstinate stomach troubles by using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I bought some and they did me a world of good. They acted promptly and did just what was claimed for them. I have no more distress after meals; the bad feeling has gone from the region of my heart; the alarming dizzy spells have disappeared, and I am strong again."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists and by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

THE MARAUDER.

There came a beggar to my door,
  A comely little lad,
With sun-kissed hair and azure eyes,
  With pensive mien, and sad.

So meek he seemed—so poor—alone,
  I wept at such ill-faring—
Regardez! When he entered in
  He proved a robber daring.

He barred the door, he barred the pane,
  (Defenseless quite he found me),
A prisoner in my own demesne,
  With braggart oaths he bound me.

He mocked my tears, he stole my heart,
  With jest and gibe to flout me;
With rose-leaf strung on rose-leaf red
  He wove his chains about me.

Quoth he: "Such sorry garb as yours
  No thief would deign to borrow!"
He stripped me of my Cynic's robe,
  Of Loneliness and Sorrow.

He found my store of Doubts and Fears,
  Made loot to merry measure;
He scattered far to left and right
  A hoard of doleful treasure.

He sealed my lips with kisses three,
  And swore he'd stay no longer,
But though he made to loose my chains
  I felt the links grow stronger.

Ay, strong as steel, these shackles sweet
  I would not break nor sever—
A prisoner in my own demesne,
  Love holds me fast forever.
—Meribah Philbrick-Reed, in Life.

A PORTRAIT

TWO children, a boy and a girl, stood before a painting that hung upon the wall. The boy gazed with all his soul in his eyes, dimly conscious, perhaps, of what the picture would some day mean to him. It represented a soldier mounted on a black charger, and the man's face was eager, ardent and earnest. With sword in his uplifted hand he seemed urging men to battle.

The little girl indifferently glanced at the portrait from time to time. She had seen it so many times, and then, too, patriotism had not yet awakened in her undisciplined little heart. She was proud in the thought, however, that she possessed something of absorbing interest to her new neighbor. Finally, she began to relate the story she had heard so often.

"You see, it's a really true man, and he painted himself on papa's horse. Those are the clothes he wore in battle—"

"Humph!" said the boy scornfully, looking at her with the superiority derived from his sex and his four years' seniority. "Those aren't fighting clothes, Lucile! He's on parade."

Lucile wondered vaguely what that might be and then begged him to "come and play."

They played for many a day to come, and then the boy's parents moved to another city.

Seven years later he came back for a visit. He had now attained the great age of 17 and when he had met his former playmate, who had just proudly entered upon her "teens," that long-looked-for period, he said most condescendingly:

"Why, this must be little Lucile Felton!"

Straightway Lucile felt she hated him and they spent a few weeks of turbulent companionship in strife.

"I thought you were going to be a soldier," she said one day, "like the man on horseback in the picture!"

"What's the use of being a soldier?" he laughed. "There are no wars. I'd rather be the man that painted the picture than the soldier he represents Let's go and look at it again."

"Papa gave it away—to the man who gave him the horse."

Ten years passed before Paul Willis saw his little playmate again. It was evening of a summer day at a fashionable watering place. He had just arrived and was instantly surrounded by a group of old-time friends who claimed his attention and recognition after his years of foreign travel. Looking beyond the little group about him into the ballroom, his roving gaze was instantly caught and held by the vision of a girl with a pair of wonderful dark and deep eyes, an exquisite face and a quiet dignity in the carriage of her svelte figure.

"Who is she?" he asked of the man nearest him, and even before the answer came he knew the name would be "Lucile Felton."

"Look out!" he was warned, "Lucile cannot be accused of flirting, but she attracts all men and always turns them down."

She saw him coming across the room and knew him by the winsome brown eyes that were still the eyes of the little boy she had played with years before.

"Oh, yes!" she said carelessly, as he recalled himself to her memory. "I remember all my old playmates."

BADGER.

A number of friends gathered at M. Quesnell Sunday evening and enjoyed themselves immensely.

Miss Lucil Cadieux of Terrebonne is visiting friends and relatives here this week.

A crowd of friends met at D. Champeau's, Sunday afternoon and remained for supper, the remainder of the evening was spent in card playing.

Mr. and Mrs. L. St. Ives and family spent Saturday evening at M. Quesnell.

Miss Alma Quesnell returned home Tuesday after being absent for two weeks.

A number of Mr. and Mrs. D. Lachance's friends gathered at their home Sunday for supper and had a jolly good time.

Miss Cora Laurent, who has been staying at Breckenridge for several months is visiting with her parents here for three or four weeks. Miss Cora arrived without her folks knowing about it but she was royally welcomed by all.

HUNTER'S ODD EXPERIENCE

Fox and Hawk Attempt to Purloin Quail His Gun Had Brought Down.

Dr. William Rowland, of Pasadena, who was up at Middle Ranch quail shooting a few days prior to the close of the season, had a most unique experience, relates an Avalon correspondent of the Los Angeles Times.

He ran upon a covey of quail, and, flushing them, dropped one with his left barrel, and then, at considerable of an angle, dropped another with the right barrel. Turning to his first bird, he was just in time to see a fox snatch it up and start to run away with it. Quickly pumping another cartridge into his gun, he let the fox have it, knocking him stiff. After reconnoitering a minute, and finding his first bird, he was returning to pick up the second, when something shot down like an arrow from the skies in front of him, the object proving to be an osprey.

The quail had been wounded, and its fluttering attracted the attention of the big hawk, which, while sailing through the ether had an eye out for a quail dinner, and, darting upon the wounded bird, was about to cheat the hunter out of his quarry. Dr. Rowland, while amazed at the turn of events. did not propose to stand for such a play, and, training his ready gun on the bold robber, with a pull of the trigger put him out of commission, and saved both his birds.

PHOTOGRAPHING AN OWL.

Easy of Accomplishment If a Dog Be Brought to View of the Bird.

The great horned owl may also be fascinated by a dog, writes Silas A. Lottridge, in "The Great Horned Owl," in St. Nicholas. And the photographing of the great horned owl under these conditions is not difficult; wait until the owl seizes the fowl and stops to rest on the return to the woods; then let a dog be led to within 20 or 30 feet of the owl, and the bird will be all attention for the dog and take no apparent notice of the person leading it. The behavior of the owl at such times is very amusing. It stands motionless, gazing intently at the dog; but after a few minutes, if the dog remains quiet, the bird seems to become nervous, and steps first to one side and then to the other, hissing, snapping its beak, and ruffling its feathers. After this the owl will usually try to make off with its prey; but if another halt is made, the bird's actions show even more nervousness. While the owl's attention is thus attracted is the time to approach within "photo-distance" to get the "snap-shots."

The Papal Flag.

The papal flag is comparatively unfamiliar outside of the Eternal city The war flag of the defunct temporal power of the pope was white, and in its center stood figures of St. Peter and St. Paul with the cross-keys and tiara above them. The flag of the merchant ships owned by the subjects of the states of the church is a curious combination, half yellow and half white, with the design of the cross-keys on the white. In the banner used by the crusader king of Jerusalem, Godfrey, the only tinctures introduced were the two metals, gold and silver, five golden crosses being placed upon a silver field. This was done with the intention of making the device unique, as in all other cases it is deemed false heraldry to place metal on metal.—Chicago Journal.

ROAD AND FARM IMPROVEMENT

AN EXCELLENT RAT TRAP.

Home-Made Device Which Will Catch the Most Wary and Cunning Rodent.

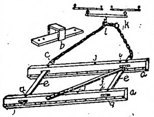
The only kind of trap proved to the writer a complete success is the deadfall shown in the accompanying cut. It has been used in his family for nearly half a century, catching, during that time, an army of rats. Simple in construction, it is, nevertheless, so swift and deadly in its action that any rodent, having once sprung it, never escapes.

Wonderful to relate, as many as eight rats have been caught in such a trap at one time, which, though it did not kill them, held them prisoners until they could be dispatched, says Fred O. Sibley, in Epitomist. The platform A should be about 20 inches square, and the drop B consist of hardwood plank with two holes bored through exactly middle-way, so that it will slide readily up and down the posts supporting the crosspiece H. Through the center of this is a hole for the similar action of the circular post D, which is securely embedded into B. A piece of light band-iron is G, which, when the trap is set, rests on the support H and, being loosely fastened to D at I by an iron pin, thus holds up the plank B. The rat enters and begins nibbling at Indian meal sprinkled in the groove of the platform at J, and finally reaching the spindle, hidden beneath it, agitates it enough to displace the bottom E on the outside; this, in turn, releases both the string F and band-iron G, the latter of which, owing to the weight of the plank B, is drawn upward into a groove, sawed middle-way through D by its sliding down the hole in the center of H and as the motion of B is then exceedingly fast, the victim, ere it can scramble over the sides round the platform, is caught and killed. Provided the affair is nicely adjusted and made so that it operates easily, there is no patented trap on the market, to my knowledge, half as good, for it has such an innocent appearance that the oldest and most cunning rat will ultimately be caught by it. To work well the spindle C should have a little play, and the more lightly the button E rests against the notch cut in it and yet will hold, the better. Made on a smaller scale, this kind of trap is also most excellent with which to catch mice.

HOME-MADE ROAD. SCRAPER

It Will Do as Good Work as the High-Priced Grader, and Is Very Durable.

In the illustration a a are 3x12x8 feet long, bottom edge beveled with its hoe of steel ¼x4 inches, bolted on cutting edge as shown at g. The crosspieces, e e, are bolted with inch bolts in mortises 1x8, two inches from the top of a a, and made out of 1x4x30-inch iron, which has holes in front ends to fasten draft chain to, also a hole in e at the right-hand end to bolt brace, f, on, which is also bolted to the rear a at h. The guider, f, is 1x2 inches and six feet long, with holes in back end so the rear a can be changed at any time so it will properly follow front a. A seat board, b, is bolted to a a at i i when team is hitched at b for ditching, and at j j when smoothing up the roadbed. The right-hand ends of a a are sloped back 45 degrees to prevent catching in the bank of side ditch. If properly made of good material, this is very durable, and does almost as good work as a costly grader.—Farm and Home.



ROAD GRADER.

FARM FACTS AND FANCIES.

Farming is a poor business when the farming is poor.

Wire fencing is more durable and cheaper than wood.

A farmer without plans is next to a ship without a rudder.

One way to increase the profits in farming is to reduce the cost of production.

What per cent. of that seed corn do you think will grow? If you haven't tested it, you don't know.

The greatest saving of time is made by the use of the best tools in the preparation of the ground, planting the seed, and after cultivation.

It is much more profitable to keep land in good condition than to get it out of such condition by one-sided fertilization and then try to bring it back.

Time will be saved and you will be apt to be more careful in your selection if the seed corn is selected this month. If you intend buying seed, place your order now.

Every farmer should have his seed corn testing patch on which competing selections from his own fields and varieties secured elsewhere may be subjected to a careful field test under his own eye.

Jack Sclesinger Breaks Through Ice and Goes Across Apron of Dam

Jack, the 16 year old son of Emil Sclesinger has every reason to thank fortune that he is alive today after his experience in trying to cross the ice above the apron of the Red Lake Falls Milling Co's., dam on Tuesday of last week and if it had not been for his presence of mind and the fact that he is a strong swimmer a different tale might have had to be told.

Jack was crossing the ice above the apron on his way into the country to chop wood when the ice gave away and he was swept over the apron and a considerable distance under the ice below it. As the river is about four feet below the ice covering it, he was able to swin against the current and make the edge where he pulled himself onto solid ice. Jack mourns the loss of his double bitted axe but he thinks he may recover it next summer when the water gets a little warmer.

WILL LAY CEMENT WALKS.

Cashier Duffy, of the Merchants State bank, will start the ball arolling for cement walks for the business district by laying a cement walk in front of the bank as soon as the weather conditions will premit it. It will be 10 feet wide of one foot blocks and will have a cement curbing. This is the beginning of what the COURIER hopes will be continued as each sidewalk is condemned by the city. While the cost is higher than a wooden walk it proves cheapest in the long run. The blocks will be made in this city which fact should prove an incentive for others to put in that class o walks.

ICE CUTTING LAWS.

Persons cutting ice would do well to observe Sec. 6640 of the General Statutes, 1894, providing that "A person or corporation cutting ice in or upon any water wholly or partly within the boundaries of this state for the purpose of removing the ice for sale, must surround the cuttings and openings made with fences of brushes or other guarbs sufficient to warn all persons of such cuttings and openings; which fences or guards must be erected at or before the time of commencing the cuttings or openings, and must be maintained until ice has again formed therein to the thickness of at least six inches. Whoever omits to comply with this section is guilty of a misdemeanor."

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE PRACTICALLY READY.

Crookston's School For For Farmers Will Be Ready By February First.

The change of appearance that has recently been taken on at the agricultural school says the Crookston Journal that is now nearly completed on the state farm outside of the city, enables it to present a very handsome appearance which is decidedly pleasant to the eye.

All of the outside work has been completed and practically all of the interior also. There remains now but the finishing touches on the main floor. The second and third floors are now all ready for occupancy being finished by the workmen. A crew of men are now laying the tile on the main floor where the painters are also working. The appearance that the exterior now presents is certainly a fine one and would be a credit to any place. The architect work is exceptionally fine and pleasing to the eye. Located as it is on a pretty plot with a large campus it will in the near future be one of the handsomest places in this part of the state.

Contractors that are working on the construction expressed themselves as being very well pleased with the way that the work had proceeded. The contract called for the building ready for occupancy the 15th of this month but this was entirely out of the question. It will nevertheless be ready to be turned over to the officials the first of the coming month.

CAME AS A SURPRISE

A Responsible Position Given As Result Of Meritorious And Conscientious Work.

Probably there was no more surprised man in Red Lake Falls, Monday than George F. Hennings when at a director's meeting of the First State bank he was tendered the position as cashier of the bank. Theo. Gar-ceau, the former cashier retiring and was appointed president.

The appointment of Mr. Hennings to such a responsible position is certainly flattering to a young man of his age but we dare say the trust reposed in him by the directors has not been misplaced. He has been with the institution the past three years as book keeper and has proven himself capable and loyal to his employers interests.

The officers of the bank are as follows: President, Theo Garceau; vice president, Frank Hunt, cashier, Geo. F. Hennings; assistant cashier, C. L. Hansen.

MAY GO IT BLIND

Revised Statutes Not Likely to Be Ready by March 1.

The revised statutes of 1905 will go into effect March 1, next, but may not be published by that time, says the Minneapolis Journal. Hardly any of the text has even been set up, and 200 pages of index are about the only evidences of progress. Printers cannot figure out how the great work can be turned out in the sixty days remaining.

The state will be in a strange predicament if the work is not out March 1. It will be existing under laws of which no one, not even the lawyers, will have a correct copy. The only publication now out is the revision as drafted by the commission, which was amended by the legislature in thousands of places and is being placed together and annotated by Mark H. Dunnell of Owatonna. Mr. Dunnell is much later in turning in copy than had been expected. In addition the printers, it is claimed, are in bad shape, and are sending matter to Chicago to be set. Every effort will be made to rush the work out. Lawyers are alarmed over the condition things will be in after March 1. No legal proceedings can be safely taken without knowledge of just how the law on the subject reads. State and county officers and the courts will be almost at a standstill after March 1 until the revision is issued.

SOO MAY EXTEND

Surveys Being Made Which Taps Several Towns.

C. H. Kelley, of the corps of engineers, in the employ of the Soo line now engaged at surveying a new line for proposed extension of that railway system from Thief River Falls to Duluth. He is in advance of the party much of the time getting a general idea of the country thru which they will pass, and communicating at intervals with the party in regard to the topography of the country.

It is said that the line will follow the continental divide quite closely. According to present plans the line will cross the Mississippi river, about 14 miles north of Grand Rapids, the Leech river near Gould postoffice and from there the line will follow up the north side of Turtle river crossing the tracks of the Minnesota and International road at Farley. The line running between Turtle Lake and Lake Julia. From there it will run in a general northwesterly direction on the divide, connecting with the Thief River Falls extension in 151 range 41.

It now seems to be generally accepted that the line between Duluth and Thief River Falls will be built this year. The final surveys are being made, and according to the reports current in railroad circles the project is to be put thru at once. Whether it will be known as the Soo line or the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic is not known, there being reports both ways in the matter. —Crookston Journal.

MONEY INVESTED

Minnesota Public Schools, Libraries, Apparatus and Furniture.

Minnesota now has invested in its public schools $22,011,624, an increase of $1,265,125 over a year ago. There is a debt of $5,382,632 in these buildings. The total amount is divided as follows: School houses and sites, $19,616,922; seats and desks, $1,317,530; apparatus, $606,433; libraries, $477,216. These figures have been compiled by the department of public instruction from reports of the county superintendents for the year ending July 31. Comparing the valuation of school property with the number of school children shows that in the independent and special districts about $86 is invested for each child enrolled, while in the common school districts the average per child is only $30.

About a dozen of our local chicken fanciers met at Germo & Farley's office Monday evening for the purpose of organizing a poultry association. A temporary organization was perfected and a committee composed of L. C. Simons, P. O. Floan and Albert Nauman was appointed to draft a constitution and set of bylaws to be presented at a meeting called for Monday evening next at which time a permanent organization will undoubtedly become a fact. Fanciers of blooded poultry from this city as well as the entire county are most urgently requested to enroll as members and aid in making the organization both a practical and profitable one.

The News of the Week

Washington.

The senate committee on public lands has reported favorably the bill introduced by Senator Nelson ceding to the state of Minnesota for park or forestry purposes Star Island in Cass lake.

Lieut. Gen. Chaffee has tendered his resignation as chief of staff, U. S. A., to take effect at once, and it was accepted by the president. Gen. Chaffee does not go on the retired list until Feb. 1, but he desired to relinquish the duties of chief of staff that he might have a fifteen days' leave of absence before retiring from active service. Gen. Bates, assistant chief of staff, succeeds him as chief of staff.

Representative Burke of South Dakota has introduced a bill which he says it is calculated to meet demoralizing conditions among the Indians growing out of a recent decision of the supreme court in which it was held to be lawful to sell liquor to an Indian who holds land under allotment. The bill postpones for twenty-five years the citizenship of Indians who shall hereafter acquire lands through allotment.

From Other Shores.

A sanguinary fight between peasants and gendarmerie took place in connection with the election of a judge at the village of Bilke in the Bereg district, Hungary. Six peasants and two gendarmes were killed and numbers were wounded.

The biggest fire which has occurred at Panama in three years burned two blocks inhabited by the poorer classes. There is much indignation against the sanitary department as, according to current reports, the fire was caused by the carelessness of employes of that department.

The government's prosecution of Toronto plumbers as individuals for combination in restraint of trade and conspiracy has resulted in 134 men pleading guilty. Forty more were fined a total of $10,600, the fines of the others being suspended. The combination as a whole was fined $12,000 several weeks ago.

Casualties.

Fourteen residences, several barns and the Lutheran church in Dubois county, Ind., were badly damaged by the storm that passed over this section.

Arthur Sears, twenty-two years old, was killed while unloading logs from a car at Wells, Mich. The logs gave way suddenly, instantly crushing the life out of him.

The Baltimore & Ohio No. 6 was wrecked at Attica, Ohio, by the top of a freight car which had blown across the track by the high winds. The engineer and fireman were killed.

Convoy, Ohio, a town of 800 inhabitants, was almost wiped out by fire. A large number of business places and residences were burned. The losses will probably aggregate $75,000, partly covered by insurance.

Three Belgian children, the oldest of whom was six years, were burned to death at the Cornell Coal company fields, five miles northeast of Pittsburg, Kan., in a fire which destroyed the home of their mother.

While Mrs. George Beder of Thompsonville, Mich., was in the barn at her home the house in which she had left her two young babies caught fire and both of them lost their lives. One was burned to a crisp and the other was suffocated by smoke.

Otto J. John, an employe of the Lennox Furnace company, died at Marshalltown, Iowa, as the result of a peculiar injury received the preceding evening. He was carrying a piece of shafting on his shoulder, when he slipped on the ice and fell, the shafting in some manner striking him on the back of the head and fracturing his skull.

A seven-story warehouse building in course of construction in Chicago by the Harder Furniture and Van company, practically collapsed, injuring three workmen, one of them seriously. A heavy gale was blowing at the time and it carried down a part of the north wall, which fell in upon the floor where over 100 men were at work.

A section of the Windsor hotel at Montreal was destroyed by fire, causing a loss estimated at $150,000. The remainder of the hotel, which is one of the largest in Canada, was saved by heavy brick walls and fireproof doors which confined the flames to the section where they originated.

Fire destroyed Fleming's saloon, the store of the Judith Commercial company and John Kite's store at Moore, a new town on the Montana railroad in Fergus county, Mont. All were small affairs, the total loss not exceeding $6,000.

The school fire drill came very handy during a fire in Rowell schoolhouse in Great Falls, Mont., as there were 150 pupils in the building. The little ones were marshalled into line and got safely out of the building.

As the result of a premature explosion of a blast in the Hocking coal mines near Oskaloosa, Iowa, Ambrose Sheppard, aged twenty years, and his brother Willie, aged fifteen, are dead, and their father is seriously injured. While they were engaged in firing a shot a second was discharged, burying them under tons of coal.

The immense ice houses of the Union Pacific Railroad company at North Platte, Neb., the largest on the system, part of them filled with ice, were totally destroyed by fire, causing a loss estimated at $50,000. Nine buildings, each 112 feet long, were burned. It is alleged that the carelessness of workmen in putting on tar roofing caused the fire.

The Norwegian steamer Iris, commanded by Capt. Devig, which sailed from New Orleans, Dec. 9, via Norfolk, Dec. 29, for Esbjerk, Denmark, has been wrecked off Horn's reef, in the North Sea, about twenty miles to the westward from Esbjerg. All the members of the crew, with the exception of one fireman, were rescued. It is believed that the vessel and her entire cargo will bcome a total loss.

Crimes and Criminals.

Ex-Mayor John T. McMillan of Ashtabula, O., was indicted on the charge of voting more than once at the last election. Two policemen charged with permitting prisoners being held in jail for voting illegally, to escape, were also indicted.

Partially paralyzed, principal in a divorce suit and engaged in another suit against a neighboring ranchman for $20,000 for "alienating his wife's affections," Edward Keaster, a well-known and wealthy ranchman living in Highwood county, Mont., committed suicide.

Six men drove three wagons to the general store of Halifax & Lewis at East St. Louis, Ill., knocked down John Halifax and guarded him with a knife while the store was looted and considerable stock loaded into the wagons. The six escaped, but were pursued and arrested.

Gov. Pardee of California commuted the sentence of George Barker, sent from San Francisco to the Folsom prison for life in 1898. T. F. Gorman, who was executed in Nevada last month, made a confession in which he said he committed the highway robbery of which Barker was convicted.

Forty-four indictments were brought in by the grand jury at Owasso, Mich., which for several weeks has been investigating Shiawasse county affairs and the construction of the new court house. All but five of the indictments are against members of the board of supervisors, who are charged with exceeding their proper authority in making a $75,000 appropriation for the new court house without the sanction of the voters.

Domestic.

The general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States has appointed Jan. 25 as the day of prayer for schools and colleges throughout the country.

A marriage license was issued at Noblesville, Ind., to Ellis Carey, 27 years old, and Mary Gentry, aged 47. Mr. Carey's first wife, who died a year ago, was a daughter of his present wife.

The National Hardwood Manufacturers' association has elected William Wilms of Chicago president. The association decided to increase the price of hardwood from $1 to $2 per thousand.

Joseph Brennan, an actor, was shot and probably fatally wounded in a quarrel with Michael J. Walsh, also an actor, at Chicago. Walsh surrendered to the police. He says he acted in self-defense.

W. M. Wolf, professor of theology in Brigham Young college, a Mormon institution at Logan, Utah, has caused a stir in Mormon circles by renouncing his belief in the Mormon faith, refusing to pay tithes and severing his relations with the college.

As the result of the mysterious disappearance of F. C. Armstrong, cashier of the Washington National bank of Pittsburg over three weeks ago, the depositors, mostly foreigners, have started a run on the bank. The officers of the bank say there is no discrepancy.

The fight made by Senator E. T. Brackett of Saratoga, N. Y., against the life insurance grafters, and his demand that Chauncey M. Depew resign from the United States senate, has brought its own reward. His county is preparing to bring him to the front as the Republican candidate for governor to succeed Higgins.

In an effort to stop the wave of crime which has become epidemic in Chicago, 500 patrolmen are to be added to the police department. This recommendation was made by the city council's committee which was appointed to investigate the failure of the police department to give the proper protection to life and property.

Gov. Joseph K. Toole announced that he will call a special session of the Montana legislature to remedy the bond situation along the lines proposed by Atty. Gen. Galen, providing for an extra issue of bonds to cover the amount of those declared illegal.

STANDARD OIL GETS A SHOCK

NEW YORK CONTROLLER GETS QUICK ACTION IN CITY BANK CASE.

DODGES TAXES NINE YEARS

THE BANK MAY BE FORCED TO PAY $800,000 IN BACK TAXES.

New York, Jan. 21—Controller Metz got quick action yesterday from the Standard Oil clique as a result of his reviving the deal by which the National City bank has escaped taxation in the old Wall street custom house for nearly nine years.

Dropping the usual Standard Oil policy of defiance and silence, officials of the Standard Oil pet bank lost no time yesteerday in asking for a conference with the controller. Vice President Frank A. Vandeerlip of the National City bank requested the controller to confer with him to-day about the matter before toward forcing the bank to pay the $70,000 a year tax to the city which it evades through a technicality.

This will be followed by a conference between the controller and President Stillman. The controller said last evening that he is hopeful that a belated victory will be won for public opinion and that the bank will be forced to surrender its technical fight to escape taxation on the $4,500,000 custom house property.

No Blackmail, Says Mayor.

The National City bank is the clearing bank for the city's funds, and the depository of city moneys to the extent of $4,000,000 or $5,000,000 yearly. It was suggested to Mayor McClellan that the banking commission — the mayor, controller and city chamberlain—meet and notify the bank officials that unless the bank gives some evidence of a desire to treat the tax commissioners fairly and not evade reasonable taxation by a technicality, the city would feel itself compelled to deal through some other bank. The mayor said:

"No scheme to blackmail the United States government appeals to me."

Has Never Paid Taxes.

The National City bank, although it has received about $1,000,000 in rents for the building, has never paid one cent of taxes to the city. Mr. Metz hopes to have actions begun which will force the National City bank to pay the city $800,000 in taxes, the amount which it has escaped paying by a trick in the contract under which although the bank gets the rental for the building at the rate of $130,000 a year, the title is still vested in the government.

FELL FROM ELEVATED.

Brooklyn Electric Car Drops From High Tracks to the Street.

New York, Jan. 21. — One person was killed and a dozen injured when a car on the elevated railroad in Brooklyn fell to the street yesterday. The car was crowded with passengers. The accident occurred at a curve on the Lexington avenue line of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company, at Fulton and Chestnut streets. The train, which consisted of three cars, jumped the track at a switch, and the first two cars remained on the elevated structure, while the rear car fell into the street.

SAYS HE NEEDED TIMBER.

Montana Man Is Convicted of Cutting Uncle Sam's Wood.

Helena, Mont., Jan. 21. — Charles Ahlm was convicted in federal court yesterday of cutting timber on public lands in Missoula county, the jury reaching a verdict in a few minutes. When Ahlm was on the witness stand he admitted cutting timber, about 300,000 feet, coolly informing the court, who questioned him, that he needed it to procure flour and bacon. In the light of his frank admission the jury had little difficulty in agreeing upon a verdict of guilty.

SON IS NOT A MURDERER.

"Countess" Is Found to Have Died of Heart Disease.

Philadelphia, Jan. 21. — The coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict to the effect that Mrs. Anita McMurrow, who claimed to be the Countess de Bettancourt, died of heart disease. John McMurrow, her son, who was arrested after her death because of statements of neighbors, was released from custody.

Chief Counterfeiter Caught.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 21.—James R. Barnard, said by the police to be the chief of a gang of counterfeiters, was arrested at his home in this city at daylight yesterday by the local police at the request of United States Secret Agent Walker.

Eighteen Bodies Recovered.

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 21.—All of the eighteen bodies have been recovered from the Detroit mines on Paint creek, the scene of the dust explosion Thursday.

WILL NOT PUNISH BIGELOW

SENATORS NOT DISPOSED TO MAKE A MARTYR OF THE WRITER.

Washington, Jan. 21. — The senate committee on interoceanic canals at its meeting yesterday postponed until next week consideration of the recalcitration of Poultney Bigelow. Before the meeting several members said they had slept over the case and are now disposed not to make a "martyr" of a witness "whose testimony appeared to be of too little value to dignify his conduct with summary punishment." It is believed he will go unpunished.

The committee held an executive session of two hours yesterday. Senator Hopkins offered a resolution certifying Mr. Bigelow's contumacy to the vice president for action in the courts, and asked that it be adopted. Several Democratic senators opposed this course, and Senator Simmons addressed the committee at length. He closed with the statement that he would never sign a resolution to certify the case to the courts, and he was joined in this by Senators Gorman and Taliaferro. Senator Hopkins withdrew his resolution.

AMERICAN NOT CAPTIVE.

St. Petersburg Correspondent Denies Report of Walling's Arrest.

New York, Jan. 21. — The correspondent of the Associated Press at St. Petersburg having been queried constantly concerning the reported arrest of William English Walling in that city for revolutionary activity, telegraphed yesterday that Mr. Walling has not been arrested and that the report to that effect is without foundation.

Will Be No Disorder.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 21.—There is little prospect of any disorder on Monday next, though the revolutionist-labor organizations and a vast mass of the labor of Russia are determined to honor the memory of the ill starred followers of Father Gapon by the cessation of work and pleasure on the anniversary of their death.

"The anniversary of 'Red Sunday' will be observed as a day of mourning and not of strife," said a leading member of the revolutionist committee.

LIBERALS STILL GAINING.

Two More Former Ministers Go Down to Defeat.

London, Jan. 21.—The election returns continue to show Liberal gains. Two more former ministers were defeated yesterday—William Bromley-Davenport, financial secretary to the war office, in the Macclesfield division of Cheshire, and Sir Robert Finlay, attorney general, at Inverness, Scotland. Another prominent Unionist, Sir Frederick Milner, was unseated in the Bassetlaw division of Nottinghamshire. The complete returns up to last night are as follows: Liberals, 228; Unionists, 96; Nationalists, 72; Laborites, 37.

Convict Who Carved Gallows as a Toy Is Hanged.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 21. — William Vandalsen, a white man aged twenty-three years, was hanged here yesterday for the murder last fall of Miss Fannie Porter. Vandalsen occupied his time in jail by making toys, among them being a miniature gallows with a body suspended. For this he received an offer from a Kansas City man, but declined it and gave the trinket to the jail steward.

IS ARRAIGNED BY BEEF TRUST

COMMISSIONER GARFIELD, SAYS COUNSEL, PROMISED IMMUNITY.

GARFIELD MAY BE WITNESS

GOVERNMENT IS ON TRIAL INSTEAD OF TRUST IN CHICAGO SUIT.

Chicago, Jan. 21. — Attorneys for the packers arraigned the government sharply yesterday for the policy they declare it had pursued through Commissioner of Corporations Garfield in the investigation of the charges against the packers. Attorney John S. Miller declared that Commissioner Garfield had said in the presence of witnesses that if he was allowed to obtain evidence from the books of the packers he would consider the evidence so gained to be the same as if it had been developed before him in a formal hearing. Mr. Miller declared that he would prove this by Commissioner Garfield if the commissioner would take the stand.

Entitled to Immunity.

Mr. Miller contended that under a proper construction of the law there could be no doubt that the packers were entitled to immunity because of their action in turning over to the commissioner all the information which he sought.

Commissioner Garfield would make no comment on the remarks of Attorney Miller, declaring that he might be a witness in the case later on and that it would not be proper for him to discuss it before he was called to the stand.

Commissioner Garfield, who was in the court room when the statements were made by the attorney, began writing rapidly, taking notes of the statements made by Mr. Miller.

Right to Protection.

Attorney Miller concluded his address at noon and was followed by Attorney George W. Brown, also for the packers, who, in his opening statement, referred to the magnitude of the business done by the packers and their right to have in Chicago, which he called the "stock center of the world," a right to protection.

Attorney Brown continued his statement until the adjournment of court.

PAY TRIBUTE TO FIELD.

Chicago Business Houses Close in Respect to Dead Merchant.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—Never before in the history of Chicago has such respect been paid to the memory of a private citizen as was shown yesterday to that of Marshall Field. During the hours of the funeral services at the house and the church all of the large retail establishments on State street were closed, the 1,000 enterprises operated by the members of the Chicago Commercial club and situated in all parts of the city were closed. Funeral services were held at his late home, 1905 Prairie avenue, and in the First Presbyterian church.

FIND BURIED RICHES.

$100,000 Hidden by Men While Menaced by Indians in 1848 Is Found.

Emporia, Kan., Jan. 21. — Marion Turner and Otto Freshwater, both of Emporia, claim to have found buried treasure to the value of $100,000 in or near Phoenix Mound, southwest of here. The treasure is said to have been buried in 1848 by three men who were on their way East from California and who concealed their riches when surrounded by Indians.

Daly, a contractor of Sanborn, filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities amounting to $6,541 and assets of $25, all exempt.

St. Otto's Catholic congregation of Fergus Falls has purchased two lots adjoining the present church property on Cavour avenue and are planning to erect a handsome new edifice at a cost of $15,000. The building will be of brick and will be one of the finest churches in that vicinity. As soon as it is completed the present church building will be remodeled for use as a parochial school.

A new policy looking to the suppression of drunkenness has been inaugurated by the authorities of Fergus Falls, and Mayor Townley announces that hereafter all persons arrested for this offense will be prosecuted under the Schafer law, which means a ten days' jail sentence for the first offense, a longer sentence for the second, and a year in the penitentiary in case of a third conviction.

County Attorney Wilson's annual report to the attorney general shows a total of 126 cases of criminal cases of various kinds last year in Blue Earth county, drunkenness leading with 31, and assault and battery coming next with 23. There were 24 cases in the district court and 102 in the municipal and justice courts. In all, 101 either pleaded guilty or were convicted. The total costs taxed were $651, fines assessed $1,044, and amount collected $642.

Fire broke out in the drying room at the St. Peter furniture factory and damaged the plant to the extent of $15,000. For a time the flames threatened the main building, but the firemen, although hampered by the dense smoke, succeeded in saving the structure. Practically the entire supply of dry lumber was consumed and the machinery in the engine room was somewhat damaged. The property is owned by the St. Peter Furniture company and is one of the leading industries of the city, giving employment to forty men. It had just resumed operations after a shutdown of two weeks. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Nicollet county creamerymen are looking forward to a big dairymen's meeting to be held Jan. 30 at the village of Nicollet, the home of Edwin Hed, winner of the silver cup offered by the state dairy and food department in the state butter scoring contest. It is expected the meeting will be one of the most important of its kind ever held in the county. Among the speakers who will be present are S. B. Shilling, president of the National Dairy union; Frank Shrewsbury and J. C. Joslin, state dairy inspectors; Samuel Haugdahl of St. Peter and Ole Peterson of Brighton.

DEVELOPING COUNTRY TOWNS

Organize and Educate Your Neighbors to Buy at Home —Boycott the Catalogue Houses—The Mail Order Extract Evil.

In several of the towns of North Dakota commercial clubs have been organized recently and are now working for the advancement of the business and social interests of their respective towns This is a move in the right direction and the Trade Journal believes that every town in the great state of North Dakota, and for the matter of that every other state in the great Union, ought to have some kind of an organization that would have a tendency to bring the merchants and business men of the towns more closely in touch with each other. The commercial club fosters proper public spirit and co-operates in civic betterment. It reaches out after more trade and sees to it that the town gets all the trade that rightfully belongs to it. This is the kind of an organization that is needed in every village of the country and this is about the time of the year when such matters ought to be considered, as all new ventures should start with the new year. The people of a village may be particularly fortunate in being located in one of the most fertile and productive sections of the state and the town may have prospered from the beginning, but there are several matters that ought to be looked after that would bring still greater prosperity to the people.

We have not the space, nor do we deem it wise to map out a campaign of work for such an organization, but we will make some suggestions as to the work that might be taken up in a town.

One of the most necessary matters at the present time is a campaign of education among the farmers showing them the advantages of trading at home. On authority that cannot be questioned we have learned that farmers in the vicinity of many villages in the Northwest are patronizing catalogue supply houses to the extent of $2,500 to $3,000 a month on an average. Which means that this amount of money is being sent out of the country, and it is about time that the merchants and others united in a campaign to put a stop to this kind of business. If the matter were taken up systematically it ought to be comparatively easy for the business men of a village to convince the average farmer that he could get better value for his money at home than he can by sending to the catalogue houses. General merchandise is sold just as cheap at home as it is by the catalogue houses, and cheaper in many instances, considering the quality of the goods, but the farmers have not learned these facts, and it is up to the business men to use the same methods that the catalogue houses do in getting their business before the people.

Among other things that might be taken up by the commercial clubs is the matter of better roads, transportation, rates of insurance, good streets, clean alleys, proper methods of advertising the town and the surrounding country, securing manufacturing establishments such as a creamery, cement block establishment and a score of other things that would come up from time to time as the needs became apparent.

It is not only the financial end of such an enterprise that would be beneficial to the community, but there is a social side as well. The simple fact that the people get in the habit of working together would probably result in the greatest gain after all. There is nothing that would be as beneficial to the social welfare of the average village as to have all its citizens actively and systematically working for the benefit of the whole town. Church workers say that the best way to broaden a man's religious life is to put him at work. The same holds true in business and civic affairs. A man may sit and dream about what a town ought to be, but these dreams are apt to be forgotten. Once let a man take hold of a specific piece of work, however, and then he begins to realize in an effective manner what good citizenship really means. So it should not be overlooked that not the least part of the work of a commercial club is to improve the citizenship of its members by putting them to work. —St. Paul Trade Journal.

THE MAIL ORDER EXTRACT EVIL.

One of the schemes with which the grocer has to contend, in addition to the box car agent, is the mail order extract game. This is now hitting every other retail line through the plan of offering premiums to agents for the sale of the extracts. In this connection a writer in the Grocery World sums up the situation as follows:

There is one fraud against which the best and most wisely enforced state food law will always be impotent, and that is the sale of adulterated stuff by mail order houses. For instance, I have before me the expansive advertisement of a Chicago concern which sells extracts. They advertise an old scheme—premiums to agents who sell various quantities. Here is the scheme as described by the concern in its own advertisement:

Ladies and Girls: We want you to help us introduce among your friends our celebrated "Red Cross" flavoring extracts and earn any of these premiums or your choice of several hundred others. Our extracts sell at 20 cents and are quickly sold, because extracts are used in every family. Ours once bought are always asked for again—and our first customers are our best ones. We sell them on a guarantee—money back if not satisfactory.

In this advertisement we illustrate a few of the many hundred premiums we give, which are fully described in our new 150 page catalogue.

We have premiums for selling one dozen up to forty dozen, and you are at liberty to stop work at any time and select your premium from this big assortment. We believe our offer to be the most liberal ever made by a reliable firm. You will be surprised to find how pleasant the work is, and how quickly you can sell the extracts. By our plan you are not overstocked with goods until you can find for yourself how many can be sold.

No money required in advance Your credit is good with us. Send us your name and address; we will then send you by mail, postpaid, one dozen assorted "Red Cross" flavoring extracts to commence with; also our big premium catalogue. If you can't sell them we will take them back; but there's no can't about it—you can. Do it now.

Surrounding this appeared small cuts of various of the premiums given Take these as examples:

Women's Melton coat, 42 inches long, velvet trimmed, for selling four dozen. Extension dining room table, for selling four dozen. Tea or dinner set, 56 pieces, for selling three dozen. Combination desk and bookcase, for selling five dozen. Velour couch for selling four dozen. Chiffonier, solid oak, for selling five dozen.

And so on. There were a lot more, to be given for selling from one dozen up to seven dozen.

Now let's do a little figuring. These extracts, the firm says, retail at 20 cents a bottle. That means $2.40 per dozen.

The woman who sells only four dozen bottles, meaning $9.60, can get for her work a cloth coat. I have some acquaintance with the retail cost of women's garments—let us put the value of this coat at only $5, which admittedly would not buy anything but the merest shoddy.

That leaves $4.60 to the firm for its four dozen extracts, or less than 10 cents a bottle. Can absolutely pure extracts be sold for this with a profit to the manufacturer?

Assuredly they can't, and there's still another thing to say—the concern whose advertisement this is are not manufacturers, according to the mercantile agency books. As a matter of fact, they aren't rated at all. But such concerns are always dealers, rather than makers, and that means a second profit to be figured.

It is certain beyond a reasonable doubt that these goods are adulterated and sold in violation of the law.

The certainty is, too, that very large quantities of them are sold. Every town and city has nagging women and children ringing its doorbells to sell somebody's extracts or baking powder. These sales are small, but they are legion. The aggregate, be sure, is enormous.

Admittedly beyond reach of food laws, these impure goods compete with every grocer in business. They rob him of trade by the hundreds of dollars' worth. Yet it is just as impossible for the food authorities to reach them as it would be to enter each home in the land and take samples from every table.

The sellers have no places of business. They are not merchants. Their sales for the most part are made without witnesses and in private. The buyer is without means of detecting the fraud and knows not whether her purchase is perfectly pure or wholly spurious.

Whether a federal food law would reach these long-distance fakes is uncertain. The chance is that some way of doing it could be figured out under the interstate commerce clause. Certain is it that no state law will ever reach them.—St. Paul Trade Journal.

SHUFFLEBOARD ON ICE.

Modification of Curling an Easy and Interesting Sport.

The game of ice shuffleboard is easy to play. On a smooth piece of ice five circles are marked out having a common center, the innermost circle having a radius of six inches and each other one a radius of six inches larger than that of the circles next nearest the center of the target thus formed. The spaces between the lines are numbered from a line a little distance away, say twenty-five feet; round discs are propelled by long cues toward this target. The object of the game is for each side to shoot its discs as near the center of the circle as possible, and to knock its opponents' discs away.—Country Life in America.

Tid-Bits of News for Scandinavians.

WAR WAS BARELY AVERTED.

Rare Diplomacy Saved Bitter Fight of Scandinavians.

As the son of one of the great men of Europe, Erlin Bjornson is eagerly sought by interviewers since his arrival in New York. The Times gave him almost half a column in which to air his impressions and opinions. Having been in close touch with the recent developments on the Scandinavian peninsula, his description of the excitement attending division of the empire is particularly interesting, and more graphic than the dispatches.

"When the revolt did come it came in earnest," said Mr. Bjornson. "How earnestly was shown by the fact that upward of 80,000 Norwegian troops, fully armed and provisioned for a protracted campaign, were massed on the border. Sweden was not idle, either, for she threw upward of 100,000 men into the breach, and never was war so narrowly averted as when England, Germany and the United States intervened diplomatically.

"I do not think it is generally known that several thousand resident Norwegians in this country had made all preparations to return to Norway and strengthen our hands in case of war. In that respect the rupture was very beneficial to the Norwegian peoples at home and abroad. It brought them closer together by reminding the stay-aways that there was a mother country to which they owed something.

Hundreds and hundreds of letters arrived from Norwegians over here pledging their support in case of war. At the same time none of the writers meant to forego his privileges as an American citizen. Had even thousands of American-Norwegians returned to Norway, very few of them but would have returned to the States and have fought just as valiantly for their adopted country in case of need. So Norway has a very warm place in her heart for the great Western republic."

"Why, in view of your national democratic convictions, did you choose to remain a kingdom?" was asked.

"Ah," replied Mr. Bjornson, with a decided Gaelic shrug, "but Norway is a kingdom in name only, only for diplomatic purposes, you understand. We had a popular ballot on the subject, as was advertised to the world, and 80 per cent of the people voted in favor of a kingdom, with the understanding that Prince Charles of Denmark was to be king.

"And why did we choose a king rather than a president? As a matter of simple diplomatic convenience. France is the only republic of major consequence in Europe, and we would have unnecessarily antagonized our neighbors by establishing an out and out republic."

"Now that you have been here long enough to look about, do you note any distinguishing differences between American and European women?" was ventured.

"There is so much difference between them," he slowly replied, "that an Ibsen would probably be impossible in America. You Americans are too young, too virile, too optimistic, to give birth to such dramas as Ibsen has written.

"One point of difference between American and Norwegian women is," he added, "the inherent lightheartedness of the former and the seriousness of the latter. America does not take its women seriously, or rather, does not treat them seriously. American women seem to be playmates rather than mates.

"I fancy they are more superficial, fonder of shows, fonder of open admiration. For example, your women are great novel readers. They subscribe to and support these forms of artistic expression that appeal to their romantic natures—heart art rather than head art.

"But my, my! Such abundant energy and freedom! It is amazing to one who visits the United States for the first time. I have been in many countries, but none of them have such women as one sees in this city and hears of in this country."

SWEDES MORE FRIENDLY.

Except for a few journals which represent the jingo element in Sweden, the tone of the press of that country toward Norway and Denmark is more moderate. The Swedish government is at present more friendly toward the government of Denmark than it has ever been before. Hostile and even warlike sentiments are only to be found in army and university circles, but it is generally recognized at Copenhagen that the persons who hold such views do not represent the general opinions and the sober common sense of the Swedish people.

No Suffrage for Women.

Four deputations called upon Premier Staaf on Dec. 13 to urge that women be included with men in the proposed law extending the elective franchise. Mr. Staaf, while expressing consideration for the women, feared that the proposition would endanger the movement for reform which had been so long delayed, and said the government could not assume the responsibility of presenting to the Swedish riksdag a bill in accordance with the request of the petitioners.

GLACIAL ACTION IN SCANDIA.

American Geologist Studies Ice Movement Around Baltic Sea.

G. Frederick Wright, the American geologist, spent a goodly portion of last summer in the Scandinavian countries studying the great ice movement which radiated from northern Scandinavia. "Before coming to Denmark and Sweden, he writes, "I had picked up Norwegian pebbles from the glacial till which borders the moorland of Yorkshire on the east coast of England. Indeed, Norwegian boulders are abundant in Eastern England as far south and as far inland as Cambridge, showing that the whole North sea was at that time but an expansion of Scandinavian ice. Denmark, also is entirely covered with Scandinavian drift. Zealand, at any rate, is scarcely anything else than a longeries of terminal moraines with intervening bogs and kettle-holes, the one filled with peat and the other with water. Boulders innumerable are everywhere apparent in fields and fences and in the solid walls of houses and barns. An American could easily imagine himself in southern Michigan or in Wisconsin or Minnesota.

"Here in Skane, which forms the very southern part of Sweden, we have a similar contour of land surface, with its rich agricultural possibilities. But the story of its formation recently brought to light is more marvelous still. To a considerable extent it is found that the farmers of Skane are living upon the richness of Finland, as those in Ohio are upon that of Canada. It appears that the center of the ice movement in Scandinavia was further east than was at first supposed, so that the same movement which carried boulders to southeastern Russia carried them also southwestward down the whole length of the Baltic sea, where, meeting with less resistance on the west than upon the south, a portion of the ice turned northwest toward the more open North sea. Thus the whole of southern Skane became covered with a congeries of terminal moraines whose material was in part brought from Finland and in part pushed up from the bottom and shores of the Baltic sea."

Works of King Oscar.

A complete edition of the literary works of King Oscar has been published by P. B. Eklund of Stockholm. There are six volumes. Volume one contains the poetic cycle, "Memories From the Swedish Navy," and the translation of Herder's "Cid;" volume two, the translation of "Tasso" and minor poems; volume three, sketches of the east and south, with ballads and incidental poems; volume four and five, King Oscar's public addresses, not including those made in Norwegian; volume six, historical works, papers on the war history of Sweden in 1711-1713.

Swedes Offended.

It is announced in the Swedish press that there will be no participation by Sweden in the seventh Northern Lutheran mission convention to be held this year in Copenhagen. The reason given is that the Swedish people feel so deeply hurt by the criticism from Danish and Norwegian sources against their fatherland that they cannot with good grace take part in the meeting.

Expect Swedish Tourists.

Last year the Swedish tourists studiously shunned Norway, but hotel proprietors and others interested in tourists expect to see quite a number of Swedes next year, as they have already received numerous inquiries. For that matter there are already several Swedish guests at Mesnalien and Kornhaug sanatoriums.

New Norwegian Mining Company.

"Norsk Malmexport" is the name of a new mining company which has recently secured control of the iron fields near Arendal, Norway. It has a paid-up capital of 3,000,000 kroner, mostly controlled by the big iron firm of Furness, Witby & Co. of West Hartlepool, England. Georg Stousland, a Norwegian attorney in West Hartelpool, and Carl Landergren of Arendal are directors in the company.

Revolvers for Detectives.

Permission has been given to the Stockholm detectives to carry loaded revolvers to be used in self-defense in upholding the law. The order was prompted by the fact that several detectives have recently been seriously injured in assaults made on them while on duty, and the authorities found it necessary to adopt proper safeguards.

Commercial War Unlikely.

Prompted by a movement started by several Swedish papers for a commercial war on Norway, Aftenposten of Christiania made an inquiry into the commerce between Norway and Sweden and ascertained that the former country had little to fear. The statistics showed that Norway imported Swedish goods to the value of 34,500,000 kroner during the year 1904, while in the same year the exports to Sweden amounted to barely 14,000,000 kroner.

HOW SHALL WE RE-DIVIDE?

At the meeting of the board of county commissioners last Saturday the matter of re-dividing the county into commissioner districts was taken up. Commissioner Shaw of Thief River Falls submitted a plan for re-districting which was so manifestly unjust and so clearly an effort to place the county at the mercy of Thief River Falls, that several citizens appeared before the board and urged them to put off the re-districting until at least the next meeting, and in the meanwhile to advertise the fact that so important a step was about to be taken. There are more than fifteen thousand people in this county, every one of whom is vitally interested in the matter of re-districting, and they ought to be given a chance to be heard at least. When the county is once re-divided, no change can be made again for at least five years, so great care should be taken that it is done right when it is done.

No gag law, or snap judgment should be allowed to prevail against the people of this county. Parties present offered to advertise the matter free of charge to the county, and invite the leaders of every town in the county to come and be heard before the board on this most important matter.

However, the majority of the board decided to rush the matter through at once, and without further consideration were about to adopt Commissioner Shaw's plan. As a matter of self-protection, not merely for this locality, but for all the county outside of greedy Thief River Falls, an injunction was procured and served at the last moment, forbidding the re-districting at this time. This, of couse, ties the matter up for the present.

There is no desire on the part of anybody to block good legislation and if a fair plan is proposed for re-dividing the county, one which will suit all the people, and answer the public needs, it will meet with the hearty approval of everybody in this end of the county.

The plan proposed by Mr. Shaw was not fair. It gave one district a population of over thirty-nine hundred, and another, less than twenty hundred. It left one proposed district without any commissioner whatever, and left Commissioner Johnson without any district whatever, moving him over into Commissioner Falardeau's district. It left Commissioner Ekstrom's districts so that Thief River Falls could dictate the naming and election of its next commissioner.

Such gerrymandering would be laughable were it not such a serious matter. Three new commissioners, a majority of the board, are to be elected next fall, and it is to be hoped that the present board will take no such step as will place the voters of all Red Lake at the mercy of the county seat committee at Thief River Falls, which is waxing fat on $8000 a year saloon money.

H. H. Rogers, the Standard Oil magnate, seems to be of that class of men in whom wealth breeds insolence and a stupid disregard for public opinion. He and such as he encourage popular resentment against great wealth and the power that it brings.

There has been a notable decline in distinguished men in the United States senate in the past twenty years. There are a few strong men yet, but there has been a decadence in the standard of intellect and an increase in the number of senators who are merely vulgarly rich.

The newspapers say that Chauncey Depew is troubled with appasia—a cerebral disease which prevents intelligent expression of thought. As Chauncey is thinking a good many thoughts be does not care to express, intelligently or otherwise, the affliction might be considered a providential relief.

The Red River Valley Editorial association met at Crookston Friday. Great big gobs of scalding tears are still coursing down our furrowed cheeks because we were not there. The next meeting will be held in May at Thief River Falls. If Sam and John won't stand for our presence we'll promise to bring the court house along in order to "make good."

The poet laureate of the north woods who edits the Big Fork Compass to dispel lethargy, gives this succinct expression regarding the annual pass: "Our lawmakers have a happy way of lying about the lack of influence contained in a railroad pass. By the mere acceptance of free favors, one confesses that the giver is a friend. Free transportation has the same influence on legislators as a free show ticket has on the spectator. The person who attends a free show never feels at liberty to hiss at the performers be they ever so bum. A gift disarms criticism."

The Question Of Proper Ditching.

Where are we drifting to? What will our final ending be?

These are questions every tax payer ought to ask himself. With the county bonded to the amount of about $60,000 as it now stands and with the crying demands for more ditches and better drainage in general which this county and in fact all of the Red River Valley, so much needs, as the thousand of acres of uncut grain the last season is a standing testimony that we need a more universal and economical system of drainage.

How are we going to bring about this much needed reform? We must sum it over to the people who are in need of drainage so bad and who ought to know where it will do them the most good with the least money expended. We must let the water take its natural course more and not work against gravity so much as it has been done in the past. One needs only to go through the county and look about a little and you cannot help to see that this has been done in the past and to do that takes money and lots of it too. We must cut out selfish interest in this great question in order to give to the people all the good there is in it. For the selfishness of man has never yet given to his fellow man anything but burdens, greif and sorrow. We must look at this question of drainage and good roads from a standpoint more far reaching than we can ever hope to get from our present system. We must first of all cover more territory with less money and that can only be done by sectional drainage with proper cross tiling where natural drains are already in the land and on each section corner. This would take away more water and the benefits would also be more widely distributed and the burdens of taxation would be more mutualy borne and to my way of thinking that is what we all are looking for.

Just think if we all wanted one of these big ditches near our lands to take away the surplus water, where would we end at? But if we get more ditch contractors and let them dictate our needs we are quite sure to get enough of them bye and bye. But of course we must pay the freight. Now as to better roads and how to get them, sectional drainage is the only way we can get them and at a normal cost. Road grading or building of roads under the Grindeland act is so expensive as I shall show to yow by a few examples of the past. Here is one of them to show you that we are over taxed in this matter too. We have a mile and one half of road south of town that will cost the township of Red Lake Falls or the tax payers over $900 before the benefits on the same is paid and then comes the endless expense of building and repairing bridges across the big ditch. Here is what part of section 24 of the Grindeland act calls for: "All public or corporate roads or railroads benefitted shall pay the amounts taxed up against them as folows: Whenever any public highway is benefited by such drain or ditch, the town which is by law charged with the duty of keeping such highway in repair shall be assessed with the amount of benefits accruing to such highway in said town by reason of said ditch or drain, and the same shall be paid out of the treasury of such town upon demand of the county auditor:"

Now it seems to me that we have not been assessed in the past to the amount of benefits we actuly got from such ditches but for the amount of dirt dumped on our highways. A road can be good for travel and not necessarily be four or five feet high, the only advandage one has is he can see a little farther.

Here is another one east of town. A five feet high sand bank, that can neither be travelled in winter or summer and yet the people pay for it all. What a glorious country! What a noble people we are! Every one entitled to wear a crown but instead we receive a cross of burdens. At this rate of taxation it would cost each township about $84,000 to build the road. Just think of that my fellow tax payer. Are you willing to hand down such a system to your posterity? Or are you willing to come out and do your duty and see if we cannot device a plan broad enough to include all of God's creatures. I can conceive of no greater reform than that which would apply to the eleventh commandment. "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself to all phases of human experience." It would put and end to injustic, whether practiced on a small scale by individuals or on a large scale through the operation of bad laws. I am for sectional drainage.

Of Interest to Mothers

Thousands of little ones die every year of croup. Most of them could have been saved by a few does of Foley's Honey and Tar, and every family with children should keep it in the house. It contains no opiates and is safe and sure. Mrs. George H. Picket, San Erancisco, Cal., writes: "My baby had a dangerous attack of croup and we thought she would choke to death, but one dose of Foley's Honey and Tar relieved her at once after other remedies had failed. We are never a minute without it in the house." Sold at W. A. Schreiter.

Doctors Could Not Help Her

"I had kidney trouble for years," writes Mrs. Raymond Con_er of Shelton Wash., "and the doctors could not help me. I tried Foley's Kidney Cure, and the very first dose gave me relief and I am now cured, I cannot say too much for Foley's Kidney Cure." It makes the diseased kidneys sound so they will eliminate the poisons from the blood. Unless they do this, good health is impossible. Soldat W. A. Schreiter.

The Scourge of Damascus

A Story of the East...

By SYLVANUS COBB, JR.

Copyrighted 1891 by Robert Bonner's Sons.

CHAPTER XVII.—(Continued.)

And thus was the work accomplished; and with a result not to be wondered at. The Arabs had been brave enough over their rich prizes, but they had lacked the sinew and force of the attacking party. In fact, upon foot, hand to hand, and front to front, either Julian or his lieutenant might have been a match for half of them.

"Those two rascals are not worth pursuing," said our hero, as he noticed that Hobaddan was looking after the fleeing Arabs. "Let them go. We have gained all we sought."

After this Julian turned towards the females. Ulin saw him coming, and, with no thought save that of tenderest gratitude, she moved forward to meet him.

"Heaven bless you, kind sir!" she said, as she extended to him her hand.

"Sweet lady," returned the chieftain, fervently, "talk not of blessings to me. Let me be the one to call down blessings. I know to whom I owe my life and my liberty. Hobaddan has told me all. Oh, let me bear ever with me the blessed privilege of remembering thee in my prayers to God!"

Tears gathered in the eyes of the maiden, and her lips trembled; and when she spoke her voice betrayed the deep emotion that stirred her soul.

"Indeed, fair sir," she said, with her hand still resting in his, "you should not deny to me the privilege which you claim for yourself. If you can feel pleasure in cherishing a holy gratitude, I can feel the same. When I remember the dreadful fate to which the Arabs had doomed me, I cannot forget the blessings which are due to the kind power that delivered me."

"As you please, lady," replied Julian, letting go her hand. "The thought that thou art blessing me will be a blessing indeed. And here is our fair Albia," he continued, turning to the bondmaiden—and a close observer might have seen that he thus turned in order to subdue emotions that were rising to trouble him. "I do not forget that some blessing belongs to you."

"I have served my mistress," said Albia, modestly. And then, perceiving that a change of subject would be a relief to both parties, she added, "We owe you so much, sir, that you will be forced to accept my grateful blessings with those of my lady. And now, if I may dare to interrupt you, will you tell us how you chanced to discover us?"

"It was very simple lady," replied Julian, directing his answer to the princess; "and though seemingly an accident, still I cannot help thinking that some kind spirit must have superintended the work. When we left Damascus we took a course slightly different from this; but on the way we met a poor traveler who informed us that he had been robbed. He did not tell us that the robbers were Arabs, and I fancied that they might be some of my own people. Fearing this, I determined to follow them. Their course was a crooked one, and when I finally reached the grove of date-palms, I had made up my mind to search no more. We were asleep in the grove, and Osmir awoke just as a party of horsemen were leaving the spring. He ran out and discovered that the strangers were Arabs, and that they had two females with them."

The chieftain directed the slaves to drag the bodies of the dead Arabs together, and take from them the gold and jewels which had been taken from the princess, and then to cover them up in the sand; after which he requested Hobaddan to examine his wound. It seemed to be but a slight puncture, just below the collar bone, upon the left side, and as it was bleeding but slightly, Julian concluded not to have it probed. A simple compress staunched the blood, and it was thought that there could be no danger.

When the slaves had done their work, the chieftain approached our heroine, and asked her whither she wished to go.

"I will see you safe to your journey's end," he said, "even though it be to the gates of Damascus."

"I go not that way, sir," she replied. "I wish to find the cave of an old hermit named Ben Hadad."

Julian started as he heard this; but he quickly recovered himself.

"Do you know that old man?" he asked.

"No, sir—I never saw him; but he was a friend to my mother and I think he will be a friend to me."

"Ah—do you go out from Damascus to find a friend?"

"I pray you, sir, ask me no questions. If you know where Ben Hadad lives, and it would not trouble you too much, I freely accept your escort."

"Noble lady, I not only know his place of abode, but my own course lies directly that way. If we start at once and meet with no further obstacle, we may reach it by the rising of another sun."

"The sooner we start the better," said Ulin; "and I can ride a long time without resting."

"We will ride as fast and as far as our horses are willing," added Julian, as he truned to prepare for the move.

In a few minutes they were mounted, Ulin and Albia once more taking the horses that had brought them from Damascus; and when all was ready, the chieftain and his lieutenant led off, leaving Shubal to ride with the females, while Osmir and Selim brought up the rear.

A few hours past noon they stopped in a pleasant grove, where pure fresh water bubbled forth from a basin of white sand, and here they made a dinner of bread and fruit while the horses rested. Julian spoke with the princess and asked her how she bore the fatigue of the journey; but his manner was free from any shade of familiarity. She in turn asked concerning his wound, and expressed the hope that it might not prove serious. When he had gone, Albia remarked:

"The more I see of that man, the more do I love and honor him. He is no common man, my lady."

"I shall always remember him with gratitude," returned Ulin, gazing down as she spoke.

"And I," added the bondmaiden, earnestly, "should like to remain with him, and serve him always."

"You are generous, Albia."

"Because I am but a poor slave, and can only pay such debts with grateful service."

"No, no, Albia—a slave no more. When we left my father's house you stepped forth free. You are my companion—not my slave."

The girl caught the hand of her mistress, and bathed it with tears.

"Free!" she murmured. "Aye—free to serve you now and evermore! Still, dear lady, there is a holy satisfaction in feeling that the servile badge is stricken off. Your poor slave loved you truly, and you may be assured that she will love you none the less now that she is a slave no more."

Shortly after this, and while yet Albia was drying her eyes, Julian called up the horses, and made ready for another start.

Late in the evening they reached the bank of the Pharphar, and once more stopped to rest. The cave of the hermit was only a few leagues distant, and could be easily reached by midnight. For himself the chieftain did not care. He wished the princess to act her own pleasure.

* * * * *

The cave of Ben Hadad was in a deep valley, where the river wound between two long, high hills; and thick woods shut it out from the heat of the noonday sun and from the gaze of the stranger. A good path led to it from the plain, though a person needed acquaintance with the way in order safely to follow it. Julian was surely used to the path, for he threaded its various windings without any hesitation, and at length drew up before a bold face of rock, beneath an overhanging shelf on which was the entrance to Ben Hadad's cave. It was too dark now to see all this plainly, but those who had been there before knew very well where they were. A loud call from Hobaddan soon brought a lighted torch from the cave, borne by a black slave.

"What ho, Ortok; where is your master?" demanded the lieutenant.

"Ho, ho—it is Hobaddan."

"Yes, you grinning rascal, it is I; and it is also Julian; and, furthermore, others are with us. Where is Ben Hadad "

"He is in his bed, sir, sound asleep."

"And where is my—where is Ezabel?"

"She is also asleep, sir."

"Then call them at once. But hold —lead us into the cave first."

The negro came out with his torch, and while Hobaddan stopped a few moments with the slaves to look after the horses, Julian led Ulin and Albia into the cave. It was a broad, high chamber in the solid rock, and the light of the torch revealed the fact that there must be other chambers beyond.

In a little while a tall, broad-shouldered old man, with hair and beard as white as the breast of a swan, came forth from a distant passage, and almost at the same time an aged woman came from another direction. Julin quickly approached them, and spoke a few words in private and then said, aloud:

"These ladies, good father and mother, seek your aid and protection! Ask them no questions tonight, for they are worn and weary, and need repose. On the morrow they will tell you their story." He then approached the princess.

The old woman, when she saw Albia's face, recognized her at once; and as she gazed upon the beautiful features of the princess, the latter said: tures of the princess, she said:

"Good mother," replied Ulin, "I shall tell you the whole truth and then you will know just how much protection we need."

And thereupon she went on, and related all that had transpired to the present. She told how she had consented to be the wife of the king—she told of the death of her mother—and then she told how, in her bereavement, she bgean to dread and fear the man she had promised to marry.

The woman took Ulin's hand, and pressed it warmly between her own.

"Dear child," she said, with much emotion, for she had been deeply moved during the recital—"you could not have told your story to one who could have better understood it. I not only sympathize with you, but I will protect you, if need be, with all the power I possess; and I assure you that our good Ben Hadad will join me with all his heart. You did right in fleeing from the wicked king. I know him well, lady; and I believe you have not only saved yourself from an unhappy fate, but you have saved Horam from committing more crime. Thus much we understand; and now, my dear Ulin, if I may venture upon the inquiry, what do you propose to do in the future?"

"My thoughts in that direction have been vague and troublesome," replied the princess. She spoke frankly, for Ezabel had won her entire confidence. "I have reflected upon the subject, and my mind has found but one resting place. I must remain away from Damascus until the king is dead. I can think nothing more. Where I abide I care not, so long as I am safe from harm."

The princess fell upon the woman's neck and blessed her; and after a little time she became calm, and wiped the grateful tears from her face. Her next question was of Julian. Had he yet left the cave?"

"No," replied Ezabel; "nor will he leave it at present! He is wounded in the breast, and——"

"Wounded!" repeated Ulin, catching suddenly at the word, and turning pale. "Is it dangerous?"

"No, not dangerous, lady; but he must have rest and nursing. It is more serious than he at first thought; but if he is careful, there will be no danger."

"Oh," cried the maiden, in a tone of relief, "I am glad it is not dangerous. If he had suffered on my account, the joy of my escape from Horam would have been sadly darkened."

CHAPTER XVIII.

Ezabel bowed her head, and pressed her hands upon her brow. There was certainly some deep and sudden emotion moving within her, for her frame trembled, and incoherent whisperings fell from her lips.

"Julian will not suffer," she said, when she at length raised her head. "Ben Hadad has examined his wound, and it can be easily healed."

"You have known Julian for some time," pursued Ulin, musingly.

"Yes. I have known him from childhood, and my son has been his constant companion."

"Your son?"

"Ah—perhaps you did not know that Hobaddan was my son."

"I did nt."

"Well—such is the fact. Hobaddan is my only child. He was a strong youth, with the stature of manhood, while yet Julian was an infant; and from those early years the two have been always together. In the beginning Hobaddan was the guide and protector; but in later years, since Julian has reached the age and strength of maturity, my son has been content to call him master."

Julian is much feared in Damascus," said Ulin.

"The king fears him," returned Ezabel, quickly; "and he has occasion for fear; but no poor man fears him. However, I will not take it upon myself to excuse Julian's faults. He may have sinned; he may have pursued his revenge too far. Let those who have suffered what he has suffered condemn him if they can."

"He has suffered much, good mother?"

"More than I can tell, my child."

"He is of Damascus born?"

"Yes."

"And—perhaps—of honored family?"

"The blood which runs in his veins is as pure and noble as ever supported a human life. The king himself cannot boast a nobler origin; aye," continued Ezabel, with startling earnestness, "and even now, with the whole story of his life up to this present hour, stamped upon his brow, he is nobler, and better, and purer, than the lords of Damascus. He is a man, and his heart is true; and I love him for the generous, devoted love there is in his soul."

INDIVIDUALITY OF A CHILD.

Children Derive Many Traits from Their Faraway Ancestry.

No two children, even in the same household, are alike. Twins, born in the same hour, and externally bearing lineaments which possess such close resemblance that strangers do not know the little ones apart, are often very dissimilar in disposition and mental traits. Who can tell what peculiarities, derived from some faraway ancestor—a little child has inherited? This wee maiden, unlike either parent, may be repeating in her temperament, her looks, and her ways a great-grandmother long since vanished from the earth. Each mother for each child needs to make a special study, and she need not be surprised to find herself so often baffled and at her wits' end to solve certain problems, and to manage in certain unlooked for contingencies. If she will take the trouble to keep a record of her children, setting down in a journal day by day the interesting incidents, the small happenings, and the conclusions at which she arrives, she may be able by-and-by to assist other puzzled mothers. Of one thing the mother may be very sure, and that is that time is well spent which is devoted to the intelligent understanding of what is really for her child's good. The little one whose life is ruled according to fixed hours, who is cared for wisely and nourished on the best food, who has plenty of sleep, plenty of fresh air, the right kind of clothing, is kept free from excitements and disturbances, and ensphered in an atmosphere of tender love, will thrive and grow, and show in every movement the happiness of his environment.

TWENTY YEARS OF IT.

Emaciated by Diabetes; Tortured With Gravel and Kidney Pains.

Henry Soule, cobbler, of Hammondsport, N. Y., says: "Since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me eight years ago, I've reached 70 and hope to live many years longer. But twenty years ago I had kidney trouble so bad I could not work. Backache was persistent, and it was agony to lift anything. Gravel, whirling headaches, dizziness and terrible urinary disorders ran me down from 168 to 100 pounds. Doctors told me I had diabetes and could not live. I was wretched and hopeless when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, but they cured me eight years ago, and I've been well ever since."

Lincoln and Masonry.

Col. E. B. Bierce of Springfield, Ill., while visiting in Nordin last week, discussed the question of whether or not President Lincoln was a Mason. Although statements to that effect have been made, Col. Bierce says that he was not. He says that just after Lincoln's election in 1860 his petition for membership was received by Springfield Masonic Lodge No. 4, of which Col. Bierce is still a member, and acted upon favorably, but that in view of the exciting events which came on apace during that fall, and the many things which occupied the attention of the president-elect, he never found time to go any further in Masonry.—Kansas City Journal.

Costly Shed for Music.

In the interest of music, Carl Stoeckel, a Norfolk millionaire and founder of the Litchfield County Choral union, comprising five singing societies in as many towns in the county, is having a mammoth music shed erected on the grounds of his residence, Whitehouse, in Norfolk. The building, which will cost $100,000, will be completed in June, when the union will give its sixth annual concert, singing Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise." Each annual concert costs Mr. Saoeckel about $5,000. The singers are always assisted by an orchestra of sixty pieces from New York.—Winsted (Conn.) Dispatch.

This Will Give Her Pretty Arms.

Here is a physician's remedy for superfluous hair on the arms, the growth of which spoils the pleasure of wearing short sleeves. It has been used with excellent results by the family of girls to whom he gave it: One part quicklime, two parts carbonate of soda, vaseline eight parts. This forms a paste, which should be spread on quickly. As soon as it begins to smart or burn it should be washed off. The hairs will usually come away with the third or fourth application. The preparation is harmless.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

DOG HAS A BANK ACCOUNT.

Dignified Sum Placed to the Credit of Hetty Green's Pet.

"This is not an age when the rich can do as they please with their own," some one has averred, so Hetty Green isn't trusting to last wills and testaments to provide for her pet dog, but has already settled a fund upon him and given to him a bank account. Just how it is arranged no one knows save Mrs. Green, her daughter and the men in the bank. It is causing much merriment among those who are in the secret that Mrs. Green should let such a desirable commodity as money go to the dogs, but she says it is sentiment and she doesn't intend that Dewey, as her "best friend" is called, shall be turned out in a cold, unsympathetic world in his old age. Dewey is an intelligent, affectionate little creature, with a special talent for dancing, and when Mrs. Green gives the word he rises on his hind legs and with many manifestations of excitement goes through his little performance. Thanks to his bank account, however, Dewey will never have to make his accomplishment a marketable commodity.—New York Press.

FRANKLIN'S SAWDUST PUDDING.

Man Who Could Eat It Had No Need of Graft.

Franklin believed in fair competition, in freedom for others as well as himself, and cared more for his personal independence in the conduct of his business than for the business itself. The story of the sawdust pudding should be known in every newspaper office in the country. When he first started his Gazette he made some free comments on certain public officials, and some of the influential patrons of the paper resented it and tried to stop it. He invited them to dinner. When they came they found nothing on the table but a pudding made of coarse meal and a jug of water. They sat down. Franklin filled their plates and then his own and proceeded to eat heartily, but the guests could not swallow the stuff. After a few moments Franklin arose, and, looking at them, said quietly: "My friends, any man who can subsist on sawdust pudding, as I can, needs no man's patronage."—American Magazine.

Limit of Power to Control.

We don't know much about politics, but if the president is to have power to control, through men appointed by him, the prices charged for transportation on our railroads, we do not quite understand why he should not have the same power in regard to steamboats, interstate express companies, telegraph and telephone companies, and so on to the end of the chapter, including, perhaps, the prices of things in states where they are not manufactured, and if one of these days an ambitious rascal of the Napoleon stamp should manage to get into the White House, with all this power and the army and navy behind him, and should take a fancy to distinguish himself, under the Monroe doctrine, by attempting to conquer the world, we wonder what would become of our free republic?—George T. ALL SICK WOMEN

SHOULD READ MRS. FOX'S LETTER

In All Parts of the United States Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Effected Similar Cures.

Many wonderful cures of female ills are continually coming to light which have been brought about by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and through the advice of Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., which is given to sick women absolutely free of charge.

The present Mrs. Pinkham has for twenty-five years made a study of the ills of her sex; she has consulted with and advised thousands of suffering women, who to-day owe not only their health but even life to her helpful advice.

Mrs. Fannie D. Fox, of 7 Chestnut Street, Bradford, Pa., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham

"I suffered for a long time with female trouble, and finally was told by my physician that I had a tumor. I did not want to submit to an operation, so wrote you for advice. I received your letter and did as you told me, and to-day I am completely cured. My doctor says the tumor has disappeared, and I am once more a well woman. I believe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best medicine in the world."

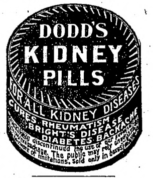
The testimonials which we are constantly publishing from grateful women establish beyond a doubt the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to conquer female diseases.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She asks nothing in return for her advice. It is absolutely free, and to thousands of women has proved to be more precious than gold.

CUTTING COTTON'S COST.

Remarkable Invention Promises to Reduce Cost 25 Per Cent.

Many mechanical cotton pickers have been invented to gather the cotton from the plant. Some picked everything in sight, lint, leaves and bolls. Some were made principally to sell stock in the companies that exploited them, and never picked at all. One ran away on a plantation in Mississippi and destroyed half an acre of cotton. Cotton pickers and gold bricks are in the same category to the average farmer's mind. Yet there is a mechanical cotton picker that has worked. Mr. George Lowry has made one which with its five operators picked 1,484 pounds in a day. thousand pounds is a good day's work for five hand pickers. The machine with five men did the work of seven or eight hands. It is not yet in its final shape. The promoters admit that it is not adapted to all kinds of cotton. Yet, with its limitations, if it could save even one-quarter of the $75,000,000 or more annual expense, and render the present labor supply adequate for the gathering of the crop, Mr. Lowry would go down in history with Eli Whitney.



tI may be true that all men are fools, but they are not reminded of it so often if they remain single.

LOST EYESIGHT

Through Coffee Drinking

Some people question the statements that coffee hurts the delicate nerves of the body. Personal experience with thousands proves the general statement true and physicians have records of great numbers of cases that add to the testimony.

The following is from the Rockford, Ill., Register-Gazette:

Dr. William Langhorst of Aurora has been treating one of the queerest cases of lost eyesight ever in history. The patient is O. A. Leach of Beach county, and in the last four months he had doctored with all of the specialists about the country and has at last returned home with the fact impressed on his mind that his case is incurable.

A portion of the optic nerve has been ruined, rendering his sight so limited that he is unable to see anything before him, but he can see plainly anything at the side of him. There have been but few cases of its kind before, and they have been caused by whisky or tobacco. Leach has never used either, but has been a great coffee drinker, and the specialists have decided that the case has been caused by this. Leach stated himself that for several years he had drank three cups of coffee for breakfast, two at noon and one at night. According to the records of the specialists of this country this is the first case ever caused by the use of coffee.

The nerve is ruined beyond aid and his case is incurable. The fact that makes the case a queer one is that the sight forward has been lost and the side sight has been retained. According to the doctor's statement, the young man will have to give up coffee or the rest of his sight will follow and the entire nerve be ruined.—Register-Gazette.

Let it be remembered that the eyes may be attacked in one case and the stomach in another, while in others it may be kidneys, heart, bowels or general nervous prostration. The remedy is obvious and should be adopted before too late.

Quit coffee, if you show incipient disease.

It is easy if one can have well-boiled Postum Food Coffee to serve for the hot morning beverage. The withdrawal of the old kind of coffee that is doing the harm and the supply of the elements in the Postum which Nature uses to rebuild the broken down nerve cells, insures a quick return to the old joy of strength and health, and it's well worth while to be able again to "do things" and feel well. FUR FARMING FOR PROFIT.

Good Returns Possible From an Investment of $1,000.

Fur farming offers a good chance for small capital. A man of experience may put in $1,000 and get a remarkable percentage as soon as well started. There is no object in breeding cheap furs. A muskrat with his 15-cent pelt is almost as much trouble to raise as a $300 silver fox, therefore only the high-class furs will be considered. What is the most valuable fur of all? No doubt the sea otter. Its ample and magnificent robe brings now, I am told, from $500 to $1,000, but the animal is so rare that a large fortune would be exhausted in getting the stock, and nothing is known of the methods necessary for its propagation. Next on the list is the silver fox. The black or silver fox is nothing but a black phase or freak of the common fox, just as the black sheep is a color freak of the common sheep. A pair of pure red foxes may have a black fox in their litter, and that black fox may grow up to be the parent of nothing but red foxes, but a red fox will bring only a dollar or two and the silver fox a hundred times as much.—Country Life in America.

SORES ON HANDS.

Suffered for a Long Time Without Relief—Doctor Was Afraid to Touch Them—Cured by Cuticura.

"For a long time I suffered with sores on the hands which were itching, painful and disagreeable. I had three doctors, and derived no benefit from any of them. One doctor said he was afraid to touch my hands, so you must know how bad they were; another said I never could be cured; and the third said the sores were caused by the dipping of my hands in water in the dye-house where I work. I saw in the papers about the wonderful cures of the Cuticura Remedies and procured some of the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. In three days after the application of the Cuticura Ointment my hands began to peel and were better. The soreness disappeared, and they are now smooth and clean, and I am still working in the dye-house. Mrs. A. E Maurer, 2340 State St., Chicago, Ill, July 1, 1905."

TALE OF A BILLIARD BALL.

Trued Till Too Small, Then Used for Ivory Carving.

In the billiard room half a dozen tables were in full blast, and through the hum of conversation the click of the ivory balls came sharp and clear.

"What becomes of the worn-out balls?" asked an idler.

"Well," replied the man at the desk, "when a ball is only a little off it is sent to the factory to be trued up. We get our balls trued up until they become too small for use. Then we sell them at so much per ounce.

"After their sale they are carved into various small trinkets, but in the main they are made into dice. Of the forty or fifty balls rolling and clicking here to-night, it is safe to say that 90 per cent of them, a few years hence, will be working just as hard in the form of dice."—Duluth News-Tribune

THE LITTLE WIDOW.

A Mighty Good Sort of Neighbor to Have.

"A little widow, a neighbor of mine persuaded me to try Grape-Nuts when my stomach was so weak that it would not retain food of any other kind," writes a grateful woman, from San Bernardino Co., Cal.

"I had been ill and confined to my bed with fever and nervous prostration for three long months after the birth of my second boy. We were in despair until the little widow's advice brought relief.

"I liked Grape-Nuts food from the beginning, and in an incredibly short time it gave me such strength that I was able to leave my bed and enjoy my three good meals a day. In two months my weight increased from 95 to 113 pounds, my nerves had steadied down and I felt ready for anything. My neighbors were amazed to see me gain so rapidly, and still more so when they heard that Grape-Nuts alone had brought the change.

"My 4-year-old boy had eczema, very bad, last spring, and lost his appetite entirely, which made him cross and peevish. I put him on a diet of Grape-Nuts, which he relished at once. He improved from the beginning, the eczema disappeared, and now he is fat and rosy, with a delightfully soft, clear skin. The Grape-Nuts diet did it. I will willingly answer all inquiries." DAIRY NOTES

Winter Feed for Dairy Cows.

June pasture and June air are the ideal combination for milk production. The only drawback to producing milk at this time is that the price is too low for the milk produced. Winter milk will bring from 50 to 75 per cent more than summer milk. The cost of production is also greater in winter than in summer and unless care is taken in the selection and combination of the winter feeds, the profits of winter feeding will not be as great as those of summer. After twenty years of winter dairying I have found time and time again that the nearer one can come to summer conditions in the winter, both in regard to the warmth and purity of the atmosphere and the feeds given, the more milk the cows will give.

For winter dairying the cows should drop their calves between the middle of September and the first of December, the earlier the better. After the nights become cold keep the cows in the barn nights. This time between summer and winter feeding is one of the most critical periods in the feeding of the dairy cow that is to give milk during the winter. If the aftergrowth on the meadows and grain fields has been abundant, well and good. This, with a liberal feed of corn-fodder or cane in the barn, will make a good ration at this time. If the dairy cow has been neglected, as she is apt to be at this time, when the farmers are busy with their fall work, it will be hard to make a profitable cow of her during the winter.

For nineteen years I used a silo, but for the last two seasons have not. I did not discard it because I did not like the feed, but because it was built on the old style and too much feed spoiled in the corners and sides; and as it was not convenient to build a new one, we have used dry feed for the past two winters. In the selection of the winter feeds we must first consider the kinds and qualities of the coarse feeds we have on hand, next the grains we have grown and then we will be in a position to see what mill feeds it will be best to buy.

This season we have an abundance of clover hay and good corn and oats, so it will not be necessary to buy much mill feed. If we can get good bran for less than $14 per ton or midlings for less than $15 we will feed about one-third of the grain ration or one or the other of these. At the present time we are feeding our cows as follows: In the morning immediately after milking they are given a feed of millet hay. Then after breakfast they are turned out in the yard to drink. The water is drawn into a small tank from a large reservoir that holds about enough for three or four days. While the cattle are drinking, the hay that is left is taken away and the mangers swept clean and then they are given their grain ration, which consists of a mixture of three parts of corn cob meal, two parts of oatmeal and two parts of bran by weight.

Each cow gets about four pounds of this mixture at this time. When this is eaten they are given a feed of clover hay, all they will eat with a relish. They are then left in the barn until noon on pleasant days and until one o'clock on stormy or cold days. They are now turned in the yard and allowed to drink as before. The stable is now cleaned and the mangers are filled with fodder corn and the cattle are turned in usually at three o'clock. The fodder corn is eaten up in about an hour and the mangers are cleaned and they are given the same grain feed as in the morning. The milking is done at half-past five in the morning and evening. After milking in the evening they are given hay again. The hay given at this time is either upland meadow or mixed clover and timothy. I like to give them as large a variety of feeds as possible.—W. F. Stiles, Jefferson Co., Wis., in Farmers' Review.

Creamery Sewage.

By creamery sewage is meant the washings from the creamery and the drainage from the creamery, which contain principally casein and a small amount of butter-fat. The disposal of these washings from the churns and from the creamery floors is a matter of large moment in the locality where a creamery exists. In the summer time the organic matter decomposes, and, if run through an open ditch, becomes very offensive to the people living in the neighborhood. That is not all. The smell from these open ditches is blown back into the creamery and reappears as a taint in the butter. In one case that has come to our notice the smell from these open ditches was so obnoxious that the people living in the neighborhood brought suit against the creamery and compelled it for a time to suspend operations. Under modern methods of disposing of sewage it is very easy to obviate this trouble. The septic tank system should be used in every such case, unless the creamery is isolated and the ditch can be carried far enough away through a covered drain to prevent the fumes being borne back to the creamery by the wind. In the septic tank system the sewage is conveyed through a covered drain to a large tank two or three hundred feet from the creamery. This tank is covered very tightly, having an orifice near the further end, out of which the water can slowly escape. In this tank the casein will collect at the top of the water and form a compact crust. Under it will develop what is known as anaerobic bacteria. The work of these bacteria is to entirely destroy all organic matter, changing it into ash and gas. This leaves the water perfectly free of all germ life. This system is now used in disposing of the sewage from more than 500 cities in Europe and from many in the United States, including Madison and Champaign. Certainly a system that is found well adapted to large cities will be found well adaptable to creameries. Moreover, it is now being successfully used by some creameries.

Indiscriminate Mixing.

The greatest menace to the breeding of dairy herds in the past has been the indiscriminate mixing up of the blood of a number of breeds, including both beef and dairy types. Beef and dairy product prices do not always fluctuate alike at the same time. There are too many instances on record in which milk producers have been bred to beef sires with a slump in the butter and cheese markets, and then these and their progeny bred back again to dairy sires with an improvement in the price of dairy products.

Breeding Up Slowly.

It is absolutely necessary for a man with limited capital to breed up a pedigreed dairy herd slowly and also much safer for the man with means and little knowledge of the business. In both cases there is opportunity to become familiar with the breed and individual characteristics. It is better to grow up in any line of animal breeding than to jump into it.

The Mature Bull.

Too many good bulls are ruined through neglect, improper food and undue confinement in dark, filthy box stalls. In purchasing a mature bull we have the advantage of being able to ascertain the quality of the calves the bull has been producing, while this is not true in the case of the young one.

Dressing Sheep.

Much of the sheepy flavor of mutton comes from the generation of gases in the stomach after the sheep is killed. For this reason they should be dressed as rapidly as possible. A platform six or eight inches high is a thing to work on and aids in keeping the blood away from the body. Sheep may be stunned before bleeding. In bleeding lay the sheep on the platform with its head hanging over the end. Grasp the chin with the left hand and stick a knife through the neck, just back of the jaw. The cutting edge of knife should be turned toward the spinal column and the flesh cut to the bone. In this way you avoid cutting windpipe. Split the skin over the back of the front legs from the dew claws to a little above the knees. Open the skin over the windpipe from brisket to chin, starting it slightly on the sides of the neck. Split the skin over the back of hind legs to the middle line and skin the bullocks. The skin should also be raised over the cod and flanks. Skin around the hocks and down to the hoofs, cutting off the hind feet at the toe points. Cut a slit back of cords of hind legs and tie the legs together at this point. Hang the sheep up by the hind legs and split the skin over the middle line along the belly. Start at the brisket to fist off the skin. This is done by grasping the edge of the pelt firmly in one hand, pulling it up tight and working the other with closed fist between the pelt and body. The fisting off should be downward over the forequarters and upward and backward over the hindquarters and legs. Then strip the skin down to neck and remove the head. In gutting, cut around the rectum and allowing it to drop down inside. Do not split the pelvis. Open down the belly line from pelvis to breast bone, and take out the paunch and intestines, leaving the liver attached to the diaphragm. If the mutton is for home use split the breast bone and remove the heart, lungs and diaphragm, together. For marketing, it is not best to split the breast. Reach up into the pelvis and pull out the bladder. Wash carcass and wipe dry and let cool.—E. Myer, Tarran Co., Tex.

Farm Help.

One of the greatest problems of the day is farm help. Many a farmer's success or failure depends upon his securing men and women that are intelligent and honest enough to do the work of a farm as it should be done. This is especially true with a man owning a large farm or with a man that must manage his farm from a distance. It will pay the owner of such a farm to pay a good salary to a married man to run his farm and take an interest in it. Low compensation is always a cause of inefficiency. A man cannot be enthusiastic in his work if the compensation for that work is so small that he cannot live and save a little besides. A good man is worth more than the average man.

Liming Land.

In the liming of land care need be taken not to overdo the matter. Lime is very valuable on soil that is acidy; but on soil that does not need lime there is little use to apply it. The Japanese government is carrying on some pot experiments with rice, and one of the problems was to determine why the phosphorus in certain rice lands has become partly unavailable. It was decided from the experiments that too much lime had been applied and that a superabundance of lime rendered a part of the phosphorus unavailable. The effects were less evident on land very rich in humus.

The poultry business of Missouri brings more money into that state than any grain crop, and it's a crop that may be cashed any time.

PAIN IN THE JOINTS

Rheumatic Tortures Cease When Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Make New Blood.

The first sign of rheumatism is frequently a pain and swelling in one of the joints. If not combated in the blood, which is the seat of the disease, the poison spreads, affecting other joints and tissues. Sometimes rheumatism attacks the heart and is quickly fatal.

The one remedy that has cured rheumatism so that it stays cured is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills expel the poison from the blood and restore the system, so that the poisonous matter is passed off as nature intended.

Mrs. I. T. Pitcher, of No. 130 Monmouth street, Newark, N. J., suffered for about three years from rheumatism before she found this cure. She says: "It began with a queer feeling in my fingers. In a little time it seemed as though the finger joints had lumps on them and I could not get my gloves on.

"Then it grew worse and spread to my knees. I could not stand up and I could not sleep nights. My suffering was more than I can describe. I took a great deal of medicine, but nothing even gave me relief until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"I read an account of a cure in a case that was exactly like mine and my husband got me some of the pills. I took them for three weeks before I really felt better but they finally cured me."

Mr. Pitcher, who is a veteran and a member of E. D. Morgan Post, No. 307 of New York, substantiates his wife's statement and says that she now walks without difficulty, whereas a year ago he was compelled to push her about in a wheeled chair. Both Mr. and Mrs. Pitcher are enthusiastic in their praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

An Amendment.

Congressman W. Bourke Cochran was narrating his experiences in the far East.

"But we made the best of it," he said of a sampan mishap. We were like the Gloversville widow. This woman's husband, a glove finisher, died, and so disconsolate was the poor lady that she spent $3,500 on a granite shaft, inscribing on the base thereof:

"My grief is so great that I cannot bear it.'

"Before a year had faded, however, her grief had sufficiently faded, however, to allow her to marry a young glove stitcher.

She sent a stone cutter to the cemetery a few days before the wedding and caused him to add to the subscription on the shaft the single word:

"'Alone.'"

Where Mabel Was Weak.

"Mabel is attending the university, you know."

"Yes."

"Well, her mother happened to tell young Dr. Sageman that she was a little weak in her ethnology. You can't guess what he said."

"No; what did he say?"

"He said he feared that an operation might be necessary."—San Francisco Call.

STEEL CASES FOR BEER.

More Convenient and Durable and Eventually Cheaper Than Wood.

Steel packages are supplementing the ordinary wooden boxes used for transporting beer in bottles," said Rudolph Schmidt of Cleveland. "They are not only more convenient and durable, but also considerably cheaper in the long run. I have already referred to their durability, which is beyond any question, but being smaller and lighter than the ordinary wood container, they are a great saving to large shipping brewers, who have not been slow to see the many advantages held out by this new invention. Taking up less room for an equal number of bottles, more packages can be packed into a freight car, making an additional saving in icing charges of refrigerator cars possible. These new containers have been on the market only about two years, but in that short time they have convinced leading brewers of their practical value and are being fast adopted by these conservative business men."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

The Critical Book Seller.

A lady went into a bookseller's shop and asked for Browning.

"I haven't got it, madam," answered the bookseller. "I make it a rule never to stoc kany books I can't understand, and I can't make head or tail of Mr. Browning. Can you?"

The customer asked for another book, without comment upon the salesman's mental limitations.

"Have you Praed, then?"

"Yes, madam," this skeptical person assured her, "I've prayed, and that don't help me."—Bystander.

"Now, wouldn't it be funny," remarked Popley, "if I were to become a little boy again?"

"Maybe it wouldn't be so funny for you, pa," replied his bright young son. "If you wuz littler'n me, pa, I think I'd square up a few things."—Philadelphia press.

NO MAN IS STRONGER THAN HIS STOMACH.

Let the greatest athlete have dyspepsia and his muscles would soon fail. Physical strength is derived from food. If a man has insufficient food he loses strength. If he has no food he dies. Food is converted into nutrition through the stomach and bowels. It depends on the strength of the stomach to what extent food eaten is digested and assimilated. People can die of starvation who have abundant food to eat, when the stomach and its associate organs of digestion and nutrition do not perform their duty. Thus the stomach is really the vital organ of the body. If the stomach is "weak" the body will be weak also, because it is upon the stomach the body relies for its strength. And as the body, considered as a whole, is made up of its several members and organs, so the weakness of the body as a consequence of "weak" stomach will be distributed among the organs which compose the body. If the body is weak because it is ill-nourished that physical weakness will be found in all the organs—heart, liver, kidneys, etc. The liver will be torpid and inactive, giving rise to biliousness, loss of appetite, weak nerves, feeble or irregular action of heart, palpitation, dizziness, headache, backache and kindred disturbances and weaknesses.

Mr. Louis Pare, of Quebec, writes: "For years after my health began to fail, my head grew dizzy, eyes pained me, and my stomach was sore all the time, while everything I would eat would seem to lie heavy like lead on my stomach. The doctors claimed that it was sympathetic trouble due to dyspepsia, and prescribed for me, and although I took their powders regularly yet I felt no better. My wife advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—and stop taking the doctor's medicine. She bought me a bottle and we soon found that I began to improve, so I kept up the treatment. I took on flesh, my stomach became normal, the digestive organs worked perfectly and I soon began to look like a different person. I can never cease to be grateful for what your medicine has done for me and I certainly give it highest praise."

Don't be wheedled by a penny-grabbing dealer into taking inferior substitutes for Dr. Pierce's medicines, recommended to be "just as good."

ST. HILAIRE.

(From the Spectator.)

Sheriff Dan Linnihan was transacting official business here yesterday.

County Supt. McAnulty was here last Wednesday looking over the schools in this vicinity.

Work on the I. O. O. F. building is progressing rapidly. An entire new foundation and floor is being put in and the work is to be finished before February 1st.

Professor Miller, the Red Lake Falls band leader, came up last Thursday evening and gave the band boys here instructions. It is not yet decided whether he will be employed as leader.

It is pretty hard to find a farmer in this vicinity who is not an enthusiastic advocate of the farmers' flour mill project these days. The meeting on February 2nd promises to be a big one and it looks at present as if there was but little doubt but that the mill would be built.

Although it is mild winter and the farmers are as yet poorly prepared for winter dairying in this vicinity, the St. Hilaire creamery is still doing business, and quite a lot of it. Buttermaker Austin reports a record breaking day for January last Saturday, when he turned out 700 pounds of butter, it being the third churning for the week. In view of the fact that nearly every creamery in this part of the state is closed, this is a remarkable showing. They are averaging now about 1500 pounds a week.

PLUMMER.

(From the Pioneer.)

Mrs. Kolseth, mother of Hans Kolseth, died at her home in Wyandotte on the 11th inst aged 77 years. The funeral occured last Saturday afternoon and was largely attended.

John Kotschevar, who has been working for Brown & Buskirk for several months went home to Red Lake Falls on Sunday and will take up other work there.

Knut Krostue,, aged 21 years died at his home in Garnes last week of pneumonia. He had been attending a series of dances for five nights consecutively and took a severe cold which developed into pneumonia causing his death within three days from the commencement of his sickness. The funeral was held last Saturday. His parents and some brothers and sisters live in section 24 of Garnes township.

Buttermaker Wm. Lauritzon and J. A. Carlson are busy now-a-days making improvements in the creamery preparatory to its starting up for this season. They are ceiling up the entire inside of the building and the big churn will be lowered sufficently to enable the cream to be emptied from the vats without handling. This will greatly facilitate the work of the buttermaker and will be a material saving in both time and labor.

CHANGE OF PLAN BY PRESIDENT

DECIDES TO SHORTEN HIS VACATION AND WILL BREAK CAMP MAY 8.

Hunting Trip Has Been Very Successful—President and Others of His Party Killed Five Bears in a Period of Two Days.

Glenwood Springs, Col., April 28.—President Roosevelt will break camp on May 8, a week earlier than he had intended, and will start for Washington at once. The only stops he will make will be at Denver and Chicago, where the dates for his reception have been advanced to meet the new arrangement. Secretary Loeb returned early Thursday from the camp, where he conferred with the president all of Wednesday. He announced upon reaching here that affairs in Washington made it necessary that the president curtail his visit. That there is nothing alarming in the situation is manifested from the fact that the hunt will be continued ten days more, in spite of conditions of governmental affairs, which resulted in the altered plans. The Venezuelan situation, it is believed here, resulted in the order to start home on May 8. There are also some routine but important subjects relating to changes in high public offices in the diplomatic service which the president alone can direct, and taken altogether, it is admitted that while no real emergency exists in the state of foreign relations, it would be better were the president to take up the direction of affairs personally a little earlier than he had planned.

Hunters who are with the president believe he has enough game to satisfy him, and will have more than enough when camp is broken on May 8. The president has taken a keen delight in his outing, and has been so successful that he will not be greatly disappointed in having to shorten it. Of the six bears killed by the hunters thus far, the president has brought down three and Dr. Alexander Lambert the other three. Four bears have been killed by temporary attaches of the party and nearby ranchmen.

Hunt Is Successful.

Glenwood Springs, Col., April 26.—President Roosevelt's hunting trip has been crowned with success far beyond his expectations or those of the most sanguine of his guides. Three bears were killed by the party Tuesday and two Monday, one by the president and one by Dr. Lambert. P. B. Stewart, of Colorado Springs, one of the president's hunting companions, arrived here Tuesday night, accompanied by Courier Chapman. They brought the story of the hunt. The killing of the three bears was telephoned to them, and they understood that President Roosevelt brought down two of them, but the details are lacking. The party is almost snowbound in its present location and no attempt will be made to cross the divide. Fifteen feet of snow is on the ground on the other side, and any effort to reach Redstone would be futile.

The bear killed by the president on Monday furnished one of the finest skins ever seen here, according to the taxidermist with whom it has been left for mounting. The bear was of the brown variety, with hair long and uniform color. The animal was shot directly through the heart. After it had been overtaken by the dogs it went up a tree to a position 25 feet high. After the president shot the bear it climbed 20 feet higher and then dropped to the ground.

More Bears Killed.

Glenwood Springs, Col., April 29.—Four bears were killed by the president's party Thursday. All the members participated in the hunt. There was no foundation whatever for a rumor which reaceheed here that the president was ill and did not go on the trail. Dr. Lambert killed the biggest of the four and the the president killed two of the animals.

Unique Services.

Glenwood Springs, Col., May 1.—Unique in the history of Colorado was the church service held at the Old Blue schoolhouse on West Divide creek Sunday, attended by President Roosevelt and his hunting party and all the ranchmen and their families for miles around. The members of the congregation stood or sat on the ground or in their conveyances, which were grouped around the building. The sermon by Rev. Mann was of the usual kind. After he had concluded the president spoke for about ten minutes. He expressed his well-known views on good citizenship, the morality of man, patriotism and duty to the home and country. He was cheered heartily throughout his remarks. After the services were concluded he shook hands with every man, woman and child present.

Responsibiltiy Placed.

Princeton, Ind., April 29.—Coroner Hollingsworth returned his verdict Friday in the recent coal mine disaster in which eight men were killed. He holds Roscoe Hedrick and the Princeton Coal company, which owned the mine, responsible. The verdict says that Hedrick was incompetent to prepare the shot which caused the explosion, and the company knew this and is therefore to blame. Harry Targett, who fired the shot and was killed, is also blamed for knowingly firing an illegal shot.

Policy-Holders Safe.

New York, April 29.—H. C. Frick, chairman of the directors' committee investigating the Equitable Life Assurance society, has written a letter to the policy-holders assuring them that the interest of every policy-holder is absolutely safe.

NORTHERN PACIFIC WRECK

The Winnipeg Flyer Derailed Tuesday About Seven Miles South of This City—No Casualties.

The Winnipeg Flyer due to reach Crookston about 7:00 a. m. Tuesday was derailed at a point near Melvin early in the morning. The train was pulled back to Fertile shortly after noon and a start was made from there over the Red Lake Falls branch. The train was bowling along at a fair rate of speed when the engine, the mail car and two baggage cars were derailed at a point about one mile south of the Perrault elevator, at 4:00 p. m.

The engine was turned on its side and the coaches were not demolished although they were thrown from the track. Two of the passengers walked to a near-by farmer and hired a team to drive to Dugdale at which point the news was wired in.

The wreaking crew got the track cleared about noon Wednesday. In the meantime a train ran down from Grand Forks and the passengers were transferred.

Engineer Snyder escaped without injury although he was thrown about 20 feet the opposite side of the track from where the engine was thrown. Fireman Johnson jumped and received slight injuries.

At the rate of speed at the time of the accident it was fortunate indeed that no one was seriously injured. It is likely the wrecking crew will hoist the engine back onto the track Sunday as the line handles considerable traffic week days.

AN INSTRUCTIVE MEET

The Teachers Protective Association will meet at the high school assembly rooms at Red Lake Falls, Feb. 8, 9 and 10, 1906, commencing at 8:00 p. m.

A very elaborate program has been prepared and those attending may rest assured that their time will be well spent as it will be both instructive and interesting.

Supt. McAnulty has had a large number of programs printed and as lack of space prevents us from setting it out in full those interested can obtain a program from him on request.

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED.

John Nordin, a settler living near Rosevelt was accidentally killed by the discharge of a shot gun on Monday of last week. He comes from Douglas county and has been a resident of Beltrami county but a short time. The coroner was summoned as there are circumstances connected with the case which will warrant an investigation.

NO. MINN POULTRY ASSN.

Is An Assured Fact and Under the Officers Elected Bound to be a Winner.

A large and enthusiastic crowd of poultry fanciers met at the office of Germo & Farley Monday evening and perfected the organization.

A constitution was adopted, the organization to be called the Northern Minnesota Poultry Association and the first exhibition of poultry and pet stock will be held sometime in December.

Nine directors were chosen to serve one, two and three years respectively and they in turn proceeded to the election of officers for the organization. The officers elected are as follows: P. O. Floan, president; F. L. Farley, vice-president: L. C. Simons, secretary; Al. Nauman, show secretary and M. O. Sortedahl, treasurer.

To one acquainted with the officers there can be doubt of the success of the organization. The association is anxious to increase their enrollment and you are requested to call on or write to L. C. Simons, Secy. There will be another meeting held Monday evening, Feb. 12.

COSTLY SCISSORS.

Editors and tailors are not the only persons who are made happy on occasions by the present of a pair of scissors. A gift of this kind was made to the Emperor William of Germany recently, and if he was not made happy by it, there is no intimation to the contrary. The fact that this particular pair cost $500, and that it took five years to excute the work on it, might have made some difference. But, we know, however, that any one will appreciate a case of golden grain belt beer. It insures good health and happiness. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson Crookston.

"BUN" IS AGAIN WITH US.

E. H. Geralch who has been working in a large department store at Sisseton S. D. has accepted a position at the "Big Store," where he was formerly employed. This is cheering news to his many friends in this city. He will assume his new duties about March 1st.

DANCE AT WOODMEN HALL

There will be a dance given at the Woodmen hall on Friday evening, Feb. 9th, under the auspices of the Woodmen. Everyone cordially invited to be there and enjoy yourselves.

HATHAWAY ARRESTED

The Crookston Lad Wanted for Complicity in Box Car Robberies at Upper Falls Apprehended.

Eck Hathway, wanted for complicity in wholesale box car robberies at Thief River Falls where it is alleged that Soo cars were broken into systematically, was arrested Tuesday evening at the home of his parents in Crookston.

Deputy Sheriff Jarman of Red Lake county arrived at Crookston Tuesday evening and with Chief of Police Eck took Hathaway into custody, but on account of his illness, allowed him to remain at the home of his parents till Wednesday morning, when he will be taken back to Thief River Falls, where he will be given a preliminary hearing. It is thought he will waive examination and stand trial.

He denies that he had anything to do with the theft or disposal of the stolen goods and says that he left Thief River Falls, where he was operating a pop factory, because he had issued several checks when he had no money on deposit to cover them.

There was money in the bank, however, to take care of all the checks issued with but one exception and this was for a small amount. The other men charged with the robberies are already under arrest, but Hathaway left Thief River Falls the day that the others were apprehended, leaving the pop factory by the rear door as an officer entered the front door to apprehend him.

The officers got trace of him near Greenbush but Hathaway got wind that he was located and fled. Since that time he has been dodging about Warren and other north line towns.

LATER—Hathaway was bound over to the grand jury and in default of $500 bail was brought down last evening by Deputy Sheriff Jarman and committed to the county jail.

BASKET SOCIAL A SUCCESS

The basket social held at the parlors of the Presbyterian church last evening was a decided success even though the weather man handed out a small blizzard in his endeavor to head it off. A large, good-natured and liberal crowd of the young people were present and the evening was spent very pleasantly.

The sale of the baskets netted the church the tidy sum of $50.35, which will be applied on the vocalion. There is only a small balance of $25 unpaid on the vocalion at this time.

Daniel Shaw, chairman of the board of county commissioner, was a business visitor at the county seat Wednesday evening.

BADGER.

Master Fred Hudson arrived home last week after visiting several weeks at the home of Charles Bourcier of St. Hilaire.

An eleborate supper was served at Louis St. Ives Monday evening a good time is reported.

Francis LaBissioniere of the Falls was out here Tuesday to attend to some business matters.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Remick of Mentor visited around here several days and returned home Tuesday. No doubt they will remember their last evening they spent here.

Mrs. O. Robillard and children visited at her sister-in-law Mrs. F. Gregoire Monday.

Mr. Telesphore Ducharme accompanied by his sisters Annie and Angeline spent a few days in Lambert last week with friends and relatives.

Miss Alice Quesnell returned home Sunday after a weeks visit at Terrebonne.

A large crowd from here and around Perrault Station gathered at M. Quesnell's Monday evening and needless to say they more than enjoyed themselves, refreshments were served at twelve, the amusements of the evening were singing, card playing and dancing. The merry makers never thought of leaving until the break of day Tuesday and some even staid till Tuesday evening. Such good times are never had unless you go to Badger of course.

SPLENDID BAND CONCERT

An Excellent Program Ably Rendered And Voted The Best Of The Season.

The concert given by the Red Lake Falls Band at the Metropolitan Opera House last Friday evening, under the direction of Prof. Frank E. Miller was a decided success. Every number on the program was ably rendered and the large audience present showed their appreciation by liberal applause. Special mention is made of the vialin solo rendered by Prof. Miller, Lee Healy accompanist and the number rendered by Messers. Miller, Tracy, Berthon and Healy both responding to long continued applause. It is gratifying, to say the least, to note the marked improvement shown by the band under the able leadership of Prof. Miller and speaks well for Prof. Miller as a leader and the band as a musical organization. Each succeeding concert has been better than the preceeding one and as has been stated heretofore it is well to get the habit of attending these concerts as they are well worthy of your patronage. By failing to attend you not only fail to show your appreciation of a home organization but also miss a rare musical treat.

SAGE'S PHILOSOPHY.

Russell Sage, who is over 90 years of age, has been talking philosophically as to life. Among other observations are the following:

"I would study the subject of charity more carefully than I have. I would make charity a life study. It is a science. From time to time I have taken a whole month's batch of appealing letters and have had them thoroughly investigated by trained agents. Very few have been found to possess real merit.

"I would be more earnest in advising all young persons to keep out of Wall street.

"Two suits of clothes are enough for any young man. Every young man should watch the clothing market as closely as a Wall street broker watches the stock market. Fifty cents is enough for a straw hat; it will last two seasons. You can get for 39 cents an unlaundered white shirt which is excellent. You can get a good undershirt for 25 cents."

$100 REWARD, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrah. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

REBELS BREAK LOOSE AGAIN

MUTINY AT VLADIVOSTOK ASSUMES MORE SERIOUS PROPORTIONS.

MUTINEERS SEIZE A BATTERY

GOVERNMENT FORCES UNABLE TO COPE WITH HEAVILY ARMED REBELS.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 28.—That there has been a renewal of the mutiny at Vladivostok was confirmed by a dispatch from that city filed Thursday and received here last last night.

This dispatch indicates that the mutiny, which began last Monday, had not been subdued and that the situation was far more serious than during the outbreak in November, as the mutineers include both sailors and artillerymen, who are in possession of the "Holy Innocence" battery and are well armed with rifles, machine guns and heavy fortress guns.

Has No Easy Task.

Gen. Mistchenko, who has been sent to deal with the mutineers, the dispatch adds, has no easy task, as the Cossacks given him are ill-suited for capturing a fortified position. It declares that the promises of immediate transportation home for the men, with which the government ended the former revolt, are now scarcely effective.

The telegram, which bears evidence of having been carefully edited, says nothing about the numbers of the mutineers nor of the attitude of the garrison as a whole. The hasty dispatch of the nearest available troops indicate that Gen. Linevitch is distrustful.

The number of casualties in a fight on Tuesday when a column of sailors in advancing on the commandant's house was is not stated in the dispatch, and there is no mention in it of excesses or the destruction of property.

A report that Gen. Selivanoff, the commander of the army corps at Vladivostok, had been wounded is confirmed

The war department officials are unable to give particulars of the seriousness of the mutiny, which is due to the reserve men who are thoroughly undiciplined and are clamoring for their immediate transportation home, though the government has given them precedence over the trans-Siberian railroad in addition to chartering all the available steamers for this purpose.

LIFE SAVER IS SLAIN.

West Virginian Plunges Into Burning House to Rescue a Child.

Cincinnati, Jan. 28.—After plunging through the flames into Charles Henderson's burning house at Montgomery, W. Va., and safely bringing out one of the children, "Jug" King, a well known character, was killed by a falling timber as the walls fell outward. The cottage in which the Hendersons lived caught fire and the flames were under full headway before the family aroused and fled from the burning building. Neighbors who had gathered discovered that one of the children, which both parents thought the other had carried out, was still in the house. King plunged through the ring of flame, wrapped the child in a blanket and was almost out of danger, when a beam fell outward, and he was struck and killed. The child was unhurt.

WILL PUSH STATEHOOD BILL.

Senate Committee Orders a Favorable Report.

Washington, Jan. 28. — The senate committee on territories yesterday authorized a favorable report on the joint statehood bill passed by the house, and Seenator Beveridge, chairman of the committee, said later he will present the report in the senate Monday. None of the Democratic members of the committee was preseent when the agreement to take a vote was reached. It is the purpose to press the bill upon the attention of the senate as soon as possible.

DEATH DUE TO HAZING.

Ex-Cadet Dies of Disease Contracted After Going to West Point.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 28. — Burke S. Hall, for two years a cadet at West Point, and son of the late Judge Chas. L. Hall, a well known Nebraska jurist, died at his home in this city yesterday, aged twenty-six years. Relatives of the young man stoutly declare his death was directly due to the hazing he was forced to undergo at West Point.

CONSPIRACY CHARGED.

Chicago Stock Firm Complains of Nine Railroads.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—R. R. Shiel & Co. of Kankakee, Ill., a stock shipping concern, yesterday charged before the interstate commerce commission that nine railroads have conspired to ruin their business by charging excessive freight rates. Shiel & Co. filed a petition with the commission asking that it issue an order doing away with what it declares are the arbitrary rates.

MINNESOTAN TELLS OF WRECK

ALLISON OF ST. PAUL AMONG THE THIRTY-SEVEN SURVIVORS OF DISASTER.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 28.—The steamer City of Topeka arrived here yesterday morning with twenty-three of the survivors of the ill fated Valencia, and the harrowing tales told of the wreck are heart-rending. Among the saved are C. L. Allison of St. Paul, who, with Fred Erickson, also of St. Paul, was touring the coast. They were en route to Seattle to spend a week. Both men were among the last to leave the vessel and took passage on a life raft.

Erickson was washed off and drowned, while Allison clung to the frail craft until picked up by the Topeka when almost ready to lose his hold and roll into the boiling sea. His story is as follows:

"I don't know which was the worst experience, that on the ship or that on the raft. Both were terrible. One of the saddest things to me was the losing of my comrade, Erickson. We had been together many years and both lived in St. Paul. Erickson and I were taking a trip up the coast on pleasure. We were both to go on the raft, and he was with me when I got on board. Where he went to I do not know. After we got through the breakers I looked around and he was not with me. Whether he remained on the ship or was washed off the raft I cannot say. The scenes witnessed on the vessel were terrible."

Patrols Organized.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 28.—Systematic patrols are being organized in Barclay sound and parties of Indians have been sent to the different islands in the hope of finding other survivors of the Valencia disaster.

Unless some survivors are found on floating wreckage, a small hope, it is not expected that more than the thirty-seven men now accounted for will survive the disaster. This makes the total loss 117 persons.

WASHINGTON WRECK FATAL.

Express Car Falls Into River and the Messenger Drowns.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 28—A Northern Pacific passenger train, which was running on the Great Northern tracks, was wrecked near Trinidad, Wash., Thursday morning. The express car fell into the river and Express Messenger Murray was drowned. The smoker and chair car were thrown down the embankment, but the occupants escaped with some scratches. The accident occurred on account of the tracks being displaced through rocks falling down the embankment.

NEWSBOY'S RAP SAVES LIFE.

Appleton, Wis., Jan. 28.—Had it not been for the persistent knocking of a newsboy who hoped to sell a morning paper, August Plotter, his wife and two children probabley would have met death by asphyxiation. The knocking awakened Mrs. Plotter, but she was too weak to get up. She called feebly to her husband, but he, too, had been overcome. Finally she managed to arouse an eight-year-old daughter and the family was saved.

DREAD DISEASE IN STATE.

Black Smallpox Is Reported in Cass County.

Duluth, Jan. 28.—M. C. Littleworth of Duluth has returned from Cass county, where he has been setting up some drills, and says that there are several cases of black smallpox among the settlers in the central part of the county. He says that prompt and effective quarantine regulations were established and that there is no danger of the disease spreading.

WORKMAN BADLY CRUSHED.

Man Caught Between Car and Coal Shed at Grafton.

Grafton, N. D., Jan. 28.—Oluf Mohn, a coal heaver, was caught between a coal shed and a car that jumped the track. Both arms were broken and part of his nose and cheek and one eyelid taken off. He was bruised all over the breast and is likely to die. One arm and hand were crushed nearly to pulp.

Sheep Raisers Want the Earth.

Casper, Jan. 28—The Wyoming Wool Growers' association has adopted resolutions protesting against the leasing of public lands; opposing any reduction in the tariff on wool and hides; opposing the present charges for grazing stock, and asking congress to create an annual industry emergency fund to further aid that branch of the government service.

Scalded by Bursted Pipe.

Antigo, Wis., Jan. 28. — Frank St. Louis probably will die and two others received serious injuries as the result of the bursting of a steam pipe in the Kingsbury & Henshaw sawmill.

Postoffice Robbed.

International Falls, Minn., Jan. 28.—The postoffice safe was dynamited here early yesterday morning and cash and stamps amounting to about a thousand dollars was secured. No clue to the thieves.

Merchant Hangs Himself.

Eau Claire, Wis., Jan. 28. — A. W. Dohrman, a grocer, about sixty years old, was found dead, hanging by the neck by a clothes line, in a small room off his store. The body was discovered by a clerk.

LONG CHASE FOR CROOK IS ENDED

MAN WANTED FOR BANK OF LIVERPOOL ROBBERY IS CAPTURED.

HUNTED BY POLICE OF WORLD

ONE OF THE GREATEST SWINDLES IN CRIMINAL HISTORY —GOT $800,000.

New York, Jan. 28. — Central office detectives of this city arrested last night a man for whom they declare the police of the world have been searching for more than four years. The prisoner, who was captured on the street by a mere chance, is declared to be James Manes, formerly an American bookmaker, who is wanted in connection with the famous Bank of Liverpool robbery of Nov. 22, 1901, in which the English institution through forgery and conspiracy was defrauded of more than $800,000. Subsequently $380,000 of this amount was recovered from the conspirators, the bank having sustained a net

Loss of More Than $400,000.

While admitting his name to be James Manes, the man asserts that he is entirely ignorant of the Liverpool robbery and had no part in it. Manes will have a hearing to-day and probably will be held to await word from the English authorities, who have been apprised by cable of the arrest.

In the history of crime, the conspiracy to rob the Bank of Liverpool will always hold the distinction of being one of the most ingenious and conscienceless ever planneed. The entire scheme turned upon the weakness of a bank clerk, who, while drawing a salary of $750 a year, became a victim of the betting craze and played the races. His accomplices were four bookmakers and a prizefighter.

Bled by Racetrack Men.

Not only did the bank clerk play into theri hands through his losses at the race tracks, but he was deprived of the occasional big winnings he made through some pretense. The clerk forged continually the name of one of the bank's depositors whose identity was never revealed, until finally more than $800,000 had been taken out of the institution and turned over to the coterie of race track men. Finally, without having profited a penny, he went to the penitentiary for ten years, a sentence he is now serving with hard labor.

Manes was the only one of the swindlers unaccounted for. Three are serving sentences in prison and one committed suicide.

CUBA TO GIVE A PRESENT.

All Parties Concur in Action of the Senate.

Havana, Jan. 28.—The senate last evening unanimously passed an appropriation of $25,000 for the purchase of a wedding present for Miss Alice Roosevelt. It directs President Palma to select the gift. Each of the senators introducing the bill spoke in a similar strain to Senator Zayas, who said that Cuba owed some evidence of appreciation to her unfailing friend, Theodore Roosevelt, and that the wedding of his daughter afforded opportunity to demonstrate Cuba's love for and appreciation of her illustrious father. Each speaker pointed out that all parties had agreed as to the propriety and appropriateness of such a gift.

HADLEY IS PLEASED.

Case Against Oil Trust Greatly Strengthened.

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 28.—The taking of depositions in the Standard Oil hearing was finished here yesterday afternoon. Adjournment was taken until Feb. 20. The case is held open for further testimony. Asked if this was not done for the purpose of obtaining the testimony of W. E. Judd and W. T. McKee, the present officers of the Republic Oil company, who are now absent from the city, Attorney General Hadley said that if Judd and McKee returned and he found their statements necessary he will come back to Cleveland and cause them to appear on the stand. Mr. Hadley said that the Missouri case against the Standard Oil company had been greatly strengthened by the evidence brought out in the last two days.

Mayor Fined for Epithet.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 28.—Mayor McCarthy, for calling a News-Leader reporter a liar in the police court, and placing himself in contempt, was fined $20 yesterday by the justice. He took an appeal.

Match Causes Explosion.

Sauk Center, Minn., Jan. 28.—While John Botz was attempting to fill the gasoline tank on his engine a young man struck a match near by to light his pipe and a violent explosion followed. Botz was badly burned.

Injured in a Runaway.

Mason City, Iowa, Jan. 28.—In a runaway yesterday Mrs. Berne was seriously injured. Her collar bone and shoulder were broken. Her condition is serious. The team took fright at a passing train.

Ulin bowed her head upon her hands; and could the instinctive promptings of her heart at that moment have been read, they would have revealed a secret not much to be wondered at.

"I think," said Ezabel, after a pause, "that you have had some opportunity to study Julian's character."

"I have seen enough to assure me that he is a noble, generous man," returned Ulin, raising her head.

"And," added Ezabel, "if you could know him better you would find your impressions strengthened. But he will not be here long. As soon as he recovers from his wound he will leave us."

"If I am not mistaken," ventured our heroine, "Julian is at home in this place."

"Most certainly he is, my daughter. From his earliest childhood he knew no other home but this."

"And he was on his way hither when he overtook me in the hands of the Arabs."

"Yes."

"And will my presence cause him to leave you?"

"I think not, lady. But you will give yourself no uneasiness on that account. If Julian feels that he had better be away from you, he will go for his own sake. And, remember—the truly noble soul finds joy in the generous sacrifices which it may be called upon to make. I hear Ben Hadad's voice. He is calling me."

She arose and left the chamber; and when she returned she was followed by Ben Hadad. Now that Ulin saw the hermit by the light of the day she was awe-struck by his venerable appearance. All that could be noble and honorable and lovable in old age seemed combined in him; and as he bent his gaze upon her and extended his hand in welcome, she felt her heart go to him with all its trust and confidence.

"My child," he said in tones of tenderest solicitude, "Ezabel has told me your story and I have come to bid you an affectionate welcome to my cave. Rest here and feel that you are at home. Your mother paid me for this long ago. Come—follow me to where the air is fresher, and where the sunbeams can greet you."

The maiden thanked Ben Hadad as well as she was able and then rose to follow him. He led her to the main cave, where she found Hobaddan and the slaves.

"This is my home," said the old man, as he led the maiden to a seat; "and here have I lived more years than go to fill up the allotted age of man. All these trees and shrubs I have trained up from the tender sprout, and these vines I have taught to clothe the gray old rocks. And I have been most fortunate in my life. I have been able to protect many who needed protection and my days have been lengthened out to protect more."

Ulin was touched by the deep pathos of the hermit's words, and for a whole hour she sat and listened to his conversation. At the end of that time he led her back to the cave where Ortok, the black slave, had prepared dinner. She did not feel hungry, but she sat down with Ben Hadad and Hobadden and Ezabel—she and Albia—and partook with them.

Thus passed three days; and Ulin had become so used to the place that it already seemed like home. She had learned to love the hermit; and she had learned to love Ezabel; and she had learned to respect and esteem the stout-hearted Hobaddan and to converse with him freely. Once she asked the lieutenant what had become of Julian's band. Would they not be seeking him?

And he explained to her that he had communicated with them—that they knew of their chieftain's safety and had gone away into the mountains of Lebanon, where comfortable abiding places for them were plenty.

When Ulin retired to her own apartment she sat by herself, with her head bowed upon her hands, taking no notice of her serving-maid. At an early hour she retired; but it was a long time ere she slept; and when she did sleep she was troubled with strange dreams. She dreamed of the unfortunate Helena, and awoke with a cry of pain. And then she dreamed a more pleasant dream—a dream of something that had haunted her waking thoughts—a dream of the Scourge and Damascus.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Something More Than a Dream.

On the following morning, when Ulin entered the main cave, Julian was there to greet her. She extended her hand to him and smiled as she spoke. The youthful chieftain was somewhat pale, but his large, lustrous eyes burned with a deeped intensity and the white brow offered a strange contract to the waving mases of golden hair. The maiden's smile faded away when she met the earnest gaze that was fixed upon her, and her hand trebled before she withdrew it. He spoke to her a few words of cheer, expressed his gratitude that she had found a place of safety; and hoped that the future might have no more clouds for her.

"O, my mistress," cried Albia, when she and Ulin were alone, "how noble a man he is!"

"Who?" asked the princess, starting out from a deep reverie.

"Julian, I mean," returned the maid, quickly and with enthusiasm. "Does he not look handsomer than ever?"

Ulin bowed her head and made no reply.

"Is he not beautiful to gaze upon?" pursued Albia, without seeming to notice her lady's abstracted mood.

"Hush, Albia, say no more now. I am busy with my own thoughts."

"Pardon, sweet mistress. I meant no wrong. I thought—we owed him so much—and he has suffered in our behalf—that you might—"

"Albia, say no more. I know you meant well. You mistake me if you think I am not grateful. There—say no more. I love you, and would not hurt your feelings. Go out into the grove and walk awhile."

Ulin bowed her head again as she spoke, with her hand upon her brow—upon her brow for a moment—and then pressed upon her bosom. And thus Albia left her.

When the freed girl reached the grove in front of the cave she found Julian and Osmir in close conversation and before they noticed her she had heard enough to excite her curiosity; and with a freedom that was natural to her, she asked them what had happened.

"Osmir thinks," said Julian, with a smile, "that one of the Arab robbers has followed us and tracked us to this place; but I laugh at him."

"I may be mistaken," rejoined the other, "but still I think I am right. I have seen the fellow twice; once by the river at the entrance of the wood, and once further away. It was one of the rascals who escaped us."

"And if it is the Arab, what can he want?" asked Albia.

"If it be one of those fellows," returned Julian, "he may wish to join our ranks."

"Oh," added Osmir, "he may hope to steal something."

"Very likely," assented the chieftain. "However," he concluded, after a brief pause, "we may as well keep a sharp lookout."

"Selim and I are on the watch," said Osmir; "and if we catch the rascal, we'll secure him."

Albia fancied that Julian had thoughts which he was not willing to express in her presence, but she did not mean to fret herself; and before she rejoined her mistress she had almost forgotten the circumstances.

At noon, and again in the evening, did Ulin meet Julian; but they did not converse freely together. She could not meet the gaze of those lustrous eyes without trembling, and she sought to avoid that which so much moved her. If he had approached her and spoken freely with her on some subject of general interest she would have joined him readily; but he did not do so.

Morning came again, and again the maiden met the man who had saved her from the Arabs. This time he greeted her in few words, and soon turned away to speak with Hobaddan. He did not seem well. He looked paler than on the day before, and there was an expression of pain about the mouth and eyes. Ulin was uneasy. Perhaps his wound was giving him new trouble. As soon as the morning's meal had been eaten, she sought Ezabel and asked her if Julian was suffering from his wound.

"No," replied the old woman. "I do not think it is his wound. I have noticed his appearance and have asked him what it meant; but he puts me off with a smile and a blessing and tries to assure me that all is well. I do not like to see him suffer. He is like a child to me and I love him tenderly. Ah, the world little knows what a noble, generous soul dwells within that manly form."

"If I thought he was suffering from my account," said Ulin, "I should be most unhappy."

"How on your account?" said Ezabel, quickly.

"I mean in consequence of the wound he received while fighting for my deliverance."

"I hardly think it is that. Something beside the wound troubles him. It may be that the short captivity in Damascus worries him. He may have heard something there that gives him unpleasant thought."

At noon Julian did not appear when the rest ate their dinner. He was out by the river. Late in the afternoon Ulin met Ezabel again and the latter seemed sad and dejected.

"Julian is going to leave us," exclaimed the woman, in answer to an inquiry from Ulin.

"Leave us!" repeated our heroine, with a start.

"Yes; so he told me only an hour since."

"When will he go?"

"Early in the morning."

"But he will shortly return?"

"I fear not. I asked him that and he only shook his head."

"Does he give any reason for his going away?"

"None that you need to know, my child. In fact, he gives me no reason directly. I am left to draw my conclusions from accidental remarks."

When Ulin retired to her chamber she was in a frame of mind not easily analyzed. She spoke to Albia concerning the chieftain's unexpected departure and the girl expressed the opinion that he felt himself to be in the way.

"What do you mean by that?" asked Ulin.

"Well," replied Albia, "I think Julian feels that there are enough dwellers in the hermit's cave without him. I may be mistaken; but his manner, for a day or two past, has seemed to indicate that he was not perfectly at ease here."

The princess asked no more questions, but busied herself with her own thoughts.

As the sun was sinking from its daily course, Ulin wandered out into the grove alone, and as she approached the spot where she sometimes sat with the hermit, she saw Julian, seated upon a bench beneath an orange tree. At first she thought of turning back, and retracing her steps; but an impulse which was no result of her will, but rather an instinctive emotion, as though some secret force, led her on; and almost before she was aware of it she came so near that the youth heard her step and looked up. He started when he saw her and a flash of joy, like a quick passage of sunlight, was upon his face. In a moment, however, the look was gone, and a shade of sadness succeeded. The maiden could not now have withdrawn even had she been so disposed in the first place. Following the strong impulse, she advanced to the shadow of the orange tree and placed her hand upon Julian's shoulder; and it thrilled the youth like an electric shock.

"Kind sir," she said, scarcely able to speak above a whisper when she commenced, "Ezabel tells me you are going away."

"Yes, lady," Julian replied, rising as he spoke; "I have so determined."

"And you go soon?"

"In the morning."

"This is sudden, sir."

"No, lady; no more so than my movements are apt to be."

CHAPTER XIX.

Ulin and Julian.

Ulin hesitated and trembled, and finally sat down upon the bench from which the chieftain had arisen. In a few moments she had recovered herself so that she could speak without faltering.

"Good sir, I have one question to ask you." She went on hurriedly, as though the old impulse still led her; "You had not planned to leave the cave so soon?"

"I had planned nothing about it, lady."

"But—if I had not been here, with my servant, you would have remained longer?"

"Lady, do not ask me such questions."

"I must ask them, sir, for I want to know. If I thought that my presence here had caused you to leave your old home, I should be most unhappy. When I came here I did not know how near and dear this place was to you. If one of us must go, let me find some other resting place."

Julian started and trembled like an aspen. A moment it was so, and then he turned upon the maiden a look so earnest and so deep and so full of tumultuous feeling, that she shook beneath it.

"Lady," he said, speaking almost in a whisper, "you shall know the secret which I had purposed never to reveal to mortal being. The words are forced from me. Let me speak them now; and then let them be forgotten. When I heard that the king of Damascus had shut up a fair maiden within the Palace of Lycanius, and that he meant to make that maiden his wife, I felt my heart grow sick within me and I resolved, if the fair one was held against her will, that I would set her free. I led my brave men to the palace and overcame the guard which the king had set. Heaven was opened, but in the blessed realm I was offered no abiding place. I saw the loved spirit of light within the cave which had been the home of my childhood; but my love I dared not speak. How could I, the enemy of Damascus, and the branded robber, tell my love to the daughter of the king's prime minister. Lady, I dare not trouble you more."

THE INDISPENSABLE MAN.

Prudent Business Men Now Get Rid of That Pomposity.

Some of the most successful business men in this country make it a rule to dispense with the services of any man in their employ, no matter how important his position may be, as soon as he comes to regard himself as "indispensable," says Success. This may seem harsh and even unbusinesslike; but, if we look into it, we shall find that there is wisdom in this practice. Experience proves that, the moment a man looks upon himself as absolutely necessary, he usually ceases to exercise to the fullest extent the faculties which have helped him to rise to that indispensable point. He becomes arrogant and dictatorial, and his influence in an organization is bound to be more or less demoralizing. Many concerns have been seriously embarrassed by the conduct of managers, superintendents, or heads of departments, after they had reached positions where they thought no one else could take their places. This undue appreciation of one's own importance is as disastrous in its results as utter lack of self-esteem. It is really evidence of a narrow mind, and ignorance of general conditions; for the man who is up to the times, thoroughly posted in regard to the world-wide trend of the twentieth century, will realize that there are few people in the world no matter what their talents or ability, who cannot be replaced. It is a very rare character, indeed, that is imperatively necessary, and the man who actually reaches this point does not brag of it, nor act as if he considered himself "indispensable."

REWARD EKSTROMERS.

Swedish Friends Appreciate Hospitality Shown During World's Fair.

A reminder of the world's fair period was received a few days ago by C. A. Ekstromer of 4748 Vernon avenue, St. Louis, from friends in Sweden, to whom the St. Louisan extended many courtesies during their visit here in 1904. The gift consisted of two volumes of Larsson's works, bound in one volume. Larsson's paintings were much admired during the world's fair.

The binding of the volume is in the handsomest material to be found in Sweden. The Ekstromer coat of arms is gilded on the title page. The gift is dedicated in the Swedish language, of which the following is the English translation, the names being signed in ink by the subscribers:

To the Hon. Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Ekstromer—A tribute of regard in acknowledgement of the many acts of service for and generous hospitality to countrymen during the world's fair in St. Louis, 1904. G. Oscar Olsson, Karl Stein, Helmer Bernhardt, P. T. Berg, Torston Filson Holmgren, Wilhelm Jansson, Gustaf Gullberg, Dr. Axel F. Enstrom, J. Sigfrid Edstrom, Ferdinand Boberg, Karl P. HAAKONSHALLEN RESTORED.

Converted Into a Royal Residence at Once.

Haakonshallen, one of the oldest secular buildings in Norway, dating back to the middle ages and in a fine state of preservation, is to be furnished as a royal residence. While the building has been restored, nothing was done to furnish the building and make it habitable until it was announced that King Haakon would visit Bergen on his return from the coronation at Trondhjem next June. Then the people stirred themselves and it is now assured that the ancient castle will be properly prepared for the royal party. Premier Michaelson started the fund with a contribution of 10,000 kroner, and other wealthy men of the city have contributed 500 to 2,000 kroner each.

There is much discussion as to the style of decoration, the plan of Gerhard Munthe having met with much opposition. As Munthe is the leading designer of tapestry and mural decorations in the country, the opposition has created considerable surprise elsewhere in the country. It is not anticipated that there will be any serious conflict over the plans.

"Olav" Is Correct.

Norway's learned men have been having a controversy as to the proper spelling of the name of the little crown prince. Ordinarily the name is spelled and pronounced "Olaf," but the scholars say that it should properly be written "Olav." At the request of the government, Professors Bugge and Hægstad have issued a statement to the effect that in accordance with ancient rules the name should be written Olav.

Gifts Worth Receiving.

Ten of the workingmen at the Eskilstuna steel works received as Christmas gifts a building lot valued at 1,000 kroner, and the promise of a loan up to 4,000 kroner for a house. The land is to become the absolute property of the men after certain conditions are fulfilled for a period of five years. Victor Larsson, director of the works, announced that this plan of distributing Christmas gifts would be followed every year.

Cruiser for Sweden.

Sweden's first armored cruiser was launched recently at the Finnboda works, near Stockholm, in the presence of King Oscar and other members of the royal family. Princess Margaret christened the new vessel, and on this occasion made her first public address in Swedish. It was short, but quite faultless. The vessel will be called Fylgia.

Money Orders From America.

The Swedish postoffice reports that the number of money orders from America during the year 1905 was more than 140,000, and the aggregate sum greatly in excess of 10,000,000 kroner. This is an increase of more than 1,000,000 kroner, and, moreover, indicates that American money is doing much good in Sweden.

Lapps Going to the King.

A deputation of Norwegian Lapps will visit King Haakon this winter to pay their respects to the new sovereign. They will come in their native winter costume of fur, and their arrival at the capital is awaited with much expectancy.

No Work at Kongsvinger.

So persistent have been the charges in the Swedish press that Norway was violating the provisions of the Karlstad treaty by strengthening the fortifications at Kongsvinger that the government through the minister for defense has deemed it advisable to make an official denial that any work has been done at Kongsvinger since the Karlstad conference. Vart Land, the organ of the Swedish conservatives, has been particularly active in circulating the reports.

Weak, Nervous and Wretched From Wasting Kidney Troubles.

Mrs. Henry A. Reamer, Main and Garst Sts., South Bend, Ind., says: "When I began using Doan's Kidney Pills I was so weak I could hardly drag myself across the room. I was wretched and nervous, and had backache, bearing-down pain, headache, dizziness and weak eyes. Dropsy set in and bloating of the chest choked me and threatened the heart. I had little hope, but to my untold surprise Doan's Kidney Pills brought me relief and saved my life. I shall never forget it."

DOCTOR CURED OF ECZEMA.

Maryland Physician Cures Himself—Dr. Fisher Says: "Cuticura Remedies Possess True Merit."

"My face was afflicted with eczema in the year 1897. I used the Cuticura Remedies and was entirely cured. I am a practicing physician, and very often prescribe Cuticura Resolvent and Cuticura Soap in cases of eczema, and they have cured where other formulas have failed. I am not in the habit of indorsing patent medicines, but when I find remedies possessing true merit, such as the Cuticura Remedies do, I am broad-minded enough to proclaim their virtues to the world. I have been practicing medicine for sixteen years, and must say I find your Remedies A No. 1. You are at liberty to publish this letter. G. M. Fisher, M. D., Big Pool, Md., May 24, 1905."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Noise Only.

Senator Dryden of New York said of a certain article on life insurance in a review:

"It is like the wild waves."

"Like the wild waves?"

"Yes, precisely. Two philosophers, a male and a female, were walking on a deserted beach. The female philosopher murmured dreamily:

"'What are the wild waves saying?'

"The male philosopher answered in a hoarse, gruff voice:

"'Nothing, Matilda. They are like some people we know. They make a lot of noise, but they don't say anything.'"

FACIAL PARALYSIS

Nervous Distortion of Face Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

What appears to be a slight nervous attack may be the forerunner of a severe disorder. No nervous sufferer should neglect the warning symptoms, but should see that the starved nerves are nourished before the injury to the delicate organism has gone to an extent that renders a cure a difficult matter. The nerves receive their nourishment through the blood, the same as every other part of the body, and the best nerve tonic and food is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The experience of Mr. Harry Bemis, of Truthville, Washington county, N. Y., substantiates this.

"I had been feeling badly for a long time," said Mr. Bemis, "and in the early part of September, 1902, I was compelled to quit work on account of my ill health. My trouble was at first extreme nervousness, then my sight became affected and I consulted an oculist who said I was suffering from paralysis. He treated me for some time, but I got no benefit. I tried another doctor and again failed to obtain any relief. My nervousness increased. Slight noises would almost make me wild. My mouth was drawn so I could scarcely eat and one eye was affected so I could hardly see. I had very little use of my limbs, in fact I was almost a complete wreck.

"I am all right now and am at work. That is because I followed my wife's advice and took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She had used the same remedy herself with the most gratifying results and she persuaded me to try them when it appeared that the doctors were unable to help me. They acted very surely in my case; my face came back into shape and in time I was entirely well."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or by mail by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. A booklet on Nervous Disorders sent free on request.

Tumors Conquered Without Operations

Unqualified Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in Cases of Mrs. Fox and Miss Adams.

Fannie Fox
Miss Luella Adams

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy, Tumor.

So-called "wandering pains" may come from its early stages, or the presence of danger may be made manifest by excessive monthly periods accompanied by unusual pain extending from the abdomen through the groin and thighs.

If you have mysterious pains, if there are indications of inflammation, ulceration or displacement, don't wait for time to confirm your fears and go through the horrors of a hospital operation; secure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once and begin its use and write Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., for advice.

Read these strong letters from grateful women who have been cured:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— (First Letter.)

"In looking over your book I see that your medicine cures Tumors. I have been to a doctor and he tells me I have a tumor. I will be more than grateful if you can help me, as I do so dread an operation."—Fannie D. Fox, Bradford, Pa.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— (Second Letter.)

"I take the liberty to congratulate you on the success I have had with your wonderful medicine.

"Eighteen months ago my periods stopped. Shortly after I felt so badly I submitted to a thorough examination by a physician, and was told that I had a tumor and would have to undergo an operation.

"I soon after read one of your advertisements and decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. After taking five bottles as directed, the tumor is entirely gone. I have again been examined by the physician and he says I have no signs of a tumor now. It has also brought my periods around once more; and I am entirely well. I shall never be without a bottle of Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the house."—Fannie D. Fox, Bradford, Pa.

Another Case of Tumor Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"About three years ago I had intense pain in my stomach, with cramps and raging headaches. The doctor prescribed for me, but finding that I did not get any better he examined me and, to my surprise, declared I had a tumor.

"I felt sure that it meant my death warrant, and was very disheartened. I spent hundreds of dollars in doctoring, but the tumor kept growing, till the doctor said that nothing but an operation would save me. Fortunately I corresponded with my aunt in one of the New England States, who advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before submitting to an operation, and I at once started taking a regular treatment, finding to my great relief that my general health began to improve, and after three months I noticed that the tumor had reduced in size. I kept on taking the Compound, and in ten months it had entirely disappeared without an operation, and using no medicine but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and words fail to express how grateful I am for the good it has done me."—Miss Luella Adams, Colonnade Hotel, Seattle, Wash.

Such unquestionable testimony proves the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and should give confidence and hope to every sick woman.

Between the United State Senate and President Roosevelt it will not take the country long to decide.

The senate may turn down the president, but just give the people a chance to turn down the senate and see what will happen.

The little scandals that crop out every now and then in the department of agriculture remind the public that there are still rascals to be turned out.

Editor Huntington of the Windom Reporter says that a honest and able Democrat makes a better governor than a corporation controlled Republican.

Frank Eddy has had an opportunity to observe what a fool even a great man can make of himself when he attempts a discussion regarding a young lady's age.

The unsentimental scribe of the Browns Valley Tribue remarks that to be able to play the piano charmingly never was, and isn't the only essential for the noble young lady.

The widow of President Harper has been given the use of the interest from a trust fund of $500,000 established by John D. Rockefeller. Mrs. Harper so far has not raised the question of "tainted" money.

King Christian Ix the beloved ruler of Demark died Wednesday at the age of eighty seven years. He was known as the "Father of Rulers" and sorrow, profound and widespread holds the Danish nation in ite grip.

Congressman McCleary has promised to make his forthcoming tariff speech the "effort of his life." Mr. McCleary should hurry up with his speech as the farmers of Southern Minnesota would like to know if it is worth while to do any spring plowing.

Municipal ownership promises to be the paramount issue in practically all the city elections during the present year. The wave of municipal reformation has by no means reached its highest point, and out of the present agitation will undoubtedly come better and more representative government.

Returns filed with the state insurance commissioners show that the majority of the life insurance companies suffered severely in the last year's business as a result of the exposure of the scandals in New York. The three big corporations investigated have lost more than half of their normal business.

One of the interesting observations of the gubernatorial contests in the Republican party is the cocksuredness on the part of each advocate that Governor Johnson can whip all of them to a stand-still except the one particular aspirant the foresaid advocate is booming. It is apparent that the Republican politicans are admitting too much, even at this early stage of the game.

Governor Johnson has issued a call for a meeting of the state board of equalization and county auditors at the capitol building in St. Paul on February 8. Matters concerning the work of the assessors will be discussed, and it is hoped that as a result of the conference a better understanding between the county and state tax authorities will come about.

Joel Heatwole, the trust buster and railroad regulator, is giving a good imitation of how to knock over harmony props as fast as the other fellows put them up. From the view point of the disinterested observer we should say that Joel is going to have the time of his life in bringing the Republican party in accordance with the numerous reform planks of the Northfield News platform.

Senatorial courtesy seems to have invaded the more popular body of the national legislature, and our own J. Adam Bede was brought to a sudden check for saying that "the American people wanted to forget the New York Senators." Now J. Adam told only a palpable truth, but even a Minnesota congressman ought to be allowed to tell the truth when he feels so inclined.

Some of the Minnesota newspapers have been attempting to stir up trouble in the Democratic ranks by alleging that Governor Johnson and Secretary Day do not dwell in harmony. Nothing can be more unfair or untrue than these reports, which are sent out by correspondents who ought and probably do know better. Charley Cheney of the Minneapolis Journal gives a statement of this alleged friction which ought to be accepted as a fair statement of the case. "The yarn about friction between Governor Johnson and Frank A. Day has started the rounds again. There has never been any evidence of trouble in the executive official family, and the governor himself has a good deal of amusement out of the stories of his troubles with Day. It is not always so funny for the private secretary, however, for there are some Democrats who harbor grudges against him for failures to land, and they spread the story for the purpose of breaking down Day's influence in the party. The relations between the two are extremely cordial now, as they have always been."

Fat is of great account to a baby; that is why babies are fat. If your baby is scrawny, Scott's Emulsion is what he wants. The healthy baby stores as fat what it does not need immediately for bone and muscle. Fat babies are happy; they do not cry; they are rich; their fat is laid up for time of need. They are happy because they are comfortable. The fat surrounds their little nerves and cushions them. When they are scrawny those nerves are hurt at every ungentle touch. They delight in Scott's Emulsion. It is as sweet as wholesome to them.

MINNESOTA AND THE RAILROADS

GOVERNOR JOHN A. JOHNSON DECLARES GRAVE IRREGULARITIES EXIST IN RAILROAD RATES IN THE STATE.

SHOWS FREIGHT CHARGES ARE APPROXIMATELY FIFTY PER CENT HIGHER THAN IN IOWA OR CANADA.

SPEECH DELIVERED BY MINNESOTA EXECUTIVE BEFORE THE STATE MUNICIPAL LEAGUE AT ST. PAUL.

PITHY POINTS FROM GOVERNOR JOHNSON'S MUNICIPAL LEAGUE SPEECH.

No great center of poulation can flourish and thrive except it flourishes and thrives upon the smaller municipalities and upon the agricultural communities.

I believe that when the chartered corporation, going beyond its chartered rights, refuses to abide by the laws under which it has its existence and has its being, it can be regulated and, if necessary, can be secured to the people which has given it life.

* * *

At the south of us a great empire state has provided by law a system by which the rates of transportation are controlled. Suffering by a comparison with Canada, we also suffer by comparison with Iowa and, lying between these two, it seems to me that there should be no discrimination against our own fair state and the villages and cities which in part comprise it.

Minnesota cattle rates are 10 per cent higher under the most favorable circumstances as compared with the most adverse circumstances in Iowa. On hogs the Minnesota farmer pays 22 per cent more than the Iowa farmer on the same commodity. Lumber is 50 per cent higher.

It seems to me that the shipper and producer and the citizen generally have an interest in the regulation of railway rates and, more than ever, from a somewhat limited study of the situation, am I convinced that the only remedy to the citizen of this great state lies in the positive power of the railroad and warehouse commission to determine, establish and fix the rates of transportation and put the burden of proof on showing the unfairness of such a rate upon the power which now controls and establishes the rates.

Is there any good, valid reason why a man living twenty-eight miles from the city of St. Paul should pay as much for the transportation of his fuel as a man living 103 miles from the city of St. Paul?

* * *

Mr. Rockefeller, of Standard Oil fame, is the most potential force in matters of transportation the world has ever known. Mr. Morgan, of equal notoriety, is the most potential force in industrials the world has ever known. The country is at the mercy of this class of people. We live today in a paper age where fiat property has become an established fact.

The great curse of the country today is in the fictitious valuations placed upon property and the fact that the American people must by their energy and economy pay tribute to this class of genius by paying a rate of interest and profit on property which has no existence.

The remedy for many evils is the ballot, properly and effectively used—not with the blindness of party spirit or to promote the interests of individuals—but used with the broader idea of promoting the general welfare and securing a more perfect civilization, based, as it must be, on the principles of justice, equality and fairness.

At the recent annual meeting of the Minnesota Municipal league Governor John A. Johnson delivered a notable address. Governor Johnson reviewed the issues pressing forward for consideration, devoting the greater part of his address to the necessity for reduced railroad rates on the Minnesota railroads. His speech was listened to with the closest attention and is conceded to mark a new era in the discussion of reforms now before the people of his state.

The governor emphasized the importance of state drainage and declared unequivocally in the favor that large areas of state lands may be converted into taxable and profitable farm lands. He told of the action of the several departments of the state government in bringing the timber thieves to justice. He detailed the excellent work being done by the state dairy and food department to prevent the sale of adulterated foodstuffs and to eliminate from competition with Minnesota merchants the ubiquitous "boxcar merchant." Governor Johnson told of the initiative taken by the Minnesota insurance department in instituting reforms in life insurance methods, that the savings of the people may not continue the profitable playthings of the insurance magnates. He recited the recent decision of the supreme court, upholding the inheritance tax law enacted by the last legislature, and declared emphatically in favor of the proposed constitutional amendment by which advantageous changes may be perfected in our present tax laws. All these questions the governor discussed, pausing to add the weight of his favor to the idea of municipal ownership by which cities and villages may own their water, light and power utilities for the benefit of the people using them. The larger and broader subject, that of state railroad rate regulation, was reserved for the concluding part of Governor Johnson's address and to this topic the governor spoke for nearly an hour. He emphasized the right of the state to regulate transportation. His argument was exhaustive and incontrovertible and he showed by a comparison of rates with those in effect in Iowa on the south and in Canada on the north that Minnesota shippers are at a decided disadvantage with the rates paid by their neighbors. Governor Johnson showed himself not to be one of those without hope. He declared his belief in the sanity and good sense of the people of the commonwealth of which he is the chief executive and urged upon the voter the intelligent use of the ballot in securing the reforms which all admit are necessary and imperative for the continued prosperity of the state. Discussing the transportation question Governor Johnson spoke as follows:

Railroad Question Paramount.

One of the greatest problems of the present time, and one of the most vital concern to the people represented by you, is that of railway transportation and the regulation, or rather the securing of proper tariff rates for the same. The nation is astir today and the eyes of all the people are centered upon the congress of the United States, waiting with breathless interest to see whether the great representative of the people shall have the hearty support and concurrence of the congress of the United States in his laudable effort to secure the right of the people to regulate the rates of transportation. On every hand we hear the common cry that there is no remedy in the law. On every hand we hear the cry that it is not a proper function of government to control and regulate common carriers. On every hand we hear the cry that the sacred right of contract cannot be impaired. We are met constantly with the claim that the vested and chartered right of the corporation cannot be assailed, regulated or abridged. Fortunately the United States supreme court has rendered a decision that "the superintending power over the highways and the charges upon the public for their use always remain in the government. This is not only its indefeasible right, but is necessary for the protection of the people against extortion and abuse. These positions we deem to be incontrovertible. Indeed, they are adjudged the law in the decisions of this court. Railroads and railroad corporations are in this category." If this decision of the court is true certainly the government which has the right to confer a charter, which has the right to dispose of the public domain, which has the right to confer great privileges upon a corporation must have the right to regulate and control that corporation in its operations.

A few weeks ago I listened to strange and remarkable language from one of the members of the interstate commerce commission. In the language of the pessimist who sees no hope, in the language of one who feels nothing but despair he gives voice to the opinion and to the belief that there is and will be no relief in the law. He says: "The men who serve in the cabinet, on the bench and even upon the interstate commerce commission are generally lawyers who have received in their professional life the retainers of corporations. They cannot be expected to change their prejudices and habits of thought on coming into place and power. No government machinery will regulate monopoly. When men worship the almighty dollar it will rule them."

Inflation the Great Curse.

I think that all appreciate that these are peculiar times. We know and realize that at no time in the history of the world have a few men become so powerful because of their great possession of wealth. We are told by the statistician that 5,000 men own one-third of the property of the United States. We are told by the statistician that if the same ratio of increase continues in less than half a century these same men will own practically all the property of the country. Owning one-third of the property of the country today they positively control the affairs of the country. They fix the price of transportation, they arbitrarily fix the price of things that we buy and they arbitrarily fix the price of the things we produce and sell.

Mr. Rockefeller of Standard Oil fame is the most potential force in transportation affairs the world has ever known. Mr. Morgan, of equal notoriety, is the most potential force in industrials the world has ever known. The country is at the mercy of this Created by Mysterious New Discovery That Works Wonders For Sick and Afflicted.

Of all the accomplishments of science, of all the wonderful inventions and scientific discoveries of the past decade, none has proved so valuable as a combination of strange roots and herbs, the nature of which has been heretofore unknown to medical science and which compose a medicine of such startling power that scientists and doctors are amazed.

Physicians have stood by and seen cases that they had worked on for years, cured as if by a miracle with this marvelous product of scientific research.

Rheumatism, Catarrh, Stomach and Kidney trouble, Blood Diseases and Paralysis vanish mysteriously under its influence, and as has been proved by many tests, disease once expelled from the system with this medical phenomena never returns.

A recent letter from Mrs, S. McCormick, 720 Seventh Avenue, South, Minneapolis, Minn., gives an interesting account of a remarkable case. In part she says: "I secured some of the New Discovery medicine and began taking it for Catarrhal trouble and Neuralgia but I had no idea the remedy would effect the system so generally as it proved to. After taking it for a few days I noticed an improvement. My catarrhal trouble disappeared almost entirely and my neuralgia was soon a thing of the past. Now I eat better, sleep better and feel better and stronger in every way."

Cooper's New Discovery strengthens the entire system; it drives every trace of disease and poison from the blood and sends the vital fluid, pure, rich, red, surging through the veins carrying health, strength and vigor to every part of the body. It is sold at one dollar per bottle. Cooper's Quick Relief, which should be used in connection costs fifty cents. The remedies can only be obtained of W. A. Schreiter.

KNEW LINCOLN IN YOUTH

Aged Lady Now Living in California Recalls Times of Long Ago

Twenty miles out from Los Angeles, Cal., on the seashore road, in a humble, four-roomed house, is an old woman who Abraham Lincoln was very fond of and who he teasingly named "Quinine" 70 years ago, when, a store clerk in New Salem, he boarded for $1 a week under her father's roof.

Mrs. Vienna Lyster has just celebrated her 89th birthday. A stately old woman, she is still free of step and straight of vision, though her memory has begun to falter, recollection to waver and down the long vista of years and day-marks of her girlhood are blurred.

This long-ago friend of Lincoln sits in her son's home at Burnett and tells many stories of the Great Commoner. With a quaint tenderness comes the thought that this is the cousin, the girlhood friend, of fair Ann Rutledge, the dead love of Lincoln's youth.

For twenty years, "alike to fortune and to fame unknown," the recipient of Lincoln's whimsical nickname has made her home in the whitewashed cottage in the little town of Burnett.

Seventy-five years ago, in the summer of 1830, Lincoln released himself from parental care and started out to make his own way. This was soon after his people has removed to Illinois, and the future President was then a gaunt, tall lad of little more than 21. The following year, just after his famous flatboat trip to New Orleans, he made his second and "permanent" appearance in New Salem, on the banks of the Sangamon river. Its population at that time probably did not exceed seventy-five men, women and children. It was one of the many "boom" towns of what was then the Far Western State of Illinois.

The ensuing five years, 1831 to 1836, cover one of the most interesting periods of Lincoln's early life, when he learned the lessons of love and death and to rise above the bitterness of despair. It was during this period that Mrs. Lyster (then Vienna Cameron) knew him, received at his hands the odd nickname of "Quinine," and became a quiet observer of his courtship of her beautiful cousin, Ann Rutledge

One of the foremost men of the New Salem neighborhood was the Rev. John Cameron, Mrs. Lloyd's father. He preached in the Presbyterian church on Sundays, and, after the custom of those sturdy times, turned a shrewd eye to business during the week. He it was, indeed who, with his wife's brother, the James Rutledge mentioned by historians in connection with the lustrum of Lincoln's life, laid out the town site of New Salem.

At the time of Lincoln's advent in New Salem "Parson" Cameron with his wife and family—eleven daughters and one son—had his home in the proverbial log house of the period, a few miles from town on the banks of the Sangamon stream, close to the Rutledge & Cameron mill. This latter combined the business of sawing timber and grinding grist. The mill, on a dam that jutted out a few hundred feet into the river, was one of the last landmarks of the locality to crumble away. Lincoln for a short time was in charge of it.

Mrs. Lyster does not recall the day that Lincoln first came to her father's home to board, but reference to what meager data is extant indicates that it was in the winter or spring of 1833. "Lincoln was a great, big, hulking fellow then," says Mrs. Lyster, "full to the chin with fun and always playing droll pranks on us girls. He was a clerk in Denton Offut's store when he came to us, and my mother charged him about $1 a week for his bed and board."

The "us girls" referred to by Mrs. Lyster were eleven in number (reinforced by one brother), and a right merry crowd for a log cabin home, it may be guessed. In the order of their ages they were: Betsy Cameron, nicknamed "Isabelle" by Lincoln; Vienna, whom the future President preferred to address as "Quinine," perhaps because at 17 she could find a sharp thrust to answer his teasing with; Thomas lone brother in a wilderness of girls, called "Tam O'Shanter" by Lincoln, and Nancy, Jane, Martha, Sarah, Salina and Sorena (the twins), Eliza, Caroline and Margaret.

What clerk to-day would walk five miles daily between his store and his boarding house? Lincoln did it for months, striding from "Parson" Cameron's log cabin in the early mornings to Denton Offutt's general store, and back again at dusk.

He loved exercise in the open, he was proud—may be at time a trifle boastful—of his physical strength and great powers of endurance, but aside from that, one cannot help wondering if John Cameron's merry houseful of buxom daughters may not have been a keener inspiration for those daily trudges than love of Nature and of Nature's moods.

Mrs. Lyster remembers "Abe" striding steadily, but unhurriedly "home," gaunt shoulders drooped, shaggy head bent and eyes glued to the pages of a grammar that he held well up as he walked.

Awaiting him at the long tramp's end were the friends who, in accepting the $1-a-week board, had taken him in and made him one of themselves. "Lincoln, or 'Abe,' as we one and all soon came to call him was a member of the family as long as he stayed with us," Mrs. Lyster says. "To him my mother was 'Aunt Polly,'" a fact borne out by historians.

"Lincoln," says Mrs. Lyster, recalling those rare days, "was a remarkable young man for pranks. He had a nickname for each one of us girls, but I can only remember a few. One of his tricks was to pluck his friends by their ears—he was always doing that. I have heard my father speak of seeing 'Abe' standing at a corner, or in the road, telling one of his droll stories or engaged in earnest discussion, and, at a climax in the tale or conversation, stretching out one of his long arms, and gently pulling the listener's ear, instead of plucking the lapel of his coat. From more than one of us Cameron girls 'Abe' caught a scolding for not leaving our ears alone."

Lincoln's Mother's Tribute.

Though so fond of his books it must not be supposed that he cared only for work and serious study. He was a social, sunny-tempered lad, as fond of jokes and fun as he was kindly and industrious. His stepmother said of him: "I can say what scarcely one mother in a thousand can say, Abe never gave me a cross word or look, and never refused to do anything I asked him. I must say that Abe was the best boy I ever saw or expect to see."—From Helen Nicolay's "The Boys' Life of Abraham Lincoln" in St. Nicholas.

FALL WHEAT RAISING IN ALBERTA.

The Spring Wheat Areas Are Rapidly Increasing.

It is only a few short years since the impression prevailed that a large portion of the Canadian West was unfiteed for agriculture. To such an extent did this impression prevail that districts larger than European principalities were devoted solely to ranching purposes, and flocks and herds roamed the ranges. But the agriculturist was doing some hard thinking, and gradually experiments were made, slowly at first, but surely later on. As a result, to-day in Southern Alberta, which was looked upon as the "arid belt," large quantities of the finest winter wheat in the world are now grown, and so satisfied are the farmers and buyers that the industry has passed the experimental stage that elevators by the score have been erected in the past two years and others in course of erection, to satisfy the demands that will be made upon them in the near future.

Manitoba "No. 1 Hard" Spring wheat has achieved a world-wide reputation, and there can be no question that ere long "No. 1 Hard" winter wheat from Alberta will attain similar repute. The great market for this production will undoubtedly be the Orient, and, with increased railway facilities and the erection of additional elevators and flouring mills, a largely increased acreage will be broken to winter wheat. The increase of population in Southern Alberta in the past year has been largely due to settlers from the United States who have brought in capital and enterprise and who have been uniformly successful in their undertakings. A few more such years of growth and "Turkey Red" winter wheat will wave from Moose Jaw to the foothills. Information regarding lands in the Fall and Spring wheat belts may be obtained of any Canadian Government Agent.

Swift & Company

Year 1905 Sales.

The total distributive sales for 1905 exceeded

$200,000,000.

This total is realized from the sale of fresh meats (beef, mutton and pork), provisions, produce (poultry, butter and eggs), soaps, glues, oils, bones, fertilizers, feathers, casings, hides, wools, pelts and other by-products derived from cattle, sheep, hogs and poultry.

Margin of Profit.

The industry is operated on a margin of less than 2 cents to each dollar of sales. Swift & Co. do not sell at retail. Their entire output is sold at wholesale to many thousands of dealers in various parts of the world. There are hundreds of local slaughterers throughout the United States, who buy their live stock in competition with the packer doing an interstate and international business. Likewise the packer must sell in competition with the local slaughterers. There are no secret processes in the industry, no complicated and expensive factories, and as live stock can be purchased in almost every hamlet and city, and the preparation of meats is simple in the extreme, local slaughtering will long remain a factor in the production of fresh meats and provisions.

Economic Advantages.

The large packing houses will, however, always have these advantages: Locations at the chief live stock centers, with the opportunity to buy the best live stock; manufacturing in large quantities, at the minimum of expense; utilization of all waste material; refrigeration; mechanical appliances; highly efficient business management. These advantages are reflected in the quality of the packer's output, a quality that has reached its highest development in the products bearing the name and brand of "Swift."

Purchasing Live Stock.

The principal live stock centers are Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha, St. Louis, St. Joseph, St. Paul and Fort Worth. The same methods of purchasing cattle, sheep and hogs prevail at all cities. At Chicago, which is the largest market, there are about two hundred and fifty buyers, representing packers, local slaughterers in various cities and exporters. Of this number, less than a score are employed by Swift & Company.

The farmer ships his live stock to Chicago, consigns them to a commission firm at the Union Stock Yards, who sees that they are unloaded and put in pens. Then the buyers inspect them, make their offers to the commission dealer, who accepts or rejects as his judgment dictates. All buying must be finished at 3 o'clock each day, and the buyer must pay spot cash. If the commission man has no satisfactory offers, he can hold his stock over to the next day. He gets his commission from the farmer, and naturally strives to get the highest possible price for his client.

Wholesale Distributing Houses.

A wholesale distributing house is a giant refrigerator, but instead of shelves there are trolley rails, from which are suspended hooks to hang the carcasses. Some of the houses cost as much as a hundred thousand dollars to build and equip. As a rule they are of pressed brick, the insides being lined—floor, walls and ceiling—with highly polished hardwood. The floors are covered daily with fresh sawdust, and all are kept spotlessly clean. There are over three hundred of these wholesale houses in various cities of the United States, and the public is always welcome to visit them.

Packing Plants.

All the Swift & Company plants are located at the great live stock markets, in the heart of the great agricultural sections, where can be purchased the finest grades of cattle, sheep and hogs. We have seven packing plants, employing at each from two to eight thousand persons.

The following gives the locations and sizes of the different plants:

Packing Plants.

	Buildings, Acres.	Floor Space, Acres.	Land, Acres.
Chicago	44½	87¾	47
Kansas City .	7⅝	30	19½
Omaha	6	26	23
St. Louis	7¾	19⅔	31¾
St. Joseph	6½	25¼	19¼
St. Paul	5	12	16
Fort Worth ...	3	15	22

Employes.

The total number of persons employed in all the Swift packing plants and branch houses aggregate over 26,000 persons. Conditions for employes in the various manufacturing and operating departments is continually improving with the construction of new buildings and the installation of new and up-to-date equipment.

Sanitation and Hygiene.

The housewife makes no greater effort to keep her kitchen clean than we do to keep in sanitary and hygienic condition our abattoirs. They are thoroughly scrubbed at the close of each day's operations, and automatic appliances are used wherever possible in order to eliminate the personal handling of meats. Rigid rules governing these points are strictly enforced; laxity means dismissal.

Visitors Always Welcome.

No other industry in the world gives such a cordial welcome to visitors as Swift & Co. We keep open house the year around, and maintain a corps of specially trained guides, with special elevators and rest rooms. In one year we have entertained over a quarter of a million of men and women; in one day—Grand Army Day, 1901—we entertained 23,000. Among our visitors have been ambassadors from foreign governments, princes, noblemen and distinguished citizens from all lands and eminent folks from every state in the Union. We wish to familiarize the public with our methods, and the best way to do that is to let the public see for itself. We have no secret processes or methods in any department.

Swift's Premium Hams and Bacon.

Swift's Premium Hams and Bacon are more widely and favorably known than any other brand. Their popularity is due to the uniform quality and flavor of the meat, and to their fine appearance when received from the dealer. Each piece is branded on the rind, "Swift's Premium U. S. Inspected," and wrapped in cheesecloth and white parchment paper.

Look for the brand, "Swift's Premium," when buying hams and bacon.

Swift's Silver Leaf Lard

Is a strictly pure lard, kettle rendered, and put up in 3, 5 and 10-pound sealed pails. It is America's Standard Lard, and enjoys a high reputation and an enormous sale.

Swift's Soaps.

An interesting feature of a trip through the Chicago plant is a visit to the soap factory, one of the largest and most complete in this country. There we manufacture numerous toilet and laundry soaps, and washing powders.

Among which are:

Wool Soap, widely and favorably known; for toilet and bath, and washing fine fabrics.

Crown Princess Toilet Soap, highly perfumed.

Swift's Pride Soap, for laundry and household use.

Swift's Pride Washing Powder, unsurpassed for all cleaning purposes.

State News of the Week Briefly Told

Mary Rowaw, the eleventh victim of the West hotel fire, Minneapolis, died at the city hospital.

John Hall's boarding house in the mill district at Brainerd has been totally destroyed by fire. Loss, $2,500; insurance, $1,300.

Plans are now on foot for the building in the early spring of eight or nine farmers' lines by the St. James Telephone company.

A Danish company, it is reported, has purchased a tract of $15,000 acres in Pine county and will establish a large colony there.

Lloyd Porter, while at work on a farm near Allen, caught his arm in a corn shredder and it was so mangled that amputation was necessary.

The eight senior class boys expelled from the Moorhead high school for cutting the hair of several juniors, have been reinstated by the school board.

At the charter election held at Renville on the adoption of a city charter, the measure carried. Renville is by this act the first and only city in Renville county.

Sam Cromic, employed in Hays & Townsend's camp, a few miles west of Blackduck, was accidentally and instantly killed while at work decking logs.

"Billy" Foss, a penniless cook who has been making his home in the restaurants about East Grand Forks, has received word that through the death of an uncle he has fallen heir to $10,000.

About twenty homesteaders made final proof of their lands at Bagley recently. The farmers of Leon and Pine Lake townships have organized a creamery company and will be ready to make butter by May 1. This will be the second creamery in the county.

A desperate fight occurred in a candy store at Duluth between Charles Stratig and Albert Apostolakis, during which the latter received a terrible cut on the head. The men fought over a woman. Stratig is under arrest. The fight created much excitement at a busy point on the street.

Nels Grenberg, who was acquitted of murder on the ground of insanity at Fergus Falls, has been sent to the insane asylum under order made by the district court. In view of the jury's verdict no further examination was considered necessary, the court holding it dangerous for him to remain at large.

A. G. Whitney of St. Cloud is having plans prepared for the big gas plant that is to be ready for the contractors about Feb. 10. The plant will be built on Fifth avenue north and part of the old steam plant building will be utilized. The amount of money to be expended next summer by Mr. Whitney will be about $65,000.

Frank Norton of Estherville, Iowa, who was arrested for passing a check alleged to have been fraudulent, died in the county jail at Fairmont, supposedly from a paroxysm of fright. The man is said to have been drinking, and this is believed to have brought on the paroxysm. He leaves a wife and six children at Estherville.

The Granite City Bottling works is the name of a new enterprise that will soon be established in St. Cloud. The capital will be $10,000. M. Witte and Fred Witte of Atwater, Minn., and Henry Witte of Princeton are the principal stockholders. The plant is to be operated with electricity and will be equipped with modern machinery.

In the case of the state against Henry Schreiner the jury at Henderson returned a verdict of not guilty, and on motion of the county attorney the other indictments against Schreiner were nolled. This was one of the Jordan bank cases, and the charge was that of receiving deposits by the cashier when he knew the bank was insolvent.

The disappearance Dec. 28 of John Svenson from his home at Eddy township, Clearwater county, is still a mystery. A constant search has been kept up for him ever since his disappearance. Searching parties have spent the last three days in scouring the vicinity of Svenson's cabin looking for his body, believing it possible that he met with death, but not a trace of him has been found.

The stockholders of the Watonwan County Fair association held their annual meeting and elected the following officers and directors: President, A. L. Boccck, Riverdale; vice presidents, W. S. Crowley, St. James; E. Z. Rasey, St. James; J. W. Somers, St. James; secretary, C. T. Crowley, St. James; treasurer, H. M. Serkland, St. James. The association is planning one of the biggest fairs ever held in the county.

Sheriff Ostrom of Stillwater sold under execution 200 acres of land in the town of Oneka. The sale was made under an execution in the suit of Katherine R. Rutherford against Thomas E. and Alexander Rutherford. When she got a divorce from her husband she was allowed a large sum for alimony and for the care of their children. This was made a lien on the property of Rutherford and now amounts to several thousand dollars. It was to satisfy this claim that the sale was made, and Mrs. Rutherford bought the land for $4,500.

DULUTH GETS NEXT MEETING.

Municipal and Commercial League Ends Important Meeting.

The officers of the Minnesota Municipal and Commercial league were re-elected at the closing session of the league at St. Paul. They are: L. A. Rosing of Cannon Falls, president; W. C. Webber of Rochester, secretary, and J. Esbjornson of Litchfield, treasurer. It was decided to hold the next annual meeting at Duluth.

The resolutions committee presented its report covering the leading questions discussed by the convention. The report was adopted. The league goes on record as favoring such legislation as will give the interstate commerce commission ample power to fix railroad rates. It favors the reciprocal demurrage bill which was proposed at the last legislature and indorses the proposed constitutional amendment giving the legislature wider latitude on tax legislation, and recommends further an act to increase the tax on public service and foreign corporations. Legislation which will bring the telephone companies under the jurisdiction of the state railway and warehouse commission is also recommended.

D. C. Armstrong, chairman of the league committee on parks and playgrounds, presented a written report at the afternoon session. Fred Nussbaumer, superintendent of parks in St. Paul, pointed out the necessity for an established policy in park matters which will not change with each change of administration. He advised the concentration of power in the hands of one who should be responsible for the results. Mr. Nussbaumer outlined some of the features of the plans in use in St. Paul.

Health and sanitation were discussed by Dr. D. D. Murray, health commissioner of Duluth. He took up first the question of pure milk supply. He explained the system he has put into operation in Duluth whereby every cow furnishing milk for Duluth is tested for tuberculosis.

Dr. Murray is the pioneer in a new system for protecting cities against diphtheria. The Duluth druggists are required to notify the health office at once by telephone whenever anti-toxin is sold. The use of anti-toxin is taken as prima-facie evidence of diphtheria, and quarantine regulations are enforced at once. Dr. Murray told also of the change of source of the city water supply and the effect shown in the absolute non-origin of typhoid in Duluth. A $35,000 garbage crematory is one of the new improvements of the city which is bound to result in more healthful conditions.

C. M. Loring, park commissioner of Minneapolis, presented an interesting stereopticon lecture on beautifying the streets and especially the cultivation and care of trees. Mr. Loring presented a hundred views, meanwhile giving a nature-lover's description of the natural beauties of Minnesota and other parts of the United States and the effects which aid to nature may accomplish.

C. N. Andrews of Mankato read the report of the committee on public service corporations. A general debate on the subject followed. The report recommended that telephone companies be placed under the control of the state railroad and warehouse commission. M. W. Pitner presented a plan for lighting plants for small towns.

During the three days' session of the league important addresses were made on subjects of vital interest.

MORE TIMBER FRAUDS.

State Board Orders That Four Sections in Hubbard County Be Rescaled.

The state timber board had a meeting recently and ordered four sections of state timber in Hubbard county rescaled. The surveyor general and the cruisers employed by the board will join in making the scale. The timber was removed some years ago, but the board has heard from Park Rapids and received some information regarding the four sections. Two of the sections were sold without being seaed on estimates of 1000,000 feet or less, and it is claimed 400,000 or 500,000 feet were cut from each of them.

The third section was never sold, but it is reported that it has been cut clean and it is alleged the trespass was committed by a prominent lumber firm. The fourth of the sections, it is claimed, shows more stumpage than the surveyor general reported.

The board turned over to the attorney general for collection several small trespass matters that have been pending for some time.

STATE HAS BIG CLAIM.

Officials Hope to Recover Interest Paid on Indian War Bonds.

The State of Minnesota will lay claim to $70,000 from the United States government for interest on Indian war bonds. Attorney General E. T. Young is preparing to present the claim to the government officials. The state issued $100,000 in bonds in 1862 and paid interest on them ten years at 7 per cent.

The government reimbursed the state for the principal, but not the interest, on the ground that the United States statutes do not permit the paying of interest by the government. A recent decision of the supreme court declares that interest paid by a state, as in the Minnesota case, is really a part of the principal, for which the government is bound to reimburse the state.

J. J. HILL WILL OPEN PAVILION.

Will Deliver Address on First Day of State Fair.

James J. Hill will be the speaker on the occasion of the dedication of the new live stock pavilion on the first day of the state fair. A committee from the board of managers waited on him yesterday and obtained his consent to deliver the address.

The board of managers of the fair met recently at the Merchants hotel St. Paul, for organization for the new year.

The live stock exhibition will be made even more than ever a feature of the fair this year. With the largest and finest live stock pavilion in the world, the fair association will be able to accommodate this department as never before. The American Aberdeen-Angus association has already appropriated $300 for special premiums on that breed of stock. The management of the fair has been assured that other breeders' associations will support the fair as never before.

A large petition containing all the names of the exhibitors in that department was presented to the members of the board yesterday, urging them to provide a new dairy building. The board members realize the great need, but will be unable to undertake any permanent construction work other than the new live stock pavilion. The horticultural department is also demanding larger quarters.

E. W. Randall of Hamline was re-elected secretary for the eleventh time. He has seen the fair grow from very small proportions until now it is recognized as the largest state fair. F. J. Willcox of Northfield was re-elected treasurer. He has served in that capacity eight years.

Pesident C. N. Cosgrove presided at the meeting. The others present, in addition to the secretary and treasurer, were: First Vice President B. F. Nelson of Minneapolis, Second Vice President C. M. Griggs of St Paul, J. M. Underwood of Lake City, L. D. Baird of Austin, W. M. Liggett of St. Paul, William E. Lee of Long Prairie and D. S. Hall of Buffalo Lake. The only member of the board absent was G. W. Patterson of Worthington.

State Has Big Timber Farm.

The Minnesota State forestry board has just issued a forest working plan for the 20,000 acres of forestry land granted to the state by congress in April, 1904, and now designated Burntside forest. It is in the form of a booklet of seventeen pages by T. L. Duncan of Northome, and contains maps of the tract and illustrations of the timber.

Mr. Duncan was employed with three assistants last summer in making a detailed examination and survey of the land, 87 per cent of which he says is capable of bearing pine. This is on the north slope of Giant's range, in the region of the bare, rocky and scanty soil and about 800 feet above Lake superior. There are forty-three lakes within and bordering Burntside forest, well stocked with fish, there being trout in Burntside lake, of which a portion of the lands border. The country abounds with game, and Mr. Duncan thinks it will prove an attractive health and pleasure resort for the people.

The forest once had more timber than it has now, but it was destroyed years ago by fires. Jack pine is predominant, but white and red pine appears in smoll groves, most of which is 200 years old. The merchantable white pine now there is about 450,000, board measure; of red pine, 825,000 feet; jack pine, 110,000 feet; 4,900 cords of spruce pulp wood; 10,900 tamarac ties and some cedar poles and posts.

The stand of timber on 602 sample acres in strips across the forest averages 35.04 trees per acre of all sizes from five inches in diameter—breast high—up, and of this 70 per cent in the five and six-inch classes. There is not enough merchantable timber now to justify making necessary roads and establishing lumber camps to market the timber.

May Renew Contests.

E. K. Slater, state dairy and food commissioner, has sent a circular letter to dairymen, asking whether they consider the monthly butter and cheese contests of sufficient value to be continued. Mr. Slater considers them well worth the $100 a month that they cost but does not want to run them without the co-operation of dairymen. If continued this year there will be only six held instead of twelve, and they will be held bi-monthly.

Mr. Slater and his inspectors are in great demand for talks to country merchants' associations. Grocers are all anxious for full information on the pure food laws, especially on the new code.

GOOD ENOUGH FOR GOV. JOHNSON.

Minnesota's Chief Executive Buys a Raudenbush Piano.

Minnesota's well known and popular governor has lately bought a brand new piano. The competition in selling Gov. Johnson was quite spirited. After many days of "trying out" and thoroughly "going over" the various pianos put before him, he finally selected the Raudenbush, the piano which has lately won its way rapidly to the front, strictly on its inherent worth. The Raudenbush piano is made in St. Paul by the well-known house of S. W. Raudenbush & Co.

Whose Say-so is Best?

With nearly all medicines put up for sale through druggists, one has to take the maker's say-so alone as to their curative value. Of course, such testimony is not that of a disinterested party and accordingly is not to be given the same credit as if written from disinterested motives. Dr. Pierce's medicines, however, form a single and therefore striking exception to this rule. Their claims to the confidence of invalids does not rest solely upon their makers' say-so or praise. Their ingredients are matters of public knowledge, being printed on each separate bottle wrapper. Thus invalid sufferers are taken into Dr. Pierce's full confidence. Scores of leading medical men have written enough to fill volumes in praise of the curative value of the several ingredients entering into these well-known medicines.

Amongst these writers we find such medical lights as Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennet Medical College, Chicago; Prof. Hale, of the same city; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati, Ohio; Prof. John King, M. D., late of Cincinnati, Ohio; Dr. Grover Coe, of New York; Dr. Bartholow, of Jefferson Medical College, of Pa., and scores of others equally eminent.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the worst cases of female weakness, prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion and corrects irregularities, cures painful periods, dries up disagreeable and weakening drains, sometimes known as pelvic catarrh and a multitude of other diseases peculiar to women. Bear in mind, it is not a patent nor even a secret medicine, but the "Favorite Prescription" of a regularly educated physician, of large experience in the cure of woman's peculiar ailments, who frankly and confidingly takes his patients into his full confidence by telling them just what his "Prescription" is composed of. Of no other medicine put up for woman's special maladies and sold through druggists, can it be said that the maker is not afraid to deal thus frankly, openly and honorably, by letting every patient using the same know exactly what she is taking.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is guarded as sacredly secret and womanly confidences are protected by professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

How to preserve health and beauty is told in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. It is free. For a paper-covered copy send Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps to cover mailing only; in cloth binding 31 stamps.

class of people. We live today in a paper age, where fiat property has become an established fact.

The great curse of the country today is in the fictitious valuations placed upon property and the fact that the American people must by their energy and economy pay tribute to this kind of genius by paying a rate of interest and profit on property which has no existence.

Illustrations have been numerous where a man or syndicate of men have taken a million dollars' worth of property and, by writing new certificates, have converted it into five millions of dollars' worth of property; where one hundred million dollars' worth of industrials have been combined into one enterprise and by the issuance of certificates have been enhanced in value 400 per cent. And the American people pay a reasonable rate of interest and profit on the stocks and bonds of the watered stock of the corporation.

What has been true in the industrial world has been equally true in the world of transportation. Combinations have been made and new shares of stock have been issued far in excess of the actual value of the property. I believe in corporations. I believe the American people ought to pay a reasonable rate of interest and a fair profit on all legitimate classes of property. I believe, however, that the American people ought to pay only upon the actual value of the property and not upon the inflation.

Roosevelt's Great Fight.

During the past decade we have been shown by illustration after illustration that the American people, absolutely within the power of a few individuals, have been compelled to pay, both in the matter of transportation and upon industrial products, a rate of profit altogether out of harmony with natural and just conditions. And this condition has become so exaggerated and the financial autocrat has exercised his tyranny to such an extent that those in authority have been forced to undertake the cause of the people and today the president of the United States, disregarding all other issues, is concentrating his energies to secure the power for the people to fix and establish just rates of transportation upon all common carriers.

We are told that these things are impossible under the law. A half century ago the people were told that the sovereign right of a state could not be interfered with. They were also told that human chattels were property, the right to hold which could not be interfered with. And yet, by the single stroke of his pen a man destroyed three thousand million dollars' worth of property and created three millions of free citizens of this republic.

I believe in the obligation of contract. I believe that it should not and ought not to be impaired. But I believe that when the chartered corporation, going beyond its chartered rights, refuses to abide by the laws under which it has its existence and receives protection, can be regulated and, if necessary, can be secured to the people who have given it life.

People May Rise in Their Wrath.

There are vast numbers of people in this country today who believe that the government of the country should own and operate its common carriers. Certainly the time is not ripe today for government ownership, but I want to say now that if the right of the government to regulate and control common carriers in the exercise of their functions is too stubbornly resisted by those who control the corporations the pendulum will finally become loosed and when it swings it is apt to pass by the central point and fly as far to the other side.

I cannot believe that the chartered right of a corporation is greater than the constitutional right of the citizen and I do not think it is American in policy to tax the American people into poverty in order that great dividends can be paid to the English and German capitalists who have invested in the stocks and bonds of the securities of this country. It is a settled principle of the common law of the country that all railroad rates shall be just and reasonable.

No uniform rule has yet been adopted and in my judgment no rule will be adopted until the power is given the government to itself fix rates that are reasonable and to establish those rates and maintain them until a court of justice has declared that the rate is unreasonable.

Railroad operators claim that in the operation of railways railroad men should be allowed to fix their own rates of transportation, because the matter of railroad ratemaking is such an intricate and complex subject that the ordinary individual does not understand it. Perhaps he does not understand it, but the ordinary individual does understand that between human beings, between the citizens of the state, between capital and labor, between the business man and the man who works, there should be a community of interest which makes the rights of one citizen as sacred and important as the rights of the other—that there should be between us all that fairness which is absolutely necessary and imperative in order to preserve domestic tranquillity.

Power of Railroads Unfairly Used.

You, my friends, have more than a political interest in this great question. It is a question coming with a force and interest that ought to appeal to you as does no other question now before the American people. It is within the power of a railroad corporation to build up one city and tear down another city. It is within the power of railroad companies and railroad systems to favor one [illegible]

PROCEEDINGS

of the Board of County Commissioners

(OFFICIAL)

Red Lake Falls, Minn.
January 19, 1906.

Pursuant to adjournment, the board of county commissioners of Red Lake county met at the court house at one o'clock p. m. Commissioners Ekstrom, Demann, Johnson, Shaw and Falardeau, present.

The matter of constructing a bridge across Red Lake river on the southeast qr. of sec. 28 in the town of Louisville was taken up and bids for the construction of same were opened. After considering all bids submitted, on motion duly carried, the bid of the Hennepin Bridge company wherein it offered to construct a new combination wood and iron bridge at said point for the sum of $3,530, was accepted and the county auditor and the chairman of the board of county commissioners were instructed to enter into a contract on behalf of the county with the said Hennepin Bridge company for the construction of the same. All commissioners voting aye except Commissioner Demann.

The following resolution offered by Commissioner Ekstrom was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, the county of Red Lake, State of Minnesota, did on the 19th day of January, 1906, by its agents, enter into a contract with the Hennepin Bridge company of the city of Minneapolis and state of Minnesota, to construct a bridge across the Red Lake river in section 28 in the township of Louisville in said county and state, according to the plans and specifications on file and of record in the office of the county auditor of said Red Lake county, for the sum of $3,530.00 and

Whereas, The sum of $700.00 was appropriated by the legislature of said State, by law duly enacted in the year 1905, to aid in the construction of said bridge.

Therefore, Be It Resolved, That in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 338 of the laws of Minnesota for the year 1905, it is hereby ordered that the warrants of said Red Lake county be issued to an amount sufficient to complete the said bridge according to said contract and plans and specifications herein referred to, to-wit: The sum of $2,830.00

On motion duly carried, the bond of A. P. Toupin as court commissioner was approved by the board.

The chairman announced the appointment of the following committees to serve during the year 1906.

Finance—Commissioners Johnson, Demann and Falardeau.

Road and Bridge—Commissioners Demann, Ekstrom and Johnson.

Ditch—Commissioners Demann, Ekstrom and Falardeau.

Court House and Jail—Commissioners Johnson, Demann and Ekstrom.

Printing—Commissioners Falardeau, Ekstrom, and Johnson.

The matter of the application of L. A. Kaufer for license to construct and maintain a sluice dam across the Clearwater river on the northeast quarter of section 17 in township 151, range 42, was taken up and on motion carried unanimously said license was granted and ordered issued for the term of six years and at the rate of toll established at six cents per 1000 feet.

The application of Carl Magnell for correction of assessment and abatement of taxes for the year 1905, was, on motion carried unanimously, granted subject to the approval of the state auditor.

On motion duly carried the applications of G. G. Kindseth and Albert Cairns for correction of assessment and abatement of taxes in the city of Red Lake Falls for the year 1905, was rejected.

The petition of Sam Lovass and others for the organization of Township 152 north, of range 41 west, in Red Lake county, was placed before the board, and on motion carried unanimously the prayer of the petitioners was granted and the following order was made:

STATE OF MINNESOTA } ss
County of Red Lake }

Upon receiving the petition of a majority of the legal voters of Congressional township 152 north, of range 41 west of the fifth principal meridian in said county and state, asking that the same be organized as a new town under the township organization law, to be named Mayfield. We, the board of county commissioners of said county did on the 19th day of January, A. D., 1906, proceed to fix and determine the boundaries of such new town and to name the same Mayfield in accordance with said petition and designate the school house in school district No. 33 on section 26 in said town as the place for holding the first town meeting in such town, to be held on Thursday, the 8th day of February, 1906, for the purpose of electing one chairman of the Board of supervisors, two supervisors, one town clerk, one treasurer, one assessor, two justices of the peace and two constables to serve until the next annual town meeting; and do hereby designate Carl Magnell, A. C. Mayfield and Sever Maaren as judges of said election.

The boundaries of said town of Mayfield, as fixed and determined by the board are as follows: Beginning at a point on the range line between ranges 40 and 41 in said county of Red Lake, where the said range line crosses the Clearwater river and running thence north to the north-east corner of section 1 in said twp. 152, range 41, thence west on the town line to the northwest corner of section 6 in said town and range, thence south on the range line between ranges 41 and 42, to a point on the the west line of section 30 in said township 152, range 41 where the Clearwater river crosses the said range line, thence in an easterly direction along said Clearwater river to a point where the town line between townships 151 and 152 north, crosses the said Clearwater river, thence east along said town line to a point on the south line of section 36 in township 152 north, of range 41 west, where the said Clearwater river crosses the said township line, thence along the said Clearwater river in an easterly direction to the point of beginning and embracing all that part of township 152 north, of range 41 west, lying north of the Clearwater river.

By order of the board of county commissioners of Red Lake county, Minnesota.

Dated January 19, 1906.

—DANIEL SHAW, Chairman,
(Seal) Board of County Commissioners
Attest—James E. Ford,
County Auditor.

On motion duly carried a recess was taken to Jan. 20, 1906.

Jan. 20, 1906, board reconvened with all members present.

The following resolution offered by Commissioner Johnson was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the sum of $20 be and is hereby appropriated from the county road and bridge fund to aid the town of Red Lake Falls in constructing a bridge across Lake Pleasant and Red Lake Falls ditch No. 1 at a point to be designated by the Commissioner of the 2nd commissioner district.

The annual reports of the county officers for the year 1905, were submitted to the board, examined and approved.

On motion duly carried, the sum of $150, or so much thereof as is necessary, was appropriated for clerk hire in the office of the county treasurer for the year 1906.

The following resolution offered by Commissioner Ekstrom, was unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, This board did on the 22nd day of July, 1904, appropriate the sum of $50 from the county road and bridge fund of this county to aid the town of Polk Centre in constructing a bridge between sections 35 and 36 in said town, and

Whereas, It appears that the town board of said town wishes to have said appropriation of $50 transferred from said point to a point between sections 29 and 32 in said town.

Therefore, be it resolved, that the sum of $50 and $25 additional thereto, being in all $75, be and the same is hereby appropriated from the county road and bridge fund of this county to aid the said town of Polk Centre in constructing a bridge across the Little Black River between sections 29 and 32 in said town.

The application of Frank Brouillet for correction of assessment and abatement of personal property taxes in the city of Red Lake Falls for the year 1905, was on motion, rejected.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, that the sum of $100 be and is hereby appropriated from the county road and bridge fund of this county to aid the towns of Poplar River and Lambert in the construction of a bridge across Hill river between section 7 in the town of Poplar River and section 12 in the town of Lambert.

On motion carried unanimously a day of hearing was set on the petitions of Anton Katlan and others and A. C. Hurt and others and notices ordered issued accordingly.

The matter of re-districting the county was taken up.

A motion made by Commissioner Falardeau to lay the matter over indefinitely was lost.

Commissioner Ekstrom offered a resolution and moved its adoption, to redistrict the county along the following lines:

First commissioner district to comprise the towns of Numedal, Norden, Bray, Sanders, Rocksbury, Polk Centre, Black River and the Village of St. Hilaire.

The second commissioner district to comprise the towns of Louisville, Red Lake Falls, Lake Pleasant, Terrebonne and the city of Red Lake Falls.

WILL BUILD FLOUR MILL

St. Hilaire Farmers and Business Men Get Active on Mill Question.

St. Hilaire will have a flour mill with elevator connected before next fall if all plans now made do not fail to mature. The project is backed by the farmers and business men and will be run as a stock company. At a meeting held last Saturday about a hundred farmers were present and it was decided to incorporate with a capital of $25,000 with a limit of indebtedness of $10,000. While the full limit of stock has not been subscribed for it is confidently believed it can be had in a short time and solicitors will be set at work immediately. The officers elected at this meeting are:

President—C. H. Martz.
Vice-Pres.--Nels K. Anderson.
Treasurer--Ed. A. Aubol.
Secretary--Peter Engelstad.
Directors—M. McAndress, A. A. Odegaard and August Erickson.

BACHELORS WILL ENTERTAIN.

Red Lake Falls has a bunch of would-like-to-be benedicts but "dassent" bachelors who are planning to give one of the most elite social function's ever held in the city on the 21st of this month. The program of the evening will be a dance at the Metropolitan opera house followed by a banquet at the Grand View hotel which Mine Host Krueger promises to be the swellest ever served. The "boys" who have the matter in charge are making elaborate plans and it is safe to say the fortunate ones favored with an invitation will be royally entertained.

The engine of the N. P. flyer which was wrecked near Melvin early Tuesday morning of last week besides the mail and two baggage cars have been placed on the track and traffic was resumed in short order.

HAVE TO BUILD BRIDGE

Great Northern Engineers Will Recommend It As A Necessity.

The Great Northern railway since it graded into Red Lake Falls has been up against a puzzling proposition with the stretch of track south of the depot on the edge of the river bank, the old course being abandoned several years ago and a new grading being made. This has not helped matters and every summer the track slides towards the river bank until very shortly it will be unsafe for a train to run over it. This week a corps of engineers have been at work on the problem and the supposition is they will recommend the building of a 400 foot bridge on the river bank with sufficient bulkhead protection to make the structure safe and at the same time straightening the track towards the depot from the south. The cost of such a bridge will run up into the thousands of dollars, but as the road bed is now it is in a very bad condition and a frightful accident is liable to occur at any time during the summer months if the repairs are not made permanent.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrah. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

WENT IN THE DITCH

Great Northern's East Bound Winnipeg Flyer Derailed At Felton.

What may have proven a very serious loss of life but fortunately resulted in only a few minor bruises to four passengers happened to the east bound Great Northern Winnepeg flyer early Wednesday morning in the yards at Felton, a small station south of Ada.

In going over a "frog" at the switch at a high rate of speed the train with the exception of the engine and mail and baggage car were derailed and bumped along the ties for a considerable distance. None of the cars were overturned which undoubtedly saved the lives of many passengers.

Two of Red Lake Falls people were on the wrecked train, County Auditor Ford and Assistant Cashier P. F. Pouliot, of the Merchant State bank, but neither were injured.

GRAND EASTER BALL.

The newly organized Orpheus Quartet, composed of Messrs, Miller, Tracy, Berthon and L. Healy, easily one of the very best musical organization perfected in Northern Minnesota, are perfecting plans for an Easter Monday evening promenade concert at the Metropolitan opera house which will be both unique and original. Each dance will be succeeded by a selection of music by the quartette and those knowing the members are "dead sure" of a program that cannot be eclipsed.

You and all your friends are given a cordial invitation to be there—and don't forget the event. More perfect details will be given later.

Mr. and Mrs. St. Aubin entertained about twelve couples at their home Tuesday evening. It was a most pleasant gathering and proved one of the many happy ante-Lenton social functions both to Mr. and Mrs. St. Aubin and their guests.

THE BLIZZARD WAS WORST ONE IN YEARS.

The Whole Northwest Wrapped Up in the Chilly Folds of the Father of Medicine Hat.

Whew! And it blew!

One of the worst storms of the winter raged throughout this section Saturday and Sunday and traffic was delayed and trains snow stalled. Besides a blinding snow storm the cold was piercing and the thermometer hovered between the 30 and 40 below zero mark. While the weather has moderated somewhat since, the cold wave is still on and weather forecasts are for continued cold for some time. The roads are badly drifted and farmers are finding it difficult work to get into town.

Saturday's east bound N. P. train did not venture out of Grand Forks and was annulled. The Great Northern's south bound laid up here a few hours but ventured to make the trip to Crookston but became stalled near Benoit and the passengers suffered considerable from the cold until a crew from Crookston could dig them out. They reached that city about 11 o'clock the next morning. It was against the train crew's judgment to make the attempt to reach Crookston from this city but some of the passengers from Thief River insisted with the result above stated. The south bound freight laid over here until the next day.

The Red Lake Falls mail carried by star route from Crookston on Sundays failed to come in, the carrier wisely refusing to risk his life in trying to make the attempt.

THE TEACHERS MEETING

Prominent Educators Will Be Present—A Large Attendance Assured.

The first meeting of the Red Lake Teachers' Protective association for 1906, will be called to order this evening (Thursday) at 8 o'clock and from the elaborate program as arranged by the committee it will prove one of the most interesting and instructive in the association's history. Prominent educators both in this county and from abroad will be present and deliver addresses and Supt. McAnulty together with the committee in charge cordially invites all people, besides teachers interested in educational matters to attend the meet. The meeting will be held in the high school assembly room and accommodations for all will be provided for.

President Weld, of the Moorhead normal school and superintendent Chamberlain, of the city schools will deliver addresses Friday evening. Superintendent Hay, of Thief River Falls and Prof. Satre, of Crookston will speak Thursday evening. Many other prominent educators have accepted invitations to attend which will aid in the success of the meeting.

WHY HE ADVERTISES.

Topeka State Journal: Not long ago one Lawrence merchant asked another why he threw his money away advertising in the newspapers. The prosperous advertising merchants cited a number of reasons, which he afterwards put down in black and white and gave to the Journal in that town. Here they are:

"I advertise in the newspapers because I am not ashamed of my goods or my work.

"Because I cater to the inteligent class and they read the newspapers, and I beleive in increasing my business.

"Because I can talk to more people through the newspapers a greater distance in less time than in any other way.

"Because newspaper advertising has brought me greater returns for the least expenditure of my advertising I have done.

'Because when I write an ad I am not too stingy to pay for placing it in the best possible medium or to have it inserted so that it is attractive. I then know it is seen and read by everyone in the house where the paper goes.

"I investigate before I place an ad in a paper. I do not throw my money away. Still, I am not unreasonable enough to expect that twenty people who have read the ad will come in with the paper in their hands and buy out my whole stock."

GREAT MOVEMENT FOR BETTER FARMING

J. J. Hill Offers $7000 in Cash Prizes This Year to the Farmers of Minnesota and the Dakotas.

The movement for better farming throughout the American northwest is taking on big proportions. James J. Hill lends his powerful assistance to it by offering generous prizes of money for the best tilled and best managed farms in Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota. The only requirement is that farmers who compete for these prizes must keep two classes of live stock in addition to their crop farming—that is, cattle and sheep or swine. The judges will visit the farm and will base their award of prizes upon the spstem of rotation of crops, character of cultivation, cleanlines of farming, crop yield, and numbers and quality of the live stock kept in proportion to the farm's area.

The prizes are divided in such a manner that every farmer has a chance at them. Three prizes are offered in each congressional district in Minnesota and for the eastern and western halves of each of the Dakotas. The first prize is $300 in cash, second $150, third $75. This makes a total of $525 in cash for each district or an aggregate of $6825 for this year for farmers in the three states named. If the number of entries and interest taken is sufficient, Mr. Hill will doubtless duplicate these prizes each year for four additional years, making a total of some $35,000 in all.

The prizes will be awarded by two judges, one of whom shall be Prof Thomas Shaw of St. Paul and the other shall be chosen within the district directly by Pres Hill, or by Prof Shaw with his approval. The judging is to be done between June 1 and August 1, and entries should be made as early as possible on forms furnished free on application to Orange Judd Farmer, Chicago, Ill.

There are no fees or dues. Every farmer may compete. The intelligent farmer on a small scale who is relatively poor has as good a chance at the prizes as a richer farmer who operates on a bigger scale. To win the prizes does not necessarily involve any necessary expense, simply that the farmer shall farm well.

Search for an office building that is "union from top to bottom" is being made at Chicago by Federation of Labor officials in vain. The federation intends to vacate its present quarters on acount of a strike of union employes, but may have to erect a structure of its own to fulfill its requirements.

Clarence S. Knight, Charles T. Yerkes' attorney, refused to discuss the New York story that Emilie Grigsby would bring suit for $2,000,000 against the Yerkes estate. "I don't know Miss Grigsby and am ignorant of her intentions," he said.

SOLVES AGRARIAN QUESTION

PLAN WHICH IS CRUX OF WITTE'S DIFFICULT TASK NEARS COMPLETION.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 4.—The ministerial proposition for the solution of the agrarian question, a successful settlement of which is generally regarded as the crux of Count Witte's difficult task, is now nearing completion and will be taken up for consideration by the council of the empire Feb. 8. It involves the appropriation of $150,000,000 as compensation to private owners of land appropriated for distribution to the peasants. The operation will be accomplished through the peasants' bank, which will purchase the lands and sell them to the peasantry on the installment system.

The difficult point in this solution of the question is the large sum necessary to carry out the project. As this is not obtainable in Russia, it is necessary to add to the already large sum which must be borrowed abroad to meet the existing deficiency in the budget. The project, after revision by the council of the empire, will be turned over to the douma, Count Witte having repeatedly stated that no measure will be adopted before the convocation of that body.

CONGRESS.

Oratory on Railroad Rate Bill Holds Attention of House.

Washington, Feb. 3. — Oratory on the railway rate bill held the attention of the house for six hours yesterday. The speeches of Burton of Ohio, McCall of Massachusetts and Russell of Texas were features, while Thomas of North Carolina, Burke of South Dakota and Goulden of New York took up particular and specific topics.

In the senate the shipping bill was made the basis of a running debate between Mr. Patterson in opposition and Mr. Gallinger and Mr. Perkins in support.

COLD WAVE IN EAST.

First Real Cold Spell of the Winter in That Section.

Washington, Feb. 4.—The weather bureau reports that a cold wave came from the extreme northwest and moved over the Mississippi and Ohio calley, the lake region and over the Atlantic states generally. The mercury has fallen considerably as far south as Savannah, where the record so far is 42 degrees. In Northern New York unofficial records show as low as 20 degrees below zero at various points. The temperature at Rockliffe, Ont., was 30 below; at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., 24 below; at Duluth, Des Moines and Keokuk, 10 below, and at Moorhead, Minn., 16 below. The weather bureau officials say that this was the first real cold spell this winter in the eastern section of the country.

URGES A LOCK CANAL.

Isthmian Canal Commission's Report Is Ready.

Washington, Feb. 4.—The isthmian canal commission yesterday practically completed its work of putting into final shape its report to Secretary Taft, recommending a type of canal and transmitting the reports of the majority and minority of the board of consulting engineers. The signing of the report was deferred until next week. The changes in the report are merely of a verbal character. It is understood that the report urges that a lock canal is the most effcient and practical that can be constructed by this government.

SHOWDOWN IN COMMITTEE.

Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce Sets Date for Vote on Rate Bill.

Washington, Feb. 4. — The senate committee on interstate commerce yesterday reached an agreement to vote on the various railroad rate bills on Feb. 16. There are three measures being pressed for consideration, the Dolliver-Clapp bill, the Elkins bill and the Foraker bill. The measure which receives the largest number of votes will be reported to the senate as the majority measure. It is likely that both of the other bills will be given to the senate in minority reports.

MAY BE A SUICIDE.

Lumberjack Who Lost Hand in Accident Is Found Dead.

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 4.—William Rudder, formerly a lumberjack and more recently employed on the farm of ex-Sheriff Twichell of this city, was found dead by his roommate. A bottle partially filled with strychnine was found on his person and it is supposed death was due to poison. Rudder attempted to steal a ride out of Duluth two years ago and fell under a switch engine, losing his right hand.

Mad Dog Bites Six Men.

Battle Creek, Mich., Feb. 4—Six men who had been bitten by a dog, since pronounced mad, were hurried from a local factory yesterday to a fast train for Ann Arbor to secure Pasteur treatment at the University hospital.

Fire Loss Is Heavy.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 4. — Fire which started in the center of the wholesale district, threatened an entire block for more than an hour early this morning. The loss is between $75,000 and $125,000.

SAY LAW MUST TAKE ITS COURSE

FRENCH AUTHORITIES WILL CONTINUE TO TAKE INVENTORIES.

FIFTY INJURED IN RIOTING

CHURCH "DEFENDERS" USE CAYENNE PEPPER TO BLIND THE OFFICERS.

Paris, Feb. 4.—As a net result of yesterday's rioting, though the inventory was taken in but one church, that of St. Pierre Groscaillou, over fifty persons were seriously injured and a further considerable number slightly hurt. The latter included a number of police and firemen who were almost blinded with cayenne pepper, used by the "defenders." Fifty arrests were made. After repeated efforts the police and firemen only succeeded in entering the church by employing chairs as shields. The first two who got through the doors

Were Knocked Unconscious.

Those who followed, although they were thoroughly exasperated, refrained from violent retaliation.

M. Louis Lepine, prefect of Paris, and other high officials, and the newspapers of all shades of opinion, deprecate the violent incidents. It is said that the clergy have done their best by advice to their congregations to remain calm, but without avail, the militant Roman Catholics being firmly resolved to resist what they term the spoliation of the many Paris churches, containing many millions of francs worth of jewelry, military medals and decorations, given by devotees as thank offerings.

It Is Charged

that the blame for the recent conflicts attaches to the minister of the interior because of his order that the inventory of the churches should be carried out before the regulations under the separation law are definitely drawn up. This leaves the church party uncertain regarding the eventual fate of church property. Their doubts on this subject have brought about their resistance to the order and its results. The authorities are determined, however, that the law shall take its course and the disorders be suppressed with the utmost vigor.

POLICEMAN A HIGHWAYMAN?

Fugitive Baltimore Officer Charged With Holdups.

Baltimore, Feb. 4.—Patrolman Reynolds, now a fugitive from justice under a charge of larceny, was a highway robber while on his beat, according to charges made here. In his rooms a number of articles were found which were identified as belonging to Patrick Lyons, who reported a week ago that he had been held up on Reynold's beat. Reynolds, it is said, kept a suit of citizens' clothes handy, which he would put on when the sergeant had left him, and in the dark hours hold up late pedestrians on the lonely portions of his beat.

INSURANCE IS BUT LITTLE.

Loss by Fire on Isthmus Is $350,000 With $70,000 Protection.

Washington, Feb. 4. — Further details of the fire at Panama received at the offices of the isthmian canal commission, show the loss to be $350,000, with but $70,000 insurance. Four hundred persons were rendered homeless, including about twenty-five American employes. The water works system of Panama proved satisfactory, although a report was in circulation shortly after the fire broke out that the water had been cut off from the city.

PRINTING IS ALREADY CUT.

Saving of $1,000,000 Reported Without Committee's Action.

Washington, Feb. 4. — "While the joint printing committee of congress has not proposed a single line of legislation at the present session, the agitation for a reduction of government printing already has resulted in a prospective saving of a million dollars a year." Charles B. Landis of Indiana, chairman of the house committee on printing, made this statement after a conference with the president yesterday.

Oldest Postmaster Is Dead.

La Crescent, Minn., Feb. 4.—Thomas Minshall, postmaster here for forty consecutive years, 1859 to 1899, is dead at the age of 82 years. He held office the longest of any postmaster in the United States.

Inventor Dead.

London, Feb. 4. — Lord Masham (Samuel Cunliffe-Lister), the patentee of many inventions; including a compressed air brake for railroads and a wool combing machine, died at Swinton Abbey, Masham, County of York.

Knitting Mill Destroyed.

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 4.—The knitting mill of N. J. Rich & Co. was entirely destroyed by fire last evening. One hundred and fifty girls were in the building when the fire broke out, but it is believed all got out safely.

AN EXPLOSION SINKS VESSEL

THREE HUNDRED POUNDS OF DYNAMITE ON U. S. LIGHTER HUDSON LETS GO.

New York, Feb. 4.—Shortly before 2 o'clock this morning the United States lighter Hudson, having on board about 300 pounds of dynamite and anchored on the Manhattan side of Harlem river, almost under the Central bridge, took fire. Two slight explosions occurred on board. The lighter was anchored directly in the rear of the Manhattan Casino, which was crowded with men and women attending a ball. When the explosions occurred there was a panic in the place. Police reserves were called and finally managed to restore order in the Casino, after which they drove the crowds back from the water front.

Some one on shore cut the cables and the vessel drifted out into midstream. In about five minutes there was a terrific explosion on board and the vessel sank. The engineer is missing.

MOVE TO QUASH.

Burlington Railway's Answer to Indictment on Rebating Charge.

Kansas City, Feb. 4.—The Burlington railroad, Freight Traffic Manager George H. Cosgrove and Freight Broker George L. Thomas, replying to indictments returned against them in the federal court, have filed motions to quash the entire proceedings. The Burlington had been indicted on seven counts. It made seven answers, all of them identical in text, and demurring on the grounds that the allegations contained in the criminal suit brought against the railroad were insufficient. These railroad cases cannot now come up until the April term of court, the jury having been dismissed for the present term.

MRS. YERKES IS MARRIED.

All Doubt Set at Rest by Filing of Certificate.

New York, Feb. 4.—Doubt as to the marriage of Mrs. Charles T. Yerkes to Wilson Mizner was set at rest yesterday by the filing of the certificate of marriage with the bureau of vital statistics. In addition, one newspaper quates Mrs. Yerkes' confirmation. According to this paper Mrs. Yerkes said yesterday:

"All I can say is that I am happily married."

Wilson Mizner left his hotel yesterday, and, with his baggage, drove to the Yerkes home on Fifth avenue. He said he might give out another statement on the marriage soon.

In and About the State

STATE LAND IN GOOD DEMAND.

Outlook Is for Good Sales in the Spring.

The receipt of one hundred letters by State Immigration Agent C. H. Warner in one day shows that the spring land movement is fairly on and gives indication that the demand for state land will be as great next spring as it was last fall. Last week Mr. Warner received about fifty letters a day, but now the advertising which was begun a few days ago is beginning to tell, and Mr. Warner expects that every day will bring about 100 letters.

"We are interested more in developing the state than in selling the lands," said Mr. Warner. "So we aim to call attention to the state's resources in general, get people to come here, and if they should buy lands of dealers instead of the state, we believe it is for the good of the state anyway.

"We make our appeal especially to the men of small means, who have not very much money to put into the land, but who are able and willing to work. From my experience in the northern part of the state, I believe these are just the kind we need to develop the northern part of the state. I have seen men come in with three or four thousand dollars, buy land and build, and then leave after a couple of years. The men who come with only a few hundred dollars are the kind that make a success of it.

"The land we have to offer is just the kind suited for their needs. There is practically no prairie left in this state. For the man who has a couple of thousand or more, it may be just as advisable to go out on a prairie farm. But it takes money to build houses and an expensive outfit of machinery to start on a prairie farm, and it takes a larger farm to be profitable. The land we have to sell has considerable timber, in many places good timber, and in other places brush that can be cleared away easily, and then there are lots of open places with good grass between.

"A man who has only a few hundred dollars can make a start on these lands. If he buys forty acres of land he has to pay $36 down and $8 interest in advance on the remaining $204. With only a team and a wagon he can begin clearing the timber and selling it, getting an income at once. On much of the land a house can be built of the logs that can be cut. With a little garden patch, some poultry and a cow or two, he can begin to make his living off the land at once and all the while he is clearing the land and it is increasing in value.

"When the forty is cleared it will be worth $25 an acre, and if he can do this in a year and make his own living beside, he is about $1,000 better off than the man who has been working for wages that while. Besides, if he wants to work part of the year, work can be found at $35 a month for a man, or $45 with a team during the winter. The prairie farmer has nothing to do eight months of the year, and he cannot get work without traveling far. The proximity to good markets is also an advantage in this state.

"It would be a good thing if the people of the Twin Cities could see, and I believe many of them do see it, that the development of the cities depends directly upon the territory which markets its produce there. If the population of this state is doubled the amount of produce to be sold and the amount of goods to be bought will be doubled, and the Twin Cities cannot grow unless the country around them is developed. And when our buying and selling doubles, the manufacturing will be more than doubled."

LEGAL AGE IS ONLY CRITERION.

Little Children Count as Much as Big Ones.

In reply to a query from Supt. James M. McConnell of Mankato, State Superintendent J. W. Olsen has written that pupils in kindergarten schools as well as andy other department are entitled to the state appointment if they are five years of age or over, and then only.

Supt. McConnell asked the question: "Where the kindergarten is a part of the regular school system, taught by qualified and regular certified teachers, do the children count for the state apportionment, or is it necessary to classify them as primary children? I put the question in this way because I know in practice they are counted in many schools."

Mr. Olsen replied that according to the statutes the state superintendent is directed to make an apportionment of the current school funds in the state treasury based on the number of children to the schools between the ages of five and twenty-one.

"As I understand the law, therefore, no pupil in the public schools, under the age of five years, whether in the kindergarten or some other department, may properly be reported to share in the state apportionment of current funds. But if the children are above five years and attend the required number of days, they are entitled to appointment regardless of the grade or department they are in."

A man always with his eyes on the ground bumps his head; a man with his nose always in the air stubs his toe.

BOOM FOR GOPHER PEAT.

Beds in Nicollet County to Be Developed.

Nicollet county's peat deposits, regarded as the richest in Minnesota, are to be exploited by the United States Peat Fuel company, with headquarters in Chicago. Officers of the Northwestern Peat Fuel company, which is soon to begin developing the beds near Norwood, are also interested in the venture, and the promoters purpose expending $50,000 in purchasing lands and eresting a factory near Oshawa, a small station on the North-Western road, seven miles west of St Peter.

Peat is found in various parts of Nicollet county, but the most extensive deposits are in the vicinity of Timber, Oak Leaf, Goose and Middle lakes, all of which are within easy reach of Oshawa. Many of the bogs cover large areas and the peat in them varies from seven to twelve feet in depth. Analysis has shown that the deposits are of fine quality and experts claim that the supply is practically inexhaustible.

In selecting a site for the plant near Oshawa station, the United States company will build its plant in the very heart of the peat beds and still have the best transportation facilities. It has secured options on 500 acres of land in the immediate vicinity of Oshawa, and this in itself represents a considerable outlay, as the marshes produce a superior quality of hay, and have agricultural as well as mineral value.

The factory will be erected close to these bogs as early in the spring as possible, and the builders expect to have it in operation within six months. The capacity will be 100 tons a day, which will consume the peat from ten acres of land in a year. Peat bricquettes will be manufactured, and the process used will be to thoroughly dry the material with artificial heat, pulverize it with powerful crushers and then compress it into small bricks or cubes under hydraulic pressure of 50,000 pounds to the square inch.

It is claimed for the commodity by the manufacturers that it has all the heating and lasting qualities of the best anthracite coal, and that it is superior to the Pennsylvania fuel because of the entire absence of dust and dirt. They estimate the cost of manufacture at $1 a ton, but expect to retail it in the open market for $5, a figure that will enable them to compete with any of the grades of hard coal.

This will be one of the first factories to be opened in the United States. There are several plants in successful operation in Canada.

BEMIDJI SUMMER RESORTS.

Three Companies Will Boom Town Next Summer.

The Pine Beach Townsite company, capitalized at $50,000, has been formed at Bemidji and articles of incorporation of the new concern will be filed at the office of the register of deeds of Beltrami county at once. The object of the company will be to buy and sell real estate, but one of the most important things it will do it to advertise Bemidji as a summer resort. A large tract of land on the northern shore of Lake Bemidji has been purchased and work on the platting of the townsite, to be known as Pine Beach, is under way. Cottages will be erected by the company as soon as the snow is gone. The officers of the company are S. D. Works, Mankato, president; Dr. Rowland Gilmore, Bemidji, vice president and treasurer, and John F. Gibbons, Bemidji, secretary.

The Bemidji Beach association, another company that will have for its object the promotion of a summer resort townsite, located on the head of Lake Bemidji and known as Bemidji Beach, has been incorporated. The association is made up of local business men, who have platted twenty-three acres of land into lots and expect many tourists next summer. The sale of lots has been placed in the hands of Mayor A. A. Carter.

Another summer resort that is expected to receive large patronage during the coming summer is that at Plantagenet lake, five miles south of Bemidji. This place, as well as the others, is an ideal spot for spending the summer. Fish and game abound in all the lakes and streams that surround it.

Says Duluth Leads the World.

Duluth, Feb. 1.—In giving the annual death rate as 7.74 to each 1,000 of population Health Commissioner Murray in his annual report says Duluth is the healthiest city of similar size in the world.

TRAIN WAITS FOR SURGEON.

Great Northern Saves Man's Life by Delay.

Duluth, Feb. 1. — Last evening the Great Northern train due in Duluth at 6:30 was held at Deer River for fifteen minutes to allow a surgeon to amputate the limb of a man who had been run over by the train. Had not the operation been performed the man would not have lived to reach this city. He is now in the hospital, and there is hope of his recovery.

CRUSHING NORWAY'S OLD FORTS

Historic Defenses Crumble as Agreed in Treaty.

Norway has begun the work of reducing the strength of the frontier forts in accordance with the terms of the Karlstad treaty. The barbed wire entanglements around the outer fortifications of Fredrikshald, such as Overbjerget, Gyldenloeve, Hjelmkollen and Veden have been torn up and carried away.

The work of dismantling these forts is conducted with vigor. Every day several cannon are dismounted and stored away. Their future disposition will be determined by a commission selected by the minister of war. A number of army engineers are stationed at Fredrikshald for the purpose of directing the work.

When the old fortress at Fredriksten has been reduced to nothing more dangerous than an old historical ruin, the lesser works at Orje Kongsvinger and other strategetical points along the frontier will also be dismantled. The articles of the Karlstad conference provide that all new works must be razed by next June, and this will be done.

It is the hope of the Norwegian government that the fears on the part of the Swedes that Norway had no intention of abandoning the frontier forts will be dispelled by the active work now being done and that the insinuations in Vart Land and other Swedish papers that the Norwegian government was playing false will cease. It was repeatedly asserted that the Norwegians, instead of making preparations to carry out their obligations, were secretly strengthening the fortifications both at Kongsvinger and Orje, and these statements were so positively given that the war minister felt impelled to make an official denial.

There is every indication that an era of betrer feeling between the two countries is approaching. From time to time ill-advised newspaper articles tending to keep alive the feeling of animosity appear in the press of both countries, but more moderation is being shown on both sides.

Not long ago the Swedish papers announced that the name of King Oscar had been erased from the Bauta stone at the most northerly point on the Geilivare-Narvik railway, which report now appears to be unfounded.

SINGER ENCOUNTERS RIOTS.

Marie Laport in Russia During the Revolution.

Marie Laporte, the Swedish singer, was in St. Petersburg when the revolutionary uprisings were at their worst, and she had some thrilling experiences before she reached a place of safety. After considerable effort she was able to make her way to Riga, and from there to Warsaw, where she sought a rest, but found that she had leaped "from the frying pan into the fire."

She was obliged to keep to her room, as incendiary mobs were patroling the streets at all hours and were firing indiscriminately. In describing her escape from Warsaw, she said:

"Just a week after the theater closed the proprietor of the hotel came to my room and excitedly shouted through the keyhole: 'Madame must throw her luggage from the balcony outside her window and escape by the wire ladder fixed below.' I expostulated, saying that my luggage was valuable, but the proprietor put an end to further conversation. 'Luggage is of no use to dead people,' he said, and left. I hastily opened the window and somehow made my way to the street. Hardly had I crossed the road when I heard shouts. Turning round, I saw the hotel was in flames. By a stroke of good fortune I managed to catch a train back to Lodz, but there I found things even worse. The streets were filled with nothing more nor less than a crowd of maniacs. The post and telegraphic service was cut off and it seemed to me at first impossible that I should ever leave the city alive.

"One morning I went out, determined to find some means of getting away from this town of horror and crime. I had scarcely been out five minutes before I heard loud shouts, followed by terrible screams and afterward moans. Up charged some twenty Cossacks, slashing out to right and left with their swords as the threatening mob made its advance. I fled up the street. Later I found a possible means of escape. After bargaining with the proprietor of a livery stable I succeeded in hiring a caravan. In this, seated on the little luggage that was left to me, I traveled all night to Kallasch, a small town on the Polish frontier, whence I took a train to Berlin."

Population of Swedish Towns.

Preliminary reports on the Swedish census at the beginning of the year show a healthy growth in many of the cities. Thus Gothenburg, the second city of Sweden, has an increase of more than 14,000 inhabitants, and now has a population of 151,677. The population of some of the other larger cities is as follows: Malmo, 72,000; Norrkoping, 44,000; Hensingborg, 20,000; Karlskrona, 26,000; Lund, 19,000; Boras, 18,000; Halmstad, 17,000; Sundsvall, 16,000; Vesteras, 15,000; Karlstad, 14,000.

JOKES AMONG COLLEGE GIRLS.

Have Much Fun Every Fourteenth Day of February.

If it were not for the college girls St. Valentine would be in danger of becoming a cad, but they regard him as a huge joke and jolly him unmercifully. They do not let his day go by unnoticed.

On the contrary they herald it with joy and make great preparations for it, but there is hardly a bit of sentiment in their worship. For three or four weeks before the 14th of February, huge signs appear on the bulletin boards in the dormitories, soliciting orders for valentines, for the girls deft fingers seize the opportunity to make a little money and the girls who have money are quite ready to pay for an original valentine.

And a college valentine must be original above everything else. Sometimes the girl with money supplies the idea and the deft-fingered girl works it out.

The character of these valentines is mostly in the way of a grind and it is carried out by every conceivable device; by water colors, by sketches, by poems, by incongruous articles.

Of course there is the little freshman who feels bound to send her senior "crush," flowers and confectionary, but the true college valentine is a sharp dig. Woe to the girl who has obtrusive mannerisms, for she will be rapped right and left, although the jokes are never hateful. Cupid receives some attention, but it is of the frivolous sort for he is jeered and sneered at.

Contrary to popular opinion, college girls give and take "knocks" as good-naturedly as do college boys, and the lazy girl who receives a bunch of firecrackers on St. Valentine's day laughs heartily at the joke.

The girl with a big ambition to join one of the societies, an ambition which she has been trying to conceal, is a little startled when she receives an enormous Greek letter made out of red paper and on it in black letters:

Sure as sin.
I want a pin.

A clever valentine sent one year to a young woman who was extremely popular with the men was a circle of hearts with the face of one of her men friends peering out of each. In the center was a pen and ink sketch of herself and beneath the words, "All men look alike to me."

Often copies of Gibson, Underwood and Christy are sent and a little dumpling of a girl once received a yard of Fanny Cory's children.

The licorice buttons, which the children buy in a penny candy store, will be sent in large bunches to the maidens who never have time to sew on a button. A ludicrous valentine which was sent last year to a very fat girl was a plump sofa cushion so pulled and twisted as to look exactly like its recipient. And a very tall girl received a scrap of music of the song. "Just take a little bit off the top for me."

There is a reckless disregard of meter or rhythm in the poems which accompany the valentines, but if the hit is considered satisfactory. With a tiny grindstone which was sent to a chronic flunker was the jingle:

Your marks, my love, are fallen behind.
Grab the handle and begin to grind.

With a bunch of all sorts of pencils, big and little, red and blue and ordinary black, which was sent to a girl who was secretary of every organization she belonged to, was the rhymelet:

As you're always a sec,
You can use this peck.

To a chafing dish expert was once sent a water color of a chafing dish very cleverly painted, and near it was a pink saucer in which reposed a very large heart. Underneath was the invitation:

Thou, lady of the chafing dish,
I'd stake much on thy cookery;
Take my heart, my valentine,
And serve it in thy nookery.

An engaged girl once made the mistake of bidding her fiance good night on a part of the piazza which was so lighted as to throw their shadows clearly on the snow. On Feb. 14, to her amazement, she received representations of that good night in silhouettes, water color and pen and ink drawings, all so well done that the participants could not be mistaken.

The star golf player received from an admiring freshman, with a framed copy of a Gibson girl:

Though you are no cad,
You need a caddie;
Since that is your fad,
Let me be that laddie.

There are college maidens who have the "prom habit," which means that they have numerous invitations to proms at the men's colleges, and are constantly asking leave of absence to attend. One of these maidens received a bunch of leave-of-absence blanks, cunningly copied in pen and ink, and each one was made out, the set giving her permission to go to proms in every college in the country.

The eternal feminine crops out in the keen observation of peculiarities of dress. The girl who does not keep her skirt and belt properly fastened in the back, receives an enormous safety pin; the girl who poses by wearing her hair in a braid down her back receives a water color of a tiny girl with an immense pigtail, and the girl who affects mannish attire receives a tiny pair of trousers.

Some of the seniors who are beginning to realize that college friendships will soon be over, send one another poems of friendship written on ordinary stationery, and art students often send a bit of their work to a particularly beloved friend. Photographs of college scenes are sent to alumnae, and popular members of the faculty receive pretty gifts. But for the greater part, the college valentine is a college joke.

Her Valentine.

Beneath the spread of valentines,
A song unnoticed lay;
Yet too suggestive were its lines
For fate to hide away.
Some careless hand, disclosed to view
Its message, as a prayer,
"For Old Time's sake," nor ever knew
It left a blessing there.

For deep within each heart there lies
The germ of precious seed;
And wistful, tender, grew the eyes
Of one who chanced to read
The pleading words: "For Old Time's sake,"
With pathos and with pain,
Sad mem'ries in her breast did wake,
That night not sleep again.

For through the years there seemed to sift
Bright thoughts of other days,
Until there came the little rift
Where friends walked separate ways.
The heart owns what the lip denies,
Held close by Pride's stern fingers,
And softly sings: "True love ne'er dies,"
Its answering echo lingers.

And so at last, for Old Time's sake,
The one wrote words full tender,
Despite a vow she once did make,
Since none would know the sender;
The other read that valentine,
Nor guessed that tears and kisses
Were fairly mingled in each line
By one whose name she misses.

—LILLA W. SICKLER.

TO MAKE THE JUNIORS HAPPY.

Valentines Always Welcomed by the Little Ones.

If you know any children, send them valentines—as quaint ones, brimming over with nonsense and fun, as you can find. And send to every child you know—there never was a youngster yet who didn't look forward to getting them, and be bitterly disappointed if they failed to materialize. And, then, at school there's a hubbub of "How many did you get?"

Since lovers decided to share the day with children, do your share for the wee ones, at least.

One girl hit upon a clever way of having partners chosen by making her own dance cards, which had the pencils tied to them, each two with a different color. She had gone to a great deal of trouble to find out what each girl was going to wear and had the ribbons to match the dresses in as many cases as possible.

The men she made choose a color and then sent them off to find the girls their ribbons matched. On the front of the cards were sketched, in pen and ink, two hearts, with an arrow through them, pinning them together, and verses.

That on the girls' cards was:

'Mong the merry lads assembled here
There's one whose ribbon matches thine;
Cupid will bring him to thee, dear,
To be this eve thy valentine.

On those for the men:

'Mong the merry maids assembled here
There's one whose ribbon matches thine:
Go seek her out, and she shall be,
For all this eve, thy valentine.

And Cupid played great havoc that night!

OFFICIAL PAPER RED LAKE COUNTY
OFFICIAL PAPER RED LAKE FALLS CITY

$1.00 Per Year, in Advance.

If the anti-pass order ever becomes popular in Minnesota there will be a lot of walking delegates in future political conventions.

The rigors of the anti-pass rule in the eastern states have banished newsboys from trains. Conductors and brakemen still ride free.

The fact that there is room at the top explains why we are at the bottom. It takes genius to get room at the bottom when everything is so badly crowded.

Dar Reese, the Republican Diagones at St. Paul, has taken his lantern in hand to find a candidate for mayor of the saintly city. So far twenty-seven have declined to make the race against Bob Smith.

J. Adam Bede's shot at the New York senators seems to have reverberated to the four corners of the nation. He might easily be charged with invidious distinction however, as there are a whole lot more of the senators we want to forget.

The fund for the benefit of Captain Berwin, the Minneapolis fireman who lost his life in the West Hotel holacaust, has reached $5000.00. The heroics of peace as well as war calls forth the higest praise and sympathy, and it is to the credit of the people of Minneapolis that the family of this hero is assured of a substantial provision against poverty.

Senator Hawkins, a Duluth senator, has announced his candidacy for lieutenant governor. The senator was chairman of the committee on railroads at the last session and no doubt he filled the position with entire satisfaction to the corporations. He is also a little deaf, but can hear the slightest whisper of the steel trust. Senator Hawkins would make a fitting successor of Ray Jones.

Walter T. Lemon, member of the lower house of the legislature from Ramsey county, announces that he would like to be the Republican nominee as clerk of the supreme court. The present incumbent of that office, Carl A. Pidgeon, has served but one term and under all the rules of precedence is entitled to a re-election. Mr. Pidgeon is regarded as an exceptionally able and efficient clerk, and is receiving a great many complimentary mentions by the country press.

The Republican gubernatorial situation has not changed materially during the past few weeks. Jacobsen, Block and Lord are still receiving the most mentions by the press of the state, but as yet neither has made a direct announcement of his candidacy. Imagine the situation if Governor Johnson was out of the field. Scores of prominent Republicans would like to be governor of the state, but none of them cares to endanger his political future by rushing up against a stone wall.

A drowning man will grasp at a straw and Red Lake Falls would prevent the county board from making a new set of commissioners' districts.—Plummer Pioneer.

Charlie Latta is "an amusing cuss" and he ought to furnish his editorials with a diagram. Red Lake Falls is not trying to prevent the redistricting of the county but they seriously object to a division that has neither reason nor sense. Bless you, Charlie, we hope your good sense will be restored to its normal basis.

The fund for the erection of the great Catholic cathedral at St. Paul is growing rapidly, and already about $500,000 is in sight. Catholics from all over the Northwest are contributing, and it is expected that ultimately the fund will reach $3,000.000. The anticipated contribution of $1,000,000 from James J. Hill has not as yet been forthcoming, and it is rumored that it may not be given, as Mr. Hill is said to consider that his debt to the Catholic church was discharged when he so generously endowed St. Thomas college and theological seminary some years ago,

Our friend who publishes the Plummer Pioneer becomes unduly exited because the people of Red Lake Falls would not stand for the redistricting plan of this county into commissioner district as submitted by one of the commissioners. We are entirely at fault, perhaps, in reading between the lines of the Pioneer's article—but what is the fight about? Does Thief River Falls want the county seat? If it does why does it not go after it in a ligitimate way and bring the matter to a close instead of an underhanded fight that a "white man" would despise.

The political situation in Minnesota this year is anamolous. Notwithstanding the state is supposed to be 60,000 or 70.000 Republican so far not a single man has had the courage to announce his candidacy for governor on that ticket. Governor Johnson's popularity and clean record makes him an invincible candidate for re-election, and none of the fellows who ordinarily would be tearing his hair and establishing headquarters is in a hurry. The general feeling that Governor Johnson merits another term is keeping the Republican candidates badly scared.

The Chicago insurance convention composed of governors, insurance commissioners and attorney generals of about thirty states of the Union, paid Governor Johnson a signal honor in choosing him as chairman of the convention. The Minnesota governor won added laurels by the fairness, impartiality and distinction with which he conducted the proceedings. The insurance commissioner of the District of Columbia gave entire credit to Governor Johnson for the inauguration of the movement, as the first suggestion of the Chicago conference was made several months ago in a letter written by Governor Johnson to President Roosevelt, and he heartily indorsed the plan and urged its importance upon the officals of other states. Beneficial and practical results are sure to follow as the result of the conference, and it looks now as though graft and dishonesty will be entirely eliminated from the insurance companies.

Men wanted, $5. per day selling "Farm Book-keeping." The Farm Record Co., Northfield, Minn. 1-11

The Courier is grievously alarmed over the opinion the Thief River Press has formed of the writer anent the injunction served on the board of county commissioners restraining them from destricting the county into commissioner districts before the people could be consulted in the matter. The Courier editor has always supposed the voters had a voice in such matters and that there was no immediate demand to redistrict at the sole solicitation of Commissioner Daniel Shaw and the Thief River Falls Press. We may be in errors as to the surmise but are bold enough to suggest that a thorough discussion should be made. Moreover, the proposition of redistricting submitted by Mr. Shaw is so manifestly unfair and unreasonable that the piece of jobbery attempted by him savors of the same course that Tammay Hall takes in New York. It is rule or ruin, or like old Commodore Vanderbilt said "the people be damned" so long as Thief River gets its way.

The Courier does not propose to sit on its haunches and howl at the moon for the pleasure of hearing the noise, but there is reason for every argument; and the redistricting of a county the Courier considers of such importance that possibly the opinion of more than one man is necessary to get it on a just and equitable basis. The persistent and insistent plotting of Thief River Falls to secure a change of the county seat is a matter of turmoil to the whole county at large and in the event of a change would not benefit the county at all. Red Lake Falls is centrally located, easy of access by both railways and roads and is the logical location for a county seat. Bro. Clark has been so accustomed to "running a bluff" that when it is called he considers it unfair. The Courier is real sorry the Press editor antedates the writer by three months' residence in the county, but feels that he can see a bald-faced gerrymandering deal when it is pushed up against his face.

Torture of a Preacher

The story of the torture of Rev. O. D. Moore pastor of the Baptist church of Harpersville, N. Y., will interest you, He says: "I suffered agonies because of a persistent cough, resulting from the grip. I had to sleep sitting up in bed. I tried many remedies, without relief, until I took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which entirely cured my cough, and saved me from consumption." A grand cure for diseased conditions of Throat and Lungs. At all druggists, price 50c and $1.00, guaranteed. Trial bottle free

Just one trial will convince you that the B B cigars, can hold their own with any of 'em.

All Run Down

THIS is a common expression we hear on every side. Unless there is some organic trouble, the condition can doubtless be remedied. Your doctor is the best adviser. Do not dose yourself with all kinds of advertised remedies—get his opinion. More than likely you need a concentrated fat food to enrich your blood and tone up the system.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil

is just such a food in its best form. It will build up the weakened and wasted body when all other foods fail to nourish. If you are run down or emaciated, give it a trial: it cannot hurt you. It is essentially the best possible nourishment for delicate children and pale, anaemic girls. We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

The Swiftness of Action of This Great Naval Battle.

The world will see other sea fights, but never one like this, so close, so swift and with so much in it of the personal element. And what may be called the pace of the battle, the swiftness with which incident follows incident, is almost without a parallel in the history of war. The first gun was fired at 12:15; at 12:22, or only seven minutes after the French guns opened on him, Collingwood, with the British ships nearest to him, was through the enemy's line.

Only one brief minute later, or at 12:23 by the log of the Euryalus, Nelson is in the fight, and is pouring his first dreadful broadside into the stern of Villeneuve's flagship. Two minutes later the French and Spanish topmasts begin to fall. At 1:32, or sixty-seven minutes after the first gun was fired, Blackwood reports "the center and rear of enemy's line to be hard pressed in action." The fate of the battle is practically settled. Already some of the enemy's ships have struck. The swift moments run on, and the pulses of the great fight keep time with them. The advantage is not all on one side.

At 2:30, for example, or less than two hours from the moment when, a shape of majestic pride, the Royal Sovereign moved into the zone of the enemy's fire, she lies a mastless and helpless hulk. She has done her work, but she has paid a terrible price for it. There is at this moment a flutter of flags on the masthead of the Victory, for Nelson has a great captain's watchful vision, and a frigate—it is the Euryalus—comes down with every inch of canvas set, groping her way through the smoke, to take the battered hull of the Royal Sovereign in tow, so that her broadsides—the mighty ship can still fight, though she cannot sail—bear upon the enemy's ships within her reach.

This is not a battle spread through days. It is compressed almost into minutes. The first shot was fired at 12:15; before 3 o'clock flag after flag is going down; a great fleet is crumbling into ruin. By 5:30 o'clock all is over.—Cornhill Magazine.

FINGERS AND FORKS.

Never use a fork when taking a piece of bread.

Avoid using a spoon for anything that is not liquid.

Pastry should be eaten with a fork; also ice cream where the proper forks are served.

It is permissible to eat celery, corn, asparagus, water cress and undressed salad with the fingers.

Olives should be lifted from the dish with the olive fork or spoon, but should be eaten from the fingers.

Lemon is often served with fish and pancakes. The lemon should be taken in the fingers and squeezed upon the viands.

If cut sugar is served and there are no sugar tongs in the bowl, lift the pieces out as delicately as possible with the tips of the fingers.—New York Press.

CURED OF PARALYSIS

Minneapolis Man Uses Affected Arm After Being Paralized For Eight Months

Another remarkable cure is added to the long list already credited to the marvelous New Discovery medicine of L. T. Cooper, the famous philanthropist.

This time a report comes to us in the shape of a signed statement from Mr. Charles O'Connor, 215 Broadway, N. E. Minneapolis, Minn., who tells of a most startling and interesting experience Mr. O'Connor was stricken with paralysis eight months ago and has since been unable to move his right arm.

Much has been heard of the marvelous results accomplished with the Cooper medicines since the philanthropist visited Minneapolis a short time ago and at which time Mr. O'Connor also heard of and began using the Cooper remedies.

In his statement he declares: "One would hardly believe that any medicine could have the miraculous effect that this did in my case. My right arm has been helpless from paralysis for eight months, Gradually after the first few treatments I could notice its effect upon my arm and now after two weeks I can not only move the afflicted member but can use it considerably. I feel no pain any more and am better in every way."

Cooper's New Discovery cures paralysis rheumatism, catarrh, deafness, blood diseaees, stomach and kidney troubles and costs one dollar per bottle. Cooper's Quick Relief, the assistant remedy which should be used in connection with the New Discovery, sells for fifty cents. The remedies can be had in this city only of W. A. SCHREITER.

Mr. and Mrs. Doran's many friends here sincerely hope his fears are groundless.

Mrs. E. F. Marshall entertained Tuesday evening on the North Side at her home in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Garceau. After an elaborate course dinner the evening was spent in music and conversation. Those being present were. Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Garceau, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. Kaufer, Mr. and Mrs. K. M. Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Garceau and Mr. and Mrs Zeh of Thief River.

Mrs. J. A. Duffy entertained about twenty-five ladies on Monday afternoon at a cinch party at her home, the guest of honor being Mrs. Ed. Garceau. Miss Tillie Kaufer proved her skill by carrying off the head prize while Mrs. Linnihan consoled herself with the consolation prize, a pitcher, which she does not propose to let go to the well once too often. The ladies were charmingly entertained and spent a most enjoyable afternoon as Mrs. Duffy's guests.

The members of the Foresters' lodge gave a reception to Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Garceau at their hall last evening. Nearly 300 people were in attendance and it was found necessary to also make use of the Odd Fellows hall to entertain the number of guests. Mr. and Mrs. Garceau keenly appreciate the open hearted and cordial receptions given them by their old friends and associates during their visit and Red Lake Falls and its people will always be remembered by them with pleasant memories.

Cook Ranks as General.

The czar's chief cook draws a salary of $50,000 a year and holds a very important position in the Russian world. He has control of all imperial kitchens in Russia and every two months makes his rounds of the different departments of his kingdom. His rank is that of a general in the Russian army, and he commands every person serving in any capacity under him in the different cuisines.

To Far From the Market.

Soon after the Civil war, Gen. Rufus Ingalls, U. S. A., visited a friend in the South. Taking a walk one morning, he met a boy coming up from the river with a fine string of fish.

"What will you take for your fish?" asked the general.

"Thirty cents," was the reply.

"Thirty cents!" repeated the general, in astonishment. "Why, if you were in New York you could get $3 for them."

The boy looked critically at the officer for a moment, and then said scornfully:

The Scourge of Damascus

A Story of the East...

By SYLVANUS COBB, JR.

CHAPTER XIX.—(Continued.)

He had taken her hand and was raising it to his lips; but she suddenly drew it from him.

"No! no! no!" she murmured.

"Pardon, lady. I meant no offense." The tone was one of grief.

"Oh—Julian! Julian! Leave me not yet!"

She rested her freed hand upon his arm and gazed up into his face. Her eyes were streaming with tears and her bosom heaved convulsively.

"Lady—Ulin!"

"Julian!—O, in this hour of helplessness and need I turn to thee with all my trust and faith. If the love of this poor heart is worth the cherishing, take it, and keep it always. I have no power—I have no choice. The light of thy face, beaming in love upon me, reveals to me that I am bound to thee by chains which I cannot break."

She rested her head upon his bosom; and he, winding his stout arms about her, pressed her to his heart as a treasure the most precious that earth could bestow.

The sun sank to its evening rest, and the shades of twilight deepened over the river and over the grove. The stars came out, one by one, in their celestial stations, and anon the silver moon, lifting its face above the hills of Hobah, cast its soft light into the vale. Still the lovers sat beneath the orange tree; and there they might have sat late into the night, had not Osmir come to interrupt them.

What did the guard want at that hour and in that place. He sought his master. Julian arose and went to him and they whispered hurriedly together; and then Ulin was sure that she heard the Arabs mentioned.

"Ulin," said the chieftain, coming back and taking her hand, "you might go with me to the cave. I am called in another direction."

"What is it? You tremble. Ah, Julian—there is danger."

"No, no, sweet love; harbor not that fear. I go to ward off danger. O, I have something more than life to care for now."

At this point Selim came running up, all out of breath; but before he could speak his master stopped him.

"I understand, good Selim. Osmir has told me—"

"But—my master—"

"In a moment. Wait till I come back."

And thus speaking Julian led the maiden to the cave.

"Excuse me now," he said, raising her hand to his lips. "I will be back shortly. You will not fear?"

CHAPTER XX.

A King's Story.

The first person whom Ulin met after entering the cave was Ezabel, who stood by a table upon which a lamp was burning.

"My dear child, I was just coming in search of you. We were anxious. What—have you been in tears? Ulin, what is it? What has happened?"

The maiden, in memory of the great event of the evening, forgot the cause of fear that had been with her. It was a secret she could not keep—a secret she had no wish to keep; and resting her head upon Ezabel's shoulder, she told the story of her love.

"Dearest Ulin," said the aged matron, kissing the maiden upon the brow, "he is worthy of the trust you have reposed in him!"

At that moment Albia come in from the grove where she had been in search of her mistress; and very soon see, too, had heard the story. She gazed into Ulin's face a moment, and then, with a tear glistening in her eye, she murmured:

"I shall be very happy now, for henceforth I can serve and love you both!"

As Albia spoke, and before any reply could be made, Julian came hurrying into the cave. He was much excited and Ben Hadad saw a fear upon his face such as had never been seen there before.

"My son," spoke the hermit, "what means this? Your manner betokens danger."

"And there is danger," cried the young chieftain, moving instinctively to Ulin's side. "I fear that I have been much to blame. I should have been warned by the words of Osmir and Selim. Those two Arabs have evidently discovered our abiding place."

"Well—and what then?" asked Ben Hadad.

"I think they have brought a large force against us."

"What—of Arabs? Do they mean to rob us?"

"Perhaps," suggested Abia, "they hope to recapture what they have lost."

Ulin moved to Julian's side, and leaned upon his stout arm. He kissed her upon the brow and bade her be of good courage; and then he said to the others, in answer to what had been suggested:

"I fear the truth has not yet been hit. If the Arabs are coming, as I apprehend, there may be another solution to the problem. Those two rascals who escaped us could easily have followed us to this place. We were not looking for such a thing, and so did not guard against it. They knew that the maiden who had been snatched from them was the daughter of the king's prime minister; and may they not have known that she was the king's affianced? At all events, it is not unreasonable to suppose that they may have anticipated some gain of reward by carrying intelligence to Aboul Cassem. If they have done this, then they must also have revealed the whereabout of the Scourge of Damascus."

A low cry of pain from Ulin told how directly the fear had touched her; and again her lover sought to calm her.

"We must leave this place," he said, "and seek shelter in the wood. You and I and Albia will go, and the guards will join us outside. I know where there is safety, so have no fear. Should the rascals come they will not harm these old people; they will not dare to do it."

Ulin had drawn a mantle about her shoulders, and Julian had turned to speak apart with Ben Hadad, when Osmir came rushing into the cave, with terror depicted most painfully upon his ebon features.

"They are coming!" he cried. "They have sprung upon us from a hidden cover."

Who are coming?"

"They are the king's soldiers, led by the captain, Benoni!"

On the next instant the clash of arms was heard at the entrance.

"Back, back, sweet love," said Julian, gently pushing the maiden towards her chamber. "There may yet be hope."

He grasped a sword as he spoke, and leaped toward the entrance; but he was too late. Already a score of armed men were rushing in, a number of them bearing flaming torches in their hands.

"Come, good Osmir," the chieftain cried, bracing himself for the work. "Capture for us is certain death. We can do no better than to sell our lives here."

One—two—three—four of the royal soldiers fell beneath the lightning-like strokes of Julian's trenchant blade; and in the same time Osmir had slain two; but it was not in the roll of fate that two were to overcome the force that came pouring into the cave. A flaming torch was hurled upon the chieftain, and while he staggered beneath the blinding stroke he was drawn over backwards and his arms quickly pinioned. The next movement was to secure Ulin and Albia, after which Ben Hadad and Ezabel were taken.

"Will you lay violent hands upon me?" demanded the hermit.

"I am ordered to bring you all before the king," replied Benoni; "all whom I might find in this cave. I mean to offer you no harm, so if you have complaint to make, save it for those who command me."

While the captain was searching other apartments, to see if more prisoners were to be found, Julian felt a hand laid upon his shoulder, and on looking up he beheld Judah.

"So, my noble chieftain, you are fast once more. The guard played us false, it seems, and I came near losing my head in consequence; but my royal master will pardon me when he sees you again."

CHAPTER XXI.

Innocence of Helen.

The king of Damascus had grown very old and very sour within those last few days. Rage and chagrin had so shaken his frame that he seemed stricken with palsy; and his voice, from its howlings and moanings, had become hoarse and cracked. But he had promise of sweet revenge. His soldiers were upon the track of the fugitives, and he believed they would bring them back. O, how he would gloat over the sufferings of his victims when they came within his power!

"I tell thee, Aboul Cassem," he said, addressing his minister, "the fair, frail Ulin must suffer for this. She is no longer your child; I shall not regard her as such."

Aboul bowed his head, and answered that he was content.

Omar could not help noticing that his friend was in trouble, and he took the liberty to ask what had gone wrong.

"Alas!" cried Horam. "everything goes wrong." And he told how he had put away all his wives for the daughter of Aboul Cassem, and how she had betrayed him and fled from him. And then he told how he had once captured his dreaded enemy, the Scourge of Damascus, and how the prize had slipped through his fingers by means of the treachery of his slaves.

"By my life," exclaimed Omar, "you have been most sorely afflicted."

"But the worst is yet to be told," pursued Horam, clenching his hands, and gnashing his teeth. "The robber and the lady Ulin went off on the same night, and I have every reason to believe that she corrupted my slaves to set him free. In fact, I am sure she did. I think they will be all within my power by tomorrow. O, Omar, you have known much of my sorrow. I have grown old since we last met—very old. In years I am but the passing of two harvests ahead of you; but in trial and trouble I have left you far behind. The last time you were in Damascus the first great trial of my life came upon me. You remember it."

"Of what do you speak?"

"Why—of my wife—of the first wife I ever had—of her whom I made my queen."

"Do you mean the Lady Helena?"

"To be sure I do. Mercy! have you forgotten?"

"No," said Omar, shaking his head, "I remember Helena very well. She was the most bautiful woman I ever saw."

"And as false as she was beautiful," added Horam.

"Is it possible? I did not think she would come to that."

"How!" exclaimed the king of Damascus. "Does your memory fail you?"

"What mean you, Horam? My memory is good."

"Then why do you wonder when I speak of the faithlessness of my first queen? Was it not yourself that gave to me the proofs of her infidelity? Did you not show to me that she had fallen?"

"You speak in riddles," said the king of Aleppo. "I remember that we once suspected the young queen of bestowing her love upon a captain of your guard—I think his name was Jabal."

"Yes," responded Horam. "Jabal was the man, and I slew him. It was your evidence that convicted both him and Helena."

"And was the queen guilty after that?"

"Guilty after that?" repeated Horam, slowly and irresolutely. "What mean you? Do you imagine that I allowed her to live to commit more crime?"

"In mercy's name," cried Omar, "what do you mean by this speech? Do you remember Sanballad and Ben Huram?"

"Yes," replied Horam. "They were two of my chamberlains, who accompanied you to Aleppo at the time of which we have spoken."

"No," said Omar, "they did not quite go to Aleppo. I sent them back before I reached my capital. They brought to you my message?"

"I never saw them again after they went away with you," returned Horam.

"Never—saw—them. Good spirits of mercy! Are you in earnest, Horam?"

"Aye. If they started on their return, they must have been robbed and killed, for I never saw them after they left in your retinue."

The king of Aleppo clasped his hands in agony.

"O, Horam! Horam!" he exclaimed, "what a fearful mistake was that! Bear with me—forgive me!"

"What is it, Omar?"

"Your beautiful queen was innocent!"

"Innocent!" gasped Horam, starting to his feet, and then sinking back again.

"Yes, my brother," replied Omar, in trembling tones, "she was as innocent as in that natal hour when first she rested upon her mother's bosom. At Balbec we found a woman whom some of my officers brought before me supposing her to be the queen of Damascus. She was very beautiful, and so nearly did she resemble the queen, Helena, that even I was at first deceived. Her name was Jasmin, and she told me that she had just fled from Damascus and was waiting for her lover to join her. She said that Jabal was her lover, and that he was a captain of Horam's guard. The truth flashed upon me in a moment. I conversed with her until I had gained her whole story; and then I knew that your queen was innocent. It was all proved to me, as clear as the sun at noonday. At first I had a thought of returning myself, and bearing to you the joyful tidings; but business urged me on, and I sent Sanballad and Ber Huram."

"And they did not come!" uttered Horam, with his hands working nervously in his bosom. "They did not come—and my queen died."

"God forgive me!" ejaculated Omar. "I would have given my own life—Horam!"

(To be continued.)

What He Might Do.

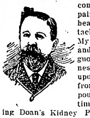
The custom of preserving the business name of a firm years after the founders have passed away or disappeared finds its reproof in a story related by the New York Evening Post. A young man who was sent out to canvass leading lawyers in a certain interest, entered the office of a firm of great prominence and said: "I should like to see Mr. M.—" mentioning the first name of the firm. "Very sorry, sir, but Mr. M. has been dead three years," was the answer. "Well, in that case I should like to see Mr. N." —the second name of the firm. "Mr. N. retired from the firm over a year ago," said the clerk with a smile. "Indeed: then may I see Mr. O."—the last name of the three. "Mr. O.," replied the clerk, "sailed last week for Europe, and won't be back for a month yet; is there anything I can do for you?" "There is," answered the canvasser, with the utmost suavity; "some day when you have time you might bring the firm name up to date."

Are not all true men that live or that ever lived soldiers of the same army, enlisted under heaven's captaincy, to do battle against the same enemy—the empire of Darkness and Wrong? Why should we misknow one another, fight not against the enemy, but against ourselves, from mere difference of uniform?—Carlyle.

Read not much at a time, but meditate on what you read, as much as your time, capacity and disposition will give you leave, ever remembering that little reading and much thinking, little speaking and much hearing, frequent and short prayers, and great devotion, is the best way to be wise, to be holy, to be devout.—Bishop Jeremy Taylor.

LOST 72 POUNDS.

Was Fast Drifting Into the Fatal Stages of Kidney Sickness.



Dr. Melvin M. Page, Page Optical Co., Erie, Pa., writes: "Taking too many iced drinks in New York in 1895 sent me home with a terrible attack of kidney trouble. I had acute congestion, sharp pain in the back, headaches and attacks of dizziness. My eyes gave out, and with the languor and sleeplessness of the disease upon me I wasted from 194 to 122 pounds. At the time I started using Doan's Kidney Pills an abscess was forming on my right kidney. The trouble was quickly checked, however, and the treatment cured me, so that I have been well since 1896 and weigh 188 pounds."

OLD ROSE COMES TO ITS OWN.

Paris Hears It Will Be the Fashionable Color for Spring.

Opinions may differ about the fashionable hue for winter gowns, but from the tidings which come from Paris there will be no doubt of the smart color for the spring. Lavender, violets and mauves, greens, golden brown and tan, must all go down before old rose. Broadcloth is to continue the vogue for the fabric, but old rose is crowned queen. Miss Roosevelt will have an old rose broadcloth among her walking suits, and it will be trimmed with Persian embroidery. Old rose is just beginning to glimmer among the gowns at ultra-fashionable gatherings, and it adorns only women who are always in the vanguard of style and who pay a big sum to Paris modistes for the first hints of a coming fashion. Mrs. Perry Belmont has an old rose velvet which is one of the handsomest toilets of the winter.

Consolation.

"Now, looky yuh, Claud!" said old Brother Utterback, addressing his callow nephew. "Don't be downhearted and mogger uh-kase yo' 's a nigger and can't git de political preponderance dat a white man can. To be sho, yo' ain't go no chance o' goin' to de legislature; but, lawsuza, boy, a man don't hatter write an 'Hon.' to his name befo' he can steal!"

She Was Punished.

"Mamma, did you ever flirt when you were a girl?"

He—Yes, and I say so still.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

How She Could Get a Shock.

One day an electric car was derailed on the main street. The conductor went to a nearby office and telephoned for the work gang. When he returned to the scene of the accident he saw that the passengers were on one side of the track with the exception of one lady, who seemed to be afraid to cross the rails.

When the conductor drew near she asked, in a timid voice: "Would I get a shock if I put my foot on that rail?" pointing to the nearest one.

"No, madam," answered the conductor, politely, "not unless you put your other foot on the trolley wire."—Boston Herald.

A gentleman whose temper is easily disturbed was traveling in England recently and was much annoyed at the reply given him at a railway station. The gentleman, noticing his baggage, properly addressed, was left on the platform, called out:

"Why didn't you put my luggage in, as I told you, you old fool?"

"Eh, man, yer luggage is na sic a fule as yersel'," answered the porter; "ye're i' the wrang train."

31 Boxes of Gold

300 Boxes of Greenbacks

For the most words made up from these letters

Y - I - O - Grape-Nuts

331 people will earn these prizes

Around the fireside or about the well-lighted family reading table during the winter evenings the children and grown-ups can play with their wits and see how many words can be made.

20 people making the greatest number of words will each receive a little box containing a $10.00 gold piece.

10 people will each win one box containing a $5.00 gold piece.

300 people will each win a box containing $1.00 in paper money and one person who makes the highest number of words over all contestants will receive a box containing $100.00 in gold.

It is really a most fascinating bit of fun to take up the list evening after evening and see how many words can be added.

A few rules are necessary for absolute fair play.

Any word authorized by Webster's dictionary will be counted, but no name of person. Both the singular and plural can be used, as for instance "grape" and "grapes."

The letters in "Y-I-O-Grape-Nuts" may be repeated in the same word.

Geographical names authorized by Webster will be counted.

Arrange the words in alphabetical classes, all those beginning with A together and those beginning with E to come under E, etc.

When you are writing down the words leave some spaces, in the A, E, and other columns, to fill in later as new words come to you, for they will spring into mind every evening.

It is almost certain that some contestants will tie with others. In such cases a prize identical in value and character with that offered in that class shall be awarded to each. Each one will be requested to send with the list of words a plainly written letter describing the advantages of Grape-Nuts, but the contestant is not required to purchase a pkg. These letters are not to contain poetry, or fancy flourishes, but simple, truthful statements of fact. For illustration: A person may have experienced some incipient or chronic ails traceable to unwise selection of food that failed to give the body and brain the energy, health and power desired. Seeking better conditions a change in food is made and Grape-Nuts and cream used in place of the former diet. Suppose one quits the meat, fried potatoes, starchy, sticky messes of half-cooked oats or wheat and cuts out the coffee. Try, say, for breakfast a bit of fruit, a dish of Grape-Nuts and cream, two soft-boiled eggs, a slice of hard toast and a cup of Postum Food Coffee. Some amateur says: "A man would faint away on that," but, my dear friend, we will put dollars to your pennies that the noon hour will find a man on our breakfast huskier and with a stronger heart-beat and clearer working brain than he ever had on the old diet.

Suppose, if you have never really made a move for absolutely clean health that pushes you along each day with a spring in your step and a reserve vigor in muscle and brain that makes the doing of things a pleasure, you join the army of "plain old common sense" and start in now. Then after you have been 2 or 3 weeks on the Grape-Nuts training you write a statement of how you used to be and how you are now. The simple facts will interest others and surprise yourself. We never publish names except on permission, but we often tell the facts in the newspapers, and when requested give the names by private letter.

There is plenty of time to get personal experience with Grape-Nuts and write a sensible, truthful letter to be sent in with the list of words, as the contest does not close until April 30th, 1906. So start in as soon as you like to building words, and start in using Grape-Nuts. Cut this statement out and keep the letters Y-I-O-Grape-Nuts before you and when you write your letter you will have some reason to write on the subject, "Why I Owe Grape-Nuts."

Remember 331 persons will win prizes, which will be awarded in an exact and just manner as soon as the list can be counted after April 30th, 1906. Every contestant will be sent a printed list of names and addresses of winners on application, in order to have proof that the prizes are sent as agreed. The company is well known all over the world for absolute fidelity to its agreements and every single one of the 331 winners may depend on receiving the prize won.

Many persons might feel it useless to contest, but when one remembers the great number of prizes—(331)—the curiosity of seeing how many words can really be made up evening after evening and the good, natural fun and education in the competition, it seems worth the trial; there is no cost, nothing to lose and a fine opportunity to win one of the many boxes of gold or greenbacks.

We make the prediction that some who win a prize of gold or greenbacks will also win back health and strength worth more to them than a wagon full of money prizes.

There are no preliminaries, cut out this statement and go at it, and send in the list and letter before April 30th, 1906, to Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich., and let your name and address be plainly written.

BABY COVERED WITH SORES.

Would Scratch and Tear the Flesh Unless Hands Were Tied—"Would Have Died But for Cuticura."

"My little son, when about a year and a half old, began to have sores come out on his face. I had a physician treat him, but the sores grew worse. Then they began to come on his arms, then on other parts of his body, and then one came on his chest, worse than the others. Then I called another physician. Still he grew worse. At the end of about a year and a half of suffering he grew so bad I had to tie his hands in cloths at night to keep him from scratching the sores and tearing the flesh. He got to be a mere skeleton, and was hardly able to walk. My aunt advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I sent to the drug store and got a cake of the Soap and a box of the Ointment, and at the end of about two months the sores were all well. He has never had any sores of any kind since. He is now strong and healthy, and I can sincerely say that only for your most wonderful remedies my precious child would have died from those terrible sores. Mrs. Egbert Sheldon, R. F. D. No. 1, Woodville, Conn., April 22, 1905."

Some Georgia Sayings.

The rain falls on the just and the unjust, but the unjust generally have a boat handy to keep 'em from drowning.

The world won't miss us any more than it would a lost star from the millions of 'em. It's only the egotist who is all the time wondering what the world 'll do when the grass grows over him.—Atlanta Constitution.

A Bridge Joke.

As a rule bridge players take themselves so seriously that the game is seldom enlivened with even a suspicion of humor. Occasionally, however, one hears a really good joke at the bridge table. At a certain mixed card club in London four ladies sat down to a rubber. Two of them were friends who had not met for years. "How many children have you now, Alice?" asked one of the players of her friend. "Six above and four below," was the reply. "Oh," chimed in a third player, "you have nothing to complain of. I'm chicane."

A Good Thing.

"What are you doing now?"

"I'm putting a new patent safety razor on the market."

"Good thing?"

"Well, it's the kind of a razor that impels the man who shaves with it to go back to the regular shop again—and the professional barbers pay me a handsome salary for introducing it.

OVER SEA HABIT.

Difference on This Side the Water.

The persistent effect upon the heart of caffine in coffee cannot but result in the gravest conditions, in time.

Each attack of the drug (and that means each cup of coffee) weakens the organ a little more, and the end is almost a matter of mathematical demonstration. A lady writes from a Western state:

"I am of German descent and it was natural that I should learn at a very early age to drink coffee. Until I was 23 years old I drank scarcely anything else at my meals.

"A few years ago I began to be affected by a steadily increasing nervousness, which eventually developed into a distressing heart trouble that made me very weak and miserable. Then, some three years ago, was added asthma in its worst form. My sufferings from these things can be better imagined than described.

"During all this time my husband realized more fully than I did that coffee was injurious to me, and made every effort to make me stop.

"Finally it was decided a few months ago to quit the use of coffee absolutely, and to adopt Postum Food Coffee as our hot table drink. I had but little idea that it would help me, but consented to try it to please my husband. I prepared it very carefully, exactly according to directions, and was delighted with its delicious flavor and refreshing qualities.

"Just as soon as the poison from the coffe had time to get out of my system the nutritive properties of the Postum began to build me up, and I am now fully recovered from all my nervousness, heart trouble and asthma. I gladly acknowledge that now, for the first time in years, I enjoy perfect health, and that I owe it all to Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

FACED AWFUL DEATH

TO ESCAPE FROM ILL TREATMENT ON SHIP.

British Sailor, Manacled and Heavily Clothed, Plunged Into Shark-Infested Waters in the Harbor of Honolulu—Finally Rescued.

B. Meinell was a sailor in the ship's company of the British ship Brenda until yesterday noon. But rather than endure the treatment he feared he would be sure to receive once the ship was out of sight of land he preferred to trust himself to the mercy of the sea. So, just as the ship was clearing the channel and the officers and all hands were busy making all sail to catch the least breath of wind, he jumped overboard. He was manacled with handcuffs, or, more properly, heavy iron bracelets fastened together with a chain, but he preferred death in the bright daylight to the life he had endured aboard ship as well as to possible death in the brig after abuse and slow starvation. At least that was the impression his story gave. There was no time to get into bathing trunks or even to peel off his heavy boots or even his coat. There was but time to get a friend to break a single link in his chain, and then to jump into the sea and possibly into the waiting jaws of a shark.

If the ship or his comrades missed the man, there was no boat lowered to save him. The ship went on her course apparently unmindful of the possible fate of one of her crew.

When the Brenda was standing off some three or four miles to sea, a pleasure craft from the French ship Ernest Reyer, a whaleboat rigged with a sail and manned by two of her common sailors, found Meinell with lungs half filled with salt water desperately hugging the spar buoy.

The Frenchmen were returning from a Sunday sail when they spied the British sailor. They hove to and asked him if he wanted to come ashore, and half by signs—for his lungs were so full of water that he could hardly talk—and half by words he made them understand that he did so. So the Frenchmen hauled him aboard and sailed into the harbor to their ship, landing him on Sorenson wharf, where a captain of police took him in charge and led him to the police station, a willing prisoner on land, but not at sea.

His ship arrived in Honolulu Oct. 5, and almost immediately he tried to desert, but was roped in by the U. S. marshal and taken before U. S. Commissioner Maling, who sent him to the reef. About a week ago he was delivered to his captain on orders of the British authorities and taken back aboard ship. As the time of departure approached, the captain, fearing he would again desert, put him in the brig on a bread and water diet. Just how he got out of the brig or who broke his manacles is not known. In order to show cause for a sane man to take the risks he did it must be a fearful tale he has to tell.—Honolulu Commercial Advertiser.

A Remarkable Criminal.

A rather better man than Jack Sheppard died a couple of years ago in the person of John Gillespie. Called the king of lock-pickers, he was a cunning man, equal to all sorts of deceits. Crime at Wigan brought him to the gallows. Before the noose could be placed about his neck he began to kick and struggle and to foam at the mouth. The authorities thought him about to die, and sentence was commuted. Soapsuds had done the trick. But the dying man made so excellent a recovery that on the way to the infirmary he was able to spring up and escape. Many times after that he was in and out of prison. The warders were always glad to see the back of him. He could pick any lock. Stealing from his cell at night, he would make his way to the governor's house, ransack his wine cellar, and share his booty with the other prisoners. He was converted in the end, and died poor but penitent in Carlisle workhouse.—St. James Gazette.

Douglas Wilson's Woodchuck.

Douglas Wilson, who used to be at Berlin, N. H., was known to be quite a hunter. He was also known to be "a stranger to the truth." In one of his favorite stories he relates how he had been tramping around the woods considerably and had found no game until at last he espied a woodchuck sitting right at the mouth of its hole. He knew that if he just wounded it it would manage to crawl into its hole, so he decided to get as close as he could, fire, and see if he couldn't get it before it got to its hole, if only wounded. He fired, dropped his gun and rushed toward the woodchuck.

In concluding, he says: "Perhaps you won't believe me, boys, but just as I grabbed that woodchuck the charge of shot hit me in the back."

The Light Over There.

Forevermore when Sorrow came thorny crowned an' gay—
When the black storms hid the heavens, an' the light along the way,
We hear him singing—singing in valleys of despair;
"The bells—the bells are ringing—the light is over there!"

The deep voiced Dark wailed around us, and not a star unfurled;
Like a lost soul sent from heaven back to a homeless world!
But still that singing—singing, sweet as a love thrilled prayer;
"The bells—the bells are ringing—the light is over there!"

And the weary world now list'ning took heart and courage strong,
And blest him for that ray of light that glimmered in his song,
And an echo to his singing came from dim vales and drear;
"The bells—the bells are ringing—the light is over there!"
—Frank L. Stanton.

WINTER WEAKNESS

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the Tonic That Most People Need for Blood and Nerves.

In winter the air of the close rooms in which we spend so much of the time does not furnish enough oxygen to the lungs to burn out the foul matter in the blood. In the cold season we do not exercise as much and the skin and kidneys do not throw off the waste matter as freely as usual. The system becomes overloaded with poisonous matter, and too feeble to throw it off. Relief can be had only through the use of a remedy that will promptly and thoroughly purify and strengthen the blood, and the one best adapted for this purpose is the great blood tonic known as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"They acted like magic in my case," said Mrs. Clara L. Wilde, of No. 377 Farnsworth avenue, Detroit, Mich. "I was weak and thin and could not sleep. My stomach and nerves were out of order. I can't describe how miserable I really was. I dragged through six months of feebleness, growing weaker all the time until I finally hadn't strength enough to leave my bed.

"Then a glad day came, the day when I began to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They made me feel strong right away. My appetite came back, I took on flesh and the color returned to my cheeks. People wondered that these pills did for me what the doctors couldn't do. I took only six boxes and then I was perfectly well. If I had not found this wonderful remedy I surely think that I must have wasted to death. Believing firmly that these pills saved my life by the strength which they gave me at a critical moment, I unhesitatingly recommend them to others."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain no stimulant but give strength that lasts. They may be obtained at any drug store.

Derivation of Fork.

The fork takes its name from the Latin furca, a yoke looking like an inverted V. From this comes the Italian forca and forchetta (little fork). The latter word gives the French their fourchette, while the English go back to the former and retain the harder sounding "fork."

Qualified.

"Whom shall we cast for the Human Ostrich in "Birds of a Feather?" asked the playwright.

"Dolly Dimple ought to make a hit in that," said the stake manager. "She can kick harder than any one in the company."

Sufficient Reason.

Jorkins—I do not suppose there is a man living that could successfully forge my name to a check and get it cashed.

Morkins—Is your signature such a peculiar one, then?

Jorkins—No; but I haven't any money in the bank.

What Detroit Needs.

"So you expect to get rich?"

"You bet. I've invented a lady's handbag that has a pistol attachment, a flashlight, instantaneous photographic camera and a wireless telegraphic machine that connects with police headquarters.

FACTS IN NATURE.

Not Only Do We Get Inspiration From Nature, But Health as Well.

For people who are run-down and nervous, who suffer from indigestion or dyspepsia, headache, biliousness, or torpid liver, coated tongue with bitter taste in the morning and poor appetite, it becomes necessary to turn to some tonic or strengthener which will assist Nature and help them to get on their feet and put the body into its proper condition. It is becoming more and more apparent that Nature's most valuable health-giving agents are to be found in forest plants and roots.

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. R. V. Pierce, now consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., discovered that by scientifically extracting and combining certain medicinal principles from native roots, taken from our American forests, he could produce a medicine which was marvelously efficient in curing cases of blood disorder and liver and stomach trouble as well as many other chronic, or lingering ailments. This concentrated extract of Nature's vitality he named "Golden Medical Discovery." It purifies the blood by putting the stomach and liver into healthy condition, thereby helping the digestion and assimilation of food which feeds the blood. Thereby it cures weak stomach, indigestion, torpid liver, or biliousness, and kindred derangements.

If you have coated tongue, with bitter or bad taste in the morning, frequent headaches, feel weak, easily tired, stitches or pain in side, back gives out easily and aches, belching of gas, constipation, or irregular bowels, feel flashes of heat alternating with chilly sensations or kindred symptoms, they point to derangement of your stomach, liver and kidneys, which the "Golden Medical Discovery" will correct more speedily and permanently than any other known agent. Contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients printed in plain English on wrapper.

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make a little more profit. He gains; you lose. Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

Constipation causes and aggravates many serious diseases. It is thoroughly cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. One a laxative; two or three are cathartic.

He—Will you not accept my pledge never to drink again?

She—No; I prefer that you keep it.

WESTERN CANADA'S MARVELOUS CROP RETURNS

The increase in the crop returns of the Canadian West, in the past seven years has approached the marvelous, and there is no reason to believe that a corresponding increase will not result for many years to come. The increase has been particularly noticeable in what was formerly known as the Northwest Territories, but which, on September 1st, 1905, became the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan. From the official returns we find the following results in the acreage sown to wheat, oats and barley, in the years mentioned, and a more favorable showing cannot be pointed to in any other country during a like period.

	Wheat.	Oats.	Barley.
1898	307,580	105,077	17,092
1899	363,523	134,938	14,276
1900	412,864	175,439	17,044
1901	504,697	229,439	24,702
1902	625,758	310,367	36,445
1903	837,234	440,662	68,974
1904	965,549	523,634	98,154

The yield has been uniformly good every year except 1900, when there appears to have been a slump all along the line. This, however, was more than compensated for in the following year, when the bumper crop in wheat, oats and barley put the returns of all previous years completely in the shade and gave an impetus to settlement in the west which has prevailed to the present, as the following table by bushels will show:

	Wheat.	Oats.	Barley.
1898	.. 5,542,478	3,040,307	449,512
1899	.. 6,915,623	4,686,036	337,521
1900	.. 4,028,294	4,226,152	353,216
1901	..12,808,447	11,113,066	795,100
1902	..13,956,850	10,661,295	970,417
1903	..16,029,149	14,179,705	1,842,824
1904	..16,875,537	16,332,551	2,205,434

It will be seen that the number of acres sown to wheat, oats and barley in 1898 was 429,749, and that this had increased in 1904 to 1,587,337. The total crop in the cereals mentioned was 9,033,297 bushels in 1898, and in 1904 it had grown to the magnificent total of 35,413,522. In the year just closed the "forward movement" in the agriculture of the west has been the wonder and envy of the world. New sections of the country have been placed under tribute to the plow and harrow, and the grain area has been largely increased. This is particularly the case where it has been demonstrated that "Alberta Red" winter wheat may be successfully grown, and along the lines of the new railways towards the centre of the country, where mixed farming prevails.

The future of the Canadian West is assured, and for years to come it is bound to be the land of promise to the agriculturist of every nation and of every clime, and the land of opportunity to every settler within its bounds.

A TRULY IDEAL WIFE

HER HUSBAND'S BEST HELPER

Vigorous Health Is the Great Source of Power to Inspire and Encourage—All Women Should Seek It.

One of the most noted, successful and richest men of this century, in a recent article, has said, "Whatever I am and whatever success I have attained in this world I owe all to my wife. From the day I first knew her she has been an inspiration, and the greatest helpmate of my life."

Mrs. Bessie Ainsley

To be such a successful wife, to retain the love and admiration of her husband, to inspire him to make the most of himself, should be a woman's constant study.

If a woman finds that her energies are flagging, that she gets easily tired, dark shadows appear under her eyes, she has backache, headaches, bearing-down pains, nervousness, irregularities or the blues, she should start at once to build up her system by a tonic with specific powers, such as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Following we publish by request a letter from a young wife:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"Ever since my child was born I have suffered, as I hope few women ever have, with inflammation, female weakness, bearing-down pains, backache and wretched headaches. It affected my stomach so I could not enjoy my meals, and half my time was spent in bed.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman, and I feel so grateful that I am glad to write and tell you of my marvelous recovery. It brought me health, new life and vitality."—Mrs. Bessie Ainsley, 611 South 10th Street, Tacoma, Wash.

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Ainsley it will do for every sick and ailing woman.

If you have symptoms you don't understand write to Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free and always helpful.

"Why do you say 'A blush crept over the face of the fair plaintiff?'" asks the editor.

"Because," explains the reporter, "there was so much powder on her face the blush had to creep or else it would raise too much dust."

A Washington dispatch to the twin city papers says: Wiley Tindolph, of Thief River Falls, is a candidate for the office of the U. S. Indian agent at Leech Lake. It is understood that his application for the appointment will soon be submitted to Senators Nelson and Clapp. Up to date the senators have not been officially notified that there is a vacancy at Leech Lake, although Maj. Scott retired several days ago. Assemblyman Rider, of Little Falls, who was indorsed by Representative Buckman, is also a candidate for the Leech Lake agency.

Peter Lindblom, the well known Baay farmer, reported on last Tuesday morning that he had been held up by two men about midnight on Monday in front of the drug store and robbed of a pocketbook, containing between five and six dollars. Mr. Lindblom reports that the men came up from behind, one holding his arms and the other one going through his pockets. He did not recognize either of the men. No violence was offered.

While a good many seem to consider it a good joke, it was a very poor one and the matter should be thoroughly investigated. Holding a man up and robbing him is a serious offense and if we have men in this village capable of doing such work the town should be made too hot for them.

Knut Erickson was out from Red Lake Falls on Thursday to look after some business matters.

The family of Andrew Erickson who have been ill with typhoid fever for several weeks, are reported as progressing nicely under the care of Dr. Cummings, of St Hilaire.

Ralph Green came in from Equality Tuesday evening and went to St. Paul where he will spend ten days or so visiting with his mother who moved to that city this winter to make her home.

Percy Taggart and family left on Friday evening for a visit with friends in Minneapolis and other points in southern part of the state.

F. E. Reinke, of Lemars, Iowa, was a visitor here Wednesday. He was looking over some farm lands in this vicinity and liked the country well enough to return in a few weeks to investigate further and probably purchase some land.

Olaf Tande was in from Garnes on Wednesday on creamery business. He says that a large number of the farmers in Equality township will haul cream here this year which will help materially in increasing the volume of business. It is expected that the creamery will start up as soon as the work now being done on it is finished which will be early in February.

INDEPENDENT ELEVATOR AT WYLIE

Farmer's in That Neighborhood Have Organized and Elected Officers.

An important step was taken by the farmers in the country tributary to Wylie on Thursday when an independent elevator and lumber company was organized and a set of officers elected. The officers are: President, N. Eickslad: vice president, J. G. Prior; secretary, C. W. Johnson.

It is proposed to build a 15,000 bushel elevator and build a gasoline power house and have everything in readiness for next fall's crop. Sufficient stock has already been subscribed for to start building operations in the spring and judging from the spirit shown by the people out there sufficient capital can easily be gotten to make it a success and a dividend paying proposition.

In connection with the elevator project it is also proposed to start a lumber yard, with the grain buyer as manager.

TOWNSHIP ORGANIZED

Officers Recently Elected Assume Their Official Duties.

Township 152-44 was organized on Thursday Feb. 8th, under the name of Mayfield township and the first set of officers elected were as follows:

Chairman—H. C. Jarr.

Supervisors—R. O. Gorden. S. Myrhem.

Clerk—Sam Lovaas.

Assessor—Sever Maaren.

Treasurer—A. C. Mayfield.

Justices—A. C. Mayfield 2 years Magnus Olson, 1 year.

Constables—Jacob Hannem. 2 years, Dan Carroll, 1 year.

The town was divided into seven road districts and overseers chosen.

The board of supervisors were instructed to inform themselves as to the price of open ditchers and purchase 14 road scrapers.

Thirty-six votes were cast and for chairman H. C. Jarr and Nels Helgemoe received 18 votes each, Mr. Jarr winning out when lots were drawn.

EXPLOSIVE ROCK.

The danger of explosions in mines is not entirely confined to inflammable gases, carelessly managed fuses and neglected charged or cartridges. It has been observed in the Derbyshire lead mines that some of the slate rocks are liable to burst on being scratched with a pick. The explosion is supposed to be due either to gases enclosed in the rocks, or to the moleculer strains. It is a shameful neglect not to order that case of golden grain belt beer when you can improve your health by its regular use. Serve it with your meals and you will be able to enjoy yourself more, think better, work harder. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson Crookston.

HAD JOYFUL TIME WHILE IT LASTED

Hataway and Benjaminson Took Leg Bail and Got on a Glorions Drunk at Brooks.

When Sheriff Dan Linnihan came to feed his flock of birds at his resort Friday evening and to count beaks before showing them into their respective coops he found two valuable specimens missing.

Eck Hathaway one of the leaders of the Thief River Falls box car thieves and Benjamin Benjaminson, also an Up River resident, sent here for stealing an overcoat, and held for the spring term of court, had in some way obtained possession of a case knife, out of which they made a saw and by sawing two bars of the outer window grating and bending them outwards they made a hole big enough for them to crawl through. The delivery was made in broad day light during the sheriff's absence and while they were taking their daily exercise in the corridor. As the bars are of soft material it did not take long before the "trick was turned."

When the discovery of the escape was made Sheriff Linnihan immediately wired and phoned to all adjacent points and felt sure of their recapture as they were thinly clad and unless assistance from the outside was secured they could not travel far in the bitter cold.

Saturday afternoon Linnihan received word from the Brooks mail carrier that his men were there and immediately went after them. Some of the people there had been entertaining them in royal fashion in one of the saloons and by continuing to "set them up" to the fugitives were able to get them in such a hilarious state of drunkenness that when the sheriff arrived Hathaway was peacefully sleeping and Benjaminson was doing a bear dance on the floor in front of the bar. They were immediately taken to this city and lodged in their old quarters and will be taken to Crookston for safe keeping pending their trial. Benjaminson took a very severe cold due to the exposure and is under the care of a physician.

Jimmie Kibly, who is also confined at the jail refused to go with the other two.

BAND BOYS DISAPPOINTED.

The local musical talent comprising the band which has been so assidiously cultivated and brought to such a state of perfection that nothing can beat it outside of the twin cities—an organization Red Lake Falls has every reason to be proud of—and which in itself is an advertisement for the city that brings it renown, is sorely disappointed at the action, or rather inaction, the council took at its last meeting in tabling their petition for a $20 a month appropriation for its maintainance.

One of the pleasures of Red Lake Falls is its spirit of music and every encouragement should be given to its further development and it is but fair and equitable, with the petition now being circulated and so generally signed, that a part of the public treasury be set aside for just such a purpose. The people desire a musical organization. The talent and desire for its further cultivation is here—but it requires cash as well as hard work on the part of the band boys to keep it at its present efficient state.

The city should financially aid the band. Other cities are doing it Why not Red Lake Falls?

THE KNOCKER.

The "Knocker" is an offspring of Failure and Envy. He is an only child, and like most "only" children, generally spoiled. He never reaches real maturity. Success in others hurts him like a tight shoe.

When he grows up he goes into the laundry business and whenever he goes, he carries with him a lot of soiled linen and a clothes line. Having no property of his own, and being too poor to rent, he becomes a "poacher" making his headquarters in the offices of other people. There he sets up his tub, stretches his line and remains till you interrupt him with a polite invitation to come again sometime when you are not so busy.

The "knocker" always gets business for the firm which doesn't pay his salary. As soon as his own firm finds this out he is retired without notice or pay. Nodody wants his company. His employment is dangerous business policy. His words are without fruit. No one places any confidence in even the good things he says, for they are attributed to sinister motives.

In the quadruped kingdom he would be either a hyena or a skunk or a cross-breed. Among the birds of the air he would be a cuckoo in disposition, with a crow's complexion, while as a reptile he would be a rattlesnake. He is the one man who can perform that wonderful contortionistic feat of getting beneath himself. He is as dangerous to a community as a leper let loose.

When you meet a "knocker," don't patronize him. Don't listen to him. Hit him in the place where his brains ought to be, and kick him where they are.

STRUCK BY SNOW PLOW AT BENOIT

Theodore Hoverland, a Section Hand, is Struck by a Snow Plow and Instantly Killed.

A diplorable accident happened at Benoit Friday evening shortly before supper whereby a young man lost his life by being struck by a snow plow. His name was Theodore Hoverland and was employed on the section at that station. One of his duties was to put up switch lights and in the performance of that was killed.

He was in the act of putting up one of these lights and was standing on the switch bar to reach it. Just as he had finished putting up the light engine No. 995 in charge of Pat Morrisoe with a big Russell snow plow attached passed by: the young man becoming confused stepped off the switch directly in front of the engine instead of stepping the other way to safety. Assistant Supt. Switzer was on the engine and was the first one to notice the terrible accident. He was looking out of the cab window and was horrified to see the body hurling thru the air. The train was stopped as soon as possible and run back to the spot but when it arrived there the man was dead and probably was instantly killed. His name was Theodore Hoverland and his home is about two miles from Benoit where his parents live. He was a single man about 23 years of age.

Money will not buy happiness; but who ever claimed that coal, clothing, groceries, glad garments and automobiles are happiness.

Editor Stead says all revolutions are caused by the pinch of hunger. Clearly it is not love, then, that makes the world go round.

One reason why Col. Mann did not repay those loans may have been a fear that some of his eminent creditors were subject to heart disease.

Chicago has a citizen who is 101 years old. He acknowledges, however, that it has cost him a great deal in pipes and tobacco to attain that age.

One of New York's business buildings is so high that an old farmer who strayed into the elevator wondered if he had got into an airship bound for Mars.

Now that Judge Gary of Chicago has decided that a wife is a luxury, the ladies will doubtless think it over and decide whether this is a compliment or not.

New Yorkers in one of the local dailies are disputing about the wording of the Lord's prayer. It is well to have the attention of the New Yorkers called to it.

A thousand dollars is offered for a dollar of the coinage of 1905. But how can it be expected that a man would hold onto a dollar that was made almost a year ago?

That big "Cullinan" diamond found in South Africa last year may be worth $45,000,000, as Mr. Kunz says, but most ordinary people would rather have the $45,000,000.

That man from Washington who was struck by 40,000 volts of electricity and survived must have been a senate lobbyist. The nerve of a lobbyist is equal to any shock.

The woman's club of Pittsburg insists that "for sanitary reasons" a woman's skirts should not extend below her knees. Let no sanitary precautions be overlooked.

A unionist member of parliament kindly has given his seat to Mr. Balfour, saving that gentleman from the fate of becoming a mere political straphanger, as it were.

China expects soon to have a free press, but unless the style of printing now in vogue over there is changed the matter will scarcely create any interest on this side of the world.

Lord Strathcona has spoken in the highest terms of the future of Canada. We never see Lord Strathcona mentioned without thinking that he has a name admirably adapted for a parlor car.

It is said of the late Marshall Field that he disliked publicity. Of course that means personal publicity. He was a tremendous advertiser, and that largely accounts for his fortune of $150,000,000.

The London Saturday Review thinks that war is less immoral and shocking to the finer sense than an election. We infer that our contemporary does not like the outcome of the present British contest.

There was a session of the lower house of the New York legislature that lasted just four minutes. The proceedings consisted of a prayer and a motion to adjourn. It was more profitable, doubtless, than most sessions.

By order of a New York court a mother gave her seventeen-year-old girl who had attempted suicide a spanking with a hair brush. The fall from the sublime to the ridiculous might be more spectacular, but never more complete.

The News of the Week

Washington.

The senate committee on interstate commerce committee reached an agreement to vote on the various railroad rate bills on Feb. 16. There are three measures being pressed for consideration, the Dolliver-Clapp bill, the Elkins bill and the Foraker bill.

For the first time an Indian is to enter West Point as a cadet. In the designations for appointment as cadets, President Roosevelt named Paul Knapp, an Indian youth. Every other principal and alternate appointed is a son of an army officer.

The president has selected Brig. Gen. Frederick Dent Grant, commanding the department of the East, with headquarters at Governor's Island, N. Y., to be promoted to the grade of major general, to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Maj. Gen. Sumner on Feb. 6.

Representative Fowler of New Jersey has introduced a "clean money bill," which provides that any person or corporation having mutilated or worn currency may send it by registered mail to the treasury of the United States and receive in exchange new currency without postage or registration charges either way.

"While the joint printing committee of congress has not proposed a single line of legislation at the present session, the agitation for a reduction of government printing already has resulted in a prospective saving of a million dollars a year." Charles B. Landis of Indiana, chairman of the house committee on printing, made this statement after a conference with the president.

Casualties.

Fifty men were burned, many of them seriously, in an explosion at the Sterling Salt company mine near Cuylerville, N. Y.

Mrs. Lilburn G. McNair, prominent in society and champion woman golf player of St. Louis, shot and killed herself. She had been under treatment for nervous melancholia.

A woman and four children were found dead in beds at their home at Boston. An investigation indicates that the woman had killed the children and herself by opening the gas jets.

It has been discovered by the city authorities of Canton, Ohio, that the forgeries of the late L. W. Prior, of Cleveland in connection with the Canton water works extension bonds amount to $500,000, instead of $300,000 as previously announced.

Irving B. Hull of Mirade, Neb., was arrested and put under $3,000 bonds by United States Commissioner Slattery at Chadron, Neb., on the charge of subornation of perjury in securing fraudulent homestead entries within the inclosure of D. W. C. and T. M. Huntington, bankers and cattlemen of Gordon, Neb.

While hiding in North Dakota to escape a charge of forgery hanging over him in Iowa, George Surber attended a religious meeting, became converted and returned to Knoxville, Iowa, and gave himself up. He is now in the Polk county jail awaiting trial. Surber spends much of his time in jail in prayers and devotions.

From Other Shores.

All the buildings of the home for the aged in the Fauborg de Paris, kept by the Little Sisters of the Poor, were destroyed by fire. Nine bodies have been found in the ruins.

At a meeting of the sectional budget committee at Tokio, a delegate representing the government said that Japan expected to increase the tonnage of her navy to 400,000 tons by the end of the fiscal year of 1907-8.

Owing to the British court being in mourning for King Christian of Denmark, King Edward's official visit to Madrid will not take place in the spring, and for the same reason King Alfonso's marriage to Princess Ena of Battenburg has been postponed until June 2.

The court of cassation at Constantinople has confirmed the sentence of death imposed on Ghirkie Gartanian, who claims American citizenship. Vartanian was condemned to death by the criminal court at Stamboul in September last for the murder of Tpik Undjian, a prominent Armenian.

An official statement denies the truth of disquieting rumors that have been in circulation concerning the health of King Edward. It explains that Dr. Ott of Marienbad visited King Edward as an acquaintance and not in a professional capacity, and says in conclusion that "his majesty's health happily continues to be excellent."

Domestic.

Frederick P. Towne, a former president of the National Founders' association, died at his home at Stamford, Conn., aged thirty-four years.

Arthur Hill of Saginaw, a wealthy lumberman, made the formal announcement of his candidacy for the United States senate in opposition to Senator Alger in 1907.

Abram Bergen, a prominent lawyer at Topeka since 1882, died, aged seventy years. In Minnesota he was a state senator and a member of the state judiciary commission.

The steamer Indianapolis, owned by the Alaska Steamship company, has arrived at San Francisco from Chicago. It left that city on Oct. 25 and came through the great lakes and the Strait of Magellan.

New Jersey has turned on the Standard Oil company. A resolution has been introduced in the state legislature directing the attorney general to begin legal action against the Standard Oil company to annul its charter.

A condition of mutiny existed among the sailors of the cruiser Marblehead while on her recent trip in Southern waters, according to members of her crew. Capt. Mulligan denied that there had been any trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Fite of Nashville, Tenn., have announced the approaching marriage of their daughter, Eunice Josephine, and Fielding Harris Yost, Michigan football coach. Her younger sister, Virginia, married another celebrated football coach Daniel McGuigan.

By practically a unanimous vote of the mine workers of the Pittsburg district the resolution demanding the resignations of President Patrick Dolan and Vice President Uriah Bellingham for violating their instructions in voting to accept the old wage scale at Indianapolis, and of Secretary-Treasurer Doss by reason of his election to the office of clerk of courts of Allegheny county, was passed. President Dolan said he would not resign, and that the miners would have to replace him by a referendum vote.

The supreme court of Illinois denied a motion for leave to file a petition for writ to compel Mayor Dunne of Chicago to enforce the Sunday closing law as applied to saloons. The court held that it had no jurisdiction in the matter.

The Maryland state senate passed a bill imposing a penalty of $25 for the first offense and $100 for the second upon any person who sells, barters, gives away, or in any manner disposes of any cigarettes in the state of Maryland. The house of delegates has not passed upon the bill.

FACTIONS IN PISTOL FIGHT

ONE MAN IS KILLED AND SEVERAL ARE SERIOUSLY INJURED.

Savannah, Ga., Feb. 11. — Political partisans of two rival local factions had a pistol fight yesterday afternoon in front of the City Exchange. Babe Dyer was killed; Frank Nagle, a bystander, was shot through the eye and is in a critical condition; Pat Kearney, a policeman off duty at the time, was shot through the neck, and C. H. Dyer was shot twice through the legs.

"Snatcher" Dyer and Thomas Hewitt, a detective, are under arrest. Besides those under arrest, or wounded, those who are alleged to have participated in the row were James McBride, his son, Alac McBride, who is a clerk in his father's establishment; Plumbing Inspector Richard McKenna and James Lane, keeper of the police stables.

It is not known definitely who fired the shots by which the killed and wounded were struck. The shooting was general and about forty shots were fired.

The battle started when the three Dyers became involved in a row with McKenna, one felling him with a billy. The others came to the assistance of McKenna.

There had been a fight earlier in the day in the court house when McKenna beat Babe Dyer with a billy.

DAVID B. HILL SERIOUSLY ILL.

Sage of Woolfert's Roost Is Stricken With Malady That Alarms Friends.

New York, Feb. 11.—David B. Hill, ex-governor of New York and former United States senator, is reported to be seriously ill at the Kirkwood hotel at Camden, S. C., where his physician has suggested that he should remain for at least ninety days. Mr. Hill's friends in New York and Albany are worried over his condition. He was taken with a severe cold Oct. 21, while superintending outdoor work on his farm, Woolfert's Roost, and later his kidneys and eyes became affected.

FOURTEEN STILL IN MINE.

Victims of Mine Accident Number Twenty.

Hinton, W. Va., Feb. 11.—It is now practically settled that there were thirty-one men in the Parall mine near Oak Hill, Fayette county, when the explosion occurred there Thursday afternoon. Eleven were rescued alive, six bodies have been recovered, leaving fourteen in the mine. Some of those rescued alive are badly injured and two will likely die.

CUDAHY TO BE A WITNESS.

Packers' Trial Is Adjourned Until Next Tuesday.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—The reading of the report of Commissioner Garfield was finished in the packers' case just before adjournment yesterday. A recess was taken until Tuesday, when the first witness to be placed upon the stand will probably be Edward Cudahy of Omaha.

Miss Roosevelt's Young Man Takes to His Bed.

Washington, Feb. 11. — Representative Nicholas Longworth of Ohio, whose marriage to Miss Alice Roosevelt it to take place one week from to-day, is ill at the home of his mother in this city. Mrs. Longworth stated last night, however, that the illness is not serious, that there is no reason for concern and that she expected her son would be well enough to come down stairs by Sunday.

RUSSIAN REDS THROW BOMBS

WAR BETWEEN REBELS AND BLACK HUNDRED ASSUMES NEW PHASE.

MANY KILLED AND WOUNDED

VICE ADMIRAL ATTACKED BY A WOMAN WHO IS KILLED BY A SENTRY.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 11.—The war between the "fighting organizations of the revolutionists" and the so-called Black Hundred assumed a new phase last night when a band of reds surrounded the cabaret Schlusselburg-Chausee on the bank of the Newski river, above the city, and threw a bomb among an assemblage of workmen. The reds then opened fire on the panic-stricken inmates of the cabaret, killing two and seriously wounding eighteen, of which latter one died while being taken to the hospital.

Military detachments, which are constantly patrolling the disturbed industrial sections, hurried to the scene, reinforced by the police and Cossacks, and threw a cordon around the whole district.

Wholesale Arrests Made.

Most of the revolutionists made off at the approach of the troops, but a few bolder spirits remained and offered a desultory resistance to the encircling soldiers.

Wholesale arrests were made, which were still continuing up to a late hour last night.

The bomb, which was hurled through a window into the main room of the restaurant, exploded with a terrible noise and demolished almost the entire building. A wooden partition was blown out and much furniture, glassware and crockery was shattered. The ruins were and pieces of flesh, the whole presenting a sickening sight.

The resturant had been for some time known as a resort of the lower order of workmen and rough classes who were believed to be in the pay of the police and were accused not only of furnishing information about revolutionists, but also of sallying out at night and conducting affairs on their own account and beating students who were members of the opposite faction.

The killing of three workmen at the Putiloff factory Thursday and last night's episode are believed to be but a prelude to other acts of retaliation and revenge between the two factions.

Throws Bomb at Admiral.

Sebastopol, Feb. 11.—Vice Admiral Chouknin, commander of the Black sea fleet, was wounded yesterday by a woman who threw a bomb at him in his office. A sentry who rushed to the admiral's assistance, shot the woman dead. No statemen has been issued relative to the extent of the admiral's injury.

LAND FRAUDS ARE CHARGED.

Soldiers and Soldiers' Widows Are Involved in Alleged Deals.

Woodbine, Iowa, Feb. 11. — Deputy United States Marshal Sides of Nebraska has arrested Irving D. Hull of this place on a charge of fraudulent filings on government lands. Hull is out on $3,000 bail. It is charged that Hull induced old soldiers and soldiers' widows to go to Nebraska and take government land, it being alleged that Hull paid their railroad fare and promised them $100 each when the patent was granted. As the time for making final proofs has not arrived, none of them has received the $100. It is claimed that the land was to have been turned over to the large cattle companies when finally proved up on.

Suicide Has Big Funeral.

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 11.—The remains of the late Dr. Simmons were laid to rest in Springdale cemetery at noon yesterday after one of the largest public funerals ever held in this city. The sentiment expressed in the funeral sermon preached by the Rev. John Whiting of Kewanee, was of genuine sorrow at the ruin and the death or a powerful and otherwise noble man.

Foul Play Feared.

Norfolk, Neb., Feb. 11.—Efforts are being made to locate James A. Woodring, who was last seen on the streets of Bonesteel, S. D., and who, it is feared, may have met foul play. Letters have been received from his mother in Tennessee, asking for information concerning him. He carried life insurance.

Negro Poet Is Dead.

Dayton, Ohio, Feb. 11.—Paul Laurence Dunbar, the poet of the negro race, died at his home here yesterday afternoon of consumption. He has been ill for three years, but kept at his work intermittently.

Illinois Academy Burns.

Dixon, Ill., Feb. 11. — The Frances Shimer academy at Mount Carroll, affiliated with the University of Chicago, burned yesterday. The loss is $50,000; insurance half. The academy will be rebuilt at once.

NATIVES ARE IN UGLY MOOD

BLACKS RISE UP IN ARMS TO RESIST COLLECTION OF BRITISH TAX.

Pietermaritzburg, Natal, Feb. 11.—The collection of the poll tax from natives has led to trouble which, it is feared, will spread and possibly develop into an ugly native rising. Armed natives have resisted the collection of the tax, and have wounded with spears an inspector of police and a trooper. Fourteen mounted police, who were proceeding to the scene, have been attacked and six were killed.

Cavalry and artillery and outlying detachments of police have been called in and are being concentrated to deal with the recalcitrant natives. Martial law has been declared.

It is reported that the natives are determined to resist the collection of the poll tax.

The police reinforcements have found the bodies of the six soldiers who were killed. The men had been stabbed to death. Fighting has not been renewed, but serious trouble is feared.

Want Race Equality.

Cape Town, Feb. 11.—The demands of the colored inhabitants of the Transvaal and the Orange River Colony for full political rights are becoming more insistant. The African Colored Political association, representing all South Africa, is preparing a monster petition to King Edward, asking for all the political rights enjoyed by the whites, which will be presented in London by a deputation of colored men from South Africa.

CONGRESS.

Senate Passes Urgent Deficiency Bill —House Grinds Out Pensions.

Washington, Feb. 10.—Almost the entire session of the senate yesterday was devoted to the consideration of the urgent deficiency appropriation bill which was passed practically as it was reported from the committee on appropriations. The only discussion was over an amendment suggested by Mr. Patterson to strike out the provision relieving alien workmen on the canal from the operations of the eight-hour law. The amendment was voted down without resorting to a roll call.

The house yesterday ground out its usual semi-monthly grist of private pensions, passing in seventy-two minutes 429 bills for the benefit of veterans who are barred for one reason or another from coming in under the general statute.

CANDLES ENDANGER MINE.

Shaft at Eveleth in Danger of Serious Blaze.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 11.—A fire was started in Adams No. 6 mine shaft yesterday from candles. It was characterized by Supt. J. H. Hearding as just a smudge. He said, however, that had it not been discovered till fifteen minutes later it would have been very dangerous, as the shaft timbering would have been in a blaze.

COURT APPOINTEE DIES.

Administrator, Last of Family, Leaves Estate on Court's Hands.

Appleton, Wis., Feb. 11. — Twenty-four hours after he had been appointed administrator of his mother's estate Perry Seymour of Winters, died, leaving no known heirs and no will. County Judge Kreiss will be called upon to determine the disposition of the estate left, which amounts to about $5,000.

DOOMED MAN LACKS FUNDS.

Henry Prolow's Motion for New Trial on Murder Charge Is Denied.

Red Wing, Minn., Feb. 11. — Judge Williston yesterday filed an order denying the motion for a new trial in the case of Henry Prolow, sentenced to hang for the murder of Charles Zemke. The case may be carried to the supreme court, but this depends on whether enough money can be secured.

LOG KILLS CONDUCTOR.

Railroad Man Meets Instant Death Near Two Harbors.

Two Harbors, Minn., Feb. 11—Grant J. Miller of this village, a conductor on the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, was killed while at work on a log spur at Mile 48. He was crushed to death by four heavy logs falling on him from a slowly moving train.

Farmer Killed in Runaway.

White Rock, S. D., Feb. 11. — Last night while driving from this city, Henry Haman, a farmer, lost control of his team and being partially thrown out of his buggy was dragged over the frozen ground for a mile. He sustained a fracture of the skull and died at his home twenty-four hours later from concussion of the brain.

THE VALUE OF GOOD COWS

Few Farmers Realize the Income Which May Be Realized from Them.

Prof. Eckels, in charge of the department of dairy husbandry at the University of Missouri, says of the value of good cows:

"Very few farmers realize the income that can be had from a good cow. The farmer who keeps a cow a year to raise a $15 or $20 calf, usually thinks he has done well, but his profits do not compare with those of the dairyman. Except with the high-priced registered cattle, the milk, not the calf, is the most valuable product of the cow.

"The milk produced by the average Missouri cow in a year will sell for about $50 at the creamery or when made into first-class butter. A good cow of the dairy breed will make at least $50 cash income every year. I have a list of about 50 Missouri farmers who report a cash income of $50 to $100 a cow every year, and these figures do not include the income from the sale of calves, and pigs fed on the skim milk. 'But,' says one, 'milking is a tremendous task.' As a matter of fact, it takes only 60 hours, worth 15 cents an hour, to milk a cow twice a day for ten months.

"Last year the cash income from the herd of cattle on the college farm was $82.50 a cow for butter sold and $12.50 a cow for milk, skimmed milk and calves, making a total income from each cow of $95. This year the average income per cow from the same source will be over $100 for the entire herd of 28. These results do not come from expensive or excessive treatment of any kind. But they are the result of doing the right things at the right time in the proper way."

A DAIRY CATECHISM.

Some Questions and Answers for the Education of the Keeper of Cows.

Q. How many kinds of cows are there?

A. Three.

Q. What are they?

A. Dairy cows, beef cows and combination cows.

Q. What is a dairy cow?

A. One that has the ability to turn all the may eat and digest, over and above that required for maintenance, toward the udder, there to be transformed into milk.

Q. What is the beef cow?

A. One that turns her surplus food into fat.

Q. What is the combination cow?

A. One that tries to take both turns of the road and never gets anywhere.

Q. What causes this difference in cows?

A. Heredity.

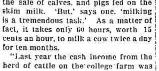
Q. What is heredity?

A. The biological law by which living beings, whether animal or plants, tend to reproduce themselves in their descendants.—Blooded Stock.

FEEDING RACK FOR CATTLE

Cattle Shed with Convenient Feeding Boxes for the Dairy Farm.

The cut shows interior of cattle shed arranged with rack and boxes for feeding, says Farm and Home. The rack, a, may be built of two by fours placed horizontally above and below, with slats one by two or two by two vertically for holding the hay. The boxes, b, may be made of any suitable size. They are placed in position loose and have a large hole bored in one end to make them easily removed for cleaning, which we do after each feed.



FEED RACK AND BOXES.

HINTS FOR THE DAIRY.

Wasteful feeding may mean too much or too little.

Always skim sweet milk; never let cream thicken.

Cows should be milked with dry hands and the udders should be washed clean.

Provide a milking stool with a bottom to set the pail on for the boy. Don't expect him to hold the pail between his legs.

Improved machinery improves every industry. The dairy cow is the most important of the machinery connected with the dairy.

Cream is a very perishable article and must be kept under the most favorable conditions if good butter is to be made out of it.

A Missouri writer says: "Missouri has 800,000 dairy cows, and has sunshine, water, grass and feed enough to support 10,000,000 cows."

Any farmer that has ten or more cows should have a silo unless he is selling his milk to some company that refuses to take milk made out of silage.

Stable ventilation is best secured by some well-constructed and easily operated device, rather than by loose boards or accidental holes in the windows.

Borers.

Borers burrow in the base of the trunks of trees. The only way to fight them at this time of year is to inspect the trees and dig out the borers with a stiff wire. It is well to scrape all the loose bark off the trunks of the trees and whitewash them. This will at least make it easy to find the borers and the whitewash will perhaps prevent to some extent the entrance of borers.—Farmer's Review.

DYNAMITE MAKES CHANNEL

Ice in Long Island Sound Was Blown Up to Permit of Navigation.

The severity of last winter in the neighborhood of New York is emphasized by an occurrence at Port Chester, N. Y., on Long Island Sound, says the New York Tribune. Usually the harbor of that place is not closed in the winter by the ice. The steamers from New York are able to make their way up the Byram river, the mouth of which forms the harbor of Port Chester, to the wharves. In the winter just ended it has been impossible for them to do this, for ice more than a foot in thickness formed and effectually blocked navigation in the channel.

The manufacturers became tired of waiting for nature in the form of gentle spring to release them from their icy bonds. When March came roaring in, and the ice was found still to be from a foot to 18 inches in thickness, they decided to treat the ice themselves. Procuring 450 pounds of dynamite, they set to work. Beginning at the open end of the ice field the ice was divided into huge blocks with plows. Then sticks of dynamite were inserted in holes made for the purpose. The dynamite was exploded by an electric current, and three or four miniature geysers of mixed ice and water would shoot up into the air.

Foot by foot the ice was broken away. Finally after five days of ice breaking of this sort the channel was opened sufficiently to permit a steamer to reach a wharf.

Dietrich Inquiry Begins.

Washington, March 12.—The senatorial inquiry into the charges against Senator Dietrich, of Nebraska, began Friday before the special committee in Senator Hoar's committee room. The inquiry, which was instituted upon the demand of Senator Dietrich, is for the purpose of probing the charges on which the senator was indicted last fall in Nebraska, and which were dismussed on demurrer.

AN APPEAL FROM AFRICA.

What the People of the Dark Continent Ask of Those of Other Nations.

It is but very little that we ask—the right to work on our own soil, among our own people, ruled by some, at any rate, of our rulers, and to be permitted to eat and drink what we think good for us, instead of having deadly poison poured down our throats, says an extract from "Africa's Appeal to Christendom," in Century. Even if foreign powers should for a time be financial losers, they cannot eventually be anything but gainers—aided by a country almost unlimited in its capabilities, and the willing, grateful service of 20,000,000 of people rescued from the moral as well as physical death now staring them in the face. They will not have the obstacles presented to them in their own country; all will be with them in this crusade; leaders and people alike are stretching out their hands for aid. We appeal, not to England, not to France, not to Germany, not to other empires and states, but to the consciences of the individual men forming such nations. We appeal, not for a gift or favor, but for our right. Even as the Americans appealed for their rights, and obtained them by heroic measures, so do we claim the right for "freedom to worship God," and to worship Him by sobriety, industry, good will and all the Christian graces.

FOUND IN "LEMON" PIES.

Analysis of Restaurant Pastry Fails to Bring to Light Any Lemon.

Three lemon pies brought from the shelves of downtown restaurants were analyzed in the office of the state food inspector, and this is the composition of the filling of one of them, as announced by the chemist, reports the Chicago Record-Herald.

"Starch, in thick, firm paste, flavored slightly and very little acid; 21 per cent. sugar. Aniline coloring (methyl-orange group). The color is made synthetically from aniline, and aniline from coal. Method—di-methyl-aniline on diazo-benzine sulphonic acid. Methyl orange is poisonous in large doses. Found to contain very little flavoring and acid from lemon. Filling of starch paste, sugar and colored deep yellow.

In plain English, it was explained by the chemist that aniline is used instead of eggs. The butter was neglected altogether and the lemon juice was slighted.

Another lemon pie was beginning to decompose when it was delivered to the laboratory. There was dough at the bottom. The third lemon pie examined was said to be tolerably good. The much-abused mince pie escaped with good reputation, but one of the two pumpkin pies examined was said to be old.

Largest Known Sun Spot.

The Abbe Moreux has published a chart of the great sun spot made at the Observatory of Bourges, when on February 2 it attained its greatest extension of about 175,000 kilometers long and 102,000 kilometers wide—that is to say, about one-twenty-ninth part of the solar disk. It is the largest yet known. Lengths of 200,000 kilometers have been noted, but they represented a group of spots. One in 1858 was 250,000 kilometers long, but owing to its narrowness only measured one-thirtieth of the solar surface. The spot passed the central meridian of the sun on the night of February 3. It lay in the southern hemisphere, and varied notably in its aspect.—London Globe.

Real Strenuous.

He—I understand Softleigh has been assigned a very difficult role in your amateur theatricals.

She—Yes, poor fellow! They gave him a thinking part.—Chicago Sun.

Supplement to Red Lake Courier, Thursday, Feb. 15, 1906

Delinquent Tax List for Red Lake County, Minn.

STATE OF MINNESOTA } ss
County of Red Lake }
District Court
Fourteenth Judicial District

The State of Minnesota, to all persons, companies or corporations who have or claim any estate, right, title or interest in, claim to, or lien upon, any of the several pieces or parcels of land in the list hereto attached described:

The list of taxes and penalties on real property for the county of Red Lake remaining delinquent on the 1st Monday in Jan., 1906, has been filed in the office of the clerk of the Dist. court of the county of Red Lake, of which that hereto attached is a copy. Therefore you, and each of you, are hereby required to file in the office of said clerk, on or before the twentieth day after publication of this notice and list, your answer in writing setting forth any objection or defense you may have to the taxes, or any part thereof, upon any piece or parcel of land described in said list, in to, or on which you have or claim any estate, right, title, interest, claim or lien, and in default thereof judgment will be entered against such piece or parcel of land for the taxes on said list appearing against it, and for all penalties, interest and costs.

(Seal)

JOSEPH PERRAULT,
Clerk of the District
Court of the County of Red Lake.

In Minnesota

State News of the Week Briefly Told

The Congregational church of Fergus Falls has tendered a call to Rev. Edward L. Brooks of Hutchinson, Minn., to succeed Rev. J. W. Todd, who resigned a short time ago.

: : : :

Some interesting statistics were compiled in the county auditor's office at Anoka. The trial of Orin Kalderwit, John Kolb and Charles Hammon, who are now in the penitentiary at Stillwater, cost Anoka county $3,860. The trio came from Minneapolis. The trial lasted twenty-one days and all three were convicted. There were 90 witnesses ,and the number of jurors sworn was 127.

The first instance of a woman to be transferred from the reformatory at St. Cloud to the state prison for incorrigibility is that of Grace Anderson, who was received at Stillwater recently. She was committed to the reformatory from Minneapolis last November for grand larceny in the second degree, and lately made an attempt to escape from the reformatory.

The old landmark on the Minneopa dairy farm at Mankato, owned by Mrs. Defransa A. Swann of the state normal school, which burned, was valued at $2,500. The loss is partly covered by insurance. The other buildings were saved with great difficulty by a railroad grading force. The residence that burned was erected by the late Miner Porter in the early days as a hotel.

Officials of the Cannon Valley Telephone company are planning extensive improvements to be made on their system the coming summer. They have placed an order for $4,000 worth of material to be used in building extensions, and will expend large sums in remodeling several of their exchanges. At various points applications have been received for the construction of rural lines and the improvements now under contemplation will greatly increase the quality of the service.

The city council and commercial club of Brainerd are considering a proposition made by Ambrose Tighe, owner o fthe Brainerd water works, for the development of a water power in the Crow Wing river, by which electricity may be generated and supplied to Brainerd industries. The proposed site for the dam is just below the entrance to Gull river and six miles from Brainerd. Mr. Tighe's water works franchise is about to expire and the city would like to own its own plant. Mr. Tighe has submitted his proposal conditionally upon the extension of his franchise.

The general land office has made a new ruling in rejecting the proof filed at Crookston by Ole O. Brekke. Rejection was not on the grounds that he had not complied strictly with the letter of the law, but that he had failed to comply with the spirit of the law. Brekke has lived on the land twenty-three months and fifteen days, but the fact that this period extended over a total of seven years led the department at Washington to the belief that he did not regard the homestead as his real home, and that his residence there was only periodical. On these grounds the proof was rejected.

Word has been received at Detroit of the death by poison of three former citizens of Lake Park. John Jenson and his sons, John and Harold, removed last fall with several other Lake Park farmers to Northwestern Canada, where they took up claims. According to the information received here a friend called at the Jenson homestead one evening and during his visit invited the father and two sons to drink with him, producing for the purpose a bottle of alcohol. Through mistake the bottle contained wood alcohol, and all those who partook of it soon became deathly sick. Jenson and his two sons died and the visitor had a narrow escape from death.

John Schlessinger, aged sixteen years, owes his life to his own remarkable pluck and presence of mind. He started across the river near the town of Red Lake Falls, to cut brushwood. When about fifty feet from the shore a large cake of ice broke away and started whirling and eddying toward the north side dam. The lad clung tenaciously to his frail craft, which was carried swiftly down stream, and at last over the apron of the dam. The boy made the descent safely, and just as the cake of ice on which he was riding reached open water and swung under a projecting ice ledge, young Schlessinger threw himself into the icy torrent and after a desperate struggle swam to the shore. Aside from a bad cold, the boy is none the worse for his thrilling adventure.

Osakis is a victim of recent burglaries. Two saloons were successively broken into and robbed of money and goods, and lastly a leading store remunerated the burglars in the sum of about $30 in cash.

Farmers in the vicinity, of North Branch have organized the North Branch Produce company ,with a capitalization of $15,000, and will build a large potato warehouse for the storage of potatoes, about on the same plan as the co-operative grain elevators are run.

SET PRICE ON CODE.

Printing Commission Decides to Sell Copies of Revised Code at $3.50 Each.

The revised code, when printed, will cost each individual purchaser in the state $3.50 a volume. This price was fixed at a special meeting of the code printing commission held in the offices of Attorney General Young.

The original price set by the commission for the code was $2.50 a volume. The printing troubles which have been encountered, however, have increased the cost of the work to the state, and it has been found necessary to raise the price of the books for public sale. The price fixed will just about cover the cost of printing.

Work on the code is progressing rapidly and the 3,000 volumes, when completed, will be turned over to the secretary of state and sold by him. Applications for copies are already being received and are being placed on file by Secretary of State Hanson. They will be filled in order as they are received.

The code printing commission decided on the following distribution of the free copies of the code:

One copy to each county auditor, clerk of court, judge of probate and county attorney in the state.

One copy to each district judge.

One copy to each municipal court judge.

One copy to each head of each state department.

Two copies to each of the supreme court justices.

Ten copies to the university law library.

One hundred copies to the state law library.

This will dispose of about 650 copies and the balance will be offered to attorneys and private citizens of the state at the price mentioned. It is expected to have the code ready for distribution about Feb. 26.

TEST CASE ON CONDENSED MILK

Illinois Interests Fight Commissioner Slater's Ruling.

Dairy Commissioner Slater's ruling against the Illinois "evaporated cream" product will be tested in court, and attorneys for the manufacturers will carry the case up to the supreme court if they lose. The case opened in St. Paul. A grocer named Tetu was arraigned in municipal court for selling the article labeled "evaporated cream." He is backed by the manufacturers in his defense.

The defense does not claim that their product is evaporated cream. They contend that it is a trade term for condensed milk, and their cans bear an inscription, saying that the product is rich milk evaporated to the consistency of rich cream. The state authorities declare it illegal under the law prohibiting misbranding which prohibits the sale of food articles under statements false in any particular. They insist that since the article is only evaporated milk it should be so labeled.

The minnesota department is not alone in this position. Dr. H. W. Wiley, chemist of the department of agriculture, has made standards for condensed milk and cream. He defines evaporated cream as cream from which a considerable quantity of water has been evaporated. The national standard for cream requires 18 per cent of butter fat, and Minnesota's standard is 20 per cent. The sample of the Illinois product contains only 8.4 per cent. The national standard for condensed milk calls for 28 per cent solids, of which one-fourth, or 7 per cent must be butter fat. Under this standard the Illinois article just comes well within the requirement for evaporated milk.

This is the same product in which Commissioner Jones of Illinois is interested. He came to St. Paul last year and tried to get Mr. Slater to change his ruling and admit the product, and declared it was "good enough for Illinois."

IS STATE'S BIGGEST DITCH.

Proposed Work in Stearns County to Cost $50,000.

Petitions are being circulated for what will be when constructed, the largest drainage ditch in the state. It will canal the Crow Wing river for a distance of fifty miles, beginning in Meeker county, bassing through Stearns and into Pope county. The proposed ditch would reclaim 100,000 acres of land that is now valueless for tillage purposes, but which if drained would be excellant land for farming. Engineers estimate the cost of the proposed drain at $1,000 a mile, or $50,000 for the total length. The petition will be filed at three separate county seats, St. Cloud, Litchfield and Gleenwood, but it is understood that all proceedings under it will be conducted in Stearns county.

Fire at Graceville.

Graceville, Minn., Feb. — F. M. Bergen's general store was completely destroyed by fire. Loss, $20,000; insurance, $11,000. The building was owned by the Bigstone County bank and was insured.

Middie Is Pardoned.

Washington, Feb. —The president has pardoned Midshipman John Paul Miller of Kentucky, recently convicted of hazing at Annapolis naval academy.

Knitting Mill Destroyed.

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. —The knitting mill of N. J. Rich & Co. was entirely destroyed by fire last evening. One hundred and fifty girls were in the building when the fire broke out, but it is believed all got out safely.

SPECiAL NOTICE.

POPULAR SEASON TICKET SALE FOR GRAND OPERA.

A popular feature connected with the coming visit to Fargo by the Savage English Grand Opera Company and orchestra, will be the season ticket sale announced by Manager Brubaker of the Fargo opera house. This will consist of a subscription mail order sale, permitting opera patrons who desire to attend both performances to secure their seats on and after Monday, Feb. 19, in advance of the regular sale which will not open until Wednesday, Feb. 28, three days before the engagement. Mail orders accompanied by remittance made payable to Alson Brubaker, P. O. Box 246, will be filed and filled in order of receipt, and if accompanied by self addressed and stamped envelope Manager Brubaker will return the tickets by the next mail.

This subscription sale is introduced solely for the purpose of accommodating opera patrons not only in Fargo but in all surrounding points from where inquiries have already been received. Season tickets will take precedence of the sale for individual performances, but there will be no reduction in price. Box seats and the lower floor will be sold at $3, the balcony at $2. Opera lovers in outside towns as far distant as Mandan and Bismarck have already written for information regarding prices and the operas to be sung in Fargo and the management anticipates a heavy demand from all near by points.

Excursion rates will be announced on the Northern Pacific and Great Northern Railroads within a radius of at least 125 miles, permitting visitors to arrive in time to hear the two performances and return the same night.

Wagner's "Lohengrin" will be given in its entirety in the afternoon of Saturday, March 3, the big overture beginning at 2 P. M. promptly with the orchestra under Wagnerian conductor Elliott Schenck. The management urges patrons to arrive in time to enjoy the overture, as it is the invariable custom of Mr. Savage's manager not to permit late comers to interrupt the performance by taking their seats after the curtain rises.

Each opera will have a separate cast of singers as well as a complete costume and scenic production.

In the evening Mr. Savage's elaborate revival of "Faust" will be the bill, the overture beginning at 8:15 with the orchestra under the authoritative direction of the Chevalier Emanuel.

COSTUME THAT CAUSED STIR.

Carelessness and Color-Blindness Equally to Blame.

There are still many who will remember the late Theodore D. Weld as one of the old-time, active abolitionists. He was afflicted with color-blindness, and often related the following incident as one of the unpleasant happenings connected therewith.

Among other preparations for an extended lecture tour he had ordered two pairs of trousers of his tailor, one pair blue and the other green. It was a rush order, and the garments were finished off after dark and sent to his residence the same night.

His first lecture was delivered at an afternoon meeting, for which he donned a pair of the new trousers. When he made his appearance on the platform an amused smile appeared on nearly every face in the audience, and a murmur of suppressed laughter was plainly audible.

He looked, so far as he could, to see if there was anything wrong with his personal appearance, and, being satisfied that all was well, proceeded calmly with his address. But he was enlightened before the evening meeting, his hostess kindly telling him that one leg of his trousers was blue and the other green.

He immediately brought the other pair for her inspection, and they were found to be the same. In rushing the garments together by lamplight the parts had got mixed.—Boston Herald.

Evidence of Another Sense Wanted.

"I think the trouble with me, doctor," said Mrs. Spipkins, "is a generally torpid condition of the system. There doesn't seem to be any organic disturbance, if that is what you call it, but I feel all run down. Few of the things I eat agree with me, and sometimes I have no appetite at all. I have an aunt on my mother's side that was affected exactly the same way, and she never got any permanent relief until she moved to another climate. Frequently I am disturbed in my sleep. Any little noise wakes me up, and I don't get any sleep again for hours. My husband says it's the malaria in my system, but I think——"

"Madam," interrupted Dr. Gagley, "please let me SEE your tongue."

IN FAR NORTHLAND

Tid-Bits of News for Scandinavians.

APPROVED KNUDSON'S ACT.

Church Minister's Forced Resignation Is Requested.

It is to be regretted that the controversy over the selection of a professor of theology in the University of Christiania should compel such a sturdy patriot as Christopher Knudsen, the church minister, to resign his portfolio, and it may be feared that the matter will not quickly be forgotten, for it is understood that Mr. Knudsen's position is supported by a large number of laymen throughout the country, if not by a great majority.

Dr. Johannes Ording, who was finally chosen to the professorship, was recommended unanimously by a jury of Swedish, Norwegian and Danish theologians to whom the question was referred after the university and government authorities were unable to agree. He was also supported by the entire university board and by the theological faculty with the exception of Dr. Siguard Odland. The latter presented Chr. Ihlen and had the support of Councillor Knudsen and the lay folk. Their objection to Dr. Ording was that he was too modern and that his teachings with regard to the sacraments were not in accordance with the old Lutheran conceptions.

The government did not interfere until matters reached an acute stage. Premier Micheisen, as a compromise, suggested that Mr. Ihlen be named as professor in systematic theology and that an extraordinary professorship in religious history be created for Dr. Ording. The storthing was favorable to this plan, but Dr. Odling and his following refused to accept the compromise.

Councillor Knudsen personally was willing to accept, but as it was opposed by the laymen and would cause trouble for the future he could not consent. For the same reasons he tendered his resignation when his authority was overridden. Dr. Odland also resigned his position with the university.

Dr. Otto Jensen, the new church minister, is fifty years old. For a year past he has been in charge of the parish of Skjoberg, in Smaalene, but was for several years at St. Petri church, Stavanger.

GUARDIAN OF KHYBER PASS.

Major Roos-Keppel Is of Swedish Extraction.

Major Roos-Keppel, the commander of the Khyber pass district in India, who recently conducted the prince and princess of Wales through this famous pass, is a Swede by descent, being the son of Gustaf Roos, a native of Sweden, who settled in England many years ago. Khyber pass is a famous name in the annals of the British army. As the main connection between India and Afghanistan and occupied by the warlike Afridis, it has furnished many a bloody encounter and many a daring incident for story writers and story tellers in barrack and mess.

Maj. Roos-Keppel put down an Afridis uprising some years ago, and as a reward was made commander of the district and guardian of the pass. There has been no outbreak since, but the Afridis are a treacherous people, given to plunder and warfare, and the major undoubtedly felt greatly relieved when he was able to leave the royal party in a safer place than his district.

Electric Line in Numedal.

Numedal, Norway, is much interested in a plan to construct an electric railway line the entire length of the valley from Kongsberg to Nore. Laagen, the principal river, is full of falls from which sufficient power can be derived to operate an extensive line. Several of the districts have already elected delegates to a joint committee and it is believed that the plan will be adopted in a short time.

Valuable Ethnographic Relics.

Erland Nordenskjold's splendid ethnographic museum, collected by himself in Peru and Bolivia some years ago, has been presented to the national museum of Sweden by Dr. and Mrs. Albert Pauli. It includes several mummies, 200 human skulls, 200 articles of stone, some pottery and 70 bronge articles, all of great antiquity.

Ancient Painting Recovered.

The parish of Amesakra, Smalanc, Sweden, is delighted over the recovery of an old painting presented to the church in 1774, and which has been missing for many years. It depicts the crucifixion and bears the inscription, "Christo Crucificado." It is supposed to be by a Spanish master, but the artist's name is not revealed, but it may be when the old picture has been cleaned.

Queer Twist in Red Tape.

The bureaucratic adherence to formalism often displayed in Swedish government departments reached a limit when a stock company, Pitholm's Qvarn, sought incorporation through the patent and registry bureau. After waiting three months the incorporators were surprised to be informed that their application for registration had been denied because "kvarn" had been incorrectly spelled with a "q." The fact that the company preferred this spelling of its name did not appear to cut any figure in the matter.

TRADE AT HOME

Cheap Paints as Sold by Catalogue Houses; an Expose—A Few Pertinent Questions to Answer.

The manufacture of prepared house paints is the result of the demand on the part of the house-owning public for good, reliable and durable paints, put up in assorted size packages, ready for application. It is reasonable to believe that an honest manufacturer, using perfectly pure materials of the proper character—lead, zinc, linseed oil and turpentine, combined with the proper tinting colors, these ingredients mixed thoroughly and ground to a uniform fineness—can produce a better and more durable and satisfactory article of paint than can the average painter, who buys his materials in small quantities, has no facilities to know whether he is getting good, bad or indifferent stuff, and must rely upon the aid of elbow grease and a stick to secure the best mixture, or combination of ingredients, to be obtained under such conditions.

In the purchase of materials for paint, cheap as well as expensive ingredients, of course, are in the market. You can buy cheap clothes or you can buy good clothes. When you buy a cheap suit of clothes, costing from six to ten dollars, you naturally cannot and do not expect it to wear as long, retain its shape as well, or maintain a neat, natty appearance as you would in case you paid your tailor twenty-five or thirty dollars for making you a good suit of clothes. This rule necessarily holds good in the manufacture of paints. The honest manufacturer buys honest goods and pays for them, and it must be borne in mind that he must pay a good price for them. He buys these ingredients in proper proportions, employing for that purpose men of wide experience in the chemistry and manufacture of paints, men who have devoted their entire lives to the study of this science. In marketing a product of this character he charges a fair price, a price which brings him a living profit on his investment. He must do this or get out of business. It is a demonstrated fact that good, honest, durable, strictly pure lead, zinc, linseed oil paint cannot be made to-day as cheaply as it could one year ago. The consumer in order to get a paint of this kind will have to pay not less than $1.50 per gallon. As a matter of fact he should pay $1.75, but the matter of price in this respect is left to the judgment of the man who retails the paint.

This being an undisputed truth, how in the name of common sense any person possessing even a modicum of plain, every day horse sense can believe that the mail order houses of the country can, or will, furnish them with a pure paint, a paint that is durable, that will protect their homes from damage by storms, that will wear from three to five years, for the ridiculously low prices asked is a question that we do not believe can be answered.

In proof of this point-blank statement, let a can of any of their paint be analyzed, and you will find—what? Lead, zinc and pure linseed oil? No; but you will find a substance known to the trade as barytes. You will find a cheap substitute for carbonate of lead known as lead sulphate, a little zinc possibly, some turpentine, more gasoline or naphtha, and a cheap grade of what is known as rosin oil in place of pure linseed oil.

This is the character of the stuff the catalogue people have foisted upon the unsuspecting public, and even at the low prices charged it will actually cost them twice as much for a period of eight years to keep their houses painted and looking even half-way decent as it would in case they used an honest mixed paint, made by a reputable manufacturer of pure paint.—St. Paul Trade Journal.

When your catalogue comes from the mail order house, wait until you get home before removing the wrapper; then wait until after supper, when the chores are done, draw an easy chair to the table where the light will shine full on the pages, put on your glasses, that no bargain may escape your eye, and settle down for an hour of quiet enjoyment.

What a wonderful book it is, to be sure—wonderful for what it does not contain, as well as for what it does. We miss some things we would be glad to see. Where are their offers to pay cash or exchange goods for your wheat, oats, corn, sheep and hogs "free on board?" How much tax will they pay for improving roads and bridges, for the support of the poor, and the expenses of the town, county and state? On what page is their offer to contribute money or services in the establishment and maintenance of a church or Sunday school for the moral tone of your community? What line of credit will they extend to you when your credit is poor, your money gone, when through illness or misfortune you are not able to send "cash order" for your groceries, clothing, farm tools and crockery? Where's their offer to contribute to your entertainment next Fourth of July?

In what department do they explain to you the increasing value of your farm as the result of trading with them?

If you find the queries satisfactorily answered, bring the answers in and most merchants will go farming and let the town go to grass. Under such conditions no towns are needed further than to furnish a railroad station, an express office and a case for the rural mail carrier—all of which may be covered with one roof.—Ex.

NORTHWEST MERCHANTS MAKE PROTEST TO CONGRESS.

W. J. Rouleau, business manager of the St. Paul Trade Journal, filed with Congressman Stevens, for presentation to the postoffice and post roads committee of congress, a petition containing the names of a majority of the general merchants, wholesale merchants and manufacturers of the Northwest, protesting against the enactment by congress of any form of parcels post legislation.

The petition, as presented by Mr. Rouleau and filed with the committee, is as follows:

"Whereas, there has been recommended for consideration and action by your honorable body, legislation providing for the consolidation of the third and fourth classes of mail matter, and the transmission of the same at a less cost than now is provided for by law; and,

"Whereas, we are profoundly impressed by the knowledge that such legislation would prove inimical to the best interests of the people of the United States as a whole and to the retail merchants, wholesale merchants, manufacturers and others engaged in commercial traffic, particularly, and, in our opinion, based upon experience, would work great hardship upon and place the above mentioned interests at great disadvantage in the pursuit of their business calling by favoring centralized interests in the shipment of merchandise direct to consumers through the mails: now, therefore,

"We, the undersigned, general merchants, wholesale dealers and manufacturers of the United States, do hereby humbly petition your honorable body not to enact any law that will admit of the institution by the government of a parcels post, so called, or any law that will in any way tend to reduce the present cost of the transportation of merchandise through the mails."

The petition is the first to be filed from this section against the parcels post bill, known as the Henry measure, and is the largest ever filed by country merchants.

Speaking of the results of his trip to Washington, Mr. Rouleau said:

"While the petition that I filed is the only petition of its kind to be presented thus far, it is well known that others are being circulated in various parts of the United States and that several others will follow the one that the St. Paul Trade Journal has filed. In addition, there is not a member of congress who has not received personal letters from his constituents among the merchants, protesting forcibly against the proposed Henry bill, and in addition resolutions protesting against the measure have been filed by practically every retail merchants' association that has held a convention this year.

"The general merchants, wholesalers and manufacturers of the country fully realize, however, the great force that is back of the proposed parcels post legislation, and they are in readiness at any time to bring all the influence that they have to bear against such legislation. For there is no question but what if the government undertakes to transport merchandise through the mails at a low carrying cost, such action soon will cause the retirement from business of a majority of the retail merchants of the country, and with them the jobbing interests. The business of the country will be carried on by vast aggregations of wealth, centralized in one or more of the chief distributing centers of the United States, and, as their field is thus increased, they soon will be manufacturing their own goods, which will also centralize and monopolize great manufacturing interests of the country.

"This is not a pleasant picture to look upon, but it will be the inevitable outcome of the enactment in this country of a parcels post law, which will serve to do away entirely with the recognized method of doing business, i. e., from the manufacturer to the jobber, through the jobber to the retailer, and from the retailer to the consumer, it being proved that this is the most equitable and most satisfactory way of placing manufactured products in the hands of the people."—St. Paul Trade Journal.

PINE LUMBER IS PASSING.

"White pine lumber is to-day selling for five times more than it did in 1865, and unless the timber men plant trees, as the government advises, there will soon be no lumber of that kind at all," said David E. Wilcox, who came into the city from a tour of the South. Mr. Wilcox's headquarters are at Detroit. He continued: "In 1865 white pine lumber was sold at from $1.25 to $5 a thousand feet; in 1906 it is selling at from $15 to $25 a thousand feet, according to the grade. And at that price it is mighty hard to get.

"In regard to hemlock lumber, the situation is almost the same as regards the supply that can be had to-day. There is a good lot of this timber in the country, much of it in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and the South. But it is being bought up rapidly for speculation by men who can afford to have their money tied up for several years. They are simply waiting for their price, and they are going to come out handsomely on the deal, too."

If the United States senate were abolished there would be little inducement for ambitious men to become millionaires.

To indulge in the expecta n that tariff revision may follow football revision seems too much like a forlorn hope to get gay about.

Names do not cut much figure in national politics now-a-days, and no one disparages the independence of the voter except the professional politician.

While the Republicans have finally secured a candidate for mayor of St. Paul there seems to be no hope of defeating Bob Smith. The campaign against Smith is regarded as some what of a joke with everyone who keeps close tab on Saintly city politics.

Well, Alice is to be married Saturday, and the hearts of all of us go out to her in congratulations. The American people have never been devoid of sentiment and the love affairs of the first family of the land always have the right of way over more sordid interests.

The "old comrades" are looking forward to their annual encampment which will be held at Minneapolis this year on March 21st and 22nd with expectancy. This is their fortieth annual department encampment and as each year passes the ranks of the boys who fought to preserve the Union grows steadily but surely thinner. Hats off to the "boys."

And yet a great many of us seem to be skeptical with reference to Senator Clapp's position on railroad rate regulation. The people are from Missouri on this vital position and the senator must show them. The gener impression is that he is dominate by the railroads and other corporations and that in order to maintain his political prestige the senator will dodge the issue when it comes to a show down.

The re-election of Mayor Gullum at Duluth last week proves that the voters of Minnesota's cities are trying to get the best government available. Mayor Culfum has given an honest, efficient and business like administration, and notwithstanding the fact that the normal Republican majority of Duluth is nearly 2,000 the Democratic mayor had a majority of practically 1,000.

The Duluth News-Tribune supported the Democratic candidate for mayor in the recent election on the grounds that he was the best man for the place. And yet the News-Tribune occasionaly censures the Republican papers that supported Governor Johnson. If it is proper to ignore political lines in choosing a mayor, what's the matter with the same argument with respect to a governor?

The "harmony" banquet at Minneapolis Monday evening was pulled off according to schedule, but everybody dodged the effort to get together. The proposal to endorse the candidacy of United States Senator Nelson for re election set off the fireworks in good shape. While it was declared carried the chorus of "noes" was so loud that no one save the astute chairman arrived at that conclusion.

At a meeting of the state board of equalization held at the state capitol last week a committee on franchises was appointed. This committee is headed by Hon. Thomas J. Meighen, and they intend to find a great deal of this class of property which has heretofore escaped taxation. The tax laws of Minnesota are probably worse than those of any other state in the Union, but even so there is a prospect of taxing some of the intangible wealth if the taxation authorities perform their duties honestly and intelligently. The present board is composed of men who desire to secure an equitable division of the burdens of taxation.

POULTRY NEWS

The Northern Minnesota Poultry Association held an interesting meeting last Monday night, Feb. 12, at Germo & Farley's office. Many plans for future development were outlined; the general poultry "fever" running higher than at any previous meeting. For the benefit of the many interested townsmen and farmers in this section of the northwest the following lines appear: The object of the association is to encourage the united effort of raising, showing and selling of thoroughbred poultry and waterfowl.

In order that this section may achieve success it means that each or nearly every farmer, farmers' wife, country boy, country girl, villager and townsman be interested in pure bred poultry and connected with the association in some manner. In the towns and villages of this section there are many who are raising Mongrel or scrub chickens who would find that pure bred poultry would add to the profits as well as satisfaction and increase the pleasure that would be derived from their flock without materially increasing the expense. Besides it would bring northern Minnesota to the front by inviting confidence and by the advertising that would result there from. In nearly every part of the east and central portions of the United States this has proven correct.

Now, let us turn our attention to the farmer: Gustave Walters, superintendent of poultry of Crookston Exp. Farm, says: 'As compared with other agricultural pursuits the poultry industry in the northwest has been greatly neglected, although there is now a very encouraging increase in the interest of poultry culture." Farmer reader, are we keeping abreast with this movement or are we allowing every other part of the U. S. to leave us far in the rear?

The poultry products of the United States amount in value to more annually than any of the grain crops except corn, and they are certain to overtake corn before many years.

Say, don't you think, Mr. Farmer, that the Northern Minnesota Poultry Assosiation has struck up the tune just in time?

Come into their ranks and keep step with the music. Its easier to farm to such music as to keep in the old ruts of antequity and discontent.

The poultry product of the United States was, last year, $500,000,000 (five hundred million dollars.)

What part did you share in that? We hope you did your part but with pure bred poultry and a full membership in this association you can do much better and easier.

Doctors, lawyers, clergymen, bankers, business men, wage earners, and day laborers are so much interested in fancy bred fowls as to stop and devote a portion of their time to it. Why should not the farmer who has plenty room, time, range feed and energy, lead them all in producing fancy thoroughbred fowls. The farm is full of opportunities in poultry culture for both pleasure and profit. Poultry will in the future form an ever increasingly important feature of farming in the Northwest. Better get in line! A neatly built poultry house is a useful ornament on any farm or residence property, a flock of fine fowls add to its beauty exceedingly. Now is the time to prepare to raise them. When those fine balmy spring days arrive be sure that you are hatching and raising some good ones for the first poultry show to be held on Dec. 19-21 1906 at Red Lake Falls. The buyers almost refuse to buy much of this scrub poultry that is forced on the market here at present. This would all be different if good fowls were found on all our farms. If you have fancy birds you can easily despose of them by advertising and selling and shipping out to other breeders and fanciers.

The Northern Minnesota Poultry association is right here to help you in every way. The membership fee, is one dollar the usual fee charged by such organizations give the poultry industry as well as your own interests a boom by starting to raise fancy fowls and joining the association and sending the dollar to the corresponding secretary, Hon. L. C. Simons Red Lake Falls. And further poultry and show information will be cheerfully furnished by addressing the show secretary, Albert Nauman, Red Lake Falls. Write today to U. S. Department of Agriculture Washington D. C.. for Farmer's bulletin No 51. Standard varities of chickens. Buletin No. 141 Poultry raising on the farm they are free for the asking. Cut out and fill out this application for membership and send it to the secretary with $1.00 and then come in and attend the meetings.

MESSAGE OF HOPE

To Sick and Afflicted Comes from Minneapolis Woman Who Knows Whereof She Speaks

Who can better give advice than one who has profited thereby?

Mrs. M. A. Phelps, 2217 Elliott Ave., Minneapolis, speaks to the suffering and the afflicted through this medium hoping that what she has endured and the miracalous manner in which she was relieved may be the means of delivering others from the ravages of disease and affliction.

So unusual was her experience that her letter reproduced in part will not fail to interest those who are seeking health and happiness. She says: "After suffering for over a year from stomach trouble and billiousness it is indeed a relief to be free from the burden."

"My food would not digest and would ferment and sour on my stomach causing a bad taste in the mouth, severe headaches, dizziness and billious attacks. I would feel tired all over and seldom enjoyed a good meal."

"Hearing so much of the famous New Discovery medicine and the wonders it was working for the sick I tried it. I have taken one bottle and its effects has been marvelous. My digestion is good, as is also my appetite. I feel stronger and better in every way."

Stomach and Kidney trouble, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Deafness, Blood diseases and Paralysis all disappear and, as repeated tests have proved, never return.

Cooper's New Discovery costs one dollar per bottle. Cooper's Quick Relief, used in connection sells for fifty cents. Both can be obtained from W. A. Schreiter.

Royal Baking Powder Absolutely Pure

Made from Pure Grape Cream of Tartar

In baking powder Royal is the standard, the powder of highest reputation; found by the United States Government tests of greatest strength and purity.

It renders the food more healthful and palatable and is most economical in practical use.

Housekeepers are sometimes importuned to buy alum powders because they are "cheap." Yet some of the cheapest made powders are sold to consumers at the highest price.

Housekeepers should stop and think. Is it not better to buy the Royal and take no chances—the powder whose goodness and honesty are never questioned?

Is it economy to spoil your digestion by an alum-phosphate or other adultered powder to save a few pennies?

Last Saturday while a light engine was speeding its way from Winnipeg Junction to the relief of the stalled freight near this place, struck a farmer's sleigh on a crossing between Hitterdahl and Ulen and killed one of it's occupants, Barrington Carlson. The engine crew were unaware of the accident until they reached Ulen when a blanket was found hanging to the engine and blood discovered on the cow catcher. The crew went back, found the unfortunate man and took him to Ulen. Carlson was laying in the bottom of the sleigh when the engine hit it square in the center. Another man sitting further ahead in the rig driving escaped with a few scratches while the team was uninjured. A fierce blizzard was raging at the time, making it impossible for the driver to see or hear the approaching engine.

The Rochester Bulletin calls attention to a change in the township laws which it says will take effect the first of March. Heretofore one of the supervisors elected at the annual town meeting has been designated upon the ballot as chairman. Hereafter, the board of supervisors, each year, at their first meeting after the town meeting, must elect one of their number as chairman; with the exception that if last year a chairman was elected for three years he will continue to hold his office till the term for which he was elected expires. In other words, the law contemplates, when the present conditions fully expire, that each year one supervisor will be elected for three years and each year the board of supervisors including the new member, shall choose one of their number for chairman.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

WHAT DREAMS ARE MADE OF:

An Englishman Talks of Communion With the Spirit World.

A new and interesting point in the study of the occult is being discussed in London. It is the effect of diet on dreams and communication with the spirit world. It is suggested that to obtain clear dreams—dreams which are free from anything of a fantastic, horrible or distorted nature—it is not only necessary to retire to rest with the mind calm and contented, but the body must also have been nourished with light and easily digestible food. Most persons have experienced nightmare, due in the great majority of cases to a heavy meal before going to bed; but apart from this, no person, it seems, can attain the perfect dream without a special course of diet.

B. A. Cochrane, who is an authority on the subject of dreams, which he has studied for years, says:

"I have discovered that no clear dream is possible on the ordinary diet. No meat or similarly heavy food, nor anything containing alcohol, must be taken if the right kind of a dream is to come. I am a fruitatarian myself, and fruit is the best kind of food for the perfect dreamer, although anything very easily digestible will serve the purpose. Such a diet will enable persons to get into actual touch with the spirit world, and they will be able to recall their dreams on the awakening."

A BOY'S BREAKFAST.

There's a Natural Food That Makes Its Own Way.

There's a boy up in Hoosick Falls, N. Y., who is growing into sturdy manhood on Grape-Nuts breakfasts. It might have been different with him, as his mother explains:

"My 11-year-old boy is large, well developed and active, and has been made so by his fondness for Grape-Nuts food. At five years he was a very nervous child and was subject to frequent attacks of indigestion which used to rob him of his strength and were very troublesome to deal with. He never seemed to care for anything for his breakfast until I tried Grape-Nuts, and I have never had to change from that. He makes his entire breakfast of Grape-Nuts food. It is always relished by him and he says that it satisfies him better than the ordinary kind of a meal.

"Better than all he is no longer troubled with indigestion or nervousness, and has got to be a splendidly developed fellow since he began to use Grape-Nuts food." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

CHAPTER XXII.

The Executioners.

At an early hour the following morning he sent for Omar, who soon answered the call.

"I have one word to say—one request to make," said Horam, after the morning's greetings had passed. "I wish you once more to tell me the story of Helena's innocence, and thenceforth to remain silent upon the subject. I may have dreamed some of the things that now startle my thoughts: for I am not clear at what point you left me last night."

Thus called upon, the king of Aleppo related all that he had told on the previous evening, and then made some further explanation of incidents which he had not before revealed. It was a plain, simple statement, bearing the stamp of truth upon every word.

"O!" groaned Horam, clasping his thin hands together, "what would I give to call Helena back to life! But it cannot be. She is gone—and she was innocent!"

He started up from his seat, and walked several times across the floor; and when he next approached his royal guest, he had grown calmer, and his lip had ceased its quivering.

"Omar, I have no blame for you. Henceforth let the book be sealed."

He had taken one or two more turns up and down the apartment, when a messenger entered with intelligence that Benoni had arrived, and desired audience.

"Send him in at once. Good brother, you will remain with me." This last was spoken to Omar, who had turned to leave.

In a little while Benoni made his appearance, and Horam was sure he could see the flush of victory upon his brow.

"Now, my captain, what word do you bring?"

"Good word, sire. We have captured those whom you desired to see, and have also brought an old man and old woman who resided in the cave."

"Have you brought the Lady Ulin—and the robber chieftain—and Osmir and Selim?"

"Yes, sire."

"And these others are the old hermit, Ben Hadad, and the woman who lives with him?"

"Yes, sire."

"By the crown I wear!" cried the monarch, leaping up and clapping his hands, "this is enough to make me forget the wrongs I have suffered. Let the robber chieftain and the two treacherous guards be brought before me. But—hold! There was one other spoken of by the Arab—the lieutenant—Hobaddan his name was."

"He was not in the cave, sire; nor was he about the place."

"Very well. Let the chieftain be brought in."

The captain retired, and presently returned, followed by Julian and the two guards. They were heavily ironed, and six stout soldiers walked behind them. The youthful chieftain had schooled himself for the ordeal, and no sign of fear was manifest. Osmir and Selim stood like two deaf mutes, seeming to care nothing for the fate that surely awaited them.

"That is all," said Horam, after he had looked at the prisoners. "Take them out, and guard them well. Place twenty of your most trusty men over them, and remember that those twenty heads shall answer for the safety of the charge."

"Shall I conduct them to a dungeon, sire?"

"No,—there is no need of it. They will not live to behold the setting of this day's sun!"

Ben Hadad did not tremble when he stood before the king; nor did Ezabel seem much frightened.

"Old man," said Horam, "I understand that you have harbored and protected the notorious Scourge, Julian."

"He hath found shelter with me, as have all who ever sought it," replied the hermit.

"And you also harbored the lady Ulin. You knew who she was, and that she had fled from her home."

"Yes."

"And perhaps you knew why she fled?"

She told me her story, sire."

"It is enough," cried the king, impatiently. "I wish to hear no more. You both stand condemned, and the degree of your punishment shall be made known to you soon enough.

Omar was upon the point of making some remark, when Benoni entered.

"Now, Benoni," said Horam, with more nervousness in his manner than he had before exhibited, "I have a serious question to ask you; and I desire that you should answer me promptly and truly. You have noticed the conduct of the princess Ulin?"

"Yes, sire, she is in love with Julian the robber."

Benoni again went out; but he did not have to go far, as he met Aboul coming towards the royal apartment. The king greeted him as he entered, and asked him if he had seen his daughter.

"Yes, sire," replied the minister. "I have just left her."

"Have you talked with her?"

"Yes."

"Then you must have discovered the secret which hath been imparted to me. Did you speak with her of this robber chieftain?"

"I did, sire."

"Well—what did you observe?"

"O, mercy, sire—spare my child!"

"That is not the answer to my question, Aboul. I asked you what you discovered."

"I discovered," returned the minister, in tones of deepest dread, "that her love had been turned from you."

"Aye—and upon whom?"

"Upon Julian, sire."

"That is it, Aboul," cried the king, again starting up. "That is the thing that enters most deeply into my soul. And now I will tell you what the girl's punishment shall be. She shall witness the death of her robber lover; she shall see his head severed from his body—and then she shall be shut up, to lead a solitary life, through the rest of her days! None of her own sex shall attend upon her; but black guards shall be her sole companions. What say you to that?"

The executioners were not long in obeying the order. A large mat was brought in and spread upon the floor, and three stout baskets of palm-leaf were placed upon it. The mat and the baskets were darkly stained, and even Omar, used as he was to such scenes, shuddered when he beheld the preparations. When all was ready, Horam turned to his captain and ordered that all the prisoners should be brought in.

At length they came. Julian and Osmir and Selim came first. Then followed Ben Hadad and Ezabel, with Shubal and Ortok. And lastly came Ulin and Albia.

The robber chieftain was led up to the block. His arms were folded upon his broad bosom, with the heavy chains hanging almost to his feet, and his head was borne erect. There was a deep pain-mark in his face, but it was not of fear for himself.

"Outlaw!" spoke Horam, through his shut teeth, and with his thin hands clenched, "the hour has come in which you are to close your career of rapine and robbery; and these people who have been friends to you, and who have given you protection in your crime, are to see your head fall. Perhaps you would ask for mercy."

"No!" said the chieftain. "I ask no mercy at the hand of Horam of Damascus. Let the work be finished as quickly as possible, and thus shall one more be added to the list of thy bloody deeds. I could wish to live that I might take more vengeance on thee."

"And is there not one thing for which you would live?" asked the king, bending a searching, burning glance upon him.

Julian started, and struggled; but made no reply. And in a moment more Horam turned to his chief executioner.

"Bel Dara, go now to your work. Let this man's head fall first. Your arm is strong, and your hand is sure. Bend him upon his knees, and watch for my signal."

There was a low, wild cry breaking upon the air; and as Julian turned his head, he saw Ulin, white and faint, in the arms of her attendant.

Before the grim executioners could bend the robber chieftain to his knees there was an interruption in the proceedings. The voice of Ben Hadad, stern and authoritative, sounded above all else:

"King of Damascus, ere you stain your hands with that man's blood, I must reveal to you a secret which it is fitting you should know."

"Old man," he said, "you speak a secret. Do you think to trifle with me?"

"I have to cause a simple story to be unfolded to your majesty," replied Ben Hadad; "and if you will grant this woman speech, she will give you light."

The king looked hard into the face of Ezabel, and for the first time he seemed to be struck by something familiar in her features. A moment he sat as if irresolute, and then he said, starting up as though his mind were fixed:

"Let the woman approach."

Ezabel came near to the throne, Ben Hadad walking close behind her.

"Woman, what is it that you have to tell? Speak, and let not the words lag upon your lips."

"I speak by the request of Ben Hadad," replied Ezabel; "and the story which I shall tell you is known only to the old hermit and myself. Even Julian himself knows not the secret I have to impart, and were he now upon the verge of death, no persuasion should draw it from me. It may be that the disclosure will consign me to your executioner; but I care not. I shall waste no words. I was born in this city, and was married at an early age. One son was born to me, and then my husband died. Shortly after this bereavement I was called to nurse a sick child—a girl, some three years old—who was suffering from an accident. The child recovered under my care, and as I had formed a strong attachment for her, and as she had also conceived the same for me, I was retained to attend upon her. Her parents were of the wealthiest of Damascus, and while they made it very pleasant for me to remain with their daughter, they also provided a good place for my son, Hobaddan. My charge grew up to be a beautiful maiden, and became my mistress; and I served her with joy, for she was good and kind and generous; and I knew that she loved me. In time my mistress became a wife, and I went with her to her new home. For a few months all went pleasantly under this new relation; but finally a dark cloud arose to obscure the heaven of my lady's joy. Her husband became jealous of her—became so jealous that his soul was fraught with deadly vengeance. He fancied that his wife's guilt had been proved, and he resolved to put her away from him forever. Her protestations availed nothing. He would not listen to her—he would not even allow her to approach him; but he gave her into the hands of his executioners, and bade them drown her in the waters of the Pharphar. I discovered what was to be done, and slipped away from the home of the cruel husband, and sought my son, who had then become a stout youth. Hobaddan and I hid ourselves near the gates of the city, and when the executioners came out, we followed them. They had with them a large sack, and I knew that my mistress was in it. We saw them sink that sack in the river—they sank it where the water was dark and deep—sank it in the middle of the night—and then went away. As soon as they were gone we hurried to the shore, and my son plunged into the stream, and succeeded in bringing the sack to the land. We opened it, and my sweet mistress was taken forth, cold and senseless; but she was not dead. Her heart still had motion, and after much labor we succeeded in bringing her back to consciousness. The next need was to find a safe shelter for her. We dared not take her back to the city. I thought of the hermit, Ben Hadad. I had heard that he was a benevolent man, and I resolved to seek him. We found his cave; and when he had heard my story, he promised to give us shelter, and to protect the unfortunate lady.

"My mistress so far recovered as to be able to sit up; but she could not get well. Her system had received too great a shock, and her poor heart was broken. In two weeks from the time when she entered the cave she gave birth to a son, and shortly afterwards she died. She died as pure and true as heaven itself, and her child was the offspring of an honor which no temptation could have tarnished. She died; but the child lived and thrived—lived, and grew strong, and noble, and bold. We told him how his mother had been wronged; but we did not tell him all. We did not tell him who his father was: only we told him that he owed his orphanage to the king of Damascus. When he grew up he resolved that the king should suffer for the deed he had done, and subsequent events have proved that his resolution was not vain.

"This, sire, is the son of the woman who was my mistress. Julian, the Scourge of Damascus is the child I have reared. Would you know more?"

Horam sat in his great chair, with his hands clutched tightly upon the golden arms, and his whole frame quivering.

"O," he gasped, "the secret is nigh to the surface! What shall I ask?"

The king of Aleppo moved to Horam's side, and whispered in his ear.

"Aye," exclaimed the quaking monarch, when he had listened to the words of his brother, "it shall be so. What ho! Benoni—clear this chamber of all save this old man and woman, and this—this—Julian! Lead them out quickly, and remain with them to watch them."

In a few moments the two kings were alone with the three prisoners who had been designated.

"Now—now—speak!"

"King of Damascus," said the aged hermit, taking a step forward, "allow me to tell you the rest. The suns of almost a hundred years have rolled over my head, and not yet have I willingly deceived a fellow creature to his injury. What this woman has told you is true. The lady who was brought to my cave three-and-twenty years ago—who gave birth to a child there—and who died in Ezabel's arms, was Helena, Queen of Damascus! And the son which she bore was the son of the king—I swear it; and in support thereof, I pledge my soul's salvation!"

Evidence of Desire to Sell.

Wu Ting-fang, who was a guest at a recent wedding in Washington, was approached after the ceremony by the best man and jocularly asked to go over to the young couple and pronounce a Chinese parental blessing. The obliging Wu immediately complied. Placing his hands on the blushing bride and shaking groom, he said: "May every new year bless you with a man child offspring until they shall number twenty-five in all. May these twenty-five man-children offspring present you with twenty-five times twenty-five grandchildren and may these grandchildren ——"

It is said that the little bride grew hysterical about this time, says the New York Times, and the best man made another request of Wu—this time to desist.

Not the Girl for Him.

The father was quite anxious for his son to marry, and on every occasion he was picking out what he thought was a suitable girl. One night at a dinner the old gentleman sat next to a very attractive young woman, and on his way home he was loud in his praises. "My boy," he said, "she's the very girl for you." "Not much," replied the boy, with peculiar emphasis. "But I say she is," insisted papa. "And I say not," insisted the son. The father became testy on the subject. "You're too hard to please. You don't expect a woman to be perfect, do you?" "No." "Then why isn't this one just the girl for you?" "Because," replied the young man with an effort, "she's for some other fellow. She told me so last night."—Chicago Tribune.

As Usual.

Marshall Wilder was a guest at a dinner given at the Bellevue-Stratford last fall. The time had arrived for speeches, and, when Wilder finally arose, he said:

"Quite recently I was in partnership with John D. Rockefeller in the florist business. Our stock was composed of potted plants. One day differences arose between us and we agreed to dissolve partnership and divide the stock. So as a result of the division I got the pots and plants."

"What did Rockefeller get?" called one of the guests.

"Oh, he got the earth."

Woman's Trials.

The bitter trail in a woman's life is to be childless. Who can tell how hard the struggle may have been ere she learnt to resign herself to her lonely lot? The absence of this link to bind marital life together, the absence of this one pledge to mutual affection is a common disappointment. Many unfortunate couples become estranged thereby. Even if they do not drift apart, one may read the whole extent of their disappointment in the eyes of such a childless couple when they rest on the children of others. To them the largest family does not seem too numerous.

In many cases of barrenness or childlessness the obstacle to child-bearing is easily removed by the cure of weakness on the part of the woman. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been the means of restoring health and fruitfulness to many a barren woman, to the great joy of the household. In other, but rare cases, the obstruction to the bearing of children has been found to be of a surgical character, but easily removable by painless operative treatment at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., over which Dr. Pierce of the "Favorite Prescription" fame presides. In all cases where children are desired and are absent, an effort should be made to find out the real cause, since it is generally so easily removed by proper treatment.

In all the various weaknesses, displacements, prolapsus, inflammation and debilitating, catarrhal drains and in all cases of nervousness and debility, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the most efficient remedy that can possibly be used. It has to its credit hundreds of thousands of cures—more in fact than any other remedy put up for sale through druggists, especially for woman's use. The ingredients of which the "Favorite Prescription" is composed have received the most positive endorsement from the leading medical writers on Materia Medica of all the several schools of practice. All the ingredients are printed in plain English on the wrapper enclosing the bottle, so that any woman making use of this famous medicine may know exactly what she is taking. Dr. Pierce takes his patients into his full confidence, which he can afford to do as the formula after which the "Favorite Prescription" is made will bear the most careful examination.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the best and safest laxative for women.

Some men assume a surly manner under the idea that it makes them appear important.

Cytherea to the Years.

I am grown old;
My eyes are dim.
My heart is faint, my hair is white;
No new moon gilds the cypress limb
As on that summer night!

But a disk wan
And sere and old,
Scroll of cold fires that had their fashion—
As ancient palimpsests unrolled,
Hold faded hints of passion.

I am grown old,
But not with days,
Not age's frost has touched my hair
For she hath aged whose feet the ways
Have trod of hope's despair!

Of love's decay,
Of heart's despite,
Of laughter lost in some lost even—
Who chose her husks for soul's delight
And counted hell for heaven!

ANÆMIA CAN BE CURED

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Make New Blood and Strike Straight at the Root of Disease.

Anæmia is just the doctor's name for bloodlessness. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new blood. They cure anæmia just as food cures hunger. They cured Mrs. Thos. J. McGann, of 17 Lincoln Place, Plainfield, N.J., and they can do as much for any other pale, weak, ailing, bloodless person.

"In the spring of 1903 I did my usual house cleaning," says Mrs. McGann, "and soon afterward I began to have the most terrible headaches. My heart would beat so irregularly that it was painful and there came a morning when I could not get up. My doctor said I had anæmia and he was surprised that I had continued to live in the condition I was in. I was confined to my bed for nearly two months, the doctor coming every day for the first few weeks, but I did not improve to amount to anything.

"Altogether I was sick for nearly two years. I was as weak as a rag, had headaches, irregular heart beats, loss of appetite, cramps in the limbs and was unable to get a good night's sleep. My legs and feet were so swollen that I feared they would burst.

"One day, while I was wondering how long I could live, feeling as I did, I received a booklet telling about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I read it and told my husband to get me some of the pills. Before the first box was gone I felt a change for the better. I have taken about twelve boxes and although I was as near the grave as I could be, I now feel as if I had a new lease of life. I have no more headache, the heart beats regularly, my cheeks are pink and I feel ten years younger. I feel that I have been cured very cheaply and I have recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to lots of my friends."

TITLE BEFORE BREAKFAST.

The Story of How the Kaiser Made Von Buelow a Prince.

When the Moroccan controversy had continued two months, it still seemed that Germany might emerge from the dispute with scanty success. In this controversy Von Buelow's diplomatic skill had been pitted against that of M. Delcasse, the talented statesman who had directed the foreign affairs of France with conspicuous success for seven years. Von Buelow, however, worked with great dexterity, until he contrived suddenly to bring about Delcasse's dramatic defeat. His retirement into private life followed.

When Europe woke up one morning to learn that Theophile Delcasse had quitted office, it could hardly believe the report. At sunrise a special messenger was sent to the imperial palace with the news. The kaiser, overjoyed, rose, dressed quickly and drove to the chancellor's official residence. Extending his hand impulsively, he said: "Prince Von Buelow, I congratulate you on your success." Von Buelow hesitated and looked questioningly at the kaiser. "I have created you a prince as a token of my gratitude for your service to my dynasty and the empire."

Name of Thomas Jefferson One of America's Greatest

One of the first documents with which the American student becomes familiar is the Declaration of Independence. He hears it read, in his childhood, upon those red-letter occasions, the village Fourth of July celebrations; he peruses it in school when he familiarizes himself with the history of his country; and it is given him for critical study in connection with his rhetoric.

The author of this wonderful composition was a strange combination of simplicity and astuteness. In some things he was impractical and visionary in the extreme; in others his judgment was unerring and his foresight remarkablue.

He was an opponent of slavery, contending that the continuance of the traffic in humanity would result in trouble and bloodshed. He went so far as to incorporate in the Declaration of Independence an article denouncing George III for encouraging the slave trade. This was one of the clauses that was stricken out by the revising committee. Later, when in the house of burgesses of Virginia, he attempted to secure the enactment of a law to the effect that after a certain date all negroes born of slave parents were to be free. The act was defeated. In his autobiography, written in 1821, he says:

Monticello, the country seat of Jefferson.

"The day is not far distant when it must adopt it, or worse will follow. Nothing is more certainly written in the book of fate than these people are to be free."

As a contrast to these prophetic statements, listen to what he had to say relative to yellow fever:

"Most evils are the means of producing some good. The yellow fever will discourage the growth of great cities in our nation, and I view great cities as pestilential to the morals, health and liberties of man." Later he wrote:

"Cultivators of the earth are the most vigorous, the most virtuous, the most independent. I consider artificers as panders of vice and the instruments by which the liberties of a country are generally overturned. Were I to indulge in my own theories, I shonuld wish the States to practice neither commerce nor navigation."

Jefferson came from an old American family, his ancestors having preceded the Plymouth Pilgrims. He first saw the light of day April 13, 1743. He was sensibly brought up, received a fair education, and was not remiss in physical culture. He entered the William and Mary college at the age of 17, and continued therein until he graduated. He then read law in the office of George Wythe, began the practice of law in 1767, and married the young widow of Bathurst Skelton, Jan. 1, 1772. Jefferson was twice elected to the house of burgesses of Virginia, and then became a member of the Colonial congress, in which body he was chosen to draft the reply of Virginia to Lord North's conciliatory propositions. He also drafted the manifesto after the battle of Bunker Hill, congress' reply to Lord North, and later was made chairman of the committee appointed to draw up a Declaration of Independence.

Jefferson Rock.

After serving two terms in congress, and declining to serve a third term to which he had been elected, he attempted to retire to private life, but was persuaded to enter a third time the house of burgesses of Virginia. After serving the state in this capacity, he was elected governor of the state.

It was a turbulent period in the history of that commonwealth, and at the end of his term he again sought private life, though not inactivity. It was during this period of retirement that he wrote his "Notes on Virginia." A large part of this work was done under the shelter of a peculiar rock, which still stands, and which has been known, since that time, as "Jefferson's Rock."

In 1782 death took from him his beloved wife, and to divert his mind from his sorrow he accepted a mission to France. In 1783 he retrned to serve another term in congress, and later returned again to France, spending several years there as the representative of this nation. He returned to become a member of Washington's cabinet, in the capacity of secretary of state.

It is a remarkable coincidence that the close of the life of the author of the document that gave this country the Fourth to celebrate should occur on July 4, but such was the case.

His health began failing him in the winter of 1826. He continued to decline throughout the spring and the early summer months, and it was evident to all, himself included, that he was nearing his end. He expressed an earnest desire to live till July 4, the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, and his wish was realized. At 1 o'clock on that memorable day he breathed his last.

In Quincy, Mass., upon that day, another ex-president was bidding farewell to this world. John Adams had been counting the hours of his life till this patriotic day should arrive, and he died with these words upon his lips: "Thomas Jefferson still lives."—Los Angeles Times.

A New Story of Washington.

At a recent meeting of the Washington Heights chapter of the D. A. R. the regent related a story of Washington and the Jumel Mansion which was new to those present, and runs as follows:

Washington and Aaron Burr had met in the council chamber to discuss certain matters connected with the revolution, when they were startled by seeing a band of 500 Indians coming up the roadway. These latter presented themselves to the "Great White Father," and asked him to smoke the pipe of peace with them. This he and Burr proceeded to do with alacrity, and when the ceremony was completed and the Indians had turned to go, Washington heaved a sigh of relief and said: "I never in my life was so delighted to see the backs of a delegation!" Whereupon Burr asked if he were not glad that they had only desired that he should smoke the pipe of peace with them.

"Yes, very glad, indeed," Washington is reported to have replied, "but for two lone white men to smoke the pipe of peace with 500 Indians isn't such an unalloyed pleasure after all!"

Grandest Man of Any Age.

The New Orleans Picayune says George Washington was the world's most illustrious man in all the history of the modern age, or indeed since the fall of the Roman empire. "Washington, in the grand free republic which he built, has in his honor a monument which, in the magnitude of its dimensions, in the beneficence of its mission and in its ability to promote the happiness and welfare of its people, has no parallel in the entire history of human affairs. His great and glorious works, which follow and survive him, mark him as truly the grandest man of any age or period."

Caught.

"I must confess," he said in a sudden burst of confidence, "that I am an odd man. I long to be different—"

"Oh, this is so sudden," exclaimed Miss Passay, throwing herself upon his neck, for she, too, was odd and longed to be even.

WILD WITH ITCHING HUMOR.

Eruption Broke Out in Spots All Over Body—Cured at Expense of Only $1.25—Thanks Cuticura.

The Cuticura Remedies cured me of my skin disease, and I am very thankful to you. My trouble was eruption of the sin, which broke out in spots all over my body, and caused a continual itching which nearly drove me wild at times. I got medicine of a doctor, but it did not cure me, and when I saw in a paper your ad, I sent to you for the Cuticura book and I studied my case in it. I then went to the drug store and bought one cake of Cuticura Soap, one box of Cuticura Ointment and one vial of Cuticura Pills. From the first application I received relief. I used the first set and two extra cakes of Cuticura Soap, and was completely cured. I had suffered for two years, and I again thank Cuticura for my cure. Claude N. Johnson, Maple Grove Farm, R. F. D. 2, Walnut, Kan., June 15, 1905."

Where and Wherefore.

The patient at the clinic suddenly shook off the fumes of ether, sat up on the operating table and said: "Where am I?"

When nobody answered, he looked wildly into the faces of the students who filled the ampitheater and cried out: "What am I here for?"

And a voice from the rear benches replied: "For instance."—Puck.

A TRAINED NURSE

After Years of Experience, Advises Women in Regard to Their Health.

Mrs
Martha
Pohlman

Mrs. Martha Pohlman of 55 Chester Avenue, Newark, N. J., who is a graduate Nurse from the Blockley Training School, at Philadelphia, and for six years Chief Clinic Nurse at the Philadelphia Hospital, writes the letter printed below. She has the advantage of personal experience, besides her professional education, and what she has to say may be absolutely relied upon.

Many other women are afflicted as she was. They can regain health in the same way. It is prudent to heed such advice from such a source.

Mrs. Pohlman writes:

"I am firmly persuaded, after eight years of experience with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that it is the safest and best medicine for any suffering woman to use."

"Immediately after my marriage I found that my health began to fail me. I became weak and pale, with severe bearing-down pains, fearful backaches and frequent dizzy spells. The doctors prescribed for me, yet I did not improve. I would bloat after eating, and frequently become nauseated. I had pains down through my limbs so I could hardly walk. It was as bad a case of female trouble as I have ever known. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, however, cured me within four months. Since that time I have had occasion to recommend it to a number of patients suffering from all forms of female difficulties, and I find that while it is considered unprofessional to recommend a patent medicine, I can honestly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for I have found that it cures female ills, where all other medicine fails. It is a grand medicine for sick women."

Money cannot buy such testimony as this—merit alone can produce such results, and the ablest specialists now agree that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most universally successful remedy for all female diseases known to medicine.

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful periods, weakness, displacement or ulceration of the female organs, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation, backache, bloating (or flatulence), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

No other female medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement.

The needless suffering of women from diseases peculiar to their sex is terrible to see. The money which they pay to doctors who do not help them is an enormous waste. The pain is cured and the money is saved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

It is well for women who are ill to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, her assistant for many years before her decease, and for twenty-five years since her advice has been freely given to sick women. In her great experience, which covers many years, she has probably had to deal with dozens of cases just like yours. Her advice is strictly confidential.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

A Lengthy Sermon.

"How long has the minister been preaching?" whispered the stranger who had wandered into the church and sat down away back.

"About thirty years, I believe," replied the other occupant of the pew.

"That being the case," rejoined the stranger, "I guess I'll stay. He must be nearly done."

Why He Couldn't Come Out.

WAIL OF ROYAL CHEF

WELL PAID BUT MASTERS ARE MOST EXACTING.

How the Kingly Menus Are Prepared —Franz Joseph Selects His Own— Kaiser Eats in Four Languages —Sultan Fears Poison.

London.—"Menus are the greatest burden of sovereignty," once remarked the emperor of Austria, and this, coupled with the statement of the late Czar Alexander III. that a monarch required more diplomacy in dealing with his cooks than with his ministers leads one to believe that culinary matters are a source of unceasing worry to every crowned head.

Emperor Franz Josef has, however, good cause to grumble, because although the actual cost of the food he consumes himself does not amount to $5,000 a year, he pays his chef—a Belgian—a salary of $10,000 per annum, and the kitchen expenses at the palace are never less than $75,000. The reason for this is that, whereas the emperor always takes his meals alone in his study, his palace dinners are produced regardless of expense.

The emperor's chef always submits a menu for the following day's dinner to his royal master when dinner is served. Punctually at six o'clock his valet enters with a large tray, which he places on the emperor's desk, and while Franz Josef is negotiating his soup he scans to-morrow's menu and crosses off with a blue pencil anything he does not care for.

At the German court things are somewhat different. There are four chefs—a German, a Frenchman, an Englishman and an Italian—because the kaiser never decides till the day arrives whether he will have a German, a French, an English or an Italian meal, with the result that there is much scurrying to prepare a menu. This is not an easy matter if there are many guests present, because each chef is only allowed so much a head, and he must serve up an elegant meal at that figure. Each chef has five assistants and has to render an account of each day's expenses to the head steward.

The chef at the Portuguese court is an Englishman and he receives only $4,000 a year. When King Carlos paid his first visit to England and was staying with the late Lord Salisbury, he said that what struck him most about Britain was the roast beef, and he forthwith took back with him an English chef. King Carlos insists on an English meal every day, but the queen and the members of the household have two French chefs to study their wants, and they each receive salaries of $5,500 per annum.

The most trying post any man can wish for is that of chef to the sultan of Turkey at the palace at Yildiz. Here the royal kitchen is situated right under the royal apartments; it is quite a small room, strongly guarded, and even the windows are barred. The sultan's horror of poison led him on one occasion to install a soldier whom he trusted as chef, and for two years he endured badly cooked food rather than face the risk of poison.

The present chef has held his post seven years, but he is only responsible to Kelarji, the chief steward, for the food, and this official is in his turn responsible to the sultan. When the meal is ready it is placed on a tray and the tray is then covered with a black cloth, the ends of which are sealed by Kelarji before it is borne into the imperial apartment.

The czar of Russia's chef is likewise a much harassed individual, but as he is well paid—his salary from all sources being over $10,000 a year—he is not to be pitied.

THIRTEEN PROVES UNLUCKY

Courtship Lasted 13 Months; April 13 Set for Wedding; Groom Dies After 13 Days' Illness.

Muskegon, Mich.—The number "13" proved unlucky to F. Delong, who died here after all preparations had been completed for his marriage to one of the most prominent young women of this section.

After a courtship of just 13 months Delong proposed and was accepted. April 13 was set as the wedding day, and all preparations for the wedding were completed when the prospective bridegroom became ill. For 13 days and 13 nights the bride-to-be was his constant attendant, even to eating her meals at his bedside.

The unlucky combination of thirteens had been noted, and when the thirteenth day of illness ended to-day the sudden death of the patient was hardly a surprise to his superstitious friends.

The young woman who was to be a bride April 13 is hysterical, and refused to leave the hospital or be consoled.

Never Had Seen White Men.

Nordenskjold, the famous arctic explorer, has returned to Montevideo, Paraguay, from an expedition into the interior of South America to the borders of Brazil, Bolivia and Peru, where he found Indians who had never seen white men. They are among the most primitive people in the world. They believed him to be some god because he gave them flesh of monkeys he had hunted. They begged him to remain as their chief, but he did not accept the offer, knowing the prestige would not outlive his ammunition.

CRIMINAL MICROBE.

GERM OF CRIME FLOURISHES DURING SUMMER HEAT.

City of Paris Disturbed Over Unusual Prevalence of Criminality— Efforts of the Police to Abate It.

Paris.—Just as when the earth temperature rises to a certain degree it is supposed to release the germs of infectious disease, so the criminal microbe seems to be especially active in the summer heats. It is, perhaps, not really so, from a statistical point of view, but, at any rate, it is a microbe that gets itself more talked about than in the winter, when there are other matters to occupy the attention of the newspapers. At this moment, with the Grand Prix over and the fashionable life in the Boise on the wane, we are rapidly approaching the silly season, when Paris criminally reaches its high-water mark in the columns of the "Faits Divers." Of a truth there is reason for a certain disquietude at the prevalence of crime, not only at this moment, but during the whole round of the 12 months.

The central parts of Paris are well and adequately policed, but the suburbs and the outer regions are in a deplorable condition of insecurity. No other conclusion can be come to from the long series of attacks upon the person, murders, robberies and violations which have been set forth in the police news during the last 18 months. A case in point is the shocking assassination of the English governess, Miss. Charlotte Cary, which is now occupying the attention of M. Hamard and his sharpest detectives. That such a deed is possible in broad daylight and at the very gates of Paris is no compliment to the police arrangements. I hasten to say that the police themselves are not necessarily to be condemned; rather, on the contrary, it is the limited budget, or grant, that is at fault. The police service is starved for want of funds, a condition, by the way, which is not singular to Paris.

The organization of the cycle police has brought a certain amount of order and security into some districts, but they cannot obviously perform quite the same service as the foot police. Too much license is unfortunately given to the creatures belonging to a detestable class which preys upon women and supplements its evil earnings by an occasional robbery or murder. Numbers of these utterly worthless members of society are to be seen on any fine afternoon sunning themselves on the fortifications, which are the especial haunts of the malefactor. One of the first measures toward rendering the town and environs of Paris secure would be the suppression of these ill-favored loafers, whose characters and occupations are well known to the police.

Short of Draconian laws against these people there are other measures to be taken that should result in some amelioration of the summer crime of Paris. Appeal should be made to the good taste and patriotism of certain journals who specialize in criminal details, whose daily dole of murder, suicide and spoliation is a succession of stimulation to the weak-brained to go and do likewise. The theaters, too, are not without blame. Lately we have seen a series of positively horrible dramas, one in which a woman is strangled before the audience in the most realistic manner and in much the way in which the poor English woman appears to have met her death. There is too lenient an eye cast on incitements to crime, and that is, I believe, the cause of a great deal of it. No wonder a deputation from the city council is urging the government to abolish public executions, which is the apotheosis and glorification of the criminal. Without advertisement he would largely cease to be.

DIRTY TOWELS FOR SOLONS

Lavatory Appropriation Was Unwittingly Killed by the Last Congress.

Washington.—Members of the Fifty-ninth congress have just discovered that congress, in a fit of absent-mindedness during the last session, struck out the appropriation that provides the clean towels used by members in the performance of their daily ablutions. In the last appropriation bill there was an item of $25,000 for "miscellaneous items." Certain persons employed under that appropriation were obnoxious and they were legislated out of office by the insertion of a proviso reading: "Exclusive of salaries and labor." The washing of the enormous number of towels used on the house side is paid for out of this appropriation.

On the morning of July 1 the new legislative act went into effect and the clerk of the committee on accounts promptly decided that washing towels was "labor" and, therefore, could not be paid for out of an appropriation that expressly forbids any payment for labor. The matter was referred to the comptroller of the treasury, from whose decision there is no appeal, and he took the same view. The question now is how is the Fifty-ninth congress to get its towels?

Crop Estimates.

The New York broker does not care very much whether the crop is scanty and prices high or abundant and prices low so long as he keeps on the profitable side of the market. But the government has gone into the crop estimating business to protect the producer, and the producer kicks like a mule when the figures do not suit him. The reply of Secretary Wilson to the New York cotton trade when they protested against his figures implied that he was mainly concerned to serve the interests of the producers.

Order for Hearing Application for Appointment of Administrator.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, }
County of Red Lake } ss

In Probate Court, Special Term, January 31st, 1906.

In the Matter of the Estate of Peter H. Swandson Deceased:

On Receiving and Filing The petition of Egger Swandson of the county of Red Lake representing, among other things, that Peter H. Swandson, late of the County of Red Lake in the State of Minnesota, on the 8th day of December A. D. 1904, at the County of Red Lake died intestate, and being an inhabitant of this County at the time of his death, leaving goods, chattels and estate within this County, and that the said petitioner is the widow of said deceased, and praying that administration of said estate be to M. O. Sortedahl, granted;

It is Ordered, That said petition be heard before said Court, on Monday the 26th day of February, A. D. 1906 at 10 o'clock a. m., at the Probate Office, in the Court House in the City of Red Lake Falls in said County.

Ordered Further, That notice thereof be given to the heirs of said deceased and to all persons interested, by publishing this order once in each week for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, in the Red Lake Courier a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, in said County.

Dated at Red Lake Falls, Minn., the 31st day of January, A. D. 1906.

By the Court,
(Probate Seal) N. W. Tarrant,
Judge of Probate.

Notice of Expiration of Redemption, State Assignment

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR
County of Red Lake
STATE OF MINNESOTA

To The Security Trust Co.

You are hereby notified that the following described pieces or parcels of land, situated in the county of Red Lake, state of Minnesota, and known and described as follows, to-wit; Lots 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25 and 26, in block 25 of Porter's addition to Thief River Falls, is now assessed in your name; that on the 13th day of May, A. D., 1902, at a sale of land pursuant to the real estate tax judgment duly given and made in and by the district court in and for said county of Red Lake, on the twenty-first day of March, A. D., 1902, in proceedings to enforce the payment of taxes delinquent upon real estate for the year A. D. 1900, for said county of Red Lake, the above described pieces or parcels of land was duly offered for sale, and no one bidding upon said offer an amount equal to that for which said pieces or parcels was subject to be sold, to-wit, the sum of Fifteen dollars and sixty-nine cents, the same was duly bid in for the state of Minnesota for said sum; that thereafter, and on the 14th day of June, A. D. 1904, the said pieces or parcels of land being still unredeemed from said sale, the same and all the rights of said state therein under said sale was duly assigned and conveyed by the county auditor of said county of Red Lake for the sum of Forty-two dollars and sixty-one cents duly paid in to the county treasurer of said county, said sum being the amount for which the same was bid in to the state as aforesaid, with interest according to law, and all taxes which became delinquent subsequent to said sale, with interest, penalties and costs according to law; that the certificates of conveyance for said pieces or parcels of land executed and delivered by said county auditor upon said assignment of the rights of said state acquired under said sale has been presented to me at my office by the holder thereof for the purpose of having notice of expiration of redemption from said sale given and served; that the amount required to redeem said pieces or parcels of land from said sale at the date of this notice, exclusive of the costs to accrue upon this notice, is the sum of Fifty dollars and eighty-one cents (said sum being the amount paid by said holder of said certificate upon said assignment from said state and interest thereon according to law, delinquent taxes accruing subsequent to said sale paid by him, with interests, penalties and costs according to law, and all unpaid delinquent taxes with interest, penalties and costs accruing subsequent to said sale); and that the time for redemption of said pieces or parcels of land from said sale will expire sixty (60) days after the service of this notice and proof of said service has been filed in my office.

Witness my hand and seal of office this twenty-third day of January, A. D., 1906.

DEFECT IN DRAINAGE LAW

Amendment Slipped in by Some Enemy of This Section.

According to a Crookston special to the dailies it has just been discovered by Judge Grindeland of Warren that the drainage law passed at the last session of the legislature contains an amendment which was slipped in by some enemy of drainage in committee, which will embarrass every attempt to secure a ditch of any proportion until the next session of the legislature.

In connection with the remuneration to be received by viewers the law reads that each viewer shall receive $8 per day and all necessary expenses "providing no viewer shall receive more than five days pay for work upon any ditch." The quoted part of the above is the portion that no one ever heard of until the discovery was made by Judge Grindeland a short time ago in going over the bill.

How such an amendment could have ever crept in no one has the least idea, but that it is the work of some enemy of drainage is considered very certain. The ridiculousness of such a provision can be realized when it is known that on some ditches, such as ths judicial ditch between Polk and Red Lake counties which is now being viewed at least thirty days of hard work on the part of the boarp of viewers and perhaps more to do a careful job of viewing will be required. Under the present law, however, the three viewers can draw but five days pay for the work. This provision applies to both viewers appointed by the district court in judicial ditches, and viewers appointed by the county commissioners for ditches under the county ditch law.

There is no question but that when the legislature reconvenes next winter efforts will be made at once to pass a law that will be retractive, providing for more extended work for viewers in the future, and providing also for pay for those who did work in the interim which the present law will not allow compensating them for.

The only way to get around the present law will be to appoint viewers who are not in special need of money and are willing to wait for their pay, or to appoint men who are interested in the csuse of drainage to such an extent that will serve for the five days' pay regardless of haw long they serve.

Get an Education.

Don't encourage that boy in his idea that he has finisned when he has completed a common high school course, advises an exchange. Keep him going, even at the expense of some rather stringent urging. The successful man of the future must be an educated man. Things have changed since you were a boy and are changing more rapidly than ever before. The chances for the plug man are disappearing, so give your boy education to raise him out of that class.

CHARGED WITH SMUGGLING

Charles A. Moody, Former Customs Official Arraigned.

Charles A. Moody, a prominent business man of Warroad, Minn., and until recently deputy collector of customs at that place, was given a hearing in St. Paul Saturday morning before United States Court Commissioner, Charles L. Spencer, on the charge of smuggling a case of whiskey into the port at Warroad from Canada. He was bound over to await the action of the federal grand jury at Fergus Falls next May.

In his examination Saturday morning Mr. Moody waived examination and was placed under $1,000 bail which was furnished. This prosecution explains the reason for Moody's recent resignation of his federal position, which resignation had not been made public.

The smuggling with which Moody is charged is alleged to have taken place July 1, 1905. The complaint was made by W. F. Chance of the federal customs department.

Money in Poultry.

Here is an item that will interest the local poultry fanciers: An Indiana poultry breeder, who kept a record of his flock for the year 1905, shows the following interesting results: He had nearly 250 hens, largely of the brown Leghorn variety, and during the year he gathered 25,357 eggs, and sold 23,383, for which he received $323.46. The eggs were gathered daily. In addition he used 64 dozen for eating and setting purposes. Each hen laid an average of 101 eggs during the year, the income from which approximately was $1.40.

BACHELORS ARE HOSTS

Red Lake Falls Young Men Entertain Over Two Hundred Friends.

President Roosevelt is given credit for establishing the more or less general belief that a bachelor is an abomination and ought to be Oslerized at even a more tender age than the allotted 60 years, but if the strenuous chief magistrate had been in Red Lake Falls last evening he would have been persuaded to revise his estimate and admit that when it comes to providing a good time for other people the bachelors have the rest of humanity beat four ways for Sunday.

Last evening Messrs. Freeman F. Fletcher, Peter F. Pouliot, Helmuth H. Zaiser, Chris. L. Hansen, Henry W. Anderson, Omer Hall, Sam E. Hunt, Selvan Hall, Adelard J. Lemieux, Fred Burgdorf, Leland E. Healy, Ernest G. Buse, Noel Delorme, Harry B. Healy and Orban J. Hamry, all bachelors of marriageable age, prepossessing personality and honorable repute, extended their hospitality to 225 of their friends in Red Lake Falls and vicinity. Dancing was the order of the evening, and it was one of the largest and most successful social functions in the history of local society circles. Every element seemed to conspire to the general happiness. The evening was balmy and starlit, the music the best the famous Red Lake Falls band orchestra keeps in stock, the refreshments prepared by Landlord Krueger enticing and satisfying, and everybody happy. Individual cares and disappointments—if such there were—vanished at the first sweet strain, for at least seven hours all the happy dreams of youth were called back from the shades of the all-but-forgotten past. Aside from the satisfaction and pleasure of ministering to the happiness of their friends, the bachelors could not avoid casting their eyes to the main chance, for the display of hospitality and charm of personality and manner must certainly have aroused a secret desire in the heart of many a sweet maiden to possess at least one such dear boy all for herself. The business instinct of the minister must have told him of the possibility of a generous fee; the furniture man saw visions of wagon loads of furniture and automobiles—guided from the rear; the druggist imagined future profits from the sale of paregoric and other condiments, while even the poverty-stricken printer could easily see ledger charges for invitations and prospective news items about "the conventional black," "happy voyage on the sea of matrimony," and so forth, ad libitum.

But lest the fertile fancy divert to other speculative channels, let us mention before overlooked that the opera house was magnificently decorated in honor of the occasion, and that each lady was presented with a red carnation—we were going to say a beautiful carnation, but after all it is not an easy matter to paint the rose or gild pure gold. The frappe table was presided over by Misses Hazel Healy and Rebecca Hunt. To conclude, the affair in every detail was magnificent, and the bachelors deserve all praise for the service rendered the community in probiding such splendid entertainment.

CREAMERY IS PROSPEROUS.

Manager Austin Pays Nearly $25,000 to St. Hilaire Farmers.

George L. Austin, manager of the St. Hilaire creamery, was down last evening on business. The last year's business at the creamery was the largest in its history, the gross receipts being $32,376.59. During the year 462,083 pounds of cream was received, and the amount paid patrons was $25,836.10. The number of patrons is 160, and the average amount received by each patron was about $300. The receipts show an increase of nearly 60 per cent over the previous year, which is certainly a testimonial to the ability of Manager Austin, and warrants the action of the directors in retaining him at an advanced salary.

CHANGE IN THE LAW.

With the first of March this year some changes in the township law go into effect that it may be well to call attention to. Heretofore one of the supervisors elected at the annual town meeting has been designated upon the ballot as chairman. Heretofore the board of supervisors each year at their first meeting, must elect one of their number as chairman; with the exception that if last year a chairman was elected for three years he will continue to hold his office till the term for which he was elected expires. In other words the law contemplates, when present conditions fully expire, that each year one supervisor will be elected for three years and each year the board of supervisors, including the new members, shall choose one of their number for chairman. Another radical change in the law provides that in the election of overseers of roads, the overseer of each district [who must be a qualified voter residing in the district,] shall be re-elected only by the voters present at the town meeting from that district, and not as heretofore by all the voters of the town. In case there are no voters present from a given district and consequently no overseer of roads can be elected for it, the board of supervisors are empowered to fill such vacancy, provided that no member of a town board is eligibl to receive such appointment.—Fairmont Sentinel.

NO COUNTY POLITICS.

But the Mill Will Soon Commence to Grind.

As the days begin to lengthen, county political talk begins to strengthen. So far there has been little gossip concerning prospective candidates, though it is taken for granted that most of the present officials will seek re-election. In fact but one of them—Auditor Ford has said he will not be in the field. Many of Mr. Ford's friends and admirers hope he will reconsider, though, as he is rated as one of the most efficient auditors in the state, and the county can ill afford to lose his services. However, he has already received a number of business offers that promise a much better salary than the county pays and could not be blamed for taking advantage of the opportunity.

HIGHEST METEORITE.

The heaviest meteorite yet found upon the earth was oxcavated by Prof. H. A. Ward at a place called Ranchito, near Bacubirito, in the Province of Sinaloa, Mexico. This mass of meteoric iron is more than thirteen feet long, six feet wide and five feet thich, and its weight is estimated to be about fifty tons. Mamma—Why, yes. One would hardly expect to find such a fashionable head on young shoulders.

Unwelcome.

"A delegation from Finland, sire,' announced the chamberlain. The czar strove to conceal his agitation.

"Of course I cannot see my Finnish," he answered, with characteristic Romanoff obstinacy.—Puck.

GIGANTIC FRAUD CHARGED IN SUIT

FIVE MILLION DOLLARS OF STOCKS ISSUED ON BASIS OF $10,000.

MANY INNOCENTS ARE NIPPED

CINCINNATI MAN MAKES SENSATIONAL CHARGES AGAINST FINANCIERS.

Cincinnati, Feb. 18. — Sensational charges are made in a suit filed in the United States circuit court yesterday by attorneys for Rudolph Kleybolte, the Cincinnati banker, seeking an invesetigation of the Miami & Erie Transportation company, known as the Electric Mule.

The charge is that financiers of Cleveland, whose names are mentioned as defendants, floated $2,000,000 in bonds and $3,000,000 in stock on the sole strength of $10,000 paid up capital stock in that company, and that these stock and bonds, being placed on the market, were taken in good faith by hundreds of innocent investors in Cincinnati and elsewhere.

Banker Kleybolte brings his action on behalf of all the creditors of the company, including the holders of bonds.

Pith of the Action.

The pith of the action is found in the allegation that the defendants presented to themselves $2,990,000 of the capital stock of the Miami & Erie company, which was issued to them as paid-up stock, but for which they made no payments, and on the strength of which the company caused $2,000,000 in bonds to issue and to contract other debts. The petition asks that these defendants be compelled to pay par for ther stock and that the proceeds be applied to the debts of the company.

There is peending in the Cleveland courts a suit to assess the liability against the stockholders on whom the original holders are alleged to have unloaded. Attorney General Ellis has also brought action to oust the concern from the canal banks.

"HOD" TAYLOR RESIGNS.

Will Leave Treasury Department June 30—Edwards Succeeds.

Washington, Feb. 18. — Horace A. Taylor, assistant secretary of the treasury, yesterday tendered to the president his resignation to take effect June 30, 1906. It was accepted. The president assured Mr. Taylor that he fully appreciated the very "efficient service" he has rendered since he became assistant secretary at the beginning of Mr. McKinley's first term. Secretary Shaw accompanied Mr. Taylor to the White House and both joined in recommending the appointment of John H. Edwards of Ohio as Mr. Taylor's successor. The president promptly accepted the suggestion and announced the appointment would be made. Mr. Edwards for over two years has occupied the position of secretary to Secretary Shaw.

SEARCH FOR HIDDEN WEALTH.

Grantsburg, Wis., Feb. 18.—Search is being made for the hidden wealth of Ole Johnson Bjornaa, an old resident of this county, whose dead body was recently found in his home. He had lived alone for several years. It is known that he had a large amount of money which he would not trust to the banks for safe keeping. Where the wealth is hidden, however, is a mystery, as the sudden death of the old man has left his heirs without a single clue.

Farmer Killed by Train.

Mason City, Iowa, Feb. 18.—While crossing the Northwestern tracks near here with a load of corn, Daniel Dougherty, a prominent farmer of Dougherty township, was struck by a wild engine and so seriously hurt that he may not survive. The engine struck the wagon, cutting it loose from the team and throwing the latter in one direction and the wagon in another. Dougherty's skull was fractured.

Champion Boy Hunter.

Calumet, Mich., Feb. 18. — Walter Brandt, a fourteen-year-old boy living at Faithorn Junction, is credited with being the champion wolf and wildcat hunter of the upper peninsula of Michigan. Within a year he has killed or captured eight wolves and the same number of wildcats. Three of the wolves he has succeeded in taming.

Railroad Pays for Time Lost.

Clinton, Iowa, Feb. 18.—The Chicago & Northwestern Railroad company yesterday distributed checks aggregating $7,000 to fifty-five Clinton employes of the company, paying in full the time lost during the typhoid epidemic last summer.

Five Years for Manslaughter.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Feb. 18.—Mrs. Zetta Eckles, convicted of manslaughter in killing Constable Peter Martin, has been sentenced to five years in prison.

LAST RITES FOR DEAD KING

REMAINS OF CHRISTIAN WILL BE BURIED AMONG TOMBS OF ANCESTORS.

Copenhagen, Feb. 18.—The body of King Christian was removed from the Christianborg church here yesterday to the cathedral at Roskilde, where it will be buried Sunday among the tombs of the Danish kings, who for a thousand years have found their last resting place in the ancient capital of the kingdom. The whole of Copenhagen was given up to mourning. Business and work were at a standstill, and emblems of sorrow were displayed everywhere.

The enormous crowds of townspeople, garbed in black, swelled by thousands of arrivals from the country districts, thronged the square in front of the Christianborg church and the route thence to the railway station from early morning, standing patiently for hours in order to pay a last tribute to the dead monarch. The windows all along the route were filled with spectators who paid high prices for seats.

On reaching Roskilde the Fourth regiment of dragoons formed the escort of the coffin, which was borne to the cathedral and placed on a catafalque, and the last rites were administered.

KING OSCAR GOES SOUTH.

Court Physician Advises Sojourn in Warmer Climate.

Stockholm, Feb. 18. — King Oscar will start Feb. 21 for Cape Martin, the winter resort in Southern France, to which place his physician has ordered him for a couple of months' stay. The court physician has issued a statement saying that in consequence of the strain imposed by the state affairs of 1905 and the king's advanced years a sojourn in a warmer climate is advisable. The king will pay a short visit to Emperor William at Berlin while on his way to Cape Martin.

FIVE GENERATIONS THERE.

Wisconsin Man Celebrates His Hundredth Birthday.

Clintonville, Wis., Feb. 18.—Charles L. Taylor has just celebrated his 100th birthday with a family dinner party given at the residence of his son, W. C. Taylor. Mr. Taylor has six children, twenty-two grandchildren, forty-four great grandchildren and six great great grandchildren. He has two sisters and a brother, all over eighty-six years of age, who live at East Troy, Wis.

TO BUY LINCOLN HOMESTEAD.

It Is Proposed to Convert the Property Into a National Park.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 18.—Representative Hannah offered in the general assembly yesterday a resolution calling upon the Kentucky delegation in congress to urge an appropriation to buy the Abraham Lincoln homestead in Larue county and convert it into a national park. The resolution will be adopted.

SOME QUIET SMILES

INDUCEMENTS TO LAUGH AND GROW FAT.

Mr. Monk's Idea of the Descent of Man—Papa Had Bright Idea of Spring Fever—Colonel a Disturbing Element on Water Wagon.

An Affront.

One individual stopped another in the street.

"I want to ask you a simple question," he said.

"Go ahead," replied the other.

"It is this, 'When is that bill of Ketchem & Holdem to be paid?'"

"Say," was the reply, "I may do a little newspaper work occasionally, but I don't run the puzzle department."

Thus ended the confab.

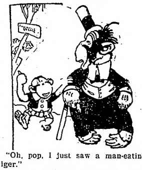
The Death of Time.

The comedian was rehearsing his great song, when the leader of the orchestra pulled him up.

"My dear sir," said the latter in aggrieved tones, "don't you know that you are murdering the time?"

"Well," was the quiet retort, "it's better to murder the time once and for all than to beat it night after night, as you do!"—Exchange.

Descent of Man.



"Oh, pop, I just saw a man-eating tiger."

"A man will eat anything nowadays. He has degenerated since he was a monkey."

A Disturbing Element.

"Didn't the colonel get on the water wagon?"

"Yes, he did, but he didn't stay long. Maybe he might o' stayed longer if he hadn't given his pocket flask to the driver, who let the horses run away and spill the entire outfit into the millpond. It was too bad, but the colonel always was a disturbing element."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Not Continuous.

Mrs. Cleveland—Oh, I'm so glad to see you again. It's been five years since we met, hasn't it. And I hear you've been getting married since I saw you last.

Mrs. Chicago—Well, not right along. Only three times.

A Sort of Invitation.

"My!" exclaimed the silk tie in the hatter's window, "just listen to the wind howling out there."

"Yes," remarked the brown derby, "but it's rather a sociable sound. It seems to say 'Come out, and I'll blow you off.'"

What He Threw.

Ma Twaddles—Tommy, what do you mean by coaxing this horrid dog home with you?

Tommy Twaddles—I didn't coax him, ma—honest, I didn't. I throwed things at him to make him quit follerin' me, but it didn't do no good.

Ma—What did you throw at him?

Tommy—Oh, bones an' things.

Chance to Get Even.

The Friend—I can't understand your method of dealing out justice.

The Judge—You can't, eh?

The Friend—No. For instance, why did you give that woman ten years at hard labor yesterday for assaulting a neighbor?

The Judge—Because she once gave my wife cooking lessons. That's the answer.

Logically Demonstrated.

She—I can prove logically and mathematically that women are worth more than men.

He—I'd like to see you do it, my dear.

She—Isn't a miss as good as a mile?

He—So they say.

She—And doesn't it take a whole lot of men to make a league?

TAKE SCHOOLS TO THE FARMER

Three Days' Session as Experiment at Fairmont.

The state dairy and food department and the state farmers' institute will hols a farmers' school at Fairmont March 1, 2 and 3, which will be a departure from the usual manner of holding farmers' institutes. The idea of the departments is to approximate as closely as possible the work done at the short course at the farm school.

Under the old plan institutes were held one day, or at the most, two days, in as many places as possible. This would bring in lots of farmers, but the benefits derived by each were not so large as might be desired. The new plan is to give the farmers some thorough instruction and go into some of the subjects in detail.

At the Fairmont school five of the institute men will be present and speak on farm topics. They will give instruction much on the same lines as is done at the short course at the farm school. A poultry show will be held in connection with the school. The merchants of the town will give prizes for poultry and for dairy and creamery butter. Prof. Drew of the farm school will be there to talk on poultry and judge the exhibits. E. K. Slater, dairy and food commissioner, and Frank Shrewsbury will speak for the dairy and food department. The business men's club will help to bring in as many people as possible.

The three-day school at Fairmont will be somewhat of an experiment to see how the new idea works. If it is successful it is probable that the department will have a number of one-week schools. Some of the towns of 4,000 or 5,000 or more will be selected for the schools. The railroads will be asked to give reduced rates and as many of the farmers as possible will be urged to attend. The institute workers will then give the farmers some of the instruction given at the state farm school and bring it to them instead of compelling the farmers to go to the cities.

A day can be devoted to each subject instead of an hour, those who attend will be told to stay the entire week instead of attending only one of the days. Thus, instead of giving them only a nice talk, they will be given a week's practical instruction with demonstrations of the work. Carcass demonstrations and illustrations of practical work will be given somewhat the same as is done at the farm school short course. The week's school may also give the farmers some idea of the good work done at the farm school and thus interest them in the school and recruit the student body.

SEEKS FOREST RESERVE.

Walker Willing to Relieve Cass Lake of Federal Park.

The following resolution was passed at a meeting of the Walker Commercial club, held at the opera house recently:

"Whereas, it has been the policy of the forestry department of the United States to establish and maintain a national forest reserve on a portion of the Leech Lake Indian reservation; and whereas, to that end, the 'Morris bill' set aside for forestry purposes certain lands adjoining the village of Cass Lake; and whereas, the people of Cass Lake are opposed to said forest reserve and are making vigorous efforts to have said forest reserve abolished;

"Be it resolved by the Commercial club of the village of Walker, which village adjoins said reservation, That in the opinion of the members of said club such a forest reserve, as at present wisely managed, is of vast importance and of great benefit not only to the nation at large but to the territory in the immediate vicinity of the park; that said opinion is strengthened by personal observation of the rapidity and abundance of the growth of young white and Norway pine trees on the cut-over lands in the vicinity of Walker:

"And be it further resolved, That the Commercial club of the village of Walker co-operate with the village of Cass Lake in securing federal legislation creating a national park out of that portion of the reservation adjoining and in the vicinity of Walker, and discontinuing that portion of the national park in the vicinity of Cass Lake, the new selection of forest reserve lands to be left to the forestry department."

Commissioner E. K. Slater of the dairy and food department is arranging for a traveling men's school of instruction, to be held in Duluth March 5, and to be conducted along the lines of the pure food conference recently held in St. Paul.

Traveling men from Duluth, Superior, Crookston and other points will be asked to attend. Especial instruction in the provisions of the pure food laws of the state and papers upon the maintenance of the pure food standards will make up the program.

Mrs. Jonas Johanicks was found in her home at Hibbing by school children, bound, gagged and tied to a chair. She stated that two masked men had entered her house, seized and bound her, and then made a thorough search of the premises. The robbers secured only $7.

MISTAKE RAISES TAXES.

Fergus Falls Citizens Confront Serious Dilemma.

When the citizens of Fergus Falls began paying their personal property taxes this winter they were dismayed to find they were nearly twice as high as they had ever been before. In years past it has been the custom to rate everything very low, and the state board of equalization has taken note of the fact and raised the county quite regularly. Recently the assessor here changed the plan and rated personal property in this city at a high figure, far above the average for the balance of the county, and the attention of the state equalization board was called to the fact that Fergus Falls is one of the cities that is not equalized by a county board.

In due season the county auditor received notice that a 75 per cent raise had been made on the value of household goods throughout the county, and the tax books were prepared accordingly. When the citizens discovered how high the personal property taxes were this year, E. E. Adams took the matter up with Mr. Sprague, the member of the equalization board from the Fergus Falls district, and Mr. Sprague writes that the 75 per cent increase does not apply to Fergus Falls. County Auditor Lincoln then wrote to the state auditor and he replied that the minutes of the equalization board do not show any exception in the case of Fergus Falls. It is evident that a mistake has been made, and the citizens there are paying the penalty.

As an illustration of how heavily the tax applies, the case of Rev. M. Satterlee, a Lutheran district missionary in moderate circumstances, may be cited. Mr. Satterlee listed his household goods at their full value, $400, and the raise sends them up to $700, his personal property tax being $35.38.

CROSS IN THE HEAVENS.

Rare Phenomenon Is Seen by Citizens at Moorhead.

A fiery cross in the heavens, such a phenomenon as that which is said to have induced the Emperor Constantine in 313 A. D. to become a Christian, was witnessed at Moorhead one night recently between 8 and 9 o'clock.

To scientists the phenomenon is known as double halos, appearing about the moon in diameters 45 and 90 degrees.

Extending perpendicularly entirely across the halos was a broad shaft of light, while another shaft somewhat fainter appeared horizontally, forming a perfect cross. At the top of each halo was a crescent of light which greatly added to the beauty of the sight.

A single halo about the moon is of frequent occurrence, but the double halo is said to be very rare, and in ancient times many miraculous events were attributed to its appearance. Among the chief of these is related of the Emperor Constantine, who in 313 A. D. was marching at the head of his army against Maxentius. In the night the emperor related that he had seen, stretched across the heavens an immense fiery cross, and this he interpreted as a sign that the Christian religion, whose sympol the cross was, was the true and only religion, and he forthwith allowed himself to be baptized and became a convert.

Convict Labor On Roads.

The Tri-county Good Roads association, consisting of members from Stearns, Benton and Sherburne counties, held a most successful meeting at St. Cloud and elected the following officers: President, Carl Mathie, St. Cloud; vice presidents, Stearns county, C. M. Sprague, Sauk Center; Sherburne county, D. M. Campbell, town of Haven; Benton county, Joseph H. Coats, Sauk Rapids; secretary, H. C. Ervin, St. Cloud; treasurer, C. L. Atwood, St. Cloud.

Resolutions were adopted favoring state legislation for the use of convict labor in the preparation of road material for free delivery to counties; that the national government provide by legislation for co-operation with the state; that the cash payment system be substituted for the statute labor tax. The meeting indorsed the undertaking to perfect a good road from the Twin Cities across Sherburne, Stearnes, Todd, Wadena and Hubbard counties to Itasca State Park, also a good road from St. Cloud to Sauk Rapids, across Benton county to Mille Lacs lake.

Following the meeting a banquet was given at which addresses were made by President Mathie of St. Cloud, Frank M. Eddy of Sauk Center, Senator Brower of St. Cloud and George W. Cooley, president of the state association.

A Fair Exchange.

An original scheme evolved by a certain tobacco merchant to introduce his goods worked to the satisfaction of a physician to whom this dealer sent a box of cigars with a bill for five dollars and an explanatory letter which read:

"Although you have not ordered these cigars I take the liberty of sending them, feeling sure you will find them excellent."

After the doctor had smoked the cigars, says the Medical Times and Hospital Gazette, he mailed five prescriptions to the tobacconist with a note saying:

"Although you have not asked for my professional advice I take the liberty of sending you these prescriptions, feeling sure you will find them excellent."

In Far Northland

Tid-Bits of News for Scandinavians.

NOT SNOWSHOES.

"Ski" and "Skida" Refer to Sliding and "Gliding."

Norwegian and Swedish ski are referred to by many writers as snowshoes; but, while this convers a fair idea of the use to which they are put, it is not correct. The snowshoe is employed for walking purposes, while the ski, as its name implies ("ski" in Norway, "skida" in Sweden), meaning something which slips or slides), is designed for sliding and gliding movements, and probably came originally from Central Asia.

To this day the savage Tchukchis living on the shores of Bering strait and the sea of Okhotsk use an instrument for locomotion something between the snowshoe of the American Indian and the long ski used by the Lapps and the Finns.

It is clear that ski have been used for ages, and for practical purposes; but, at the same time, the peasants of Scandinavia have for centuries indulged in leaping and racing competitions, which in recent years were adopted by the people in and about Christiania. The ski-jumping feats performed on the Hill of Holmkollen, outside of Christiania, are quite remarkable. The skiers slide down a slope at great speed, and then take a flying leap. The record was made three years ago with a jump of 134½ feet.

Norway and Sweden being pre-eminently "lands of the snows," it was but natural that the military authorities should turn their troops into skiers. For nearly two centuries the modern armies of Norway and Sweden, as distinguished from medieval forces, have maintained regiments of troops mounted upon ski, and stationed for service in regions where their presence would be most useful.

The wonderful dexterity, the swift marches, and the holding of snowy positions thought to be impossible so impressed the powers of Europe in those days that first Germany, and then in turn Austria, Italy and France, likewise mounted some of their Alpine troops on ski, though, of course, not on the same scale as is the case in Sweden and Norway. The armies of both these nations carry out extended maneuvers on ski during their long and very snowy winters.

The speed attained by the men on ski has often been exaggerated, no doubt owing to the rapidity with which a snow slope can be descended. When the troops are engaged in cross-country maneuvers it is doubtful whether they will do more than five miles an hour. Of course, in races, scouting competitions and the like, some of the best infantrymen, lightly clad and under special conditions of snow and weather, have done as much as eight and one-half and nine miles an hour. The record long distance military ski runner is a Lapp, who at Sokkmokk, in Sweden, did 137 miles in 21 hours and 22 minutes, or an average of about six and one-half miles an hour.

Last year a detachment of the Norwegian guards accomplished a march of 125 miles on ski in seven and a half days, an average of seventeen and a half miles a day, through very difficult snow.

In 1903 115 officers and men of the Swedish Norbotten regiment, after six days' exhausting maneuvers on ski, made a forced march home of over forty-three miles in twenty hours, although the men were extremely tired and the snow was in a wretched condition. The great advantage of the ski, of course, is that great bodies of infantry are able to move across a snowburied country where those not so provided would be entirely helpless and compelled to remain idle.

SWEDES IN OLYMPIAN GAMES.

Picked Men Will Vie Against World's Best.

Swedish athletes and sportsmen are enthusiastic over the movement to send a picked company of Swedish gymnasts and athletes to the Olympian games at Athens this summer. The committee in charge of the tour includes some of the best names in the country, among them Crown Prince Gustaf, Col. V. G. Balk, Baron S. Hermelin, Editor E. Bargvall, eight army officers of various ranks and a number of leading citizens. It is likely that the entire committee will accompany the athletic team to Greece.

The team will be composed of from twenty-four to thirty gymnasts, ten swimmers and eight or ten track and field athletes. They will be selected after the most careful competition, as it is the desire of the members of the committee that the country shall be represented by absolutely the best men in the various sports which the country can produce. It is also the desire to exemplify to the world the beauty of the Swedish system of class gymnasts, and there will be no better opportunity than at the Olympian games, which will attract people from all over the world.

The entire party will be the guests of Crown Prince Constantine during its stay in Greece, and will receive 10,000 kroner from the general executive committee at Athens to apply on the expense of the tour. It is planned to give exhibitions at Berlin and Vienna on the outward trip and at Agram and Dresden on the homeward journey.

All classes are taking a great interest in the matter; in fact it has become a national affair in every way, for the press is booming the tour at every opportunity.

WILL FORTIFY NORWAY.

Norway Will Adopt Another Line of Forts on Swedish Border.

The Norwegian government is preparing to identify the inner defense line of fortifications on the Swedish frontier. According to the Karlstad treaty, the old fortifications were to be razed to the ground. They never pleased the military experts, and the army authorities are now endeavoring to figure out a fortification program which shall not be too expensive.

It is expected here that Sweden will follow the example of Norway. At the time of the dissolution of the union objections were raised to the enormous expense which a double set of fortifications would entail upon the Scandinavian peninsula, but there appears to be no help for it.

The Coronation.

Although June 24 is quite a little way ahead, the Norwegians are already getting busy making preparations for the big event of the coronation of King Haakon and Queen Maud, which is to take place in the old cathedral at Trondhjem next summer. The hotelkeepers have already booked several guests for the occasion. It is believed that both the British and the Danish royal families will attend the ceremony.

The king and queen will go by rail to Trondhjem, but will return by steamer along the coast, making stops at the more important towns and places of interest.

Perhaps the suggested gift from Norwegians in America, a royal steam yacht, will be on hand by that time and answer the purpose of conveyance on sea.

Cheap Postal Rates.

As a consequence of the recent parcels post convention between the United States and Sweden it is cheaper to send a pound package by mail from Stockholm to Minneapolis than from St. Paul to Minneapolis. Why this is thus is explained by the terms of the treaty, which specify that parcels from Sweden shall pass in the United States at Swedish parcel rates, and packages from the United States in Sweden at United States rates. Sweden has a parcels post with very low rates, while the United States, though very progressive in most matters, has not provided a special parcels post.

The Diplomatic Corps.

While most countries intending to keep diplomatic representatives in Norway already have their ministers, secretaries, etc., here, they nearly all seem to be living at hotels as yet, and seem to have difficulty in finding suitable quarters for their residences and offices. This is not because there are not plenty of vacant flats and rooms in the city, but such people are, as a rule, a bit particular about what they want. As a rule they desire more rooms en suite than can easily be found here.

Unemployed of Christiania.

The question of the unemployed in Christiania has been a serious matter all the winter. In all the skilled trades from 2 to 43 per cent have been idle for weeks and even months, while the common laborers have had scarcely anything to do. It has been necessary to call for aid for the workingmen from municipal sources and private persons.

Japs in Scandinavia.

The Japanese Dramatic company, which has been touring the Scandinavian countries, has drawn full houses everywhere and the most flattering criticisms Naturally the critics knew nothing of the Japanese language, but they could not fail to appreciate the art of Hanoko, the leading lady, and the realistic combat, which is never equaled on European and American stages.

Women Grape Picker sof California.

The women of the grape pickers are picturesque. There is just a dash of Indian to give color t othe ckeek, a touch of Spanish, and just a suspicion of the old blood that built the wonderful cities year sago in lower Mexico, making a combination attractive to the lover of the picturesque: Dark hair, flashing black eyes, intelligent faces, perfect courtesy, intelligence that but needs suggestion to lead to higher grades, indeed one could not look at these pickers, these cholos, as the tenderfoot called them, picking grapes, to see that it required but clothes and environment to make a remrakable change.

Too Busy to Hear It.

When the ol dman is shaking down the furnace, carrying out the ashes, feeding the cat and six kittens and making the beds," remarked the observer of events and things, of course he is too busy to hear his daughter in the parlor, singing, "Everybody Works but Father."

TRADE AT HOME

A Profitable Lesson Taught a Patron of Catalogue Houses by Home Merchants.

Column after column has been written about the bad deals people make by trading with catalogue houses in place of trading with their home merchants, but it seems almost necessary for a man to get beat before he "takes a tumble" to himself as the saying is, and begins to do all his trading at home where he can see the goods.

We can quote an example which happened in this city by which one man at least was convinced of the advisability of trading at home.

He had been a faithful student of the catalogues of the Eastern mail order houses. He was interested in a certain thing and had studied so much catalogue literature on it that he could talk about merits of the article he wanted for a certain purpose. Which made the merchant, who made this line a specialty, open his eyes. In fact he knew so much about it that when he went into a local store and told the merchant just exactly what articles he wanted, the latter knew he had studied the catalogue and was ready for him.

The customer described a large number of articles which he desired to purchase and each one was laid on the counter. When he had them all in a pile before him he said: "I will give you $76.50 for them. I can buy them from a mail order house for that. Will you take it?"

The merchant took his pencil and figured for a moment, put on a troubled look and told the man that, considering the amount of trading his family did at the store, he would do so. The purchaser was more than pleased.

"I'll pay for these next month," he said. But the merchant wasn't quite as easy. He replied: "If you had bought these from the mail order house at that price you would have been compelled to pay in advance several weeks. All I ask is that you pay me now as soon as you have the goods. That I must have or the goods will stay here."

He agreed then to do this and wrote his check for $76.50 willingly, as it was learned later that the catalogue house price was $79.50, and started out of the store.

The merchant called him back and asked him if he was perfectly satisfied with the deal. The customer assured the man that he was, and then—the merchant had his say.

He told the customer that he had paid just $19.50 more to him than the regular retail price of the goods, and as evidence he showed him credit sales of each of the articles and showed him the total.

The customer did not know what to say as he had told the merchant he was perfectly satisfied with the deal and he could not demand his money refunded. The merchant then showed the man wherein the catalogue house had quoted a lower price than he could on a standard article, while on the ones which were not standard he had raised the price several dollars.

As an evidence of his businesslike principles, the merchant made the price right and the customer went away well satisfied, but the merchant has the assurance that in the future he will have the entire trade of one man who made an effort to beat himself.

The man is now a liberal patron of the store and the honest profit on the sales which the merchant will make to the man in the course of a year will be far greater than the amount he refunded, which the catalogue houses would have defrauded him out of this one deal.—Red Wing Republican.

MERCHANTS MUST ADVERTISE

How are the merchants of the Northwest going to meet the unscrupulous warfare now being waged upon them by the catalogue houses? He must advertise more extensively in his home papers and by circulars to his patrons. He must take up the mail order proposition in a systematic way and prepare and carry out a strong line of publicity. It is all very well for the country merchant to say that every one knows him and will trade with him anyway, but the known facts do not carry out this statement. The catalogue houses flood the rural sections with their immense catalogues, listing thousands of articles of merchandise with their prices plainly given. The price is an inducement, even though it may be higher than the same article can be bought of the home merchant, because when a price is given the patron naturally thinks it is a low price. Supplements of the big catalogues are issued at intervals, alleged to contain rare bargains, and these are helped out with circulars and other bargain announcements arriving every few days at the patron's house. As opposed to all this clever advertising the patron sees, most of the time, stereotyped ads in his home papers telling him that "John Jones sells merchandise." That's about all he gets out of two-thirds of the ads published in country newspapers. This may seem harsh criticism, but it is well meant. Stir things up. You may not have to use any more space in your local papers, but make that space say something. Dig into your stock and advertise things that you never thought of advertising before. And give the prices. Keep all the big retail mail order house catalogues on hand. You will find it easy enough to get them. Compare your selling prices with those in the catalogues and nine times out of ten you will find that you can beat them at your regular prices when you figure in the cost of freight to the mail order patron. Therefore advertise and give prices. If you have an association or understanding there can be no objection to giving prices, and if you haven't an association or understanding get one just as soon as you can, because that is of the utmost importance in fighting the mail order evil.—St. Paul Trade Journal.

INCREASE THE LAND VALUES

The proximity of good towns gives an added value of from $10 to $20 per acre to all farms tributary to them. A farmer may say that he doesn't care a continental whether there is a town near him or not when he buys of a catalogue house, but when he sells his farm he credits the town with quite a large sum.—Ex.

If the farmers of Minnesota could be brought to an understanding of the value to them of their market towns the mail order houses would go out of business in less than sixty days. The building up of a strong market town in a farming community means increased value to every farm, to every head of stock, to every bushel produced on the farm; it means the satisfying of the natural desire of the young people to see something of life and to acquire something of culture without leaving the farm home to seek for it. —Cannon Falls Beacon.

Several years ago a rather laughable incident came under the writer's notice. A gentleman sent to a catalogue house for a suit of clothes. The cash went with the order. In due time the suit came and was entirely too large. The gentleman took the suit to a local clothier and wanted to "swap" it for one which he could wear. Needless to say he was not accommodated.—Ex.

The man, or the woman either, who gets his or her support out of a town and its people, who depends on them for a living, but who, when buying, patronizes outsiders instead of the local retailers, is a constant injury to all residents of the community which is so unfortunate as to shelter such a person. Buy at home should be adopted as the retailers' cry. The buy at home idea must win out.—Ex.

A man over in Jackson county who patronizes the mail order houses allows his children to play with the big catalogues. One morning the nurse came out and told them there was a new baby in the house. "Who brought it?" asked the children. The nurse replied that it had just come. "Oh, I know," cried a little tot, it's a mail order baby, and I'll bet it's adulterated just like the pepper and the strawberry jam was, and papa will have to keep it because the money was sent in advance."—Exchange.

A Feminine Jab.

"I'm told," said Miss Knox, "that your husband, under the influence of wine at the dinner the other night, declared he had 'married beauty and brains.'"

"Well, well!" exclaimed Mrs. Bridey; "how nice!"

"Nice? Aren't you going to investigate? Evidently he's a bigamist."

Dr. Barnardo's Boy.

Dr. Douglas Hyde, the leader of the Gaelic revival in Ireland, was talking about accents to a Philadelphian. Coming to the British accent, he said:

"The leading characteristic of the British accent is, of course, the dropping of the 'h.' The dropping of the 'h' is very unfortunate. It causes innumerable embarrassments.

"A friend of mine is bald. He is a scientist. One night he lectured upon the atmosphere to some of Dr. Bernardo's boys in London

"My bald friend, lecturing on, happened to say:

"'It is impossible to live without air. If——'

"But from the back of the hall came an interruption in a shrill treble voice:

"''Ow about yerself, guv'nor?'"

SENATOR A. B. COLE of Fergus Falls for lieutenant governor is the best suggestion we have heard for that office.

IF anyone ever doubted it, it is now clearly shown that the rallrads and corporations have a few friends in the United States senate.

THE people of the United States used 770,500,000 postal cards during the year 1905. During the same period 4,109,000,000 letters were mailed.

THE Plummer Pioneer comes to the conclusion that Red Lake county is entitled to the senatorship this trip and proposes Hon. L. C. Simons for the place.

THE twine factory at the Minnesota state prison has thus far received orders for 7,000,000 pounds of twine for the coming season and orders are being received daily.

UP to date no more "harmony" banquets have been announced. If the Republicans conclude to try again it would be well to give the guests a tip to check their hammers at the coat stand.

W. B. DOUGLAS of Moorhead disclaims any intention of going after Halvor Steenerson's scalp this year. Mr. Douglas is practicing law at St. Paul and says he cannot afford to go to congress.

JUST to keep up interest and drive away ennui, Clearwater, Dakata and Jackson counties are indnlging in county-seat wars. And Itasca people—or at least a part of them—want to create a couple of new counties.

THE Crookston Times editor should circulate among the people a little more. He would then be in position to agree with THE COURIER that Governor Johnson is immensely more popular today than in the last campaign.

A MEMBER of the railroad and warehouse commission in announcing his candidacy for re-election declares his intention of "standing on his record." Some people are queer. Now we would imagine that his record is just the thing he would want to get away from.

AT the editorial meeting last week Governor Johnson announced a campaign issue that ought to occasion thought and comment on the hart of the voters. He believes the time is ripe for a two-cent passenger rate on Minnesota railroads and the abolition of passes, and he will ask the next legislature to enact such a law.

THE Hutchinson Leader gives some of us a merited rebuke in saying: "The opposition of some northern Minnesota people and newspapers to the forest reserve idea would be entitled to more consideration if the same persons had begun to take notice of things before the timber was all stolen from the state school lands."

IT appears to be a matter of doubt whether the code will be printed by March 1, and some of the state officials are worried about the possible chaotic condition of affairs. Governor Johnson has been asked to call a special session of the legislature, but he does not want to put the state to that expense unless it is absolutely necessary.

THE Northfield News gives this bit of advice regarding the next legislature: "Already in every district legislative candidates are laying wires. This year state senators are to be elected. The last senate was a railroad stronghold. Wonder if the corporations can manipulate the next one? The records of retiring members ought to be looked up. How did they vote on the demurrage bill?"

THE Crookston Times rushes is the first northern Minnesota paper to come to the defense of Congressman McCleary and his "revised upward" tariff policy. The Times should save its econiums for a better cause. Mac doesn't need outside newspaper assistance so long as the American protective tariff league is willing to put up the coin for campaign expenses.

THE Long Prairie Argus thinks some of its exchanges are troubling themselves unnecessarily about the Windom Reporter turning Democratic. Eb Huntington is as good a Republican as those who criticize him, but like a hundred thousand other good Republicans in the state has grown tired of boss rule and feels like showing his independence. The party whip doesn't excite the terror it once did.

THE Japanese spent so much of their money in fighting Russia that it has left their own people in bad shape at home. Thousands are reported as on the brink of starvation, and, as they cannot feed on the glory obtained from the war they are liable to undergo the extremes of destitution unless provisions are sent to them from friendly nations. It seems like a pity that these gallant little people who did such brilliant work in war, should now fall victims to so commonplace an enemy as pouerty. But all people who go to war must pay dearly for it and the Japanese are no exception. The world cannot be considered fully civilized until wars cease entirely.

A. CHICAGO congressman suggests that the United States army be employed to dig the Panama canal. This is a stroke of genius. If standing armies could be used in the future to dig canals and make roads they would not only earn their salaries but give a better excuse for existence than has ever yet been offered by the most ardent advocates of war. Think of the amount of useful work that might be done by those vast armies in Europe which heretofore have had nothing to do but idle, gamble, fight duels and consume the substance of the people. It seems to use that the German emperor would figure more creditably as a road supervisur than as the war lord of the whole creation.

Stand By Your Town.

If the farmers of Minnesota could be brought to an understanding of the value to them of their market towns the mail order houses would go out of business in less than sixty days, says the Cannon Falls Beacon. The building of a strong market town in a farming community, means increased value to every farm, to every head of stock, to every bushel produced on a farm; it means the best educational advantage for the children close at hand; it means the satisfying of the natural desires of the young people to see something of life and to acquire something of culture without leaving the farm home to seek for it.

Consumption

¶ There is no specific for consumption. Fresh air, exercise, nourishing food and Scott's Emulsion will come pretty near curing it, if there is anything to build on. Millions of people throughout the world are living and in good health on one lung.

¶ From time immemorial the doctors prescribed cod liver oil for consumption. Of course the patient could not take it in its old form, hence it did very little good. They can take and tolerate it for a long time. There is no oil, not excepting butter, so easily digested and absorbed by the system as cod liver oil in the form of Scott's Emulsion, and that is the reason it is so helpful in consumption where its use must be continuous.

¶ We will send you a sample free.

¶ Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

Dan J. Doran and family returned Saturday morning from an extended visit with relatives in eastern Ontario. While there Mr. and Mrs. Doran were called upon to lose their eldest child, Earl, about five years of age, from pneumonia. The Red Lake Falls people extend sympathy in this great bereavement.

Ed. L. Healy's attention was called to an alleged interview in today's Crookston Journal, in which he is said to have stated that a 30-foot head of water will be obtained at the proposed electrical plant at the dam at Red Lake Falls, and Mr. Healy gives it out that the Journal is laboring under a misapprehension in regard to the matter. The dam now has a head of fourteen feet, which is ample to supply all the power needed at Grand Forks or elsewhere up to over 8,000 horse power.

William Zaiser, whose home was at Red Lake Falls many years ago, was arrested by Sheriff Gonyea at Crookston Monday for the alleged theft of $80 from a companion named Rose last Friday at Keiliher. Zaiser admitted that he took the money but alleges that the man Rose had taken it from him a short time before and that he was simply reclaiming his own property. He took it from Rose's vest pocket while in a restaurant at Kelliher. The men had all been drinking, Zaiser alleges, and had been for some time. Rose tells a different story and claims that the money was his and that Zaiser had no claims upon it in any way.

John E. King is taking an enforced vacation from his work at the state library this week, and is ladling out news and attending to the wants of COURIER patrons. It seems just like old times, and is a decided pleasure to be home again, see the familiar faces and get interested in local affairs.

Beginning Tuesday the mail carried on trains through out the northwest will be weighed daily for a period of three months, and the result of this weighing will fix the compensation of the railroads for the next four years. Several hundred weighers will be employed at a salary of $3 per day.

The Knights of Pythias conferred the first rank on a candidate Monday evening, and afterwards indulged in a luncheon and smoke social. The Knights have recently recruited the ranks by several new applications for membership and have enough work in sight to keep busy the remainder of the winter.

Sheriff Linnihan took two of his prisoners, Hathaway and Benjaninson, to Crookston Friday night. They will be confined in the Polk county jail for safe keeping until some needed repairs are made at the jail in this city. The sheriff does not propose to have any more escapes on the part of his guests.

According to a recent announcement of the Great Northern Steve Withey has been assigned to this branch and will pilot the passenger train every day of the week. Steve is one of the most popular conductors on the road and his friends—and everybody is his friend—will be glad to have him punch their tickets.

The senior class play, "Jane Eyre" will be presented tomorrow [Friday] evening at the opera house. The seniors have spent a great deal of time in preparation for this event, and the notable successes scored heretofore by the Red Lake Falls high school in this line warrants the assumption that the patrons will get their money's worth.

Judge Tarrant has recently received about thirty-five of the early volumes of the Minnesota supreme court reports, which complete his set. This makes a substantial addition to the legal library at the court house. The Judge is under obligation to Hon. Peter E. Hanson, secretary of state, for this contribution to his book shelves.

H. J. Jager, state agent of the Minnesota state public school, located at Owatonna, was in the city yesterday enroute to Greenbush with a boy he expects to place in a home there. This school has already placed nearly 2,500 homeless, neglected or abused children in good homes, and is one of the most laudable charities the state provides for.

Frank L. Howe, vice president of the Hennepin Bridge company, is up from Minneapolis this week to start work on the combination bridge across the Red Lake river at Huot. The construction of this bridge was authorized at a recent meeting of the board of county commissioners, and will cost $3.530, of which the state has appropriated $700.

While at Minneapolis last week S. L. Lewis secured a district agency for the Northwestern Life Insurance company, and expects to engage upon his new work shortly. Mr. Lewis' territory will be in this section of the state. This company is counted one of the most reliable in the country, and its conservative management and financial soundness has never been questioned.

N. A. Nelson, one of the prominent farmers up St. Hilaire way, has been honored by Governor Johnson in being appointed a delegate to the drainage convention to be held at Grand Forks in the near future. Mr. Nelson is a progressive citizen, who always takes an interest in public affairs, and he can give the convention some valuable pointers on drainage from the farmer's point of view.

Carl M. Borgen, who has been editing the COURIER since last December, quit his job Friday and departed for his home at Brandon. Mr. Borgen was not a distinguished success as a newspaper man, though it is but fair to say that he is a man of no mean ability if his efforts could be directed in the proper channel, and if he could steer clear of some of the temptations that come to the convivially inclined.

RAISED FROM A DEATH-BED.

Mr. Pitts, Once Pronounced Incurable, Has Been Well Three Years.

E. E. Pitts, 60 Hathaway St., Skowhegan, Me., says: "Seven years ago my back ached and I was so run down that I was laid up four months. I had night sweats and fainting spells and dropped to 90 pounds. The urine passed every few minutes with intense pain and looked like blood. Dropsy set in and the doctors decided I could not live. My wife got me using Doan's Kidney Pills, and as they helped me I took heart, kept on and was cured so thoroughly that I've been well three years."

Golf and Matrimony.

As an illustration of the enthusiasm with which golf is pursued by its votaries, the following anecdote is told of a well-known Scotch author and a young friend of his: The two had spent the whole day on the links, and had some close and exciting matches. As they left for home the elder man remarked:

"Do you think ye could play again to-morrow, laddie?"

"Well," answered the youth, "I was to be married to-morrow, but I can put it off."

REAL AMERICAN PRINCESS.

Mrs. Narcissa Owen Lineal Descendant of Powhatan.

As gently as he could, a man recently chided a woman for conferring titles on persons who had no right to them. "Don't you know," he said, "it is absurdly un-American for you to speak of Miss Alice Roosevelt as 'the Princess Alice?' Surely you must be aware that there are no American princesses?" He thought he had crushed her. Foolish man! "You shouldn't display your ignorance," she retorted. "There is an American princess. She's Mrs. Narcissa Owen, daughter of Ah-ni-ki-la-he, and a lineal descendant of the great Powhatan."

Mrs. Owen is rounding out her life tranquilly in the national capital. She is an artist and musician, with a studio in an office building. She lives surrounded by tokens of her race. Mrs. Owen is seventy-four, and her memory goes back to some stirring chapters in American history. Around her neck, suspended by a chain, is the gold medal presented to her father by Thomas Jefferson. It commemorates the peace treaty signed by the United States and the Cherokees. Against a wall are six plates of fine china sent to the chieftain by Mrs. Martha Washington. Mrs. Owen was educated in Fayetteville, Ark., and studied art and music in Boston. She was married in Arkansas to Col. Robert Owen of Lynchburg, Va., who became president of the Norfolk & Western railroad. He died fifteen years ago, leaving a handsome fortune.

UNDER WHICH KING

"The More Postum the More Food—the More Coffee the More Poison.

The Pres. of the W. C. T. U. in a young giant state in the Northwest says:

"I did not realize that I was a slave to coffee till I left off drinking it. For three or four years I was obliged to take a nerve tonic every day. Now I am free, thanks to Postum Food Coffee.

"After finding out what coffee will do to its victims, I could hardly stand to have my husband drink it but he was not willing to quit. I studied for months to find a way to induce him to leave it off. Finally I told him I would make no more coffee.

"I got Postum Food Coffee, and made it strong—boiled it the required time, and had him read the little book, 'The Road to Wellville,' that comes in every pkg.

"To-day Postum has no stronger advocate than my husband! He tells our friends how to make it, and that he got through the winter without a spell of the grip and has not had a headache for months—he used to be subject to frequent nervous headaches.

"The stronger you drink Postum the more food you get; the stronger you drink coffee the more poison you get." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

The Scourge of Damascus

A Story of the East...

By SYLVANUS COBB, JR.

Copyrighted 1891 by Robert Bonner's Sons.

CHAPTER XXII—(Continued).

Julian stood like one thunderstruck. He raised his manacled hands to his brow, and tried to realize the force of the wonderful thing he had heard.

Horam started to his feet, and then sank back, and buried his face in his hands. His thoughts had suddenly flown from the story of the present hour to that other story which he had had heard on the night before; and the crash almost took away his senses.

Omar, when he saw how matters stood, felt called upon to speak; for he believed that he had discovered two things: First, that his old friend and brother was struggling to open his breast to his child; and, second, that Julian might be brought to forgiveness when he knew the whole truth.

"My friends," he said, rising to his feet as he spoke, "the story is not yet complete. It remains for me to finish it."

Ben Hadad and Ezabel gazed eagerly up into his face; and Julian leaned toward him, with a beam of hope struggling upon his brow.

"I am to blame in this matter; or, at least, I was the innocent cause," continued the King of Aleppo, addressing Ben Hadad and Ezabel. "It was I who gave to Horam the evidence upon which he condemned his wife. I supposed the guilt of the lady Helena was positive, as I had the information from officers who would not lie; and I felt it my duty to acquaint the husband with the circumstances. On my way back to my capital, while stopping in Balbec, I gained information which assured me that the Queen of Damascus was innocent; and immediately I sent back two of my officers to convey intelligence thereof to Horam. But those messengers never reached their destination. They must have been robbed and murdered on the way. I pursued my course homeward, and amid the duties of my realm, the thing passed from my mind. Yesterday I saw Horam for the first time in three-and-twenty years; and last evening I revealed to him the fact that his first and best beloved wife, Helena, was wrongfully accused—that she was pure and true. When this truth burst upon him, his grief overcame him, and I feared that the shock would kill him."

"Aye," cried Horam, starting up again, "it did almost kill me; for Helena was my first love, and her place was never refilled. O, my brother what can I do?"

"Do what is right," replied Omar, taking Horam's outstretched hand. "Be a man, and let the heart assert its sway. Remember that you did the first great deed of wrong; and that all the other evil has flowed out from that one unfortunate act."

The king of Damascus stood for a moment with his head bowed upon Omar's shoulder, and his hand still in Omar's grasp. Then he started up, and his countenance had changed.

"By the blood of my heart," he exclaimed, "the wrong shall not grow deeper against me! What, ho! Without, there! Slaves!—attend me!"

The executioners chanced to be nearest, and they answered the call.

"Bel-Dara, strike those irons from that man's limbs! Strike off every bond, and set him free! If you harm him as much as the prick of a rose-thorn, your lifs shall answer for it!"

The executioner stopped to ask no questions—he did not even stop to wonder at the order; but he proceeded to the work, and in a very few minutes the prisoner was free.

Then the king started down from the throne, and advanced to where the freed man stood.

"My son," he said, extending both his hands, "the truth has come so naked and so plain, that there is no room for doubt; and I now see that you bear upon your face the features of your noble mother—God pardon me for the wrong I was led to do her! And, my son,—here, in the presence of these witnesses, I ask you to forget the past—I ask you to be my son—I ask you to let me be your father;—and then, O, then, Horam will be no more childless!"

Julian had no power to resist the appeal; and as the old king tottered forward the son supported him upon his bosom, and sustained him in the embrace of his stout arms.

And yet Julian was not content. His face wore still a cloud; and there was trouble in his heart.

What could it mean? Horam feared that his son could not quite love him.

Omar saw the trouble, and divined its cause; and stepping quickly forward he whispered into the ear of his brother. Horam caught at the words, and the star of hope beamed again. He clapped his hands and cried out:

"What, ho! Without! Where is Benoni?"

The captain came.

"Benoni, bring the lady Ulin!"

Pale and trembling the princess entered the chamber; but when she saw Julian alive and free, with the shackles broken at his feet, the blood leaped again through her veins. But she had not much opportunity for thought, for the king quickly advanced and took her hand, and led her to Julian.

"My son, this do I give thee in token of my sincerity! Now wilt thou own me for thy father, and forget all of the past save that which tells that we are of one flesh? Take this fair hand, and with it my forgiveness to you both—my forgiveness to all who have befriended you. Take it, my son, and ere Omar leaves us for his northern realm he shall see Horam's own son sitting upon the throne of Damascus, while Horam himself withdraws from the world, that his last days may be spent in quiet repose."

No longer rested the cloud upon Julian's brow. He caught the small white hand which had been placed within his grasp, and sank down upon his knees—sank down, he and Ulin, one in love forevermore—and bowed before the king.

"My father—I accept the blessing! I am thy son!"

THT END.

The Blind Bride.

By Amy Randolph.

Bentley Grange was a pretty place at all times of the year, but loveliest of all when the reapers were at work in the harvest fields and the yellow light of the October sun turned the woodland paths to enchanted aisles. A long, low structure of warmly tinted red brick, with mullioned windows, velvet-smooth sweeps of lawn and box borders, which stood up like walls of solid emerald on each side of the path, it had a savor of the antique about it, which one seldom sees in an American house.

And old Brande Bentley, walking up and down in the mellow sunshine, between the walls of black-green box, with his eyes bent on the ground, and his hands clasped behind his back, corresponded well with the Grange.

Suddenly a cheerful footstep rang on the stone terrace steps—the sound of a clear, flute-like whistle rose above the click of the distant mowing machine, and Harry Wade, the old man's nephew, stood like an incarnation of youth and sunshine before him.

"Uncle," he cried merrily, "you've got the prettiest place in the world here."

Mr. Bentley took out his big, old-fashioned silver watch.

"Two o'clock," said he, "and the bank don't close until four. Humph! It appears to me, young man, that you don't stick very close to business hours!"

"Like a limpet, uncle," said Harry, "and just for today. Will Caryl has come to act as a substitute, for I really wanted to see you, uncle."

"Humph!" again commented Mr. Bentley. "You're very fond of me—just of late!"

"I'm always fond of you, Uncle Brande," said Harry, gravely, "but I've something to tell you."

"Some scrape you've got into," said Mr. Bentley.

"Nothing of the sort, sir!"

"Want to borrow money, perhaps!"

"Upon my word, no!"

"You've fallen in love with some girl, then!"

"You are right this time, uncle," said Harry, laughing and coloring; "and, of course, I have come directly to you to tell you of my good fortune. It is little Bessie Bird!"

"A milliner's apprentice!" snarled the old bachelor.

"If she chooses to help her mother along by trimming hats in her aunt's millinery rooms, I see nothing derogatory in that," said Harry, valiantly.

"A mere child of seventeen!"

"But I don't want an old lady of forty-seven!"

"Humph!" growled Mr. Bentley. "What do either of you know of life?"

"Not much, to be sure, uncle, as yet," admitted the young lover, "but we think we can easily learn—together."

"And where do you think the napkins and tablecloths and bread and butter and rent and water taxes are to come from?" sardonically inquired Brande Bentley.

"I have my salary, Uncle Brande," said Harry, "and Bessie has been educated to be very economical."

"I'll have nothing to say to such nonsense," said Mr. Bentley.

"But, Uncle Brande, all we want is——"

"Nothing, I say—absolutely nothing!" thundered the old man. "It's folly—trash—sentimental tomfoolery! If you want my opinion, there it is! Time enough for you to think of matrimony when you are thirty. There ought to be a law to prevent young people making fools of themselves."

And Brande Bentley turned on his heel and strode back into the house.

So that Harry had no very inspiriting news for Bessie Bird when he met her, as usual, on the corner of Broadway, to walk home with her through the pleasant autumn twilight.

"Was he very cross?" said Bessie, who was a white-kitteny sort of a girl, with fluffy yellow hair, dimples in her cheeks, and eyes the exact color of the "flowing-blue" china on our grandmother's shelves.

"As savage as Bluebeard!"

"Did he scold dreadfully?" asked Bessie.

"Told me I was a fool!"

"But if he won't consent——"

"Then we must manage to get along without his consent," said Harry. "Because, you know, Bessie, I do love you so very dearly, and you like me a little, don't you?"

"But your mother has always counted upon your being his heir," said Bessie. "And to lose all that money, just——"

"Just for love and you," archly interrupted Harry. "Darling, there is nothing in all the world half so sweet to me, or that I court half so ardently as my little Bessie—so let there be no further argument about it. These jolly old coves down at the bank are going to raise my salary fifty dollars at Christmas, and so if you can get your frock made we'll be married then. And set Uncle Brande and the world at defiance, eh?"

The first November snowstorm was drifting its white flashes through the air when a visitor was shown into Brande Bentley's snug parlor.

"Eh," said he, "a stranger, Jones? I never see strangers."

"But you will see me!" said a soft voice—and a slender, golden-haired girl stood before him, neatly yet plainly dressed, her black cloak powdered over with snow, and a spectacled old lady by her side. "I am Bessie Bird—and this is my aunt, Miss Belton, the milliner."

Miss Belton courtesied. Mr. Bentley stared.

"I suppose you have come here to speak to me about my nephew."

"Yes, sir," said Bessie.

"It will be of no use," said he, curtly. "My opinions on the subject of his marriage remain unchanged."

"But mine do not," said Bessie "Please to hear me through, Mr. Bentley. I have written him a letter to give him up this morning. And I came to tell of it now, so that you will feel kindly towards him once more. I have told him we never could be married."

"You're a sensible girl," said Mr. Bentley, smiting his hand on the table.

"And I have sent him back the little garnet engagement ring that he gave me," added Bessie, with a sob in her throat.

"Better and better!" said Uncle Brande, exultantly.

"Not," bravely added Bessie, "because I don't love him as dearly and truly as I ever did. But because I see now how wrong it would be for me to fetter his whole life. For——" She stopped an instant and a slight shudder ran through her frame. "I may as well tell you all, Mr. Bentley; I am going blind!"

"Blind!" echoed the old man.

"Blind," repeated Bessie, gently, but firmly. "I have had such strange blurs and darknesses come across my vision of late, and went to a doctor. And the doctor told me, as kindly as he could, that these are but the precursors of total blindness. So, of course, all is at an end between Harry and me. Will you please tell him this? I have referred him to you for all particulars."

"I will," said the old man, huskily.

Harry Wade came to his uncle that very morning in great perturbation.

"What does this mean, sir?" said he. "Have you been endeavoring to persuade her to throw me over?"

"No, boy—no," said the old man, and he told him all.

"I am bound to say that the girl has behaved very well," said he. "Shall you give her up?"

"No! Never!" shouted Harry, with pale face and tightly clenched hand. "Never! If she was dear to me before, she shall be doubly treasured and sacred now—my little smitten lamb—my drooping, white lily-bud! I will never give her up while we both live!"

The old man's eyes glittered, a faint color had risen into his withered cheeks, as he rose and grasped both his nephew's hands as in a vise.

"You're a trump, Harry Wade!" said he. "I respect you more at this minute than ever before. Give her up, indeed! If you gave up that little jewel of a girl you would give up the beacon star of your existence. She is a pearl of price, Harry—a true and noble woman, who wouldn't have hesitated to sacrifice herself for your benefit. Marry her tomorrow if you will and bring her right here to Bentley Grange. It shall be her home and yours henceforward."

And in this strange and sudden way, old Brande Bentley relented and took his niece-in-law-elect into his heart. Bessie in all the flush of her rose-bud beauty could never have melted his heart, but Bessie stricken down by God became sacred and precious in his sight.

NEW ENGLAND CONSCIENCE.

The Scruple That Prevented a Young Widow's Remarriage.

Said a drummer visitor (Miss M. E. Boyd) to a young widow—a seamstress—in a New Hampshire hill town, one day last summer: "You must be lonely here now since your husband died. Perhaps you will feel like marrying again; you are not so very old." "Oh, Miss Mary," she answered in a voice full of feeling, "If I only could—if I only dared!" And then came the simple story and a touching example of "the New England conscience." She had loved in early youth a young man whom her mother disapproved as a suitor. He was a joiner by trade and worthy, but the mother, having higher ambitions, separated the couple. The girl married a quiet man, her senior, who died a few years later. Then, after a decent interval, the old lover, who had thriven in business, asked her again to become his wife. That seemed a beautiful and natural ending of the story. But no. "Ah!", cried the poor thing. "If I had loved my husband I could go to James with a happy heart—oh, how happy! But although things were pleasant enough between my husband and me, I always felt the difference and at heart I was unfaithful to him. I think this is meant for my punishment for thinking of James while I had a husband living. We can never marry."—Buffalo Commercial.

In the huge mass of evil, as it rolls along and swells, there is ever some good working imprisoned; working towards deliverance and triumph.—Carlyle.

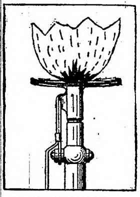
SHOWING THE WORLD'S PROGRESS

New Bit Brace.

Electricians especially experience considerable difficulty in boring holes in corners and other obscure points through which to pass wires to connect with bells or incandescent lamps. The ordinary bit and brace does not suffice for this purpose, as it is impossible to operate the handle of the brace when it is close to the wall. An exceedingly simple contrivance attached to the ordinary brace has been patented by two Buffalo inventors and is designed for effectively and conveniently boring holes in nooks and corners inaccessible to ordinary braces. At the top of the section of the brace holding the bit is a bevel gearing meshing at right angles with a shaft extending through the connecting arm. At the end of the shaft is a small handle and the operation will be at once obvious. When it is necessary to bore a hole in a place where the ordinary brace cannot be used the auxiliary handle is brought into action, which can be fully turned without coming in contact with the walls or other obstructions. The mechanism is so arranged that the bit and brace can be used for ordinary purposes where there is ample room and the auxiliary only brought into use in case of emergency.

A Safety Attachment.

Even in this enlightened age accidents due to a failure to turn off the gas properly are still numerous enough to command attention. A safety attachment for gas burners is the recent invention of a New Jersey man, and if it will fulfill the claims advanced it is well worthy of attention. Instead of employing a stopcock the attachment regulates the flow of gas, and as long as the gas is burning remains in that position, but should there be any carelessness in turning off the gas the attachment does so automatically. Whether the gas is purposely extinguished or extinguished by accident, due to a high wind or when blown out by an ignorant person, the attachment acts by gravity to close the plug. The attachment is pivoted to one end of the stopcock, and consists of an arm which extends parallel with the burner, and controlled by a lever. At the top of the arm is the portion which engages with the burner, being made in the shape of a ring connected to two horizontal bands. When the gas is turned off and the attachment in its normal position it is at right angles to the burner. When the lever is operated to turn on the gas the attachment closes up until the top engages with the tip of the burner. As long as the gas is burning the ring and bar at the top are caused to expand, but should the gas become extinguished by a gust of wind or otherwise the band immediately contracts and assumes a position which forces the attachment by its own weight and gravity to quickly fall to its normal position and shut off the gas.



Acts Automatically.

Puzzle of Silver and Lead.

The contemporary chemist considers not only what things are but what they may have been. Every lead mine is a silver mine and every silver mine is a lead mine all the world over, says Donald Murray. It is curious, too, that these methods come together in the order, tons of lead, ounces of silver. Why should this be? It is suggested that the silver is a disintegration product of lead. Once on a time the silver particles broke away and experiments might show that they are still breaking away and leaving the lead. In the same way copper and gold often occur curiously together. Who will take the trouble to free by the usual crystallizing process ten tons of lead from all traces of silver, then put it aside for ten years and test again for silver by the same process?

Nitrogen's Rays Strong.

The latest fashions in rays are nitrogen rays, and they are announced by Prof. B. Walter in connection with his experiments on the activity of radiotellurium. The rays of radiotellurium produce a fluorescence in the air through which they pass, so that a radiation is set up with a pronounced photochemical action and similar properties to the ultra violet of the spectrum. The radiation is entirely absorbed by aluminum foil, but easily passes through a glass plate. In traversing a vacuum the rays do not radiate, and save in nitrogent, whose effect is from thirty to fifty times as great as with hydrogen or oxygen, and it is expected to radiate light in the mysteriously peculiar properties of the nitrogen atom.

Her Bright Eyes.

Miss Anna Held, whose eyes are famous for their depth and brighiness, received one afternoon a pretty compliment from a little boy of five.

The boy, during a matinee, had been brought into Miss Held's dressing room. She wore a Persian gown of lemon-colored silk and three dogs, smaller than kittens, played on the floor.

The little boy admired the dogs. He admired the actress' robe. He looked with calm admiration up into her face.

Her eyes delighted him, as a glittering jewel delights a girl.

"Are your eyes new?" he said, gravely.

TERRIBLE SCALY ECZEMA.

Eruptions Appeared on Chest, and Face and Neck Were All Broken Out—Cured by Cuticura.

"I had an eruption appear on my chest and body and extend upwards and downwards, so that my neck and face were all broken out; also my arms and the lower limbs as far as the knees. I at first thought it was prickly heat. But soon scales or crusts formed where the breaking out was. Instead of going to a physician I purchased a complete treatment of the Cuticura remedies, in which I had great faith, and all was satisfactory. A year or two later the eruption appeared again, only a little lower; but before it had time to spread I procured another supply of the Cuticura Remedies, and continued their use until the cure was complete. It is now five years since the last attack, and have not seen any signs of a return. I have more faith in Cuticura Remedies for skin diseases than anything I know of. Emma E. Wilson, Liscomb, Iowa, Oct. 1, 1905."

Of Course It Was.

A wedding ceremony had come to a close. The mother sniffed convulsively, and the bride dabbed her pretty eyes with a handkerchief. One of the bridesmaids was also affected to tears.

"Why do you weep?" asked a groomsman of the bridesmaid; "it is not your wedding." The girl looked at him scornfully. "That's the reason, you stupid!" and she sighed.

Bad Stomach Makes Bad Blood.

You can not make sweet butter in a foul, unclean churn. The stomach serves as a churn in which to agitate, work up and disintegrate our food as it is being digested. If it be weak, sluggish and foul the result will be torpid, sluggish liver and bad, impure blood.

The ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery are just such as best serve to correct and cure all such derangements. It is made up without a drop of alcohol in its composition; chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead of the commonly employed alcohol. Now this glycerine is of itself a valuable medicine, instead of a deleterious agent like alcohol, especially in the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia and the various forms of indigestion. Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says of it:

"In dyspepsia it serves an excellent purpose. * * * It is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in its action upon enfeebled, disordered stomachs; especially if there is ulceration or catarrhal gastritis (catarrhal inflammation of stomach), it is a most efficient preparation. Glycerine will relieve many cases of pyrosis (heartburn) and excessive gastric acidity. It is useful in chronic intestinal dyspepsia, especially the flatulent variety, and in certain forms of chronic constipation, stimulating the secretory and excretory functions of the intestinal glands."

When combined, in just the right proportions, with Golden Seal root, Stone root, Black Cherrybark, Queen's root, Bloodroot and Mandrake root, or the extracts of these, as in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, there can be no doubt of its great efficacy in the cure of all stomach, liver and intestinal disorders and derangements. These several ingredients have the strongest endorsement in all such cases of such eminent medical leaders as Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Medical College, Chicago; Prof. Hobart A. Hare, M. D., of Medical Department, University of Pa.; Prof. Laurence Johnson, M. D., Medical Department, University of New York; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., Hahnemann Medical College, Chicago; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D. and Prof. John King, M. D., Authors of the American Dispensatory, and scores of others among the leading medical men of our land.

Who can doubt the curative virtues of a medicine the ingredients of which have such a professional endorsement?

Efficacy Plus Prayer.

Ethel, one of New Hampshire's seven-year-old daughters, is devoted to the birds. She was enraged at her older brother, whose keenest enjoyment seemed to be to trap them. She pleaded with him and scolded him, but all to no effect. So Ethel took a new tack.

When prayer time came the other evening the mother heard this final petition added to those which dealt directly with the spiritual and material welfare of the family: "An', dear God, please smash all Willie's nasty traps, for Jesus' sake. Amen."

"Ethel, dear," said mother, seriously, "do you really think that last is a nice thing to ask God to do? Do you expect him to do such a thing as that?"

Ethel smiled beamingly and answered: "Oh, that'll be all right, muzzer. Jes' before I comed upstairs I smashed 'em all my own self."

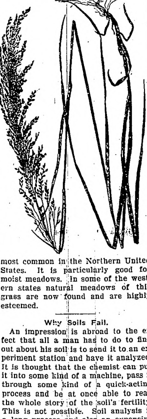
AGRICULTURE

Fowl Meadow Grass.
(Poa Serotina.)

This grass is also known as False Redtop. It is very common in the United States and is best adapted to wet meadows and the banks of streams. It is a perennial grass and had its origin in Germany. This grass has been grown in England for at least 150 years. It makes a nice hay and will stand for a long time after being ripe without greatly deteriorating. It never grows so coarse that the stalk is not tender and the hay made from it is eaten without waste. It thrives best when mixed with other grasses. This grass is most common in the Northern United States. It is particularly good for moist meadows. In some of the western states natural meadows of this grass are now found and are highly esteemed.



Why Soils Fail.

An impression is abroad to the effect that all a man has to do to find out about his soil is to send it to an experiment station and have it analyzed. It is thought that the chemist can put it into some kind of a machine, pass it through some kind of a quick-acting process and be at once able to read the whole story of the soil's fertility. This is not possible. Soil analysis is a long process and also an expensive one, as it takes the time of high-priced men. Often these men are instructors, who have many other duties in addition to those relating to soil analysis. A single experiment station could analyze but few samples in a year, compared with the number of farms in the state. After the analysis, the owner would know little more about his soil than he did before.

The chemical analysis shows what are the constituents of the soil, but it does not show the proportion available for plant food. Much of the fertility shown by the analysis was locked up in an insoluble form and would have been released only after long periods of time. Moreover the truth does not come out as to the ability of the soil under certain conditions, nor the amount of humus present. Soils fail to produce crops even when they have in them an abundant supply of plant food. One crop may be a failure because the acidity of the soil is too great, while another crop may fail because the land is too wet. One soil may be unproductive because the humus has been worked out of it in a half century's tillage, permitting the ground to bake hard in the dry time of summer.

The farmer that would make a living off from land that is inclined not to give him large crops, has many problems to study. If he solves the problems aright he may bring his land up to a state of great productiveness.

Corn Growing.

In the growing of corn I am learning to pay more and more attention to the quality of the seed. I use mostly home grown seed, but get some pure bred seed every two years. I generally buy my seed the first of February, but do not have it shipped until after the danger of frost is passed, so that its germinating power will not be decreased. I test my seed carefully every year to find out what per cent will germinate and never plant seed that I am not sure will give good returns. For our corn crop we start to plow about the middle of April. I think that sandy loam can be planted in corn a little earlier, safely, than clay loam, as it dries out more quickly and can be drained without leaving the soil lumpy. I generally plant my corn on the corn land. I cut the stalks first and then plow about four inches deep. I disc it twice before planting, then harrow twice, then plant my corn, then harrow twice after planting.—John P. Winsor, Grundy Co., Ill., in Farmers' Review.

The Largest Horse.

It is said that the largest horse in the United States is Royal Prince, who was raised in Crawford county, Pa. He is a dapple gray, stands nearly seven feet high at the shoulder, weighs 2,800 pounds when fat, wears a No. 30 collar and a No. 9 shoe, and is very finely proportioned.

Don't let mites attack the legs of the fowls. Prevent this by doctoring the legs of fowls that are affected.

DAIRY NOTES

Cement Floors and Mangers.

Concerning cement and other floors for dairy cows, I beg to give you my opinions and practice in the South: We find it necessary in this climate to use flooring that can be washed absolutely clean, and cement is the only material that answers the purpose. Dirt, clay or board floors are more foul smelling, and will communicate foot rot and fungous warty growths between the claws easier here, than in the North.

We also admit that the cement is too hard to lie upon, and produces stiffness and perhaps cold and rheumatism. In the South the time required for keeping the animals tied in stalls all night is so much shorter, that during the majority of the year the cows merely come into the stalls while they are being milked and eating grain feed, and do not lie down. In the winter time when the cattle are kept in barn all night and most of the day, we have adopted the practice here of packing a bed six inches deep of sawdust, cottonseed hulls and cut fodder or straw, in the stall, and holding it in place by fastening a 5 or 6 inch board across the ends of the stalls, exactly flush with the side of the manure gutter next the cows. The bedding material is packed tight and level with the top of this board at the point where the cow's hind feet stand, and will remain quite clean for a considerable time. We find this 6 inch layer of bedding when properly renewed or leveled every day, makes an excellent and inexpensive bed clean and practically dustless.

Now the use of cement feeding troughs to my mind is an entirely different matter, and I am not in favor of them at all. A round or square cement water trough in the barnyard is all right enough. The use that I object to is a trough in front of the cows, used for feeding, and flushed with water for cleaning, and to let the cows drink. This I consider a most fruitful method of carrying disease from one cow to another. If some of the cows fail to eat their feed as quickly as others, it produces a slop and waste. Feeding on floors or in troughs without partitions between the heads, permits a greedy cow to get more feed than belongs to her. I consider the feeding such an individual matter that each cow should have a good sized deep feed box all to herself, with partitions between heads high enough to prevent any communication with neighbors. I prefer such feed boxes made of sound wood, tight enough to hold water reasonably well, slanting slightly toward the front and having holes or short pipes in one or both corners, so that they too may be thoroughly washed occasionally with a hose. Such boxes do not need much cleaning, as the cows usually keep them licked clean and right. I consider cement too hard and in winter too cold for them to lick, and liable to disintegrate after use from the action of the tongue and saliva.

As to watering, I consider all devices for watering in the stall a farce, both useless and unsanitary. The best way we have found is to turn cows out of stalls for water at one or two protected troughs where they will not necessarily get cold or muddy while drinking.

I advise the use of cement for the entire barn floor, stalls, manure alley, and feeding alley, with the single exception of bottom and sides of feed boxes. Cement is becoming cheaper every year and is a great help to dairymen.

Churning Temperature.

Temperature at which butter should be churned is of very great importance in the making of good butter. The cream should be properly ripened and the temperature should be such that the whole milk will be uniform. The temperature of the cream cannot be raised suddenly. A person cannot take milk at 40 degrees out of the cellar, heat it up to 65 degrees and commence churning immediately, nor should the temperature be raised by pouring in hot water. In both cases the temperature will be very uneven, a part of the milk will be warm and a part of the milk will be cold, and if the hot water be poured in it will coagulate a part of the casein—that with which it comes into immediate contact. Previous to churning the cream should be in a warm room for several hours, and it should have reached a desirable temperature at least two hours before being put into the churn. On the farm this is easily done by placing the cream in the kitchen or some other warm place, at least in the winter season. In a creamery it will be necessary to keep the temperature of the whole building at or above the temperature at which it is desired to do the churning. This problem of churning temperature is a very difficult one, on account of the great variability of our season; in the summer the temperature will naturally be too high and in the winter it will naturally be too low. While in the creamery the desirable temperature is 50 to 55 degrees, in the farm home it will be from 60 to 65 degrees. The reason for this is that in the home the churning is done by hand and in the factory it is done by machinery driven by steam. The lower the temperature the harder the churning.

TWITCHING NERVES

A Serious Hereditary Trouble Cured By Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Sufferers from ailments that have afflicted in regular succession one generation after another of their family are, as a rule, inclined to submit to them as inevitable. The case which follows proves that such hereditary difficulties are not beyond the reach of curative forces and should inspire hopefulness and a readiness to try remedies that have effected signal cures, such as that which is here given.

Mrs. Elizabeth Rannells, of No. 408 East Seventh street, Newton, Kansas, gives the following account of her ailment and her cure:

"For two years I suffered from a trying nervousness in my lower limbs from my knees down, as my mother and my grandmother had suffered before me. The situation was for many years accepted as unavoidable because hereditary. But about two years ago, when my son was realizing benefit from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I thought there might possibly be some good in them for me. My trouble had then become so serious as to make it difficult for me to sleep. I often had to walk the floor in restlessness the whole night. After taking some six boxes the twitching disappeared and I ceased to use the remedy. I evidently stopped a little too soon for nervousness came back after a month or so and I used the pills again for a short time. Relief came at once and since I stopped using them the second time I have been free from any return of the twitchings or from any interference with my sleep."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured the worst cases of bloodlessness, indigestion, influenza, headaches, lumbago, sciatica, neuralgia, nervousness, spinal weakness and the special ailments of girls and women. For further information, address the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Drink More Water.

Free water drinking is another essential to vitality and to the development of staying power. All the operations of the body, digestion, assimilation, absorption, elimination of poisonous waste and so on, are carried on by means of water; and an insufficient amount of water in the system means embarrassment of every function. The body of a man of average weight contains more than half a barrel of water, and such a body needs for its proper operation at least two quarts daily of pure water. In this connection it may not be irrelevant to mention that the Japanese soldiers, whose srurpising powers are now engaging the admiration of the world, contain each between two and four gallons of water daily.

Nervous Women

Their Sufferings Are Usually Due to Female Disorders Perhaps Unsuspected

A MEDICINE THAT CURES

Mrs. M. E. Shotwell

Can we dispute the well-known fact that American women are nervous?

How often do we hear the expression, "I am so nervous, it seems as if I should fly;" or, "Don't speak to me." Little things annoy you and make you irritable; you can't sleep, you are unable to quietly and calmly perform your daily tasks or care for your children.

The relation of the nerves and generative organs in woman is so close that nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous debility, the blues, sleeplessness and nervous irritability arise from some derangement of the organism which makes her a woman. Fits of depression or restlessness and irritability; spirits easily affected, so that one minute she laughs, the next minute weeps; pain in the abdominal region and between the shoulders; loss of voice; nervous dyspepsia; a tendency to cry at the least provocation—all these point to nervous prostration.

Nothing will relieve this distressing condition and prevent months of prostration and suffering so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. M. E. Shotwell, of 103 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I cannot express the wonderful relief I have experienced by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I suffered for a long time with nervous prostration, backache, headache, loss of appetite. I could not sleep and would walk the floor almost every night.

"I had three doctors and got no better, and life was a burden. I was advised to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has worked wonders for me.

"I am a well woman, my nervousness is all gone, and my friends say I look ten years younger."

Will not the volumes of letters from women made strong by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound convince all women of its virtues? Surely you cannot wish to remain sick, weak and discouraged, exhausted each day, when you can be as easily cured as other women.

DISCRIMINATION IN RATES

Governor Johnson Declares There is Manifest Injustice.

Between St. Paul and Minneapolis and the following stations: Austin, Winona, Wabasha, Faribault, Mankato, Glencoe, Renville, Montevideo and Wheaton, all these being on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway, the total of class rates, by applying the Iowa maximum distance tariff, aggregates 1107.88, while the total class rates between St. Paul or Minneapolis and the stations named under our schedules is 1559. To make the matter clearer, the tabulated rates on classes 1, 2, 3 and 4, for merchandise in less than carloads, and class 5, a. b, c, d and e, in carloads, show that where the Iowa shipper pays $1,107.88 to move a given quantity of freight a certain distance, the Minnesota citizen to move the same freight the same distance pays $1,559. This, it is understood, is on distributive and terminal tariff rates. If he were obliged to move the same freight the same distance as in Iowa, under distance tariff rates, he would pay a still larger sum. Under the most favorable conditions of shipment in Minnesota, the rates are 50 per cent higher than the rate in Iowa for the same distance. Minnesota cattle rates are 10 per cent higher under the most favorable circumstances as compared with the most adverse conditions in Iowa. On hogs the Minnesota farmer pays 22 per cent more than the Iowa farmer. Lumber is 50 per cent higher, and in the illustration given it will be noticed that the list includes Winona and Wabasha, which are river towns and subject to river competition, and in these two towns the rate is lower than in other and neighboring towns. A careful comparison of the published tariff schedules of the railways of Southern Minnesota indicates that Minnesota wheat rates are nearly 25 per cent higher than the rate permitted under the Iowa law, and that on other grains the rate averages about 35 per cent more than the Iowa distance tariff.

Going into the northern part of the state the condition is even more unfavorable. Taking a number of illustrations, we find that the total of class rates for sixteen stations on the Great Northern railway, by applying the Iowa maximum distance tariff, to be 2242.76. The total of class rates between the same points and St. Paul and Minneapolis, with the distributive or terminal rate now effective, would be 3543. In other words, where it now costs the Minnesota producer $3,543 to move a given quantity of freight a given distance, if the Iowa tariff laws were effective in Minnesota today, the price charged for moving these commodities the same distance would be $2,242.76; a difference of $1,300, or more than 58 per cent. Then, too, the cattle rates of the Northern Minnesota farmer are 10 per cent higher than in Iowa. The rate for hauling hogs is 39 per cent higher; the rate for hauling lumber is 50 per cent higher, and grain rates, including wheat, between the same stations, are 25 per cent higher. The stations here used for computation are Delano, Hutchinson, Milaca, St. Cloud, Litchfield, Grove City, Willmar, Sauk Center, Benson, Long Prairie, Alexandria, Fergus Falls, Park Rapids, Breckinridge, Moorhead and Crookston.

The same comparison was made between the Iowa maximum distance tariff rate and the distributive or terminal tariff rates on the Soo line, the following stations being used: Rockford, Buffalo, Annandale, Eden Valley, Paynesville, Brooten, Glenwood, Elbow Lake, Alexandria, Henning, Detroit, Tenney and Thief River Falls. Applying the Iowa maximum distance tariff on the same class of commodities heretofore named, the total number of units is 1826.97. Applying the class rates between these points and St. Paul and Minneapolis under the published schedule of distributive or terminal tariff now effective, the total number of units is 2847. Again, the shipper living along the Soo line, to move a given quantity of freight a given distance, pays $2,847. If the Iowa rate were applied along the Soo line the shipper there, in order to move the same quantity and kind of freight the same distance, would pay $1,826.97. Minnesota rates between these stations to St. Paul and Minneapolis are 55 per cent higher than are permitted for the same distance in the state of Iowa under the Iowa tariff law. Comparative tables show the cattle rate to be 6 and 7 per cent higher in Minnesota. The rate on hogs is 39 per cent higher in Minnesota, the rate on lumber 48 per cent higher, and the rate on grains averages 22 per cent higher.

Thus far the distributive or terminal tariff rate has been used in making the computation. This rate obtains between St. Paul and Minneapolis and the smaller cities. There are a few other favored communities which have the terminal or distributive tariff, but between the great majority of towns, particularly for local traffic, the distance tariff applies, and for all distances up to and including that of 350 miles, a comparison of the Great Northern and the Soo line distance tariff applying in Minnesota with the Iowa maximum distance tariff shows the Great Northern and Soo line tariffs to be 65 per cent higher.

This refers particularly to merchandise in classes 1, 2, 3 and 4, in less than carload lots, and class 5, a, b, c, d and e, in carloads, and is the tariff ordinarily used for shipments between station and station where the distributive or terminal tariff rates do not apply.

Strange as this situation appears to be, there is still another proposition which is more singular, indeed, than any illustration yet given. It is fair to presume that a carload of merchandise loaded for consignment at Chicago for Breckenridge, Graceville, Moorhead, Wahpeton, Glenwood, Morris, Wadena, Fergus Falls, Glyndon, New York Mills and other points would have a through tariff rate less than the two local rates from Chicago to the Twin Cities and thence to their destination. The reverse, however, is true on some commodities. For instance, on wire, woven fence, nails, etc., the local from Chicago to St. Paul is 12½ cents for 410 miles, while the local from St. Paul to Breckenridge is 24 cents for 204 miles, making a total local rate of 36½ cents; the through rate, however, being 39 cents.

To Graceville the through rate is 37 cents. The local rate from Chicago to St. Paul or Minneapolis is 12½ cents for 410 miles, while the local to Graceville is 22 cents per hundred weight for 174 miles. To Moorhead, with the local from Chicago the same as above for the 410 miles, the rate is 27 cents per hundred weight for 232 miles, while the through rate is 42 cents, or 12½ cents more than the combined two local rates.

To Wadena the two local rates are 82½ cents, while the through rate from Chicago to Wadena is 39 cents, or 6½ cents more than the combined two local rates. Fergus Falls, paying 12½ cents from Chicago to St. Paul, pays 22 cents from St. Paul to Fergus Falls. It pays a through rate of 39 cents, or 4½ cents more than the total local rate between the two cities. Appleton pays 35 cents for a through rate and, paying 12½ cents for 410 miles, pays 20 cents for 144 miles, 2½ cents more for the through rate from Chicago to Appleton than it would pay under the double local rate from Chicago to St. Paul and thence to Appleton.

Practically the same condition applies to Hutchinson, Sacred Heart, Granite Falls, Montevideo and probably a hundred other stations in the state of Minnesota. How many shippers have paid the through rate when, if their interests had been properly conserved and cared for, they would certainly not have paid more than the total of the two local rates. I know personally of instances where shippers who have paid the through rate, after a stubborn contest with the railway and warehouse commission, have finally secured a refund, bringing their freight rates down to the double local charge.

Through Rates Higher Than Combined Local Rates.

This matter of interstate commerce presents a peculiar condition. Why should a man at Fergus Falls pay 22 cents, or nearly twice as much, to have his wire or nails hauled 178 miles from the Twin Cities as the Twin City shipper paid to have it hauled 410 miles to St. Paul or Minneapolis.

We have heard much of the long and the short haul, but under our new system of figures and our present unfavorable system of transportation the railway companies have shown us that the science of railroading is to make a larger charge for a long haul than for two shorter hauls of the same distance. In other words, it now costs more in the cases stated to have a shipment billed directly through from Chicago or Eastern points to a Minnesota destination without a stop than it does to have it billed to St. Paul or Minneapolis, set out there and then rebilled to its destination. It seems to me that there has been a lack of administration upon the part of some one. I am creditably informed that the attention of the proper authorities was called to this most appalling condition more than six months ago and yet the published tariff schedules today are no different; and there has been absolutely no change.

It seems to me that the shipper and producer, and the citizen generally, have an interest in the regulation of railway rates and more than ever, from a somewhat limited study of the situation, am I convinced that the only remedy to the citizens of this great state lies in giving the railroad and warehouse commission the unquestioned power to determine, establish and fix the rates of transportation and put the burden of proof to show the unfairness of such a rate upon the power which now controls and establishes the rate. Certainly the Municipal league, gathered as you are from all portions of the state, from Breckenridge and Austin, from Luverne perhaps and Fergus Falls, from Glenwood and from Wabasha, have an interest in this great, living, vital question and that interest combines to impose a duty upon this Municipal league to so exert its influence and to so direct its labor that there shall come, through your influence exerted upon the legislators or executive bodies, a fair distribution of rates which will not discriminate against individuals or against localities. In the matter of transportation I believe it to be a scientific fact that the common carriers of the country do have a right and should have a right to discriminate between commodities, but it should not have the right or the power to discriminate between individuals, between localities or between communities.

BADGER.

A few Badger friends gathered at the M. Quesnell home Saturday evening.

The Messrs. R. Gagnon, M. Quesnell and wives visited at S. St. Yves.

Mr. Dona, who has spent part of the winter in the woods arrived home last week.

A crowd of young folks were entertained at the home of Frank LaPlant Friday evening.

Messrs. D. Champeau, O. Robillard and M. Duchorme spent Sunday at the Damasse Lachance home.

Mrs. L. C. Cadieux and children of Terrebonne visited at the home of Louis St. Ives over Sunday and Monday.

Louis Demerais of the Falls visited at his brother's home, Philip Demerais, Sunday and returned home Monday.

Most of the people around here took advantage of the nice roads the first part of the week and done their shopping at the Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Demarais entertained a large number of people last week, dancing was the principal amusement of the evening.

Miss Clara Marchand of Red Lake Falls who has been visiting friends here for several days returned to her home, Monday. No doubt she has had a good time.

Misses Alma Quesnell and Annie Ducharme visited at M. Ducharme's of Perrault a few days of last week and returning home Saturday. They were accompanied by Rudolph Ducharme.

A crowd of young and old people from Red Lake Falls, Terrebonne, Perrault and Badger numbering to forty-five met at the Joe Ducharme home Sunday evening in honor of Miss Clara Marchand. At eleven o'clock refreshments were served and all departed after having enjoyed themselves immensely.

OLD PEOPLE CONSTANT SUFFERERS IN WINTER

Most old people are great sufferers in Winter. They are seldom free from pains or ailments of some description, because they are not as able to withstand the severity of the climate, with its damp, changing weather, as are their younger, more vigorous companions. Cold weather starts the old aches and pains; they suffer with chilly sensations, cold extremities, poor appetite and digestion, nervousness, sleeplessness and other afflictions peculiar to old age. With advancing years the strength and vitality of the system begin to decline. The heart action is weak and irregular, the blood becomes thin and sluggish in its circulation, and often some old blood taint that has lain dormant in the system for years begins to manifest itself. A wart or pimple becomes a troublesome sore or ulcer, skin diseases break out, or the slight rheumatic pains felt in younger days now cause sleepless nights and hours of agony. There is no reason why old age should not be healthy and free from disease if the blood is kept pure and the system strong, and this can be done with S. S. S. It is a medicine that is especially adapted to old people, because it is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, selected for their purifying, healing and building-up properties, and is very mild and gentle in its action. S. S. S. warms and reinvigorates the sluggish blood so that it moves with more rapidity, and clears it of all impurities and poisons. As this rich, healthy stream circulates through the body every part of the system is built up, the appetite and digestion improve, the heart action increases and the diseases and discomforts of old age pass away. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Skin Diseases, Sores and Ulcers, and all troubles arising from diseased blood.

DISEASED CATTLE KILLED

State Authorities Trying to Stamp Out Tuberculosis.

Sixty-five head of cattle have been killed at country points throughout Minnesota in the past fifteen days by the state live stock sanitary board in its fight against tuberculosis. Some of the herds from which the affected cattle were taken belong to dairies which supply milk to the Twin Cities and the animals were tested at the request of the owners.

The dairymen are assisting in the efforts of the state board to protect consumers against affected milk and the requests for tuberculin tests have become so numerous that it is impossible for the two veterinarians employed by the board to meet the demands.

The sanitary board has also killed a number of horses affected with glanders during the past two weeks, over twenty having been killed in St. Paul. At the present time Dr. McDonald, field veterinarian, is examining horses in the lumber camps. Small outbreaks of glanders have occurred in Hubbard, Carlton, St. Louis and Itasca counties and the resources of the live stock sanitary board are taxed to care for the work in hand.

Dr. S. H. Ward executive agent of the board, is rigidly enforcing the inspection and testing of all dairy and breeding cattle which are shipped into the state without proper certificate of health. A number of high priced breeding cattle have been refused admittance to the state and have been returned to their owners. Over 31 head of stock have been killed after being admitted to the state.

COMING LENTEN SEASON.

Will Begin on February 28 and Close April 15th.

The Lenten season for the year 1906 opened on the last day of February—which is eight days earlier than Lent began last year.

Lent begins on Ash Wednesday and terminates on Easter Sunday, covering a period of forty days exclusive of Sundays. Ash Wednesday this year comes on February 28, and Easter Sunday falls on April 15 th.

The first Sunday in Lent will be the 4th of March, Palm Sunday will be the 8th of April, and Good Friday, one of the most important occasions falling in Lent will be the 13th of April.

Last year Ash Wednesday did not occur until the 8th of March, and Easter Sunday was not until the 23 of April Lent was unusually late in that year.

By some religious denominations Lent is observed at a period of fasting and abstinence from all worldly amusements and hence affairs in social circles require some special adjustment as this season approaches.

WILL REACH $3,000,000

Railroad Taxes Will Greatly Exceed All Previous Years.

The railroads of Minnesota will contribute $3,000,000 to the revenue of the state in the shape of taxes this year. It may exceed that amount.

With reports of several railroads missing, among them the Great Western, State Auditor Iverson figured that the amount now to the credit of the state from the railroads was $5,875,000. The others, when filed, will swell the amount to the $3,000.000 figure.

Last year the total amount received from railroads of the state in taxes was $1,971,194.43. This year's figures are the greatest in the history of the state.

The new 4 per cent gross earnings law is, in a measure responsible for the big increase but the main supply comes from the heavy swelling of the receipts of the several roads. All the big roads noted additions in the shape of millions to their receipts which in the case of the smaller roads some of them doubled the amount earned in 1804.

While the Great Northern tax is in dispute and the fight may extend to the Great Western which claims to be operating under a special charter. State Auditor Iverson is figuring everything on a 4 per cent basis.

BIG WATER POWER SCHEME

Murphy Interests Said to be Ready to Build Louisville Dam.

A press special sent out from Crookston yesterday says that so many garbled reports have been published regarding the development of the water power in the Red Lake river in the town of Louisville, Red Lake county, about eight miles southwest of Red Lake Falls, that an authentic account of the plans in connection with the biggest scheme for harnessing the power of the Red or Red Lake rivers ever evolved will be of more than passing interest.

Senator A. D. Stephens of Crookston has owned the site of the water power, or the property upon which it has been located for the past six years, and recently has purchased more land in that vicinity, having secured the deeds to a total of about 2,000 acres. This land was necessary as the erection of the dam to give a fall of from 30 to 40 feet will result in the overflow of from 1,000 to 1,500 acres of land, the lake that will result being one and one-half miles and three miles long.

The land has now all been secured and a bill has been introduced in congress granting a license for the construction of the dam. Engineers from Minneapolis, St. Paul and New York estimate that 20,000 horse power can be developed by the expenditure of from $300,000 to $400,000 and there is twice this capital available it it is necessary. All that has been done so far is the driving of a few piles, but early the coming summer active work of construction will be commenced and the work will be prosecuted as rapidly as possible with the idea of having the power available at the earliest possible date. In 1907, if there are no setbacks in the work, and a year later at the very latest.

The main line conducting the electric current will be run to Crookston and on to Grand Forks and Gentilly, Fisher, Mallory, and East Grand Forks will all be conducted up for electric lights and unlimited power for creameries or any industry in which cheap power is a material factor. Lines will be run to all valley towns where the demand is sufficient to warrant the necessary outlay of erecting poles and wires.

The construction of the monster plant will also mean the consummation of the plans for a trolley line connecting Grand Forks and Fargo with Crookston, and the initial steps have already been taken in connection with this scheme by Chicago promoters who are interested with local capitalists.

THE HEALY PROJECT.

Application to Go Before Grand Forks Council Monday.

Edward L. Healy will make application at the Grand Forks council meeting next Monday night for a franchise for street lighting and the transmission of electricity for power purposes throughout the city. In event the franchise is granted, Mr. Healy will transmit electricity from Red Lake Falls, and he promises that it will be furnished at a price as low or lower than the city could manufacture it with the most modern eqnipment.

The Grand Forks Herald says:

"The matter of Mr. Healy's application has been discussed by citizens for several weeks, and there is a general feeling that the city should grant the franchise, reserving for the city all the benefits that may accrue from such franchise, and allowing Mr. Healy all the privileges that are just and equitable, in order that he may supply electricity for lighting and power purposes at a figure that he promises will be very much lower than is now asked for the same commodity.

Mrs. J. L. Tracy is expected home Saturday or Monday from Lrke City, where she was called by the serious illness of her mother some weeks ago. As announced last week, Mrs. Tracy's mother died last Wednesday and the funeral occured Thursday.

PROSPEROUS MINNESOTA

Figures Showing Wonderful Development of the State.

A late report from the bureau of statistics makes a splendid showing for Minnesota. In all directions save one there has been a healthy increase. The lumber industry shows a decline as compared with 1900, indicating clearly that the state has passed the high water mark of this great industry, which henceforth will decline until at least it assumes a relatively unimportant place among the state's industries.

There were 351 lumber establishments in the state in 1900 and in 1904 there 318. The capital invested has decreased $2,000,000 and is now $34,275,000. The wage payroll shows a decline of about $300,000. The cost of materials used is now $17,295,000 as compared with $23,916,000, and the value of the output is now $41,166,000, as compared with $47,418,000.

The cheese, butter and condensed milk business of the state has grown most satisfactorily. There are now 771 plants as compared with 595 in 1900. The capital has increased from $3.262,000 to $3,305,000 and the wages paid from $397,000 to $633.000. The cost of materials used has increased from $7,176,000 to $11,239,000 and the value of the products from $8,464,000 to $12,871,000.

The value of the flour and grist mill products in 1904 was $12,059,000 as compared with $8,888,000 in 1900: the cost of materials has grown from $73,821,000 to $109,060,000; capital invested from $23,715,000 to $34,857,000, and the number of plants from 336 to 363.

The printing and publishing business valued its output in 1904 at $11,106,000 as compared with $7,700,000 in 1900. The capital invested has grown from $7,598,000 to $8,520,000 and the number of plants from 706 to 894.

The wholesale meat packing business shows a fine increase. The output in 1904 was worth $18,526,000 and in 1900 it was only $7,810,000. The capital has gone up from $1,355-090 to $3,421,000.

For the state as a whole the figures are most gratifying. The total value of products shows a gain of 37 per cent and is $309,607,000. The costs of materials shows a gain of almost 40 per cent, and is $210,450,000. Wages have increased almost 10 per cent. Salaries have increased 48 per cent. Capital invested has increased 38 per cent, and is now $184,302,000. The number of plants has increased 16 percent and is now 4,759.

The Editor's Lot.

A north Missouri editor had a bad month of collections, ate too much for one meal and penned the following:

"It takes wind to run a newspaper; it takes gall to run a newspaper. It takes a scintillating, acrobatic imagination and half a dozen white shirts and a railroad pass to run a newspaper. But money—heavens to Betsy and six hands around, who ever needed money to run a newspaper? Kind words are the medium of exchange that do the business for the editor—kind words and church social tickets.

"When you see an editor with money, watch him. He'll be paying bills and disgracing the profession. Make him trade it out. He lives to swap. Then when you die after having stood around and sneered at his little jimcrow paper, be sure and have your wife send in for three extra copies by one of your weeping children, and when she reads the generous and touching notics about you, forewarn her to neglect to send in 15 cents to the editor. The editor knows it and what he wants is your heartfelt thanks. Then he can thank the printer and they can thank the grocers.

"Don't worry about the editor. He has a charter from the state to act as a doormat for the community. He'll get the paper out somehow; and stand up for you when you run for office, and lie about your pigeon-footed daughter's wedding and blow about your big-footed boys when they get a four-dollar-a-week job, and weep over your shrivled soul when it is released from your grasping body and smile at your gibby wife's second marriage. He'll get along. The Lord only knows how, but the editor will get there somekow."—Ex.

WORK OF STATE LIBRARY

What Has Been Accomplished by This Department of the State.

Mankato Review: A meeting of the Twin City Library club was recently held at the new capitol at St. Paul. Among those that read papers before the meeting was State Librarian King, in which he gave an account and referred to the scope of the work of our state library, a portion of which will be of interest to many. He said in part:

"The state library was established by the act of congress creating the Territory of Minnesota in 1849, and by that act $5,000 was appropriated for the purchase of books. While by custom and common consent it has always been a law library, it was the evident intent of the founders of the state to make its scope broad enough to take up other special or general lines whenever in the wisdom of the legislature it was thought desirable.

"As the state has grown so has the library. In the early days the governor's private secretary acted also in the capacity of librarian at an additional salary of $400. Now there are four people employed at an aggreate yearly salary of $5,400. In the beginning the annual expense for all purposes was less than $1,000, now the annual appropriations aggregate nearly $11,000.

"The library is composed of 55,000 volumes, exclusive of pamphlets and duplicates. The accessions number 2,000 volumes annually. The state library is designed to be a comprehensive and fairly complete collection of books on the subject of law and legislation. As a 'working library' it now ranks with the best in the country, and, if conducted along the lines now being developed, will eventually in every way compare favorably with the best and oldest state libraries. The state library ministers as no other library can to the men who make and enforce laws, to the legislators and judges, to the critical inquirers and investigators throughout the state. The library is made up chiefly of material gathered since the capitol fire of 1881, when practically every book was destroyed.

"A great many of the series of books now on hand are extremely valuable, and could not be duplicated or replaced should they be lost or destroyed. A fair valuation of the library at the present time would be $175,000.

"During the past few years an effort has been made to build up a section of the library devoted to political economy, legal and political biography, legal and political oratory and kindred subjects."

RESUME OF THE NEWS

Fresh——Reliable——Brief

From the Capital.

In the house, Mr. Bartholdt of Missouri made the declaration that if the house failed to restore the canteen to the army, "we are cowards."

Chairman Hull of the military affairs committee, in presenting the army appropriation bill to the house, urged the necessity of complete preparedness as to our army and navy for trouble in the Orient.

An Indian appropriation bill which has been completed by the house committee on Indian affairs carries a total of $7,785,528, which is $358,784 less than the current appropriation and $427,000 less than the estimates submitted. The bill has been entirely remodeled in form over previous appropriation acts.

Horace A. Taylor, assistant secretary of the treasury, tendered to the president his resignation to take effect June 30, 1906. It was accepted. The president assured Mr. Taylor that he fully appreciated the very "efficient service" he has rendered since he became assistant secretary at the beginning of Mr. McKinley's first term.

The famous case of the State of Missouri vs. the State of Illinois, involving the right of the city of Chicago to divert its sewage into the Mississippi river through the Chicago sanitary canal and the Illinois river, was decided yesterday by the supreme court of the United States in favor of Illinois. Justice Holmes delivered the opinion of the court, which was that Missouri did not prove its case. There was no dissent.

Crimes and Criminals.

Richard G. Ivens, the slayer of Mrs. Bessie Hollister in Chicago, will be put on trial March 5.

Evidence against the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance company will be laid before the New York grand jury to-day.

A report from Can Creek, Breathitt county, Ky., states that Henry Turner shot and killed his father-in-law, Elisha Howard. Turner has not been captured.

Ex-Sheriff John B. Trainham of Roanoke City, was murdered in his bed room at Roanoke, Va., his skull being crushed with an axe. Trainham was not known to have had an enemy.

While Rev. Heyward and family of Billings, Mont., were attending divine services Sunday night a thief entered the First Congregational church parsonage and ransacked it. He carried off a valuable ring.

James S. Keerl of Helena, Mont., a well known civil engineer and highly connected socially throughout Montana, must serve ten years for killing Thomas S. Crystal, a Helena bartender, three years ago.

Robert Hannigan, a prominent cattleman of southern New Mexico, has been taken by bandits from a stage near Silver City, N. M., and carried into the Mongollon mountains, to be held presumably for a reward.

Judge Williams of Milwaukee quashed the indictment charging that ex-County Clerk Otis T. Hare and Frank Keogh fraudulently submitted a claim for $9,535 to the county board of 1902 for printing the official ballots.

The federal grand jury at Asheville, N. C., returned two true bills against Congressman E. Spencer Blackburn of the Eighth North Carolina district, charging him with practicing before departments in Washington while a congressman and receiving fees for his services. No warrants for Blackburn have yet been issued.

Diamonds and rings worth $4,000 were stolen from the show window of a jewelry store at Dayton, Ohio, at 6 o'clock in the evening. The thief shattered the glass with a coupling pin, snatched up the jewels and jumped into a buggy driven by an accomplice who prevented pursuit by firing at those who tried to interfere. The sidewalks were crowded at the time, and the considerable excitement that prevailed assisted the marauders in escaping.

Casualty List.

Joseph T. Osburne, an actor of Boston, was killed by being accidentally thrown from a train near Chicago.

An explosion in the Victor Fuel company's Maitland mine at Walsenburg, Colo., caused the death of fifteen miners.

Mrs. Edith Samms, nee Carter, an actress, is at Denver for the purpose, it is said, of instituting a breach of promise suit against Wilson Minzer, who married Mrs. Charles T. Yerkes. It is understood that Minzer is now hurrying to Denver to make an effort to adjust the matter before it is given an airing in the courts.

COMMITTEE ORDERS IT REPORTED TO SENATE WITHOUT AMENDMENT.

TILLMAN PLACED IN CHARGE

DEMOCRAT GIVEN CONTROL OF BILL PASSED BY A REPUBLICAN HOUSE.

Washington, Feb. 25.—By a vote of 8 to 5 the senate committee on interstate commerce yesterday agreed to report the Hepburn railroad rate bill without amendment, but the resolution adopted reserved to the members of the committee freedom of action concerning amendments offered in the senate. By a vote of 5 to 3, Republicans prevailing, Senator Tillman was given the honor of reporting the bill. This gives a Democrat control of a measure passed by a Republican house and indorsed by a Republican president. The vote for the resolution was:

Affirmative—Cullom, Dolliver, Clapp, Tillman, McLaurin, Carmack, Foster and Newlands.

Negative—Elkins, Aldrich, Kean, Foraker and Crane.

Tillman Will Report It.

Senator Aldrich then moved that the bill be reported by Chairman Elkins, but Senators Dolliver and Tillman protested that some friend of the measure should make the report, and Senator Aldrich amended his motion, providing that the report should be made by Senator Tillman.

Chairman Elkins suggested that the report should be made by Senator Dolliver, who had been one of the men who helped draft the Hepburn bill, and a leader in the fight to prevent the adoption of amendments. Only Senator Clapp supported this suggestion, which had been made informally.

A vote was then had on the question as to who should report the bill, resulting as follows:

For Senator Tillman—Aldrich, Kean, Foraker, Crane and McLaurin.

For Senator Dolliver—Elkins, Clapp and Newlands.

Not Voting—Dolliver, Tillman and Foster.

No Obstructive Tactics.

In spite of the fact that the senate was not in session nearly all of the senators were drawn to the capitol by the contest in the committee. As soon as the result was known, speculation began as to the probable procedure on the floor. It was predicted that there would be delays and all sorts of obstructive tactics used. This was contradicted, however, by leading senators. They said they would favor an agreement to place the bill on the calendar as unfinished business, ahead of the statehood bill. They said that the railroad rate question, and the interest that the people have taken in it entitles the question to early consideration. It was agreed that the discussion will be prolonged and as bitter as any that has ever taken place in the senate. All factions concede the Hepburn bill will pass the senate; the only contest will be over an effort to incorporate into the bill some provision for court review of orders of the interstate commerce commission.

CANNOT AVERT STRIKE.

Operator Robbins' View of the Soft Coal Situation.

Pittsburg, Feb. 25.—Francis L. Robbins, chairman of the Pittsburg Coal company and leader of the bituminous coal operators, declared, upon his arrival from New York yesterday, that he could see no possibility of averting a coal strike in the bituminous coal regions. Mr. Robbins said he had met President John Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers of America, in New York, but not for the purpose of considering a settlement of the differences between the bituminous operators and miners.

DIED TO GET MONEY.

Chicago Woman Enters a Burning Building in Search of Savings.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—Returning to her flat to get her money, Mrs. John Hanley met her death in a burning apartment house. Mrs. Hanley had gone from the building with her son at the first alarm. When the firemen had put out the blaze they found the woman unconscious in a closet of her apartment on the third floor. She expired a few minutes later. Three other persons were injured. The loss was $5,000.

"Putty" Strong Arrested.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 25—Maj. Putnam Bradley Strong was arrested in Shanghai, China, recently charged with obtaining goods from various firms under false pretenses. The news comes in a copy of the Shanghai Times of Jan. 20.

"Parson" Davies Stricken.

New Orleans, Feb. 25.—Charles E. better known to every sporting man in the country as "Parson" Davies, was last night stricken with paralysis of the eyes, and total blindness probably will result.

SAYS HE CAN PROVE CHARGES

DETECTIVE CONFIDENT OF HIS CASE AGAINST MINERS' OFFICERS.

Denver, Feb. 25.—Detective James H. McParland has left for Idaho with all the documentary evidence in the Steunenberg murder case, including Harry Orchard's confession. He will testify before the grand jury which is to begin its investigation Monday. Before leaving he asserted that he wishes the federation officers to have a fair trial. He declared that he is amply able to prove his charges.

Orchard's confession, a copy of which is on file in this city, embraces 104 pages, closely typewritten, and contains fully 25,000 words. It was secured by McParland with the aid of two of his stenographers while he interviewed Orchard in the penitentiary at Boise City. It is signed and sworn to, and the main points embraced therein are said to have been duly corroborated. This document will comprise the basis of the trial of Moyer, Haywood, Pettibone and others.

Grants Habeas Corpus Writ.

Boise, Idaho, Feb. 24.—The supreme court late yesterday afternoon issued a writ of habeas corpus in the cases of Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone, accused of the murder of ex-Gov. Steunenberg. The writ is made returnable March 1, at which time a return will be made and a time set for hearing.

MAKING ROAD SURVEY.

Engineers Near the International Boundary.

Duluth, Feb. 25.—A large crew of engineers, working under the direction of E. T. Abbott of Minneapolis, is engaged in surveying a line for a railroad from Gunflint lake, on the international boundary between Minnesota and Canada, to Highland, on the Duluth & Iron Range road. The proposed road is nearly ninety miles in length and runs in a southwesterly direction from Gunflint lake to the station named on the Iron Range road. The line evidently contemplates a connection with the old Port Arthur, Duluth & Western, which is now owned by the Canadian Northern, near Gunflint lake, and looks as if the projectors contemplate a connection that will give Duluth a very direct line to the Canadian Head of the Lakes.

FARMHAND HELD AS THIEF.

Paul Alex Campbell Is Taken to Blue Earth for Trial.

Blue Earth, Minn., Feb. 25.—Paul Alex Campbell was brought from Wells yesterday on a charge of stealing $36 besides a number of articles from the residence of William White, near Walnut Lake, this county. The theft was committed while the family were away from home. Campbell had been employed by White on the farm. He gave Deputy Sheriff Olson a hard chase for several blocks before he was captured. Campbell is now lodged in the county jail here.

ELECTRIC LIGHT FOR HENS.

Minnesota Breeder Makes Their Night Work Easier.

Lake City, Minn., Feb. 25.—F. S Dowe, who runs a large chicken ranch near here, has devised a scheme which he hopes will result in a larger production of eggs. He has had his coops fitted with electric lights, and these are to be kept burning brightly all night, so that if the chickens are seized with a desire to lay an egg during the night they will have sufficient light to enable them to perform the operation with care and exactness.

Farmer Accidentally Killed.

Litchfield, Minn., Feb. 25.—Fred Blunk of Mannanahtown, a well known farmer, met an accidental death by being caught under a load of lumber that tipped over while he was driving home from Litchfield, and crushed him under its weight. He was 63 years old.

Smothered Under Load of Hay.

Marshalltown, Iowa, Feb. 25.—James Nolan, a prominent farmer living near here, while hauling hay, met with an accident that caused his death. The load was overturned in a ditch and Nolan was buried under the hay.

Oil Press Destroyed.

Red Wing, Feb. 25.—One of the hydraulic presses at the Red Wing Linseed mills blew up, entailing damages to the amount of $2,500. No one was near at the time. It will take some weeks to install a new press.

Woman Acquitted.

Helena, Mont., Feb. 25.—Mrs. Nellie Leary, indicted for rifling the mails, was yesterday acquitted by a jury. The defense was insanity. The indictment against her and her husband was then nolled.

Six Poisoned by Cheese.

Iowa City, Iowa, Feb. 25.—L. H. Langenburg, county superintendent of schools, his wife and four children were poisoned by eating cheese. The lives of the children were in peril many hours. All will recover.

Make Indian School Larger.

Pierre, S. D., Feb. 25.—Bids will be opened on March 19 for the construction of a new brick building at the Indian school in this city. The school has been obliged to turn away pupils on account of lack of room.

200,000 FARMERS PLAN A STRIKE

WILL AGREE NOT TO MARKET PRODUCTS EXCEPT AT EQUITABLE PRICE.

MARKET MEN ARE ALARMED

IF MINNESOTA AND KANSAS JOIN THE MOVE ITS SUCCESS IS CERTAIN.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 25.—A strike of the 200,000 farmers comprising the American Society of Equity, an organization with headquarters in Indianapolis, has been called for March 1. Every one who responds will agree not to market agricultural products except at prices that have been decreed as equitable by the officials of the organization.

The response that is being made is said to be causing considerable concern to market men and shippers. A representative of a recognized authority in the wheat trade was here yesterday trying to ascertain what response the call is receiving.

Want $1 for Wheat.

The organization claims that producers ought to get at least $1 per bushel for wheat, irrespective of the size of the crop. It is claimed that the price of any agricultural commodity can be controlled by regulating the marketing Kansas and Minnesota are being canvassed. It is claimed that if these states hold out for the higher prices, the trick will be turned, as Minnesota raises a large percentage of the spring wheat crop and Kansas raises a controlling percentage of the winter wheat crop.

IMPERILLED BY BLAST.

Broadway Throngs in New York in Danger.

New York, Feb. 25.—Spouted high in the air by a tremendous double blast in the excavations for the new Pennsylvania railroad terminal, huge boulders came hurtling into Broadway at its busiest part and in its busiest time yesterday. A veritable shower of shattered fragments of stone dropped upon asphalt and housetops. Several persons had the narrowest kind of escapes. The roar was heard far from the scene of the blasting. One piece of about the general dimensions of a water bucket sped overhead for a distance of of nearly a thousand feet and descended some distance east of Broadway. It struck in the middle of the driveway, after grazing the top of a hansom cab. Nearer the excavation considerable damage was done to stores and residences.

MARVIN HART LOSES FIGHT.

Tommy Burns Makes Alleged Champion Look Like a Novice.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 25.—By those who took Marvin Hart's claim to the world's championship title seriously, Tommy Burns of Chicago may now be considered the heavy weight champion. Burns decisively outpointed Hart last night at the Pacific Athletic pavilion and was given the decision at the end of the twentieth round. From start to finish, with the possible exception of the tenth and twelfth rounds, when Hart had a very small advantage, Burns outfought the bigger man, outgeneeraled him and beat him at every point. At times Burns, although handicapped in weight and height, made Hart look like a novice. Hart failed to show championship form of any sort.

USES REVOLVER AND ROPE.

Young Farmer Makes Death Doubly Certain.

Hokah, Minn., Feb. 25.—Because of ill health John Wagner, a young farmer, residing near here, has committed suicide by shooting and hanging. The young man went to a high bluff overlooking Lake Como. Here he fastened one end of a rope to a tree standing on the edge of the bluff, and placed the noose about his neck. He then shot himself, and as he fell over the edge of the cliff from the revolver shot, the rope tightened about his neck, making death doubly sure.

Dirt Flies on Isthmus.

Washington, Feb. 25.—The isthmian canal commission has received a report from Chief Engineer John F. Stevens at Panama which shows that the total yardage moved on the Culebra division for the month of January exceeded that moved in December, and that the average cost per yard for January was lower.

Two Boys Drowned.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 25.—Two boys, Anton and George Galeweski, aged 11 and 13 years respectively, were drowned in the upper Milwaukee river yesterday by breaking through thin ice while playing. The bodies have not been recovered.

Explosion Kills Four.

Bluefield, W. Va., Feb. 25.—Joe Deado, a foreman, and three other Italians were killed near Rock by the explosion of a can of giant powder yesterday.

RHEUMATIC PAINS

Disappear When Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Purify the Blood and Heal Inflamed Tissues.

Rheumatism is a disease of the blood, caused by the failure of the body to cast off certain poisons. External applications are of use only in securing temporary relief from pain—the cure for rheumatism lies in purifying and enriching the blood.

Mrs. Frederick Brown, of 40 Sumpter street, Sandy Hill, N.Y., was a sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism from the time she was sixteen. She says: "It first appeared in my knee joints, then in my hips and waist. It became a regular thing that I would be laid up all winter. The rheumatism affected mostly my hands, hips, feet and shoulders. My hands were all puffed up and my feet became deformed. I lost my appetite, couldn't sleep and sometimes I was compelled to cry out, the pain was so intense.

"For several winters I was under the doctor's care and while his medicine relieved the pain for a little while there seemed no prospect for a permanent cure. I was confined to my bed, off and on, for weeks at a time. My limbs swelled dreadfully at times and I was reduced almost to nothing.

"In the spring of 1904, upon the advice of a friend, I began to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. At that time I wasn't able to do anything and could barely eat enough to keep alive. I felt a change for the better in about a month. I began to eat heartily and I suffered less pain. Of course I kept on the treatment, using care in my diet, and in about three months I was cured. I am entirely well today and do all my own work."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured Mrs. Brown by driving the rheumatic poisons out of her blood. But you must get the genuine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, sold by all druggists and by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

One More Spot.

Chief Justice Fuller was not long ago the guest of a Southern gentleman who had a servant named John, famous for his mint julep. Soon after Justice Fuller's arrival John appeared, bearing a tray, on which was a long, cool glass, topped with crushed ice and a small tree of mint. With low bows and many smiles he presented it, and watched anxiously while Judge Fuller appreciatively sipped it.

"That touch the right spot, sah?" he queried.

"It does, John, it does," the judge replied.

John disappeared, but was soon recalled by the tinkle of a hand bell. The glass was now empty. The judge looked up with a twinkle in his eye.

"I think I've got another spot, John." he said.

An Official "Jiner."

The most important person in Fort Hancock, Tex., is George Ross, who holds more public offices, probably, than any man in the country. He is postmaster of the town, receiving his appointment from a Republican administration, and is a member of the board of county commissioners of the county, having been elected to that office as a Democrat. In addition to those two offices, he is justice of the peace, being elected to that position as an independent candidate. He is also public school trustee for the precinct.

FOOD AND STUDY.

A College Man's Experience.

"All through my high school course and first year in college," writes an ambitious young man. "I struggled with my studies on a diet of greasy, pasty foods, being especially fond of cakes and fried things. My system got into a state of general disorder and it was difficult for me to apply myself to school work with any degree of satisfaction. I tried different medicines and food preparations, but did not seem able to correct the difficulty.

"Then my attention was called to Grape-Nuts food and I sampled it. I had to do something, so I just buckled down to a rigid observance of the directions on the package, and in less than no time began to feel better. In a few weeks my strength was restored, my weight had increased, I had a clearer head and felt better in every particular. My work was simply sport to what it was formerly.

"My sister's health was badly run down, and she had become so nervous that she could not attend to her music. She went on Grape-Nuts and had the same remarkable experience that I had. Then my brother, Frank, who is in the postoffice department at Washington city and had been trying to do brain work on greasy foods, cakes and all that, joined the Grape-Nuts army. I showed him what it was and could do and from a broken-down condition he has developed into a hearty and efficient man.

"Besides these I could give account of numbers of my fellow-students who have made visible improvement mentally and physically by the use of this food." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

A two-year-old daughter of John Dieckman, living on a farm near Gary, drank the contents of a bottle supposed to contain picture gilding. When the child's mother discovered it, its jaws were firmly locked and had to be pried open to allow the administration of an emetic. It was feared that death would ensue, but later reports say that it is thought the child will recover.

Grain stocks at the head of the lakes now amount to 17,750,000 bushels, the largest total on record. This includes 1,000,000 bushels of grain in Duluth-Superior harbor. The total elevator capacity is about one-half occupied. The bulk of the wheat in store is in elevators on the Duluth side. Stocks increased 360,000 bushels last week, of which 200,000 bushels was wheat and 112,000 bushels of flax. The rest was other grain.

Judge Watts in the district court at East Grand Forks has filed a decision ousting Councilman Jarvis and seating his opponent, August Boerchers. The decision of the court finds that there were four fraudulent votes cast and counted in the election, and that of these Jarvis received three and Boerches one. This gave the latter a majority of two on the ballots found to be regular. The case has been a long drawn out one, and it is likely that the decision of Judge Watts will be appealed to the supreme court.

A public reading room in connection with the library has been opened by the Ladies' Library club of Park Rapids. With the library and reading room is a play room provided with games, and designed especially for the boys of the village who wish to find amusement outside of their homes. These rooms are to be open four evenings each week, and are expected to prove an attraction to the young men and boys. The women have worked hard and faithfully, and the village council has recognized their efforts by donating the use of a room adjoining the library in the village hall.

Word has been received at Crookston that the department of agriculture of the United States is to construct one mile of model road in Minnesota and North Dakota some time during the coming summer. A letter received by F. D. Bell, agent of the Great Northern, asks if it is desired to have the road constructed in the vicinity of Crookston. The proposition will be taken up at once by the business men with the idea of having the road constructed between here and the state experiment farm, north of the city.

WIFE MURDERER HOCH IS HANGED

MAN OF MANY WIVES PAYS PENALTY FOR KILLING ONE OF THEM.

DEATH DOES NOT END APPEAL

ATTORNEYS PLEAD WHILE MAN HANGS—WILL TAKE CASE TO HIGHER COURT.

Chicago, Feb. 25. — Johann Hoch, convicted murderer, confessed bigamist, and who, if but a fraction of the stories of crime that are told of him are true, was one of the greatest criminals this country has ever known, was hanged in the county jail yesterday for poisoning his wife, Marie Welcker-Hoch.

He faced death as he has always said that he would face it when the final moment came—calmly, and concealing any fear he may have felt. He died with a prayer on his lips for the officers of the law, and save for the words "Good by," his last utterance was an assertion that he was innocent.

Attorneys Plead for Delay.

The hanging took place at 12:34 o'clock in the afternoon, while his attorneys were still making desperate efforts for delay. His death, the lawyers say, has not ended the appeal. They propose to carry the case to the supreme court of the United States, and if it is there decided that Koch was unlawfully hanged, proceedings will be commenced against the officers of the law who officiated at the execution.

The time set for the hanging was between 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. Shortly after 9 o'clock his attorneys filed an application for a on the ground that Hoch was held in peril of death in direct violation of the Fourteenth amendment of the Constitution of the United States, which declares, in effect, that no state shall deprive any person of life, liberty or property, without due process of law.

Writ of Habeas Corpus

Judge Landis of the United States court denied the application.

Attorney Maher then asked for an appeal from the decision of Judge Landis. The court responded to this request:

"Later in the day I will enter such an order as will enable you to have this case reviewed by the supreme court. I will not complicate matters by a further delay. It would be much easier for me to grant this man ten days' time in which to have his case reviewed by the United States supreme court, but respect for orderly procedure compels me to do what I have done. That is my order."

Appears Composed.

As soon as it was known that the application for a writ had been denied, preparations were commenced at the jail for the execution of Hoch.

At 1:32 o'clock Hoch stepped upon the drop. His face was ghastly, but he managed to appear composed. He said that he did not care to say anything on the scaffold, but while Deputy Sheriff Peters was pinioning his feet, Hoch spoke up in strong tones and with a pronounced German accent, saying:

"Father, forgive them; they know not what they do. I must die—an innocent man. Good by."

He bit off the last two words crisply and then the drop fell.

Neck Is Broken.

Dr. McNamara, the county physician, declared that death had been instantaneous, the neck having been broken.

Attorney Edward Maher was still making desperate efforts to induce Judge Landis to sign an appeal and grant Hoch a supersedeas until his application for a writ of habeas corpus could be tested by the supreme court. The judge refused steadfastly to interfere.

DRY DOCK DEWEY SIGHTED.

SOLVE A GREAT PROBLEM.

Norwegians Extract Nitrates From the Atmosphere.

The problem of revolutionizing agriculture by taking nitrogen from the atmosphere through chemical processes, and employing it as a fertilizer, is undoubtedly one of the largest and most important tasks that modern chemistry has undertaken. An American company began operations several years ago at Niagara Falls, claiming to have found a successful electrical process, but its practical results have been disappointing. The problem, however, seems to have found a practical solution in Norway. According to a writer in the Cologne Gazette, plans are on foot to utilize the vast water power of that country on a large scale in producing nitrogen. One establishment of 1,000-horse power near Christiania has already been in operation for some time, and Norwegian farmers have begun to fertilize their fields with the nitrates there produced. Still nearer to that city a much larger concern is building. It will begin with 10,000-horse power, but will later be increased to double that amount.

A far more ambitious plan, even outranking the immense waterpower hitherto developed at Niagara, is taking shape nearly 100 miles west of Christiania on the Manely, where it drops 800 feet perpendicularly into a chasm. Above this fall, the Rjukanfos (smoking waterfall), will be built a dam which will make a reservoir of nearly 800,000,000 cubic yards as a guarantee against the fatal summer shrinkage of all Norwegian streams. It is proposed here to develop 220,000-horse power. French and Dutch capitalists are interested in the undertaking, the former through the great Paris bank, the Credit Lyonnais.

The method for separating nitrogen from the atmosphere used in Norway is that of Prof. Birkeland, a chemist of Christiania. He uses electricity, but only indirectly, for creating the intensely high temperatures needed to force the atmosphere to give up its nitrogen. With a current of 500 volts, yielding an energy of from 50 to 200 kilowatts, he heats a furnace to a maximum of 2,500 degrees Celsius, which produces a roaring flame four to six feet high. A current of air passed through the furnace gives off 2 to 3 per cent of its volume in a nitrogenous oxyde, which is converted into nitric acid by passing it through water. For fertilizing purposes this product is manufactured into nitrate of lime, though some chemists say that nitrate of soda would be preferable, owing to its lower volatility.

Through Birkeland's method a ton of nitrate of lime can be made yearly with one horse power. The establishment at the Rjukanfos will therefore be able to make 220,000 tons annually. When it is mentioned that Germany alone consumes yearly 580,000 tons of Chilean nitrate of soda, it is evident that the new industry has a most promising outlook for the sale of its output. Moreover, it is estimated by competent authorities that the supply of nitrate of soda in Chile and Peru will be exhausted in fifteen or twenty years, after which the artificial product would be left in sole possession of the world's markets. The recent high advance in the price of Chilean nitrate, too, puts a premium upon the success of Birkeland's system from the start.

His method is also attracting considerable attention outside of Norway. It is reported that a German concern has acquired his patents for Germany, and experiments with a German system have already been made in Bladbeck in Westphalia, but great secrecy is maintained concerning the results reached. At least two German chemists, Prof. Muthmann of Munich and Dr. Otto Scheuer of Darmstadt, are engaged in working out the problem of utilizing atmospheric nitrogen. In Italy a great establishment which will apparently employ Birkeland's method, is in course of construction at the falls of the Tiber, at Terni, above Rome. The nitric acid to be produced in Germany, however, will not be used in making fertilizers, but explosives. In Germany and at Rjukanfos, power will be created at very low cost, not more than $6 to $7.50 per horsepower yearly, cheapness of power being necessary to the success of Birkeland's method.

Royal Ski Runners.

King Haakon and Queen Maud are training most industriously to go on ski and have already made such progress that they join in cross-country runs. Recently they accompanied a party to Tyrivandet.

BOLD SMUGGLERS.

Defy Swedish Officials and Threaten With Guns.

Smuggling is conducted on a large scale in Hietaniemi and Tornea, Sweden, from over the Finnish border. The smugglers have become so bold that they conduct their work as openly as legitimate tradesmen, and defy the customs house officials. They form large caravans and drive over the border right before the eyes of the officials, and if these make any attempt to interfere a dozen guns are raised in a twinkling, at which the officials find it very prudent to retire. The drivers and guards are masked to prevent their detection in the future. One caravan consisted of eleven sledges and twenty mounted men. The work has become so profitable that many hitherto respectable persons have engaged in the traffic. One lot of goods taken over the frontier included 3,000 kilograms of tobacco and cigarettes, on which the duty is particularly high.

An Eidsvold Monument.

Steps are being taken in Norway to raise a worthy monument to commemorate the declaration of independence at Eidsvold on May 17, 1814.

On Jan. 30 about 160 of the leading men and women of Norway met at Christiania to start the movement. In the gathering were government officials, members of the storthing, high officers of the army and navy, professional men and wealthy merchants.

There was some discussion as to whether or not the monument should combine the events of 1814 and 1905, but it was decided that the monument in memory of 1905 could well be left to posterity. Sophus Arctander was elected president of the general body and Prof. Yngvar Nielsen vice president. A general executive committee of twenty-one members was appointed, also an art committee of seven members and a finance committee of twelve.

Industrial Activity.

There is a movement on foot by the Swedish government to establish a permanent waterpower commission for the development of the numerous waterfalls in the crown lands. A preliminary survey shows that the state controls no less than thirty-two falls of considerable size, which at low water are estimated to yield no less than 400,000-horse power. With such vast resources for motive power going to waste every day, the authorities have awakened to the realization that it is high time the government took the lead in the encouragement of industrial activity. That the resources of Sweden are only developed to a limited extent has been known in a general way for a long time, but no estimate has been made until recently. If the work is begun and pushed with vigor an era of increased prosperity will dawn for Sweden.

Gundersen Is Champion.

Gundersen, the Norwegian skater, is again the champion skater of the world. At the international races at Davos, Switzerland, on Jan. 27 and 28, he won three of the championship races for 1,000, 1,500 and 5,000 meters. His time in the 1,500-meter race was 2:27 1-5, Schilling and Coning being respectively 4 and 5 seconds behind. Coning, the Dutch champion, won the 10,000-meter race (about six and two-thirds miles) in 18:50 1-5, Gundersen being 5 seconds behind. The gold medal is valued at about 500 francs, and in addition Gundersen received a cash prize of 1,000 francs.

King Oscar's Charity.

King Oscar's birthday on Jan. 21 was observed with the usual formalities in Stockholm. Flags were flown from nearly all the buildings in the city and the ships in the harbor. At the palace the customary ball and reception was held. King Oscar distributed clothing to 100 poor children. Queen Sophie sent 1,000 kroner to the general poor commission, which distributed the amount among seventy five families in sums of 10 kroner to 20 kroner.

Repeal Laws Favoring Norwegians.

Bohuslan's representatives in the Swedish riksdag have made a demand for an immediate revision of the Swedish laws in anywise growing out of the union with Norway, as such laws might in time lead to complications of a more or less serious character. Particular attention is called to the law of 1868 permitting Norwegians to possess real estate in Sweden, which the riksdag deputies appear to believe is a dangerous matter. Other privileges were granted his majesty's Norwegian subjects, and these should be recalled.

Born That Way.

A member of the house from New England tells of an occasion when he overheard an amusing colloquy between the late Thomas B. Reed and a darkey barber.

The "tonsorial artist" was inclined to be talkative, but to all his efforts at conversation the big man from Maine returned only a monosyllable or a grunt.

Finally, the barber patted the cranium of the speaker, whereon reposed one or two stray locks, saying:

"De hair's gittin pretty thin, sah. Been that way long?"

"I was born that way," dryly returned Reed.

Pity the Working Woman.

"Poor woman! She works hard all day, and then she's up nearly all night with the babies."

"What's the matter with her husband? Why doesn't he help her?"

"Oh, he puts in all his time agitating for an eight-hour day for workingmen."

Prominent Minnesota Merchant Cured to Stay Cured by Doan's Kidney Pills.

O. C. Hayden, of O. C. Hayden & Co., dry goods merchants, of Albert Lea, Minn., says: "I was so lame that I could hardly walk. There was an unaccountable weakness of the back, and constant pain and aching. I could find no rest and was very uncomfortable at night. As my health was good in every other way I could not understand this trouble. It was just as if all the strength had gone from my back. After suffering for some time I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. The remedy acted at once upon the kidneys and when normal action was restored the trouble with my back disappeared. I have not had any return of it."

Mars Moving Nearer.

Garrett P. Serviss, the celebrated astronomer, says that in July, 1907, Mars will be 10,000 miles nearer the earth than to-day, when the planet will attract attention not only from astronomers but from the general public, so striking will it appear in the heavens.

Nature's Way Is Best.

The function strengthening and tissue building plan of treating chronic, lingering and obstinate cases of disease as pursued by Dr. Pierce, is following after Nature's plan of restoring health.

He uses natural remedies, that is extracts from native medicinal roots, prepared by processes wrought out by the expenditure of much time and money, without the use of alcohol, and by skillful combination in just the right proportions.

Used as ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, Black Cherrybark, Queen's root, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot and Stone root, specially exert their influence in cases of lung, bronchial and throat troubles, and this "DISCOVERY" is, therefore, a sovereign remedy for bronchitis, laryngitis, chronic coughs, catarrh and kindred ailments.

The above native roots also have the strongest possible endorsement from the leading medical writers, of all the several schools of practice, for the cure not only of the diseases named above but also for indigestion, torpor of liver, or biliousness, obstinate constipation, kidney and bladder troubles and catarrh, no matter where located.

You don't have to take Dr. Pierce's say-so alone as to this: what he claims for his "Discovery" is backed up by the writings of the most eminent men in the medical profession. A request by postal card, or letter, addressed to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a little book of extracts from eminent medical authorities endorsing the ingredients of his medicines, will bring a little book free that is worthy of your attention if needing a good, safe, reliable remedy of known composition for the cure of almost any old chronic, or lingering malady.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic.

The most valuable book for both men and women is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. A splendid 1008-page volume, with engravings and colored plates. A copy, paper-covered, will be sent to anyone sending 21 cents in one-cent stamps, to pay the cost of mailing only, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. Cloth-bound, 31 stamps.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

MERCHANTS of Richmond, Va., have practically cut out every class of advertising except newspaper advertising. All advertising is, we believe, of some benefit, but the student of publicity will determine that the best advertising is that obtained through the columns of the weekly press.

IT is just as true today as it ever was that the safest and most honorable way for a man to secure a competence is to do it little by little, taking a little time for the work. The haste to be rich and make money fast is the economic curse of America to-day. Every man wants to draw a prize in the business lottery and it is seldom indeed that he is content with small savings and safe investments.

THE Adrian Democrat says that a man in that town went into one of the drug stores and bought a bottle of some patent stuff which was advertised thus: "No More Coughs. No More Colds. 25 Cents a Bottle." Three days later he went to the druggist complaining that his throat was stopped up and that he could scarcely breath. "I've drunk all that cough mixture," he said. "Drunk it!" yelled the man; "why, that was an India Rubber solution to put on the soles of your boots!"

THE Thief River News sends forth the edict that the next county attorney must come from that city, but with all deference to Bro. Eastman's attempt to settle the question long before the May breezes blow, he will be reminded that the present incumbent is still in the game. Mr. Germo is serving his first term; he has demonstrated his ability to perform the work of the office with credit, and is deserving of another term. The people will probably see that he gets it, the News to the contrary notwithstanding.

THE Portland Oregonian remarks that Depew is a typical parasite. All his days he has fared sumptuously, on the fruit of other men's industry, but he never has done a useful act or originated a useful idea. His ability is somewhat above mediocrity, his voice and person were pleasing in their prime and he had a way of uttering vapid platitudes which was singularly adapted to tickle the ears of rich diners whose wits were befuddled with champagne. Master of all the arts of the courtier, he exercised them with consummate skill upon the reigning millionaires in New York and became the star favorite in their carnival of corruption.

Redwood Gazette, (Rep.): If there is anyone who doubts Gov. Johnson's vote-getting capacity they should have followed his trail in Duluth from Saturday to Monday, Feb. 10th. to 12th inclusive. It was a continual ovation for the governor and his wife. Three speeches were made by the former, and each address won for him many votes. His efforts are still the talk of the Zenith City. It will take a strong man to defeat the man who has so deeply ingratiated himself into the hearts of the people of rock-ribbed Republican Duluth.

PHOTOGRAPHING MARS.

The so-called "canals" of Mars have been successfully photographed at the Lowell observatory, Flagstaff, Arizona—a feat never before accomplished. Percival Lowell, in an article on the subject in Popular Astronomy, says that attempts to secure negatives that would show the canals have been made since 1901, but without success. Lent is here, and the social world will take a needed rest. Certainly Red Lake Falls has had its share of "doings" the past few weeks.

It is rumored that a millinery store will soon be established in the building formerly occupied by Miss Kathrine Ford. The room is being repaired this week.

The ladies of St. Mary's church will meet on Thursday afternoon, March 8, at the home of Mrs. John Deutschman. All are cordially invited to be present.

The closing out sale at O'Brien Bros. hardware store will continue until March 10. The stock is complete, and this is a great opportunity to get hardware cheap.

O'Brien Bros. have extended their closing out sale until March 10, and all those wishing to get anything in the hardware line at cost should not neglect this opportunity.

For sale cheap—10 thoroughbred single-comb White Leghorn cocks. This stock is from the Crookston experimental farm and of a strain of good layers.—P. O. Floan.

Sam E. Hunt left Monday evening for Minneapolis, where he will attend the annual meeting of the state hardware association Thursday and Friday. Sam expects to be away until Monday.

Everybody should deposit their earnings with the First State Bank of Red Lake Falls, and pay their bills by checks. Begin now and see how convenient it is.

The twelve-year old son of Moses Ducharme suffered a slight dislocation of the neck while playing last Thursday. Fortunately the injury was not serious and the boy is up and around again.

Ephriam Trombley's residence on the north side was destroyed by fire early Sunday moning, and none of the contents were saved. The house was and old one and quite small, and the entire loss is not more than $250.

Ed. L. Healy has recently closed a deal for a half section of land in Lake Pleasant, the buyer being George D. Dayton, the Minneapolis dry goods man, who already holds a considerable slice of Red Lake county dirt.

The pupils of the Longtin school, just east of town, gave a Washington program Saturday evening, and a large audience of the patrons enjoyed the entertainment. Prof. Harlow's school is one of the best in the county.

Miss Clara Marchand commenced work at the county treasurer's offce last week, and will become a permanent fixture at the court house. The county board recently made an allowance of $300 annually to Treasurer Hansen for clerk hire.

J. A. Wilson of Thief River Falls will be married on March 6 to Miss Anne Smith, the evangelist who held a series of meetings in Red Lake Falls last year. Both Mr. Wilson and Miss Smith are well known here, and their many friends will extend congratulations.

A basket social was held at the school house in district 81, Terrebonne, Friday evening, and a good-sized crowd was present. About $28 was netted, and the amount will be applied on the purchase of an organ for the use of the school. Charles Moller is the teacher of this school.

H. B. Howes, a Great Northern civil engineer who was employed in Red Lake Falls for some months a year ago, visited over Sunday with friends. Mr. Howes is now engaged on the extension from Greenbush to Warroad. He says the line to the latter point will be completed this summer.

On account of the Savage English grand opera company, which produces "Faust" at Grand Forks March 8, the Northern Pacific will make a rate of one fare and a third for the round trip. Tickets will be sold March 8, good returning March 9. For further particulars see F. A. Mizen, agent.

Leroy Clark, formerly business manager of the Crookston Journal, is now advertising agent for the Great Northern. This is one of the most important positions in the railway service, and it takes a first-class man to "make good." Those who know Clark will not question his ability to do so.

The graduating class of the high school this year will be composed of eleven members, six girls and five boys. The class is already busy preparing for the eventful occasion, and from now until the ides of June the prospective graduates will have little time for duties other than those pertaining to their school work.

Justice Swanson informs us that after March 1 he will refuse to issue papers of any kind until the new code arrives and he has had opportunity to look it over. There will doubtless be a lull in legal affairs all over the state for ten days or two weeks—or until the lawyers, judges and court officials know what the law is.

J. M. Bray announces that he will leave with his family in a few weeks for Calgary, Assiniaboi, where he will run a hotel. Calgary is one of the growing cities of western Canada, and the prospects for business during the next few years are most encouraging. Mr. Bray expects to lease his saloon business in Red Lake Falls.

A professional cistern cleaner tells that at least once a year each housewife should put a cupful of common baking soda into the cistern. It not only kills all insect life that may be in the water, but renders it softer and better for all purposes, even for drinking. It will make cleaning unnecessary, unless trash has been dropped into the cistern.

The running team of the Red Lake Falls fire department has already commenced practice for the races at the Warren tournament next June. The gymnasium room is used for training quarters. The local team generally gets what it goes after, and the other contestants might as well make up their minds that a hard fight will be necessary to carry off the laurels.

Frank A. Whiteley, for four years superintendent of the Red Lake Falls schools, is now located at Washington, D. C., where he has a lucrative civil service position in the patent office. Mr. Whiteley is possessed of plenty of versatility and enterprise to "make good," and his many friends up this way will hope for his rapid rise in the government service.

The Grand Forks council will act upon the application of Ed L. Healy for an electrical power franchise next Monday evening. The mayor and all the members of the council are said to favor Mr. Healy's proposition, so there ought to be no question as to the outcome. Mr. Healy's project is well under way, and finances have been assured to complete the work of installing the plant without delay.

An appeal in the Nels Otterness estate has been taken from the probate court by the brothers of the deceased, represented by Germo & Farley. The brothers object to the allowance of a claim of $900 in favor of A. M. Edstrom, the associate of Otterness in the hardware business at St. Hilaire. The case will probably be tried at the March term of the district court.

It is given out unofficially—or perhaps we had better say excathedra—that the Great Northern will have at least a hundred men employed during the spring and summer in widening the cuts and making other repairs in and about Red Lake Falls. The railroad company has had a great deal of trouble here during the past few years with sliding clay in the cuts, and this is to be remedied for all time.

The senior class play, "Jane Eyre," was produced at the opera house Friday evening, and about $72 was netted. As the amount of money received indicates, an unusually large crowd was present, and the cast did its work so well that individual mention would hardly be fair. This drama is counted a heavy one, and the fact that it was presented so well speaks volumes for the histronic ability of the senior class.

At a special meeting of the fire department Sunday afternoon it was decided to purchase 25 uniforms for the boys. The suits will be of light grey material, with black braid, military cut, and the total cost will be about $250. The money will be borrowed temporarily from the firemen's relief association, which now has about $600 in the treasury and a prospect of about $200 more as soon as the state insurance tax is apportioned.

A new law regulation the sale of fowls will go into effect March first. Every person who shall offer or expose for sale at retail, for human food, at a public market, store, shop or house, or in or about the street or public place, any domestic fowls or slaughtered rabbit, squirrels or other small animals wild or tame, unless the entrails, crops or other offensive parts are properly drawn and removed, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

A special ditch meeting of the county board will be held next Tuesday to determine the matter of constructing a five-mile ditch beginning at the southwest corner of 29, Sanders, and terminating in the Black River, near the southeast corner of 34, Black River township. A number of the prominent farmers are objecting to the construction of the ditch, and many others are equally as determined to have it, so an interesting session may be expected.

The Thief River Falls city council having ignored the demand of Mrs. Borgela Feister for damages which she claimed by reason of having sustained injuries by falling on a defective sidewalk, Mrs. Feister this week commenced suit against the city through her attorneys Walseth & Tautges. She alleges her damages at $5,750.00. The matter has been referred to the city attorney and it is understood that the city will make no attempt to settle, but on the contrary will fight the case vigorously.

The manufacturing statistics for Minnesota, covering the calendar year 1904, and compared with the same statistics for 1900, were issued yesterday by the bureau of the census at Washington, D. C. In all directions save one there has been a healthy increase. The lumber industry shows a decline as compared with 1900, indicating very clearly that the state has passed the high water mark in this great industry, which henceforth will decline until at last it becomes a relatively unimportant place among the state's industries.

Rufus Poirier and W. B. Cheshire were among the number who came up from Brooks Thursday night.

Miss Emma Sathre arrived here on Tuesday from Thief River Falls to spend a few days visiting with Mr. and Mrs. John A. Rothstein.

Mrs. Con Short, Miss Maggie Short and J. E. Walker were in from their home in Equality to take in the ball on Thursdey night

Jo Morrisette made a hurried trip to Brooks on Tuesday to secure medical aid for John Brekke's little grand daughter, who is quite ill.

Erick Fangstrom had the misfortune to break his left collar bone on Tuesday by falling from his wagon box while visiting at the home of John Mostrom near Radney. He got the injured member dressed in Thief River Falls and came home on Thursday.

Christ Morsing went to St. Paul on Monday with a carload of stock. The car contained twenty-two head of cattle which came nearer to being beef than any we have ever seen shipped from Red Lake county. He says it's easy to keep cattle in fine condition in this country where timothy and clover grows so well.

CHAPTER I.

The President's Message.

There is no fairer spot in all Venezuela than the valley of Coroni, and there is no brighter luxuriance in the valley of the Coroni than that of the great plantation of General Jose Salvarez, which lies on the left bank of the Coroni about twenty miles from the point of confluence of that river with the great Orinoco. Here are raised coffee, second to none, not even the famous product of Maracaibo; sugarcane, bananas, cotton, indigo, cocoanuts, corn and wheat.

Along the river was a thick growth, where, among many other things, could be found caoutchouc, the tonka-bean and gutta-percha.

Besides being the proud owner of twelve thousand acres of this magnificent and wealth producing territory, General Salvarez was the commanding general of all the troops of the Republic of Venezuela south of the Orinoco. There were, in all, not more than a thousand, and were scattered over miles of territory; but under the immediate command of General Salverez, quartered in the comfortable fortress which formed part of Castle Salvarez, was a regiment consisting of two hundred men, with a battery amounting to six guns; and at the city of Bolivar, above the Coroni, on the Orinoco, was a small company in the tumbledown barracks that formed a poor shelter even when they needed shelter least. Some of these soldiers of the Republic were of Spanish blood without mixture; some were negroes, and some were Indians; but the majority were half-breeds, the descendants of whites and negroes or whites and Indians. There was another type of half-breeds, too utterly worthless for use as soldiers, and thoroughly untrustworthy, the result of a mixture of negro and Indian blood. There were many of these in the Coroni valley, and they frequently made trouble. Their patriotism was nothing. They were ready for any uprising or deeds of violence for which they were well paid. These were the Zambos, the distinctive name of their type.

The forces of General Salvarez were fairly well armed and disciplined brave, and thoroughly devoted to the Republic. They adored their brave commander, and were ever ready to follow him, ever faithful, unflinching, uncomplaining.

General Salvarez was a very wealthy man. In fact, it had been said that he could not count his wealth. Taking this to mean that the value of his crops depended on favoring weather and the worth of his great herds of cattle out on the llanos, or plains, rose and fell increased or diminished by favoring or untoward circumstances, then the saying was true. Be that as it may, Don Jose Salvarez was a wealthy man, a general of the Republic and a personal friend of President Crespo.

But of all the valuable possessions of Don Jose Salvarez, none compared, in his estimation, with his lovely wife, Dona Maria, or his daughter, Senorita Jacinta.

Senorita Jacinta was the brightest jewel of the Coroni valley, and no one knew this or appreciated it better than Senorita Jacinta. She was the toast and often the sweetheart of the officers of the garrison, and with whom she would frequently promenade under the frowning guns, with her mantilla thrown loosely about her well-rounded form, and her black eyes snapping with the passions of her southern blood.

Senorita Jacinta, at the time our story opens, was about 18 years of age; but maturity comes early to the girls of the warm countries, and Jacinta's physical developement compared well with that of an American young woman of 23 or 24.

I have spoken of Jacinta as sometimes being the sweetheart of an officer in her father's garrison.

But it was not only the officers of the garrison that loved Jacinta. Pedro Francisco, the wealthiest land and cattle owner south of the Orinoco save General Salvarez, had wooed her persistently; but Jacinta was a republican, and Francisco leaned toward Spain, and she would have none of him.

Though Jacinta had had many lovers at her feet, her own heart had never yet been touched. Yet so quick was her nature, so warm her blood, that it needed but a spark to kindle the flame. Love at first sight is more than a possibility with girls of Jacinta's temperament. It is the rule. And when once that fathomless depth of fire and passion should spring into volcanic action, who can tell the consequences of herself—and others!

The castle of General Salvarez was, like all other houses of wealthy men in the Orinoco valley, situated on high ground, to keep it up out of the floods that sometimes cover the land. It was a great square building, partly of stone, partly of iron, and partly of cement.

But there was to come a time when this repose was to be rudely interrupted; when the soul of Jacinta was to be torn by grief and anxiety; when for a moment she was to know the consuming power of love; when the voice so sweet in song would tremble as it pleaded for mercy.

And there was coming a time when the peaceful valley of the Coroni would run with blood; when the hateful passions of wicked men would wreck peace and happiness; and when even the Orinoco itself, as it flowed majestically to the sea, would carry with it the crimson testimony of the conflict between Right and Wrong, between Passion and Patriotism, between Heaven and Hell. For the hand of God is in the battle, and when the swords of the defenders of Right are weak. He brings a powerful sustenance to the waning strength, or sends some message of His power to stay the course of the powers of Evil.

One day General Salvarez was sitting on his shady porch, smoking his after-dinner cigar. When three horsemen, covered with dust, and bearing other evidence of a long and hurried journey, came up the shell road leading to the castle and saluted the commander.

General Salvarez rose in some surprise to meet them, for he recognized their uniforms as belonging to the general staff at Caracas.

"From the President," said one, leaping from his horse and placing a packet in the general's hand.

Salvarez replied graciously, and took the packet.

"How far have you come in the saddle?" he asked. "Not from Caracas, surely, else how did you cross the Orinoco?"

"We came from Caracas, nevertheless," said the officer, "but our horses came only from Bolivar. We rode to the Orinoco, and at the village of Cando left our horses, hired some fishermen half-breeds to row us over, obtained fresh horses at Bolivar, and hurried on."

"Your message must be important," said the general.

He called an officer, and, having ordered the best entertainment for the three riders that the castle afforded, sat down to read his message. As he read, his brow grew dark with anger:

"Gen. Jose Salvarez," the message ran—"We are in receipt of cable dispatches from our consul in New York city, conveying the startling news that a band of conspirators sailed from that port on the 6th of this month, June, in steamer Agostura, bound for Ciudad Bolivar, carrying a cargo of firearms and ammunition, invoiced as agricultural implements, and consigned to Pedro Francisco, the friend of Spain in your valley. The startling information is furnished by the consul that the chief conspirators are Don Juan Garza, who was driven out of Venezuela some years ago for conspiring against the government, and Ferdinand Gomez, a most unscrupulous adventurer. The object of this expedition is to organize an army in remote regions, seize property and march on Caracas, overthrowing this government and replacing it with a monarchy. The information is also furnished that the conspirators are accompanied by a mysterious person who wears the royal purple and the arms of the house of Aragon. He is addressed as king by his associates, and is probably the one chosen to be monarch of Venezuela in case of a successful invasion or uprising. You will accordingly take prompt and effective measures to give these invaders a warm reception and prevent the landing of these arms. You will also need to keep your own force well in hand, for it is certain that a few men would not undertake this task unless they were assured of prompt support by the natives.

"If necessary, sink the ship with all on board, but I would prefer to have this Pretender, who is known as Philip of Aragon, seized alive, that his identity may be ascertained.

"The Agostura may never come to port, for we shall have gunboats watching for her in the usual path of steamers, and also at the mouth of the Orinoco. Should she succeed in passing, she will be due at Bolivar about the 18th.

"The consul further states that Don Juan Garza, who seems to be the most powerful among the conspirators, is accompanied by his daughter, a beautiful girl, who is to be married against her will to this Philip of Aragon, when he becomes King of Venezuela. This is put here to explain to you the fact that two young American gentlemen, one of whom is engaged to be married to Don Juan's daughter, will arrive at Bolivar on the Steamer Callao, bearing letters of introduction from the consul. As these young men are earnest in their efforts to defeat the purposes of Garza and his associates, show them the courtesies due citizens of our great and friendly neighbor, the United States.

"CRESPO, President."

When General Salvarez had read this through, the clouds cleared away from his brow, and he lighted another cigar and strolled leisurely away to meet his subordinate officers, and to communicate the news to them.

General Salvarez felt that he had no cause to feel alarmed or disturbed over the news he had received from Caracas. In the first place, the Agostura, allowing that she reached the Ciudad Bolivar, at all, would not arrive for four days to come. But Salvarez did not for a moment believe that the ship of the adventures would ascend the Orinoco, for it would hardly be possible that she could pass the gunboats at the delta, even though she had succeeded in eluding those farther north. Therefore, there was ample time for Salvarez to act, and no reason to depart from the usual dignified deliberation and coolness.

His first thought was to place a spy on the heels of the wealthy Pedro Francisco, to dog his footsteps. But, he reflected, Francisco was far more shrewd than the most capable spy he could select, and having been put on his guard, might find a way to defeat the watchfulness of the officers of the Republic.

Salvarez, however, found that he could not obey the commands of the President without betraying to the enemies of the Republic the fact that their plot was discovered.

In the first place, there was only one gun at Bolivar, and it was nearly worthless. Cannon had to be dragged there from the castle. The infantry would have to be withdarwn, surely by the 16th, to march to Bolivar, for it was at Bolivar, no doubt, that the first act of aggression was to take place.

So the General abandoned all thoughts of secrecy, placed a garrison of thirty men in charge of the castle, fondly kissed his wife and Jacinta good-bye, and marched away to Bolivar, with his band playing merrily, his hundred and sixty odd men marching proudly, and his artillery, consisting of two guns lumbering along in the rear.

Reaching Bolivar, he so placed his guns as to command the river, and calmly awaited the 18th and the Agostura.

The 18th came, but no steamer came in sight, General Salvarez smiled calmly to himself at this verification of his hopes. The gunboats had captured the Agostura. The soldiers played games and got drunk, for surely no enemy was near.

The 19th was a day of impatience, for, although it was plain that Agostura need not be expected at Bolivar and Salvarez was in a hurry to get back to his plantation, it was not becoming in a general of the Republic and a friend of the President to put his private affairs ahead of the safety of the Republic, so he remained at his post.

On the 20th the steamer El Callao, from New York, arrived at her dock, and among her passengers were two young Americans, named Arthur Medworth and Jack Tempest.

Medworth was a tall, handsome young fellow, about twenty-two years of age; and Tempest was taller still, and of a gigantic breadth of shoulder, his development showing great muscular strength.

These young men at once inquired for General Salvarez, and, having found him, placed in his hand two very satisfactory letters of introduction from the Venezuelan consul at New York.

When General Salvarez had read the letters of introduction and greeted the young men warmly, he took them to his headquarters.

"Now, gentlemen," he said, when they were comfortably seated, "please give me all the information you have in regard to this business. I am working mostly in the dark. The Agostura, now. What do you know of her.

Fancies in China.

Much of the handsome china used nowadays is marked with the monogram or crest of the owner. It is a distinctive mark that differentiates the china from all the other ware, and the lettering is an ornament in itself. It is usually the more simple china that is ornamented in this way, and an attempt is made always to put the lettering upon the side or wing of a plate, as the professional will say, to prevent wear. Old-time china was frequently marked in the center of the plate and the marking was worn away by the knife and fork. In some instances entire sets of china for different courses are marked, and always each piece of a dish—the cover, the dish itself, and, if soup tureen, the piece upon which it rests. The letters for the marking are always the initials of the mistress of the house and are put on in script in preference to the black letters. The lettering is usually in gold, but occasionally one letter will be put in color and the others in gold. The gold may be flat or raised, and upon this will depend largely the cost of the lettering.—Chicago Journal.

Odd Breach of Promise Case.

One of the most remarkable breach of promise cases that have ever been brought before the courts is about to be tried in Athens. Plaintiff, a young woman from the village of Marcopoulo, some 35 miles from Athens, bases her claims upon an ancient custom of the village, which, it is held, will influence the jury in her favor. The custom, which has the force of law in the village, is as follows: On certain fete days the villagers assemble on the green, when dancing is indulged in. Any girl, wishing to marry drops her handkerchief, and the swain who picks it up is bound to marry her. In the case in question the young man, who picked up the handkerchief by accident, had never seen the girl before. When acclaimed by the assembled villagers as the prospective husband of the girl, he demurred, hence the action at law. The young girl is decidedly good looking, and his lack of taste in not taking her for a bride is much commented on in the village.

Turning Smoke Into Light.

A Belgian engineer named Tobiansky of Altorff is said to have just discovered a means for turning smoke into light. His apparatus collects the smoke, no matter from what fire, forces it into a filtered receiver, where it is saturated with "hydro-carbure" and turned into a brilliant light. By means of this invention, which the Belgian papers are all busy discussing at the moment, an ordinary kitchen fire can be made to produce a light equal to that of 50 Becs Auer, or, if preferred, it can be made to warm four or five ordinary rooms or drive a gas engine of four or five horse-power.

Booker T. In New York.

Booker T. Washington is in New York city urging upon the negroes the necessity of working for practical and not imaginary needs. In that city there are 65,000 negroes, and Prof. Washington is devoting his time in the line of widening their field of employment. "Stop talking politics and work," is the burden of his advice to his colored brethren.

A meeting or reunion of the graduates of a deaf mute school was held in a Western city recently, and an account of the proceedings was sent out to newspapers by a local scribe. This account contained a careful list of "speakers."

Country of Bathers.

From 800,000 to 1,000,000 persons go to the public baths of Tokio, Japan, daily, and there are tens of thousands of private baths besides. The town has fewer than 2,000,000 people.

Memorial to Theodore Thomas.

The May Festival association of Cincinnati will erect a memorial to the late Theodore Thomas in that city, toward which A. Howard Hinkle, former president of the association, has started a subscription fund with $5,000.

The supposed grave of Eve is visited by over 400,000 pilgrims in each year. It is to be seen at Jaddah, in a cemetery outside the city walls. The tomb is fifty cubits long and twelve wide.

NEW FOOD LAW

People now demand the right to know exactly what they eat.

To be told by maker or retailer that the food is "pure" is not satisfactory.

Candy may contain "pure" white clay or "pure" dyes and yet be very harmful. Syrups may contain "pure" glucose and yet be quite digestible and even beneficial. Tomato catsup may contain a small amount of salicylic or boracic acid as a necessary preservative, which may agree with one and be harmful to another.

Wheat flour may contain a portion of corn flour and really be improved. Olive oil may be made of cotton seed oil. Butter may contain beef suet and yet be nutritious.

The person who buys and eats must protect himself and family, and he has a right to, and now demands, a law under which he can make intelligent selection of food.

Many pure food bills have been introduced and some passed by State legislatures; many have been offered to Congress, but all thus far seem objectionable.

It has seemed difficult for politicians to formulate a satisfactory bill that would protect the common people and yet avoid harm to honest makers and prevent endless trouble to retailers. No gov't commission or officer has the right to fix "food standards," to define what the people shall and shall not eat, for what agrees with one may not agree with another, and such act would deprive the common citizen of his personal liberty. The Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., perhaps the largest makers of prepared foods in the world, have naturally a close knowledge of the needs of the people and the details of the business of the purveyors (the retail grocer), and, guided by this experience have prepared a bill for submission to Congress which is intended to accomplish the desired ends, and inasmuch as a citizen of the U. S. has a right to food protection even when he enters another State, it is deemed proper that the gov't take control of this matter and provide a national law to govern all the states. A copy of the bill is herewith reproduced.

Sec. 1 governs the maker whether the food is put up in small packages sealed, or in barrels, boxes or otherwise.

Sec. 2 governs the retailer who may open a barrel and sell the food in small quantities. When he puts the goods into a paper bag he must also inclose a printed copy of the statement of the maker which was affixed to the original pkg., and inasmuch as the retailer cannot undertake to guarantee the statement of ingredients he must publish the statement of the makers and add his own name and address as a guarantee of his selling the food as it is represented to him, which relieves the retailer of responsibility of the truth of the statement and throws it upon the maker, where it properly belongs.

The remaining sections explain themselves.

The Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., for example, have from the beginning of its existence printed on the outside of each and every pkg. of Postum and Grape-Nuts food a truthful and exact statement of what the contents were made of in order that the consumer might know precisely what he or she was eating. A person desiring to buy, for instance, strictly pure fruit jelly and willing to pay the price has a right to expect not only an equivalent for the cost, but a further right to a certainty as to what he eats. Or he may be willing to buy at less cost a jelly made part of fruit juices, sugar and a portion of glucose. But he must be supplied with truthful information of the ingredients and be permitted to use his personal liberty to select his own food accurately.

The people have allowed the slow murder of infants and adults by tricky makers of food, drink and drugs to go on about long enough. Duty to oneself, family and nation demands that every man and woman join in an organized movement to clear our people from this blight. You may not be able to go personally to Washington to impress your Congressmen, but you can, in a most effective way tell him by letter how you desire him to represent you.

Remember the Congressman is in Congress to represent the people from his district and if a goodly number of citizens express their views to him, he secures a very sure guide to duty. Remember also that the safety of the people is assured by insisting that the will of the people be carried out, and not the machinations of the few for selfish interests.

This pure food legislation is a pure movement of the people for public protection. It will be opposed only by those who fatten their pockets by deceiving and injuring the people. Therefore, if your Representative in Congress evades his patriotic duty hold him to strict accountability, and if necessary demand equitable and honest service. This is a very different condition than when a faction demands class legislation of the Congressman. Several years ago the butter interests of the country demanded legislation to kill the oleomargarine industry and by power of organization forced class legislation really unworthy of a free people. Work people wanted beef suet butter because it was cheap and better than much unclean milk butter, but the dairy interests organized and forced the legislation. The law should have provided that pkgs. of oleomargarine bear the statement of ingredients and then let people who desire purchase it for just what it is, and not try to kill it by a heavy tax. Manufacturers sometimes try to force measures in their own interests, but contrary to the interests of the people and the labor trust is always active to push through bills drafted in the interest of that trust but directly contrary to the interests of the people as a whole. Witness the anti-injunction bill by which labor unions seek to tie the hands of our courts and prevent the issue of any order to restrain the members of that trust from attacking men or destroying property. Such a bill is perhaps the most infamous insult to our courts and the common people ever laid before Congress and the Representatives in Congress must be held to a strict accountability for their acts relating thereto. But when bills come before Congress that are drawn in the interests of all the people they should receive the active personal support of the people and the representatives be instructed by the citizens. The Senators also should be written to and instructed. If, therefore, you will remember your privilege and duty you will at once—now—write to your Congressman and Senator on this pure food bill. Clip and enclose the copy herewith presented and ask them to make a business of following it through the committee considering it. Urge its being brought to a vote and requesting that they vote for it.

Some oppressively intelligent and carping critic may say this is simply an advertisement for Postum and Grape-Nuts. It is true that these articles are spoken of here in a public manner, but they are used as illustrations of a manufacturer seeking by example, printing on each pkg. a truthful, exact statement of ingredients, to shame other makers into doing the fair thing by the common people, and establishing an era of pure food, but that procedure has not yet forced those who adulterate and deceive to change their methods, hence this effort to arouse public sentiment and show a way out of the present condition of fraud, deceit and harm.

The undersigned is paying to the publishers of America about $20,000.00 to print this announcement in practically all of the great papers and magazines, in the conduct of what he chooses to term "an educational campaign," esteemed to be of greater direct value to the people than the establishment of many libraries. That is held to be a worthy method of using money for the public good. Tell the people facts, show them a way to help themselves and rely upon them to act intelligently and effectively.

The reader will be freely forgiven if he entirely forgets the reference to Postum and Grape-Nuts, if he will but join the pure food movement and do things.

Text of Pure Food Bill.

If it meets approval cut it out, sign name and address and send to your representative in congress. Buy two or more publications from which you cut this. Keep one for reference and send the other to one of the U. S. Senators from your State. Ask one or two friends to do the same and the chances for Pure Food will be good.

A BILL

TO REQUIRE MANUFACTURERS AND SHIPPERS OF FOODS FOR INTERSTATE SHIPMENT TO LABEL SAID FOODS AND PRINT THE INGREDIENTS CONTAINED IN SUCH FOODS ON EACH PACKAGE THEREOF.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That every person, firm or corporation engaged in the manufacture, preparation or compounding of food for human consumption, shall print in plain view on each package thereof made by or for them shipped from any State or Territory, or the District of Columbia, a complete and accurate statement of all the ingredients thereof, defined by words in common use to describe said ingredients, together with the announcement that said statement is made by the authority of, and guaranteed to be accurate by, the makers of such food, and the name and complete address of the makers shall be affixed thereto; all printed in plain type of a size not less than that known as eight point, and in the English language.

Sec. 2, That the covering of each and every package of manufactured, prepared or compounded foods shipped from any State, Territory or the District of Columbia, when the food in said package shall have been taken from a covering supplied by or for the makers and re-covered by or for the sellers, shall bear upon its face or within its enclosure an accurate copy of the statement of ingredients and name of the makers which appeared upon the package or covering of said food as supplied by or for the makers thereof, printed in like manner as the statement of the makers was printed, and such statement shall also bear the name and address of the person, firm or corporation that re-covered such food.

Sec. 3, That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to purposely, wilfully and maliciously remove, alter, obliterate or destroy such statement of ingredients appearing on packages of food, as provided in the preceding sections, and any person or persons who shall violate this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or imprisoned not less than one month nor more than six months, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Sec. 4, That the Bureau of Chemistry of the Department of Agriculture shall procure, or cause to be procured from retail dealers, and analyze, or cause to be analyzed or examined, chemically, microscopically, or otherwise, samples of all manufactured, prepared or compounded foods offered for sale in original, unbroken packages in the District of Columbia, in any Territory, or in any State other than that in which they shall have been respectively manufactured or otherwise produced, or from a foreign country, or intended for export to a foreign country. The Secretary of Agriculture shall make necessary rules and regulations for carrying out the provisions of this Act, and is hereby authorized to employ such chemists, inspectors, clerks, laborers, and other employees, as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this Act and to make such publication of the results of the examinations and analysis as he may deem proper. And any manufacturer, producer or dealer who shall refuse to supply, upon application and tender and full payment of the selling price samples of such articles of food to any person duly authorized by the Secretary of Agriculture to receive the same, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding one hundred dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding one hundred days, or both.

Sec. 5, That any person, firm or corporation who shall violate sections one and two of this Act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding two hundred dollars for the first offense and for each subsequent offense not exceeding three hundred dollars or be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Sec. 6, That any person, firm, or corporation, who shall wilfully, purposely or maliciously change or add to the ingredients of any food, make false charges, or incorrect analysis, with the purpose of subjecting the makers of such foods to fine or imprisonment under this Act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding one thousand dollars nor less than three hundred dollars, or imprisoned for not less than thirty days nor more than one year, or both.

Sec. 7, That it shall be the duty of every district attorney to whom the Secretary of Agriculture shall report any violation of this Act to cause proceedings to be commenced and prosecuted without delay for the fines and penalties in such case provided.

Sec. 8, That this Act shall not be construed to interfere with commerce wholly internal in any State, nor with the exercise of their police powers by the several States.

Sec. 9, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this Act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 10, That this Act shall be in force and effect from and after the first day of October, nineteen hundred and six.

The undersigned respectfully requests the Representatives from his district and Senators from his State to support this measure.

Congressman Gillespie of Texas went to congress the first time on the toss of a coin. The third man was eliminated on the first toss and Gillespie won the second toss and the nomination.

Work and the Man.

The contractors who were boring the Pennsylvania tunnel are getting on rapidly. Not a little of their success is due to the rivalry aroused by boss drillers, who have hit upon a scheme of mixing the races where the work is the hardest. For instance, alongside of a Pole will be stationed an Italian, and next to them will be put an Irish man and a negro. Race pride does the rest, and the pace set to try each man's endurance opens up a big hole in the black wall ahead of them.

FARM MISCELLANY

Feeding Meat and Cooked Food.

My experience in feeding meat in any form to poultry is quite limited. In summer I give as good as unlimited range to my fowls, which does away with the necessity for such feed. While I have faith in the balanced ration theories, yet I believe if an "old hen" has the opportunity she will balance her rations better than her owner.

I have never fed blood meal, and my experience in feeding commercial meat meals has been confined to beef meal, fed late in fall, winter and spring. I am sure it added materially to the general health and vigor of the fowls and of course increased the egg production. The cost of the meal reduces its general use. It is too high in price to assure its general use.

It is almost impossible to convince any one that feeds his flock and keeps them up to date on feed and care, that the meal pays sufficiently to justify the price charged, $2, $2.50 and $3 per 100.

I feed corn in the evening, cutting up in short pieces (in cutting a great deal shells), and throwing to the fowls in litter, so as to enable them to do as much work as possible to get it. The morning meal is a mash of bran, with possibly and usually some ground oats and barley, seasoned with a little salt and occasionally black or red pepper. At noon I feed them on oats, barley and wheat mixed, and for change sometimes feed these separately.

In the line of cooked foods I use a 50-gallon cooker, heating water and scalding the bran mash, or cooking in the cooker feed composed of wheat, barley and oats ground together, and sometimes the whole grains unground, and this last mode pleases me the best. Without actual test I believe it does the biddy the most good.—T. J. Mawhorter, Noble Co., Ind., in Farmers' Review.

Feed the Sow Properly.

It must be remembered that the sow that is in gestation is not only supporting her own body out of the food she eats, but is also building new tissues for her unborn young. The elements fed her must therefore be of a kind that will give material for muscle and sinew-making as well as material for the construction of bone. The sow that is fed a ration consisting only of corn is not only being deprived of the material out of which to build up her own body, but is also being deprived of the material out of which to construct the frames of her pigs. Carbon and water cannot build a good healthy frame, and corn is composed mostly of carbon and water. The mineral elements are very scarce. The sow to do her best as a creator must have not only corn, but also milk, middlings, ground oats, and roots if they are obtainable. Bran furnishes some of the most important elements for body building, but should not be fed in a very large quantity at any one time,

Feeding Farm Horses.

L. A. Merrill, Utah, speaking to a concourse of farmers, said the amount of hay fed on the ordinary farm may be greatly reduced, so far as horses are concerned. This, he said, would be a saving to the farmers and would result in reducing the digestive disorders to which the horses are subject. Horses should receive most of the hay at night, very little in the morning and none at all for the noon meal. Always water before feeding. Oats make the best grain feed for horses, but these can be replaced by bran or shorts or supplemented by the use of corn. Carrots and sugar-beet pulp have a marked beneficial effect in horse feeding, serving as a laxative and tonic, as well as enabling the horse to digest the hay and grain more effectively. Horses may eat as much as 40 pounds of sugar beet pulp daily.

Oats Injured by Rust.

In this vicinity about 40 per cent. of all the plowed land is in oats. This makes it a very important crop with us. We have had considerable trouble from rust and I think the losses have been considerable. But as yet the farmers are doing nothing to check the spread of this fungus. We sow our oats in spring as soon as the frost is out of the ground. About the only preparation the land receives is one discing. The oat straw is mostly fed on the farms, but of course much of it goes into bedding. The great obstacle in this locality to the successful production of oats is rust. I do not think we can greatly increase the yield here unless we first treat the oats so that the product will be free from rust.—O. J. Wagner, Livingstone County, Ill.

Cactus a Coming Stock Food.

That cactus is to be a stock food of considerable value is certain. Even now considerable quantities are being fed, but this amount is smaller than it should be, due to the trouble in getting the spines out of the way, which is now done by singeing and steaming. It is obvious that this requires a good deal of hand labor. All kinds of farm animals take kindly to this class of food when the spines are out of the way. The cacti carry a large amount of water and are thus especially adapted to furnish succulent food in the semi-arid regions in which they grow. Dairy cows eat from 40 to 70 pounds of this kind of food per day, and oxen will take up to 200 pounds per day when given nothing else.

The Football Heart.

President James Burrill Angell of the University of Michigan was lamenting the serious injuries that have befallen collegiate football players this season.

"At such a rate," he ended, smiling, "it won't be long before the popular melodrama of the day will contain dialogue of this nature:

"Heroine—Have you no pity? Is there no tenderness in your nature?

"Villain—Ha, ha, no! You appeal to a heart of adamant. For, listen, girl: I was once the center rush of a great football eleven.

"Heroine (sinking back in a swoon)—Then heaven help me. There is indeed no hope."

AWFUL PSORIASIS 35 YEARS.

Terrible Scaly Humor in Patches All Over the Body—Skin Cracked and Bleeding—Cured by Cuticura.

"I was afflicted with psoriasis for thirty-five years. It was in patches all over my body. I used three cakes of Cuticura Soap, six boxes of Ointment and two bottles of Resolvent. In thirty days I was completely cured, and I think permanently, as it was about five years ago. The psoriasis first made its appearance in red spots, generally forming a circle, leaving in the center a spot about the size of a silver dollar of sound flesh. In a short time the affected circle would form a heavy dry scale of a white silvery appearance and would gradually drop off. To remove the entire scales by bathing or using oil to soften them the flesh would be perfectly raw, and a light discharge of bloody substance would ooze out. That scaly crust would form again in twenty-four hours. It was worse on my arms and limbs, although it was in spots all over my body, also on my scalp. If I let the scales remain too long without removing by bath or otherwise, the skin would crack and bleed. I suffered intense itching, worse at nights after getting warm in bed, or blood warm by exercise, when it would be almost unbearable. W. M. Chidester, Hutchinson, Kan., April 20, 1905."

Backache, "The Blues"

Both Symptoms of Organic Derangement in Women—Thousands of Sufferers Find Relief.

Mrs. J. G. Holmes
Emma Cotrely

How often do we hear women say: "It seems as though my back would break," or "Don't speak to me, I am all out of sorts"? These significant remarks prove that the system requires attention.

Backache and "the blues" are direct symptoms of an inward trouble which will sooner or later declare itself. It may be caused by diseased kidneys or some derangement of the organs. Nature requires assistance and at once, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound instantly asserts its curative powers in all those peculiar ailments of women. It has been the standby of intelligent American women for twenty years, and the best judges agree that it is the most universally successful remedy for woman's ills known to medicine.

Read the convincing testimonials of Mrs. Holmes and Mrs. Cotrely.

Mrs. J. C. Holmes, of Larimore, North Dakota, writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I have suffered everything with backache and female trouble—I let the trouble run on until my system was in such a condition that I was unable to be about, and then it was I commenced to use Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If I had only known how much suffering I would have saved I should have taken it months sooner—for a few weeks' treatment made me well and strong. My backaches and headaches are all gone and I suffer no pain at my monthly periods, whereas before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I suffered intense pain."

Mrs. Emma Cotrely, 109 East 12th Street, New York City, writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I feel it my duty to tell all suffering women of the relief I have found in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When I commenced taking the Compound I suffered everything with backaches, headaches, and female troubles. I am completely cured and enjoy the best of health, and I owe it all to you."

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful periods, weakness, displacements or ulceration, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the female organs, backache, bloating (or flatulence), general debility, indigestion and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles. No other medicine in the world has received this widespread and unqualified endorsement. Refuse to buy any substitute.

FREE ADVICE TO WOMEN.

Remember, every woman is cordially invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham if there is anything about her symptoms she does not understand. Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, her assistant before her decease, and for twenty-five years since her advice has been freely and cheerfully given to every ailing woman who asks for it. Her advice and medicine have restored to health innumerable women. Address, Lynn, Mass.

HIGH CLASS DRUGGISTS

AND — OTHERS.

The better class of druggists, everywhere, are men of scientific attainments and high integrity, who devote their lives to the welfare of their fellow men in supplying the best of remedies and purest medicinal agents of known value, in accordance with physicians' prescriptions and scientific formula. Druggists of the better class manufacture many excellent remedies, but always under original or officinal names and they never sell false brands, or imitation medicines. They are the men to deal with when in need of anything in their line, which usually includes all standard remedies and corresponding adjuncts of a first-class pharmacy and the finest and best of toilet articles and preparations and many useful accessories and remedial appliances. The earning of a fair living, with the satisfaction which arises from a knowledge of the benefits conferred upon their patrons and assistance to the medical profession, is usually their greatest reward for long years of study and many hours of daily toil. They all know that Syrup of Figs is an excellent laxative remedy and that it gives universal satisfaction, and therefore they are selling many millions of bottles annually to the well informed purchasers of the choicest remedies, and they always take pleasure in handing out the genuine article bearing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package. They know that in cases of colds and headaches attended by biliousness and constipation and of weakness or torpidity of the liver and bowels, arising from irregular habits, indigestion, or over-eating, that there is no other remedy so pleasant, prompt and beneficial in its effects as Syrup of Figs, and they are glad to sell it because it gives universal satisfaction.

Owing to the excellence of Syrup of Figs, the universal satisfaction which it gives and the immense demand for it, imitations have been made, tried and condemned, but there are individual druggists to be found, here and there, who do not maintain the dignity and principles of the profession and whose greed gets the better of their judgment, and who do not hesitate to recommend and try to sell the imitations in order to make a larger profit. Such preparations sometimes have the name—"Syrup of Figs"—or "Fig Syrup" and of some piratical concern, or fictitious fig syrup company, printed on the package, but they never have the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of the package. The imitations should be rejected because they are injurious to the system. In order to sell the imitations they find it necessary to resort to misrepresentation or deception, and whenever a dealer passes off on a customer a preparation under the name of "Syrup of Figs" or "Fig Syrup," which does not bear the full name of the California Fig Syrup Co. printed on the front of the package, he is attempting to deceive and mislead the patron who has been so unfortunate as to enter his establishment, whether it be large or small, for if the dealer resorts to misrepresentation and and deception in one case he will do so with other medicinal agents, and in the filling of physicians' prescriptions, and should be avoided by every one who values health and happiness. Knowing that the great majority of druggists are reliable, we supply the immense demand for our excellent remedy entirely through the druggists, of whom it may be purchased everywhere, in original packages only, at the regular price of fifty cents per bottle, but as exceptions exist it is necessary to inform the public of the facts, in order that all may decline or return any imitation which may be sold to them. If it does not bear the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, do not hesitate to return the article and to demand the return of your money, and in future go to one of the better class of druggists who will sell you what you wish and the best of everything in his line at reasonable prices.

The band concert Tuesday night was attended by a larger crowd than usual, and the program was one of the best ever-rendered. Special mention should be made of Miss Elene Hanson's poem dedicated to the bachelors, the violin solo by Prof. Miller, the piccolo solo by L. P. Berthon, and the humorous duet by the "old maids," impersonated by Messrs. H. B. Healy and S. S. Haislet. The next concert will be given the latter part of March, and will consist entirely of sacred music, in honor of the Lenten season.

Red Lake County Applicants Get Unusually High Averages.

There is no scarcity of teachers in Red Lake county at present, as an unusually large number of the applicants secured first or second grade certificates at the recent state examination. There are now ten teachers in the rural schools of the county holding first grade and eighty holding second grade certificates, hereafter it will not be necessary to go away from home to secure competent teachers.

Returns from the January examinations, received Monday by Superintendent McAnulty from the state superintendent, show that 75 per cent. of the applicants from Red Lake county passed in arithmetic; 78 per cent. passed in grammar; 98 per cent. in composition; 90 per cent. in geography; 100 per cent. in penmanship; 75 per cent. in physiology and hygiene; 70 per cent. in reading; 68 per cent. in spelling, and 50 per cent. in history.

Slaves of the Orient.

"In Zanzibar and Pemba slaves are very slow to take advantage of the regulations that give them the right to claim their freedom," says a traveler. "They realize that so long as they are well used their position is superior to that of the man whose freedom is his sole asset. I have found the same attitude in north Africa. From Morocco to Tripoli one sees most of the slaves well content and flourishing. The famine, the locusts, the drought and the tax collector have no terror for them. Work keeps them healthy, they have enough to eat and drink, and the future has no meaning at all. There is promotion, there are confidential missions to governors and friends that elevate a slave, if only in the eyes of his fellows, and there is always a chance of manumission when the owner dies and wishes to have some good deeds recorded in the books of Islam's recording angels. The sorry truth of the matter is that slaves under Mohammedan rule are much better off than they ever were under the rule of white men in America and elsewhere."

Your Watch Is a Compass.

"Most men who own a good watch," said a jeweler, "think they know all about it. They have the number fixed in their memory in case it is stolen. They could probably pick it out from fifty other watches with their eyes shut. But how many men know that their watch is a compass and will tell north from south as accurately as it will tell the time of day? Stanley, the explorer, did not know it until he had groped his way through the dark continent and met a Belgian sailor on the coast. Every watch is a compass. If you point the hour hand to the sun, the south is exactly halfway between the hour and the figure XII on the dial. Suppose, for instance, it is 4 o'clock. Point the hand indicating 4 to the sun and II on the watch is exactly south. If it is 8 o'clock, point the hand indicating 8 to the sun and the figure X on the dial is due south. No man need get lost if he carries a watch."

OLD PEOPLE CONSTANT SUFFERERS IN WINTER

Most old people are great sufferers in Winter. They are seldom free from pains or ailments of some description, because they are not as able to withstand the severity of the climate, with its damp, changing weather, as are their younger, more vigorous companions. Cold weather starts the old aches and pains; they suffer with chilly sensations, cold extremities, poor appetite and digestion, nervousness, sleeplessness and other afflictions peculiar to old age. With advancing years the strength and vitality of the system begin to decline. The heart action is weak and irregular, the blood becomes thin and sluggish in its circulation, and often some old blood taint that has lain dormant in the system for years begins to manifest itself. A wart or pimple becomes a troublesome sore or ulcer, skin diseases break out, or the slight rheumatic pains felt in younger days now cause sleepless nights and hours of agony. There is no reason why old age should not be healthy and free from disease if the blood is kept pure and the system strong, and this can be done with S. S. S. It is a medicine that is especially adapted to old people, because it is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, selected for their purifying, healing and building-up properties, and is very mild and gentle in its action. S. S. S. warms and reinvigorates the sluggish blood so that it moves with more rapidity, and clears it of all impurities and poisons. As this rich, healthy stream circulates through the body every part of the system is built up, the appetite and digestion improve, the heart action increases and the diseases and discomforts of old age pass away. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Skin Diseases, Sores and Ulcers, and all troubles arising from diseased blood.

BOARD HAS WARM SESSION

Sanders-Bray Ditch a Bone of Contention—Other Business Disposed of by Board.

The county board was in session Tuesday and Wednesday, and considerable business was disposed of. Most of the first day was taken up in disposing of the ditch petition of P. A. Eckstrom et. al., who asked for the construction of a five mile ditch commencing near the south line of Sanders and running westerly into the Black River in Bray township.

The ditch was ordered established and Gilbert Haavi, Olaf Tande and Otto Zaiser appointed viewers, with County Surveyor Wood the engineer in charge. A large number of farmers in Sanders township opposed the petition, and the board, as a compromise, finally agreed that if a new petition, drawn on the lines approved by the objectors, was presented it would be carefully considered and the route of the ditch changed accordingly provided the petitioners for route adopted were satisfied. At any rate there is to be a new county ditch, and only the course of the same is in dispute.

The town of Sanders was granted county aid in the sum of $100 for a new road, and the town of Poplar River given $200 to aid in the construction of a new bridge across Lost river.

Five new school districts in the townships recently organized on the ceded reservation were established.

Auctioneers' licenses were granted to C. M. Evenson, M. C. Knutson, D. Patterson and Joseph Belair.

The applications of M. C. Harlow, L. T. Bergh, C. F. Case, Addie Longtin and Ole O. Sigvold for correction of assessment and abatement of taxes were approved, and those of H. E. Ives and S. M. Sivertson rejected.

A liquor license was granted to E. P. Poquin, who proposes to operate a booze joint at Lambert. Mr. Poquin, it appears, has heretofore dealt in tanglefoot without a county license, but decided it to be better policy to contribute $500 to the county exchequer and thus lessen the liability of molestation.

The auditor was instructed to have 150 copies of the financial statement printed in pamphlet form.

INSPECTORS CALLED IN.

To Explain Methods of Extending Pure Food Crusade.

The inspectors of the state dairy and food department have been called in to the department offices for a two days' conference over new food laws. The laws of the dairy and food department are materially changed by the new code and Commissioner Slater will give the inspectors a thorough introduction to the provisions of the law. Saturday Mr. Slater and one or two of his inspectors will conduct a school for traveling men at Duluth, where they will further explain the provisions of the law and the methods of extending the pure food crusade.

JESSE JAMES THE MODERN

William Frenske, a Red Lake Falls Youth, Steals Team and Load of Wheat.

For a seventeen-year-old, William Frenske is becoming quite an adept at purloining property, and his latest escapade happened Sunday night. He broke into Joseph Ducharme's barn near Badger, hitched a team of horses to a pair of bobs and drove to a near neighbor and put on a good-sized load of oats. He arrived at Dugdale bright and early Monday morning and sold the grain at an elevator, receiving about $28 therefor. He then started for North Dakota, but was overtaken three miles southwest of Gentilly by Sheriff Linnihan and brought to the Red Lake county jail.

Frenske has been guilty of theft several times before, and is now on parole from the state reform school. As a paroled prisoner he is not subject to further prosecution until the expiration of his sentence, and it is likely the authorities from St. Cloud will be here in a few days to take him back to the school.

Frenske appears to have the criminal instinct well developed, and so far the attempts to reform him have been unsuccessful.

Sweetened Wood.

The use of sugar as a preservative is familiar to all who love jam preserves. That it may serve to keep from decomposition other substances of organic origin is shown by its recent use in the treatment of wood to be used for building purposes. The wood thus treated is not porous; it can be worked without shrinking or cracking, and its decaying tendency seems to have been aemedied to a great extent. As a preserver of good health take golden grain belt beer. Besides being of wonderful medicinal value this beer is most nourishing and refreshing. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

GRAIN-GROWING CONTEST

Rural School Pupils of Red Lake County Have Chance to Earn Cash Prizes.

The state department of agriculture is inaugurating a grain-growing contest, to be participated in only by pupils of the rural schools, and Superintendent McAnulty is this week arranging the details of for the contest in Red Lake county. Under the rules formulated pupils have a chance to compete for prizes in both the state and county contests. Besides the prizes offered by the department of agriculture, Mr. McAnulty will arrange for valuable prizes to be offered by the business men of the county.

In regard to the matter the bulletin issued by the state says that the successful introduction of the elements of agriculture into the rural schools of Minnesota depends upon placing comprehensive studies before the superintendents, teachers and pupils of these institutions. Rural School Bulletin No. 1 supplied the teachers with simple outlines of experiments that could be carried out in any rural school by the youngest pupils, thus introducing the elementary studies in such a way as to make them both interesting and instructive. In accord with the movement to introduce agriculture in our public schools, Rural School Bulletin No. 2 is offered as a text for teachers and pupils who are interested in the improvement of seed and crop conditions in Minnesota. It is thought best to include in the work only the common grains, wheat, oats and corn, giving an introductory chapter on seeds: their parts, germination, selection, weight, classes, etc. Definite rules for score cards and judging will also be included for the benefit of the teachers and judges of the contest. Upon the basis of these rules it is planned to have a contest in each county and in the state. The contestants are to be the pupils of the schools, both boys and girls. Prizes amounting to more than $3,000 will be offered for the best grain grown in each class. The winners in the county contests will carefully keep their samples and send them to the ones in charge of the state contest. Here they will compete for grand state prizes. The county contests may be planned as best suits the local conditions or the desires of those in charge. The county contests will be held under the auspices of the Farmers Club of Minnesota, while the state contest will be under the auspices of the Minnesota Field Crop Breeders Association. In connection with the contest a good seed meeting will be held at which time the prizes will be awarded and methods of growing the crops and caring for the seeds will be discussed. Other matters of interest in relation to rural school affairs may also be brought into these meetings.

Any pupil of a rural school in Red Lake county desiring to enter the contest is invited to fill out the following blank and mail same to H. T. McAnulty, Red Lake Falls, Minn., and he will then send full instructions:

To the County Superintendent of Schools:

I hereby agree to enter the County and State Seed Contest in the following: Wheat, Oats, Corn. (Cross out the cereal in which you do not wish to compete.)

I agree to read the directions given in Rural School Bulletin No. 2, and to follow as far as possible the suggestions there given.

PROBATE LAW CHANGED.

Judges Shall Not Give Advice on Cases Pending.

The new code for Minnesota which went into effect March 1 contains a provision to the effect that judges of probate shall not give counsel or advice in cases which may be pending in their courts.

The old law reads, "shall not be required to give counsel or advice, or fill out any papers." but the words "be required to" are left out of the new code, thus materially altering the meaning of the sentence.

The change slipped through unnoticed toward the close of the last session of the legislature. Judge Tarrant is inclined to construe the provision reasonably, and while he will not give advice, he will give reasonable information on matters pertaining to probate affairs.

Another provision in the new code relative to procedure in probate court, is that providing that attorneys who have matters to bring up before the probate judge, shall give notice through the mails at least two or three days prior.

RAISING WINTER WHEAT.

St. Hilaire Farmers Believe the Inundated Fields Will Sprout.

It is stated that some of the farmers living south of St. Hilaire in the district which was inundated last fall to such an extent that the grain could not be cut, are now figuring on the possibility of their securing a crop of winter wheat from the fields which were uncut last year. The grain ripened nicely, but owing to the excessive rains in August and September the ground became so soft that it was impossible for the farmers to get on the fields with their binders. The grain shelled out late in the fall, and the heavy stand of straw has caught and held a great deal of snow. The farmers in question rely on the straw protecting the ground from spring freezing by holding the snow until late in the season, and thus permitting the grain which shelled out to sprout and grow. They say that if this proves to be the case the old straw will have disappeared before it is time to harvest the crop of winter wheat which will come up.

HE VOTES FOR THE MAN.

Another Exhibition of the Freedom of the Minnesota Voter.

M. A. Morse, a prominent Republican of Stillwater, writes the Minneapolis Journal as follows:

An extract from Frank M. Eddy's editorial in the Sauk Center Herald is given in the Wednesday Journal, in which he criticizes some Republican newspapers and politicians for their "small-bore criticisms." But after saying that although Mr. Johnson was an experiment, he has made good as governor, he asserts that "it is the imperative duty of the Republicans of the state to defeat him for re-election. The fact that he has made a good governor makes him all the more dangerous to the continued supremacy of the Republican party in this state."

Is the continued Republican supremacy in this state of so much importance that we should vote and work for some individual of unknown worth simply because he belongs to the Republican party in preference to a man of whom we may well be proud? I am disgusted by all this talk about party loyalty. You may spin your fine theories about its being wiser to uphold the "principles" of the party than to support a man of the opposite party but of unimpeachable character. I shall vote for the man whom I believe will best execute the laws of the state and uphold the honor and dignity of his office.

DELAY ONLY TEMPORARY

Ed. L. Healy Expects Franchise at Grand Forks Will be Granted Early in April.

Ed. L. Healy returned yesterday from Grand Forks, where he has been looking after the proposed franchise to furnish electric light and power to the city. Owing to the fact that the city election is only a few weeks away it was deemed best to withhold asking the council to grant the franchise until the new council is in power. The franchise question is the leading issue in the election, and Mr. Healy is confident he will win out. "Practically every candidate for the council is in favor of my proposition," Mr. Healy said today, "and I feel absolutely sure of having ten votes out of twelve. Both candidates for mayor favor the plan."

Mr. Healy was granted a franchise Monday night from the council at East Grand Forks, without a dissenting vote. The Murphy interests, which are opposing Healy, will find they have a fight on their hands. Ed is a stayer in a fight of this kind, and he seems to have public sentiment with him.

MINNESOTA GETS BANNER.

Highest Average Butter Score of Any State the Union.

The state dairy and food department Monday received the banner which the state buttermakers won at the recent convention of the National Creamery Buttermakers' association in Chicago. The banner was brought up into the governor's reception room and publicly exhibited yesterday.

It is an elaborate and handsome affair, of red and green and gold. It bears the inscription "National Creamery Buttermakers' Association, 1906 Prize Banner, Highest Average Score. Minnesota." In the center is a canvass painting in oil, representing a farm scene with a farmer amongst his cattle in a green pasture near the farm buildings.

Crimes.

Mrs. John Byers of Belmond, Iowa, committed suicide by drowning in the Iowa river. Poor health is given as the cause.

Justice Sweet at Boulder, Mont., has imposed a fine of $20 and costs upon James McTaggert for clipping the queue from the head of Charles App, an aged Chinaman from Basin.

William Bell, one of the oldest residents of Hamilton, Mont., committed suicide by shooting. Bell used a rifle, firing three bullets into his head, his face being terribly mangled.

Albert Matte, bookkeeper and confidential man for the Val Blatz Brewing company of Milwaukee, at their Hancock, Mich., branch, has absconded, it is alleged, with several thousand dollars.

The grand jury at Asheville, N. C., returned another indictment against Congressman Blackburn, charging him with practicing before the treasury department in violation of the federal statutes.

The Breathitt county (Ky.) grand jury returned indictments against Judge James Hargis, Ed Callahan, B. F. French, John Smith and John Abner, charging murder and accessory to the same in the death of James B. Marcum, two years ago. Marcum was killed in the court house door, the result of a feud.

After an expert accountant's examination of the books of Allen C. Bates, secretary of the Mississippi Elevator and Grain company, who committed suicide by shooting on Feb. 14, it was made known at St. Louis that a shortage of $15,000 had been revealed. Bates was under surety bond in the sum of $25,000.

Two daring negro highwaymen walked into the isolated store of Frank Botto, an old Italian at Grosse Point, a small town on the Texas & Pacific railway, killed Botto and fatally wounded his two sons, fourteen and thirteen years old. Mrs. Botto was shot at but escaped and gave the alarm. While she was gone they robbed the place and made their escape.

Florence, twenty years old, daughter of County Physician R. B. Allen, was instantly killed and Mrs. Allen seriously injured at Mount Pleasant, Iowa, by bullets fired at them in their home by Carl Becker, a young farmer. Becker's body was found on the outskirts of the town later, where he evidently had committed suicide. The cause is believed to be unrequited love.

The main postoffice at San Diego, Cal., was entered by robbers and the vault was blown open by dynamite. All the stamps were taken and the office wired for $600 worth from Los Angeles. Postmaster Newkirk, declined to give an estimate of the amount secured by the robbers, but it is understood to be in the neighborhood of $6,000.

A suitcase containing two bonds, Nos. 157 and 158, of the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania, each for $50,000, and belonging to ex-Congressman James Kerr, the Clearfield coal operator, was stolen recently from a Pennsylvania railroad train. Detectives located the case, minus the bonds, at the boarding house of Charles Gatto, an Italian, at Retort. Gatto was arrested.

Bob Butts and George Bridgewater, young white men living at New Pittsburg, Ohio, drew their revolvers and made George Donovan, a negro, dance a clog. Butts and Bridgewater, after emptying their revolvers, began to jeer the negro, when he turned and fired five shots at his annoyers. Butts was shot in the lung. Bridgewater was shot through the stomach and bowels. Both men died. Donovan was arrested.

Domestic.

By those who took Marvin Hart's claim to the world's championship seriously, Tommy Burns of Chicago may now be considered the heavyweight champion. Burns decisively outpointed Hart at the Pacific Athletic pavilion at Los Angeles and was given the decision at the end of the twentieth round.

NEWSPAPERS ARE INDICTED

TRUE BILL AGAINST ST. PAUL PAPERS FOR PRINTING STORY OF HANGING.

St. Paul, March 4. — The Pioneer Press, St. Paul Dispatch and St. Paul News have been indicted for printing the news. The Ramsey county grand jury yesterday reported indictments against the three papers charging that in their accounts of the hanging of William Williams they violated what is known as the John Day Smith law, passed in 1889, which makes it a misdemeanor for newspapers to print an account of the details of executions "beyond the statement of the fact that such convict was on the day in question executed according to law."

The indictments recite that the law was violated in the publication of the account of the hanging, and the account of the hanging is attached.

Notice of the indictment was served upon the managers of the three papers named so that they may make appearance by attorney.

County Attorney T. R. Kane said last evening that the only way to inflict punishment in these cases, should the papers be found guilty, would be by fine. The maximum penalty for a misdemeanor is a fine of $100 or ninety days' imprisonment.

FIERCE BLIZZARD RAGING.

Nebraska and South Dakota in Throes of Bad Storm.

Lincoln, Neb., March 4.—The Western Nebraska blizzard reached Lincoln last evening in moderate form. There is a steady fall of snow with high wind and falling temperature. Reports from Central and Western Nebraska tell of the worst storm of the season. At Brekon Bow the wind partly demolished a building. At Indianola there is zero weather, snow has drifted and trains delayed. The Denver flyer on the Burlington, which left Lincoln yesterday morning, as well as the new Denver passenger train which left this city four hours earlier, are both held at Hastings. Rock Island No. 6, due in Lincoln yesterday afternoon, is reported snowed in at Goodland, Kan., 300 miles west.

Great Loss to Livestock.

Bonesteel, S. D., March 3. — The worst blizzard since the storm of Jan. 12, 1888, raged all day yesterday and last night. Great loss of livestock is feared. Traffic is at a standstill and it is impossible to travel by steam or otherwise.

Duluth Feels It.

Duluth, Minn., March 4.—Duluth is in the grip of the worst blizzard of the winter, and according to the local forecaster, it is liable to continue until to-night.

MAMMOTH WELL STRUCK.

Flow of 3,650 Barrels of Water a Day Secured by Railroad.

Jamestown, N. D., March 4.—As a result of the deepening of the well at the Northern Pacific water tank at this place a vein of water has been discovered which yields the enormous amount of 50,000 gallons per hour, or about 3,650 barrels per day. The vein was opened about ten feet below the bottom of the old well at a depth of only thirty-four feet below the surface.

LID ON MILWAUKEE.

Mayor Rose Startles the Residents of Beertown.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 4.—Mayor Rose, Democrat, the best known exponent of wide open towns, yesterday startled the citizens by ordering all gambling houses and similar places to close until after the local election. He is a candidate for re-election, and always had a plank for a wide open town in his platform. He refuses to discuss the time limit in his order.

To Be Center of Phone System.

Sauk Center, Minn., March 4.—The Sauk Valley Telephone company met here yesterday to perfect its organization and arrange for the early introduction of a line through the rural district north of this city. It will build thirty-five miles of line during the coming summer. The headquarters will be in this city.

Foul Play Is Verdict.

Harvey, Iowa, March 4.—The body of an unknown man was found lodged against a bridge near here yesterday morning. The only clue to identification was the name G. Baker on the shirt. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of death by foul play, as no water was found on the lungs.

Dr. Darling Dead.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 4.—Dr. R. H. Darling of Crystal Falls, Mich., is dead at Fond du Lac from tumor of the brain. His son, Walter L. Darling, graduated at the state university last year.

Geese Flying North.

Mandan, N. D., March 4.—The first flock of wild geese was seen yesterday going northward. This is a week earlier than the birds began to fly last year. Their appearance was hailed with delight, as indicating the near approach of spring.

Five Years for Misuse of Mails.

Helena, Mont., March 4. — Daniel Warren was sent to the penitentiary for five years yesterday by United States Judge Hunt for sending obscene letters to a Butte woman.

ORCHARD'S STORY THROWN IN SHADE

ANOTHER STEUNENBERG SUSPECT MAKES SWEEPING CONFESSION.

TELLS MORE THAN ORCHARD

REVEALS WORKINGS OF "INNER CIRCLE" OF THE WESTERN FEDERATION.

Boise, Idaho, March 4.—The Statesman says:

"The Statesman is authorized to announce that Steve Adams, arrested at Haines, Or., on Feb. 20, in connection with the Steunenberg assassination, has made a full and sweeping confession.

"'This second confession is far more important than that made by Harry Orchard,' said James McParland, the detective, last evening, in the presence of Gov. Gooding and J. H. Hawley, who is in charge of the prosecution. Mr. McParland added that Adams' confession fully and exactly corroborated that made by Orchard at every point touched on by both.

Workings of "Inner Circle."

"'Moreover,' McParland continued, 'Adams knows far more of the workings of the "inner circle" than Orchard did, and was able to give a mass of detailed information that Orchard's confession did not cover. Adams, however, was not at Caldwell at the time of the assassination, nor was Orchard at the time of the unsuccessful effort in November. The man who assisted Orchard on that occasion as set forth in Orchard's confession was Jack Simpkins.'

"Still another statement made by the detectives was that the Adams confession gave the details of a large number of murders that were not referred to in any manner by Orchard.

Tells More Than Orchard.

"It was further stated that the confession has been reduced to writing, signed and acknowledged. It is a voluminous document covering a great field and in more detail than that made by Orchard. The further statement is made that Adams made this confession without being promised anything. When talked with about the matter he simply made an open breast of all he knew and the secret workings of the Western Federation.

"It was announced by the government, Mr. Hawley and Mr. McPharland, that while they thought these facts should be given to the public, there would be no information given out or hinted at respecting this confession."

Orchard Tells Jury All.

Before the grand jury at Caldwell yesterday morning Harry Orchard completed his testimony in the Steunenberg murder case. It is said he went into great detail about the entire matter, telling the jurymen what induced him to undertake the crime, how much he was paid, etc. He was brought back to the penitentiary.

EDWARD TAKES VACATION.

Will Be Known as "Duke of Lancaster" for Two Months.

London, March 4. — The duke of Lancaster, as King Edward will be known for two months, left last evening for a holiday in Paris and Biarritz and a sea cruise in the Mediterranean. The king, who is attended by Gen. Sir Stanley Clarke and the Hon. Sidney Greville, will spend the night on board the royal yacht at Portsmouth, leaving early in the morning for Cherbourg, and will arrive in Paris this evening.

LIKE THE KU KLUX KLAN.

Masked Men on Horseback Warn the Louisiana Negroes.

Shreveport, La., March 4.—A band of about forty masked citizens, riding horses, made the rounds in the negro districts late last night for the purpose of warning negroes that they must recognize law and order. A strong organization has been effected, and it is believed that all negroes found disorderly will be summarily dealt with. No trouble has occurred so far.

Is First Burglary in Months.

Deadwood, S. D., March 4.—The vacant house of Andrew H. Oleson, a prominent mining man, was entered by thieves and several hundred dollars' worth of goods were taken. Deadwood, as a rule, is remarkably free from such crimes, and this is the first burglary that has been perpetrated in months. The house was opened by a skeleton key.

Puts in Bill for Murphy Trial.

Minot, N. D., March 4. — A bill of $4,824, the costs in the Murphy trial which was recently conducted in Cass county, has been forwarded by Judge Pollock to the commissioners of Ward county and probably will be passed upon at their next meeting March 5.

Increase Wheat Acreage.

Miller, S. D., March 4.—Farmers in this vicinity have commenced sowing wheat and the acreage of that grain promises to be largely increased in this vicinity.

BUCKEYE TOWN IS SUBDUED

NO MORE RIOTS HAVE OCCURRED BUT MILITIA WILL REMAIN TILL SUNDAY.

Springfield, Ohio, March 4. — Last night passed with no repetition of the riotous scenes of the two precious nights in this city.

The military and police apparently have the situation well in hand, and, with the exception of two incipient fires early last evening, no incident occurred to disturb the peace.

It is announced that the militia will not be withdrawn until after Sunday.

Brakeman Davis is still alive, though his death is looked for any moment.

Jacob Koch was arrested yesterday for an assault on Private Arthur Ancil of Company I of Xenia. Koch was later taken before the wounded soldier, who identified him as his assailant.

DURAND STICKS TO STORY.

Packers' Lawyers Fail to Feaze Him in Cross-Examination.

Chicago, March 4. — The direct examination of Special Agent Durand was finished yesterday in the packers' case and the cross-examination commenced. The latter occupied the greater part of the afternoon, but no change was made in his direct evidence.

Early in the day the attorneys engaged in a sharp argument regarding the propriety of admitting as evidence the names of 200 witnesses, which the lawyers for the packers contended had been turned over to the department of justice by Commissioner Garfield. District Attorney Morrison fought hard against a ruling of the court directing him to furnish the names, and when it was finally made, informed the court that he did not have them. The court then issued another order directing that the government make a search for the names and for all correspondence relating to them.

LONGER LIFE FOR PATRICK.

Another Delay Is to Lead to Another Reprieve of Convict.

New York, March 4. — The hearing upon the motion for a new trial in the case of Albert T. Patrick, convicted of the murder of William Marsh Rice, an aged millionaire, was adjourned yesterday until April 3. This will make necessary a further reprieve by Gov. Higgins, as Patrick is now under sentence to be electrocuted on March 19. District Attorney Jerome informed Recorder Goff, before whom the hearing was being held, that he would join with Patrick's attorney in the application for a reprieve.

GREAT SIMPLON TUNNEL.

Railway Under the Alps to Be Opened Late in May.

Berne, Switzerland, March 4.—The official inauguration of the Simplon tunnel, at which the king of Italy will be entertained with various festivities, will begin May 28, and the line will be opened to the public on June 1. Steam traction will be used if electric is not ready.

Congress.

Resume of the Week's Proceedings.

Monday.

Washington, Feb. 27.—The Hepburn railroad rate bill was presented to the senate yesterday by Senator Tillman, in accordance with the action of the committee on interstate commerce last Friday. Large crowds assembled in the galleries anticipating a field day of debate, but were disappointed. There was little of interest in the proceedings regarding the bill. A brief statement from Mr. Tillman, and the necessary arrangement for the printing of the report of the hearings before the committee and the promise that a formal report would be made later was followed by a few remarks from Mr. Aldrich showing the position of the five Republicans who opposed the bill as reported. Mr. Aldrich indicated that there would be no unnecessary delay, but that the bill would be discussed in accordance with its importance.

Mr. Clapp called up the bill to dispose of the affairs of the Five Civilized Tribes in Indian Territory and the preliminary discussion showed there was considerable opposition, also that there was to be criticism of the disposition of the coal lands owned by the Indians.

The death of Former Speaker David B. Henderson was the subject of appropriate action in the house of representatives yesterday when, after the transaction of less than a day's business, resolutions of regret and esteem were adopted and adjournment taken as a further mark of respect to his memory.

Tuesday.

Washington, Feb. 28.—The senate yesterday agreed to vote on the statehood bill before adjournment on Friday, March 9. The proposition to take the vote at that time was made by Mr. Beveridge, and there was little difficulty in reaching an understanding.

The remainder of the day was devoted to the discussion of the bill providing for the settling of the affairs of the Five Civilized tribes, the major portion of the time being given to the provision for the disposal of the coal lands in Indian Territory.

Military matters held the attention of the house yesterday, the army appropriation bill being under consideration for amendment. That Gen. Corbin and Gen. MacArthur might become lieutenant generals, the provision in the bill abolishing that rank was eliminated on a point of order raised by Mr. Grosvenor of Ohio, who substituted an amendment to abolish the grade after these officers had been promoted, but this, too, met defeat.

The house passed the Dalzell bill chartering the Lake Erie and Ohio Ship Canal company with an authorized capital of $60,000,000.

Wednesday.

Washington, March 1. — For three hours lacking a few minutes yesterday Mr. Foraker held the attention of the senate while he read a carefully prepared speech on the railroad rate question. His speech was a protest against any general legislation on the theory that the existing Elkins law could be so extended as to make it answer all the requirements. He did not fail, however, to point out what he considered the defects of the Hepburn-Dolliver bill, and he made the declaration more than once that it would fail to remedy the evils complained of.

Mr. Foraker's speech was followed by a further discussion of the railroad land grant in Indian Territory with the result that Mr. Aldrich's resolution extending the tribal government of the Indians was carried after it was so modified as to carry that government over until March 4, 1907.

The details of the provisions of the army appropriation bill occupied the house of representatives throughout the day. Several pages of the measure yet remain to be considered.

Thursday.

Washington, March 4.—The senate yesterday passed the bill providing for the settlement of the affairs of the Five Civilized Tribes. Under the guise of considering the bill, the senate spent practically the entire day in the discussion of the railway question. was raised by Mr. La Follette's proposed amendment to the Indian bill prohibiting railway companies and their stockholders from acquiring the coal lands in Indian Territory, and when the question was once before the senate it held its place persistently until almost the close of the day's session. Notwithstanding Mr. La Follette has sat in the senate less than two months he led the debate and occupied more time than any other senator. Several other senators, while expressing themselves in sympathy with the purpose of the amendment, raised constitutional objections to the provision.

Late in the day the La Follette amendment, together with all the Indian committee's amendments to that section, were laid on the table. The Indian bill has passed both the house and the senate, but as the senate has amended it in many respects it will now go to conference. It is a general bill for the adjustment of the affairs of the Five Civilized Tribes upon their abandonment of tribal organizations.

The first private claims session of the Fifty-ninth congress occupied the house yesterday, twenty-five bills being passed.

LA FOLLETTE TO THE FORE

LEADS DEBATE ON INDIAN BILL, BUT HIS AMENDMENT IS DEFEATED.

Washington, March 4.—The senate yesterday passed the bill providing for the settlement of the affairs of the Five Civilized Tribes. Under the guise of considering the bill, the senate spent practically the entire day in the discussion of the railway question. was raised by Mr. La Follette's proposed amendment to the Indian bill prohibiting railway companies and their stockholders from acquiring the coal lands in Indian Territory, and when the question was once before the senate it held its place persistently until almost the close of the day's session. PHILIPPINE BILL KILLED.

Senate Committee Refuses to Make Any Report on New Tariff Bill.

Washington, March 3.—The senate committee on Philippines yesterday refused to report the Philippine tariff bill. By a vote of 8 to 5 the committee voted against a favorable report, and by a vote of 7 to 6 refused to report the bill adversely for consideration of the senate. This effectually disposes of the measure. The action of the committee had been foreshadowed for nearly a week, although the exact vote had not been known. The senators voting for the favorable report of the bill were: Lodge, Beveridge, Long, Carmack and McCreary. The negative votes were Hale, Burrows, Dick, Nixon, Brandegee, Culberson, Du Bois and Stone.

RUSSIA LOOKS TO ROOSEVELT.

Belief Is That He Will Arbitrate Moroccan Affair.

St. Petersburg, March 4.—According to advices received at the chancellories here, Russia's representatives at Berlin, with a view to bringing about an arrangement between Germany and France, have not been effective. Nevertheless the tension between Germany and France is regarded as somewhat lessened. It is believed here that President Roosevelt is acting in the matter through the German ambassador, Baron Speck von Sternberg, and the impression prevails that the president might in a final emergency be asked to arbitrate.

SOCIALIST OUT AND OUT.

Joseph Medill Patterson Announces Conversion in Sensational Way.

Chicago, March 4. — Joseph Medill Patterson's resignation as commissioner of public works of Chicago was received by Mayor Dunne yesterday, together with a letter in which Mr. Patterson declares that he has become a socialist. He declares that the municipal ownership cry is "merely paltering with skindeep measures" and he demands "the common ownership of all the means of production and distribution, which would give everybody an equal chance at music, art, sport, study, recreation, travel, self-respect and the respect of others."

TO OUST JUSTICE DEUEL.

Suit Brought as Result of Testimony About Town Topics.

New York, March 4.—Following the recent testimony about Town Topics in the Hapgood libel trial, Justice Joseph M. Deuel of the court of special sessions yesterday accepted servise of papers in a suit instituted to disbar him as a justice. The suit is brought by District Attorney Jerome, James W. Osborne and Richard Shepard, acting as citizens. The specifications include that of conducting business other than that of a justice, and of being the owner and manager in part of Town Topics and other publications.

Fear Disaster to Many Boats.

Troudhjem, Norway, March 4. — Of 300 boats which recently went out fishing only sixty have returned. It is feared that disaster has befallen the others.

Fined for Sunday Railroading.

Uniontown, Pa., March 4. — Seven Baltimore & Ohio railway engineers and conductors were fined $1 and costs each by Justice John Boyle for violating the Sunday law by running trains through here. Eleven additional warrants are to be served.

TO EXPLORE POLAR LANDS.

Four Men to Head Expedition Into Land of Ice.

Seeing unknown lands in the north polar seas, a party of four intrepid men will set out from this country next April on the most daring expedition since the ill-fated attempt of Dr. Andree to reach the North pole in a balloon. They are not after the North pole, nor even after the honor of setting a mark further north than any previous expedition, but they may accomplish both. The expedition is purely for scientific purposes, the principal idea being to discover new lands.

In the party will be Ejnar Mikkelsen of Copenhagen, an experienced arctic explorer, a licensed sailing master in the Danish merchant service and a naturalist; Ernest De Koven Leffingwell, a research assistant at the University of Chicago, who has made a special study of glaciation and paleontology; Ejnar Ditlevsen, Copenhagen, zoologist and artist. The fourth member will probably be an English scientist.

Messrs. Wikkelsen and Leffingwell were members of the Baldwin-Zeigler expedition. The two men became deeply attached to each other and their mutual zeal for the expedition and scientific expedition made it a speedy and natural result that, having aided others in dashes for the pole, they, too, should want to reap for themselves some of the glory that comes from the never-ceasing effort to add to the world's geographies new maps of the northern regions.

Before Mikkelsen and Leffingwell came together the Dane already had gone through his first experience as a northern explorer. He was with Amdrup in the Greenland east coast investigations of 1900 and 1901-2. In each instance he made an excellent record. He bears a captain's certificate in the Danish marine service, which is a proof that he is a good seaman, for the descendants of the Vikings exact a high standard from those whom they pronounce fit to preside over the destinies of their ships. Mr. Ditlevsen was also a member of the Greenland expeditions.

They are enthusiasts, but not visionaries, for they know exactly the situation that confronts them, and have practical plans to cope with whatever conditions may aries.

So sanguine is Mr. Leffingwell of the success of the trip that he has put all of his money into it, even borrowing on interest from his father a portion of the Leffingwell estate. Mikkelsen and Leffingwell are equal partners. The Dane is not a man of means, but his reputation enabled him to get the assistance of wealthy persons in England, who subscribed his share.

In the words of Mr. Mikkelsen, the object of the expedition is to find out the existence or non-existence of land to the north of Alaska and the west of Banks Land.

As far back as 1853 belief that there was such land has been promulgated by such eminent experts as Sir Clement Markham and Admiral Osborne. But none of the few expeditions which have gone close to this region have been able to throw any light on the subject. Mikkelsen believes that north of Alaska and Wrangle's Isle there may even be a chain of islands, that being in the heart of the seal region may prove of greatest commercial importance.

To solve the question, four men will attempt the hardships of a sledge journey across the polar ocean from Cape Prince Alfred, which is the northwest corner of Banks Land. They will travel in a northwesterly direction, and if the ice is favorable may even attempt to reach a more westerly position, perhaps Wrangel's Isle, before striking down for the coast of the continent.

In order to tell whether or not they have crossed the continental shelf, they will carry sounding apparatus, which will permit of soundings as deep as 200 fathoms.

At the beginning of the journey the party will be divided. Capt. Mikkelsen will either purchase a small sloop in San Francisco, or, failing that, will take passage aboard a whaler for Siberia, where he will purchase two ponies and about thirty-five dogs. In the meantime the other three members of the party will go north by the great American rivers. In August the junction of the parties will be made at the mouth of the Mackenzie river.

From there the four men will go north on a whaler to Bathurst, or, if the weather permits, to Banks Island.

Cape Keller is fixed upon as winter headquarters, and a house will be erected there by one man and two Eskimos engaged at Bathurst. Leaving one member of the party to take charge of the house at Cape Keller, three others will push along the coast in a boat specially built for the purpose, and place a depot of sledging materials and provisions at Cape Prince Alfred.

In February, 1907, the daring explorers will say good-bye to the known map of the world and set out for the loneliness of ice that lies to the north.

Provisions will be carried for 135 days, and in that time it is hoped to have covered all the territory that is necessary to satisfy the quest.

Some members of the expedition are certain not to return, for Mikkelsen plans to kill the dogs for food as the weight on the sledges is lessened by consumption of provisions and the number of dogs needed to pull the weight is decreased. En route the country traversed is expected to supply some fish and game; if not, then in a pinch the Siberian ponies will have to be sacrificed for food.

If land is discovered beyond Banks Land, the explorers will not content themselves with planting a flag. They have with them all the instruments needed for a complete survey, and Mr. Leffingwell will study the geology.

Photographs will be taken along the route, and Ditlevsen, whi is an accomplished artist, will make studies for drawings.

It is the hope of the members of the party that the unprecedentedly mild weather which meteorological experts have predicted for the next two years will facilitate their progress north, and permit them to accomplish more than has been possible for their predecessors.

Returning, the party will come south via Bathurst and the Mackenzie river. Here all the collections, pictures and instruments will be deposited in charge of the garrison at Fort Macpherson.

Considering the size of the party, it is a program of unprecedented daring, but the ability of the men gives it more than a chance of success that will make them famous.

THE REINDEER PROBLEM.

Swedish Lapps Greatly Dissatisfied With Kalstad Treaty.

Swedish Lapps are greatly dissatisfied with the clause in the Karlstad treaty prohibiting them from migrating to Norway before June 15. They argue that this date is too late, as the ice is out of the rivers and lakes and the march must be made overland. As the fields are then plowed and cultivated the reindeer naturally cause damage for which the Lapps must pay. Moreover, the calves then are too young to travel a long distance. Heretofore the Lapps have come to Norway about May 1, as the ice is then still strong, but at that time of the year there is no grass on the mountains and the reindeer are conducted in the valleys where they destroy the pasturage for the cattle and do other damage.

There is some talk of seeking to settle the difficulty by arbitration, which the Swedes maintain is provided for in the treaty.

IDLE MEN IN SWEDEN.

Much Distress Among Workingmen in Cities of Norrland.

Lack of snow has greatly disturbed the labor conditions in Norrland, Sweden, and thousands of men are out of employment. Considerable timber has been cut, but it has been impossible to get the logs to the streams. In Sundsvall, Ljusne, Hudiksvall and other places the distress is very great. The city of Hudiksvall has contributed 15,000 kroner to the relief of the unemployed. At least 700 families are dependant upon lumbering operations at Ljusne.

The men declare they will emigrate to America as soon as they can raise the necessary means, as employment is too uncertain to warrant them remaining at home.

Even in Stockholm a considerable number of men are out of work and the lockout in the iron industries alone has thrown 350 men on the streets. Complaints are also heard at Gefle, where the completion of the harbor improvements has made many men idle.

Minister Hotel for Sale.

The Norwegian government is anxious to dispose of the Norwegian minister hotel property in Stockholm, and has placed the sale in the hands of a real estate firm. The price has been reduced to 1,150,000 kroner, the former price having been 1,400,000 kroner.

Ships for Japan.

The Nagasaki (Japan) Whaling company, which is having a whaling vessel built at the Aker shipyards, Christiania, Norway, has ordered another vessel. It is to be completed by next May.

Work in Hatfjeld Valley.

The committee appointed some years ago to investigate the Hatfjeld valley property bought by the Norwegian government in 1900 for 220,800 kroner, has prepared a partial report recommending the sale of about seventy tracts to farmers. The English company which controlled an immense area covering many square miles ruined the forests entirely, but a sturdy second growth has sprung up and it is hoped that the valley will again become prosperous and sustain a substantial population.

Big Hauls for Fishers.

The Norwegian fisheries promise unusually rich catches this year. The cod came six weeks earlier than expected and many of the fisher folk were not prepared, but by the middle of January there were 670 boats in the Loften waters and all were doing well. The fish are large and fat, and the livers likewise. The herring fisheries are also unusuallyy promising.

To many men there is a feeling of dislike for a showy woman.

Health

Calumet makes light, digestible, wholesome food; free from Rochelle Salts, Alum or any injurious substance.

Economy

Do not pay 45 or 50 cents for Trust baking powders, which are so compounded as to leave large quantities of Rochelle Salts in the food. Constant dosing of Rochelle Salts is injurious to health.

He Carved the Roast.

The wife of an army officer now stationed at Fort Leavenworth gave a dinner at Manila, while her husband was soldiering in the Philippines. Her guests were mostly distinguished army officers, so she set the table herself, laying the covers for six, and then proceeded to the kitchen to give last instructions to her new Jap cook.

"Do you think you could carve this nicely?" she asked, indicating the roast, which was about done.

"Oh, yes," said the Jap.

"Very well, then, I guess you'd better do it before it is brought on the table."

"And what do you think," she related afterward: "when the meat course arrived there was my beautiful roast cut up in six big chunks—one for each of us."

Awful.

Mrs. Malaprop—Mrs. Gagley was tellin' me they've a new minister at her church. I wonder how she likes him?

Mrs. Wise—Not at all. She tells me his preaching is positively incomprehensible.

Mrs. Malaprop—Well, well! It's shockin' how many ministers are bein' accused of heritage these days.

Something Had to Slide.

"The jokesmiths," remarked the observer of events and things, "who had a large stock of stories about people slipping down on icy sidewalks this winter, have had to just let 'em slide.

A PERFECT HAND.

How Its Appearance Became Familiar to the Public.

The story of how probably the most perfect feminine hand in America became known to the people is rather interesting.

As the story goes the possessor of the hand was with some friends in a photographer's one day, and while talking, held up a piece of candy. The pose of the hand, with its perfect contour and faultless shape attracted the attention of the artist, who proposed to photograph it. The result was a beautiful picture kept in the family until, one day, after reading a letter from some one inquiring as to who wrote the Postum and Grape-Nuts advertisements, Mr. Post said to his wife: "We receive so many inquiries of this kind, that it is evident some people are curious to know; suppose we let the advertising department have that picture of your hand to print and name it "A Helping Hand." (Mrs. Post has assisted him in preparation of some of the most famous advertisements).

There was a natural shrinking from the publicity, but with an agreement that no name would accompany the picture its use was granted.

The case was presented in the light of extending a welcoming hand to the friends of Postum and Grape-Nuts, so the picture appeared on the back covers of many of the January and February magazines and became known to millions of people.

Many artists have commented upon it as probably the most perfect hand in the world.

The advertising dept. of the Postum Co. did not seem able to resist the temptation to enlist the curiosity of the public, by refraining from giving the name of the owner when the picture appeared, but stated that the name would be given later in one of the newspaper announcements, thus seeking to induce the readers to look for and read the forthcoming advertisements to learn the name of the owner.

This combination of art and commerce and the multitude of inquiries furnishes an excellent illustration of the interest the public takes in the personal and family life of large manufacturers whose names become household words through extensive and continuous announcements in newspapers and periodicals.

SHIP subsidies are not relished by the American people. The idea savors too much of favoritism.

ROOSEVELT takes a hand again in averting a coal strike. The first requisite for a president to cut ice is not to be afraid to use his axe.

THE New Rockford Transcript, the editor of which of course is a bachelor, asserts that all marriage licenses are paid on the installment plan—one dollar down and a man's entire salary all the rest of his life.

SENATOR Nelson voted for the ship subsidy bill and Senator Clapp dodged it. This is another strong argument to provide against the danger of giving Governor Johnson a chance to appoint a Democratic senator.

THOUGH local in character, it is feared the outbreak against the missionaries at Nangchang, China, may be but the precursor of more general disturbances. The anti-foreign feeling is no less strong than it was preceding the Boxer rebellion.

So the railroad companies can route fruit shipments as they please. Well, the United States supreme court makes the law, no matter what we think of it. It may hold an income tax constitutional at one time and unconstitutional at another, and if so both decisions are good. It has the advantage of being the court of last resort.

THE Irish Standard observes: "We are afraid that the warm days that we have been having will have the effect of prematurely starting the games of marbles and politics. We have noticed that the small boys take to marbles and the grown boys to politics as soon as the spring days come. By starting too early frosts may be encountered."

WHATEVER may be the merits of the ship subsidy bill passed by the senate last week its passage will be condemned by the people, says the Cannon Falls Beacon. It may be a proper, a politic, a patriotic measure and yet it will not be sanctioned by public approval. The interests back of ship subsidy and those in control of public utilities and manufacturing trusts are identical so far as public knowledge and recognition.

HOARD'S Dairyman recently took a census of results from one hundred owners of cows, dividing them into two classes, readers and non-readers. Out of the one hundred patrons sixty-three are readers of dairy or agricultural papers or both and thirty-seven do not read such periodicals. The readers receive for each dollar's worth of feed consumed by their cows $1.38, and the non-readers only 87 cents. The former class received a net profit of $10 per cow and the latter had a loss of $3 per cow. Any one can explain the difference in results.

CHIEF JUSTICE CHARLES M. START announces that he will accept a re-election this year. He will get it without opposition. There ought to be no partisanship in selecting judges of the supreme court, and the sole aim of the voters ought to be to secure men of ability, integrity and judicial mien. In Justice Start all of these qualities are exemplified in an unusual degree, and it would be a distinct loss if the court should be deprived of his eminent services.

THE various electrical projects in this vicinity is calling the attention of the outside world to the remarkable water power possibilities at Red Lake Falls. Some years ago a well-known dam expert gave it as his opinion that there are at least thirteen dam sites within two miles of either side of this city. There is reason for the optimistic faith of those who argue that when this wasted force is harnessed Red Lake Falls will become a great manufacturing center. We hope, though, that the number of dams we are given will not prove unlucky.

SENATOR STEPHENS goes a long way from home to announce his yearning for the governorship, but as the candidacy is vouched for by his close personal and political friend, W. E. McKenzie, it must be taken as authentic. A late issue of the Pasadena (Cal.) Daily News quotes Mr. McKenzie as follows: "We expect to elect a Republican governor this fall and Senator Stephens has a good chance to be the candidate, but we recognize that in Governor Johnson we have a strong opponent. He is a Swede, and there are thousands of his countrymen in Minnesota. Besides any question of nationality he is able, clean and popular."

FOR the first time since last May the state revenue fund has a balance on the right hand side of the ledger. The balances made up by State Treasurer Block March 1 showed a balance of $446,097.83 in the revenue fund. A month ago there was an overdraft on the other funds of $505,145 and in addition to that loans on banks amounting to $1,215,000, making a total shortage at that time of $1,720,000. All these interest-bearing warrants have been taken up and in addition there is a cash balance. During the month $2,488,022.69 has been turned into the fund and only about $320,000 taken out for running expenses. Thus in about two months the state treasury has been changed from the worst condition to the best condition it has been in for years.

GEN. GROSVENOR thus warns his old-time colleagues in the House who sympathize with him over his defeat: "None of you fellows are safe. The people are getting too independent with their voting. They just won't line up any more." There is truth in this. The voters are not as tractable and obedient as they once were. Grosvenor attributes his defeat to bossism. That is not true. The Cleveland Plain Dealer says: "Any regret that the General may feel will not be generally shared in or out of Ohio, and certainly neither he nor any one else has reason to feel surprise. He had a chance to retire with dignity by keeping his promise of two years ago not to ask a renomination if given just one more term. People took him at his word. He broke it and has paid the just penalty. As it is he makes his exit from public life unmourned, unhonored and to some extent dishonored, for he cannot escape the charge of breaking faith with his constituents."

PUBLIC OPINION TO RULE.

Public opinion is getting in its work again, says the Windom Citizen.

Public opinion has driven an insurance grafter to an early grave.

It is making Rogers sick.

It has made Rockefeller a recluse.

It has turned down that facetious old fraud, Chauncey Depew, and made him look like a busted old chestnut with the joke shot away.

It has guided the president in his recommendations to congress.

It has passed a railway rate regulation bill through congress—it may get it through the senate.

Public opinion has raised lids all over the country.

It has supported determined, fearless men who drove grafters into their holes, or behind prison bars.

It is demanding that justice be meted out to the rich, as well as the poor, offender.

People are waking up and getting out from under the thrall of that indifference which has so long enabled the thugs to fatten and high finance to build up combinations that defy government.

Public sentiment will again become the ruler of this country.

WHAT WILL BE THE ISSUE?

The Washington Post seems to be worried over the question: What issue will the Democratic party champion in the next campaign? It says the campaign is just ahead and no definite issue has yet been presented. It then proceeds to ask questions:

How about 2-cent fares and Tom Johnson? How about municipal ownership and Mr. Hearst? How about state ownership and Mr. Bryan? How about national ownership and Mr. Debs? All these are handy, and any or all of them may be had if the party is in the humor. As for rate-making—that is preempted and occupied. It is as Republican as protection, and far more Republican than sound money, for be it remembered that the gold standard was an estray from the Democratic pastures of Thomas H. Benton, Robert M. T. Hunter, Samuel J. Tilden and Grover Cleveland, that was reluctantly "taken up," posted, and acquired by the G. O. P. through its agent, the late Mark Hanna.

It will not do for the Democrats to appeal to the people on the railroad issue. Mr. Roosevelt has forestalled them, and the very best thing the minority can do is to let that issue be buried in the bill of the present session. There will be some sort of legislation had upon that subject, and it will take until after the next presidential election to ascertain whether it is a settlement of the railroad problem.

The Post should curb its impatience. The next campaign is two years off, and time will develop an issue. If not the convention can make one. It manufactured a "paramount issue" in 1900, though it served its purpose but poorly. In 1904 it did not have much of an issue, though its candidate for president sought to breathe life into the dead issue of 1900, which never was a real issue. An issue cannot be manufactured. It must be a growth, a product of time and conditions, not of a resolution. Issues manufactured for a special trip and train only are of little value for campaign purposes. Doubtless the issue will be of a radical nature. With the Democratic party all others seem to be old-fashioned and out of date. As to the railroad issue as embodied in the rate bill there can be little in that for either party. There never was much in it, and now there is less since Roosevelt is its progenitor and Tillman is its leader in the senate with a Democratic minority in both houses fighting for it. But we shall have an issue, even if we have to go out and borrow one.

RED RIVER COMMISSION.

Three Members to be Appointed by President to Investigate.

Senator Hansbrough, of North Dakota, has introduced a bill which authorizes the president to appoint three commissioners, one each from Minnesota and North and South Dakota, to meet any commissioner appointed by Canada for the purpose of investigating the condition of the Red River of the North, an international navigable stream passing through American territory and emptying in Lake Winnipeg in Manitoba. These commissioners on behalf of the United States are required to report to the president on a practical plan under which the flood waters of this river and its principal tributaries in the United States may be diverted and disposed of in such a manner as to prevent overflow and to obviate or lessen the dangers of agriculture along said stream. The sum of $25,000 is to be appropriated to carry out the work of the commission. Each commissioner to receive $3,000 for his services.

Poultry Notes.

Even now if you find any overfat hens in the flock, dispose of them at once.

Keeping hens busy is of first impertance, but should not be carried to extremes.

Because a hen will eat filthy food is no reason why more of it should be fed to them.

A steady diet of raw oats sometimes causes indigestion. It is better to scald or cook the oats.

Overcrowding, overfeeding and underexercise are the common causes of failures with poultrymen.

It may be that your young stock is the best, but as a rule the strongest chicks are produced from old and well matured birds.

Breeding from fowls that are apparently over the roup is a bad thing to do. It is a disease that is easily transmitted.

Six months is considered long enough for a pullet of the laying variety to get to doing business, but many of them do not lay until seven or eight months old.

In saving breeding stock for next year, keep the old turkeys, ducks and geese, and also hens that have done good service this year. Some of them will be valuable as mothers if nothing more.

The first one or two litters of eggs laid by a pullet is not so sure or profitable for hatching as is the product later on. Neither would I place too much dependence on the first egg laid by old hens.

Keep the little ones healthy and happy. Their tender, sensitive bodies require gentle healing remedies. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea will keep them strong and well. 35 cents, tea or tablets. A. L. Reichert.

Every Two Minutes

Physicians tell us that all the blood in a healthy human body passes through the heart once in every two minutes. If this action becomes irregular the whole body suffers. Poor health follows poor blood; Scott's Emulsion makes the blood pure. One reason why is such a great aid is because it passes so quickly into the blood. It is partly digested before it enters the stomach; a double advantage in this. Less work for the stomach; quicker and more direct benefits. To get the greatest amount of good with the least possible effort is the desire of everyone in poor health. Scott's Emulsion does just that. A change for the better takes place even before you expect it.

We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

J. A. Wilson and Miss Anne Smith were married Tuesday evening at the home of the groom's parents in Thief River Falls. Mr. Wilson was formerly principal of the schools in that city and later an inspector of the state dairy and food department, while Miss Smith is the noted evangelist who has held revivals in nearly all of the larger towns in the valley.

County Attorney Germo was called to Thief River Monday to investigate a shooting affair. A bartender and a Marshall county farmer got into a dispute over a dice game, and in the melee the bartender was shot in the groin, the bullet inflicting only a slight flesh wound. The injured man refused to prosecute, and there will probably be nothing done about the affair.

The board of ditch viewers for judicial ditch No. 5 in Polk and Red Lake counties, consisting of Adam Zeh of Red Lake Falls, A. O. Stort of Climax and Jacob Bjondegaard of Crookston, filed their report with the clerk of courts at Crookston last Thursday. The ditch with laterals is 40 miles long, and the report is one of the most voluminons ever filed in the state.

Crookston Times: The appeal of the case of W. E. Black vs. the Board of County Commissioners and L. C. Simons of Red Lake Falls, has been printed and is now in the hands of the clerk of court, who is checking it with the records of the district court before it is sent to the supreme court, where it will soon come up. The action is for nearly $1,000 and is being fought hard by both sides.

February was a good month for tax collections. The cash receipts for the month at Treasurer Hansen's office aggregated $27,029.33, of which all but about $1,000 represented personal property tax collections. On March 1 the county had $57,773.00 cash on deposit, and all of the funds are in good shape. Red Lake county is run economically and efficiently, and there can be no just complaint from any quarter of incompetency or extravagance on the part of our officials.

William Findeisen was seriously ill the fore part of the week with lung trouble, but at the present writing is improved and is expected to recover his usual health shortly. On Sunday his condition was so critical that a telegram was sent his daughter, Maud, at Winona, to come home at once. In some way she failed to catch the Sunday night train, and by the next day Mr. Findeisen was so much better that it was not necessary to have her come. The many friends of the family will hope for Mr. Findeisen's speedy recovery.

The Cooperstown Courier has this to say of a former Red Lake Falls boy: "H. S. Thompson, of Binford, has been selected by the directors of the farmers' elevator at this place to run their house the coming season. Hall is a popular fellow and of course is delighted to come to Cooperstown to live and he will now have an opportunity to look on that nice base ball cup that we have here. There are other reasons why he likes this place at this time but we refrain from mentioning them at this time. We are glad, however, that Mr. Thompson is to become a citizen of Cooperstown."

A Word of Warning.

The newspapers are requested to give notice that a woman going under the name of Mrs. Gratz has been visiting many of the towns of the state soliciting funds. In some places she is reported as soliciting funds for a work for children, in other places, as for a rescue home for unfortunate girls. Investigation has revealed the fact that she is not the representative of any board or anything worthy of the name of charity. She conducts a private lying-in place where women are taken for pay. There is nothing of the character of a rescue home or anything that is worthy of a claim upon charitable people. For information concerning her and her methods apply to the Minneapolis Humane Society.

FRANK E. HUNT
Established 1878 Gen'l Hardware

IMPRESSED WITH WESTERN CANADA.

Says Our Prairies Will Be Filled Up In Ten Years.

L. A. Stockwell of Indianapolis, a United States land man who made an extensive tour of inspection in the west, wrote the following article, under date of Jan. 8, for an Indiana publication

"States." In this letter I propose to show by extracts from my note book that thousands who have come up here from the "States" have succeeded far beyond their most sanguine expectations.

Mr. N. E. Beaumunk of Brazil, Indiana, was earning $100.00 per month with a coal company. At about the age of 40 he had saved about $3,000. Four years ago he landed near Hanley, Sask. He now owns 480 acres of land. Last fall (1905) he threshed 4,700 bushels of wheat and 3,100 bushels of oats. His wheat alone brought him over $4,000, which would have paid for the acres that it grew on. He is to-day worth $15,000.

This Is Making Money Fast.

In Feb. 1902, J. G. Smith & Bro. were weavers in a big cotton mill in Lancashire, England. Coming here they arrived in Wapella, Sask., with only $750.00 between them. They were so "green" and inexperienced that all they could earn the first summer was $6.00 per month, and the first winter they had to work for their board. The next year, 1903, they took homesteads, and by working for neighbors, they got a few acres broken out, upon which the next year they raised a few hundred bushels of wheat and oats. They also bought a team and broke out about sixty acres more. In 1905 they threshed 1700 bushels of wheat from it, and 1300 bushels of oats. Their success being then assured they borrowed some money, built a good house, barn and implement shed, and bought a cream separator, etc. They now have a dozen cows, some full-blooded pigs and chickens, good teams and implements to match, and are on the high road to prosperity. Here are three cases selected from my note book from among a score of others. One a mine boss, one a farmer, and one a factory operator. With each of them I took tea and listened to their story. "I hoped to better my condition," said one. "I thought in time I might make a home," said another. "I had high expectations," said the other, and all said that "I never dreamed it possible to succeed as I have."

Like Arabian Nights.

Everywhere, on the trains, at the hotels and in the family I have been told successes that reminded me more of the stories in the Arabian Nights than of this matter-of-fact workaday world. Yields of wheat from 35 to 53 bushels per acre, and of oats of from 60 to 100 bushels, are numerous in every locality and well authenticated. At Moose Jaw, Lethbridge, Calgary, Edmonton, Regina, Brandon, Hanley and many intermediate places I saw cattle and young horses fat as our grain-fed animals of the "States" that had never tasted grain, and whose cost to their owners was almost nothing. At Moosomin I saw a train load of 1,400 steers en route to England, that were shaky fat, raised as above stated. If the older generation of farmers in Indiana, who have spent their lives in a contest with logs and stumps as did their fathers before them, could see these broad prairies dotted with comfortable homes, large red barns, and straw piles innumerable, and the thriving towns with their towering elevators jammed to the roof with "No. 1 hard," and then remember that four or five years ago these plains were tenantless but for the badger and coyote, they would marvel at the transformation. Then if they followed the crowds as they emerged from the trains and hurried to the land offices, standing in line until their respective turns to be waited on came, and saw with what rapidity these lands are being taken, they would certainly catch the "disease" and want some of it too. If these lands are beautiful in midwinter, with their long stretches of yellow stubble standing high above the snow, what must they be in summer time when covered with growing or ripening grains? Speaking of winter reminds me that our Hoosier friends shrug their shoulders when they read in the Chicago and Minneapolis dailies of the temperature up here. For that very reason I am here this winter. The Canadian literature, with its pictures, half tones and statistics, gives a good idea of her resources, but thirty or forty degrees below zero sounds dangerous to a Hoozier, who nearly freezes in a temperature of five above, especially when accompanied by a wind, as it often is, but the fact is, when it is very cold here it is still and the air being dry the cold is not felt as it is in our lower latitudes, where there is more humidity in the atmosphere. I am 56 and I never saw a finer winter than the one I am spending up here. I arrived in Winnipeg Nov. 9, and have not had the bottoms of my overshoes wet since I entered Canada. Under a cloudless sky I have ridden in sleighs nearly a thousand miles, averaging a drive every other day. Stone masons have not lost a week's time so far this winter. Building of all kinds goes right ahead in every city and hamlet, as though winter were never heard of.

Information concerning homestead lands in Western Canada can be had from any authorized Canadian Government Agent whose advertisement appears elsewhere in this paper.

..The Filibusters of Venezuela..

Or the Trials of a Spanish Girl.

By SEWARD W. HOPKINS.

Copyrighted 1900 by Robert Bonner's Sons.

Arthur Medworth smiled and answered;

"General, as I am the one most interested, it is proper that I should undertake to explain the case as well as I am able. I will tell you the whole story as it lies nearest to my heart, and you will be able to take from it what most concerns you. To begin, then, General: Some time ago I was fortunate enough to rescue a beautiful girl from being dashed to the ground and killed by a runaway team of horses in New York. That girl was Lola Garza, the daughter of Don Juan Garza, a proud old Spaniard who has lived in Venezuela and latterly in New York, where he married a wealthy lady, now dead. Don Juan is one of the proudest of Castilians, and though I am by no means poor, I was not wealthy enough, or of noble birth, to satisfy his ambitions for his daughter. Lola Garza, who has then seventeen years of age, and is now eighteen, inherited more of her mother's American nature than her father's Spanish one. She cared nothing for royalty and old-world courts, and being wealthy in her own right, was independent. I grew to love her, and she returned my love, but Don Juan forbade all communication between us. Still, we met clandestinely as often as possible. . . .

"Well, Don Juan, about six months ago, began to receive strange men at his house, and it was evident that some kind of conspiracy was on foot. Still, he guarded his secret closely, and we learned only the name of one of these—Ferdinand Gomez. There was another, whose name we could not at first learn, who always wore a gorgeous uniform, concealed, when on the street, under a long Spanish cloak.

"On the evening of the fourth of this month, these men and several others were at Garza's house, and Lola was called to meet them. Don Juan put her hand in that of the uniformed stranger, and said:

"'Philip of Aragon, this is my daughter, Lola. I made my bargain, and who shall say you will not be the gainer by it?'

"There was a great deal more said, and the poor girl, though much frightened, gathered enough from the constant talk to know that these men were engaged in a desperate plot to seat Philip of Aragon on the throne of some country now a republic, and that her father had furnished the arms and ammunition and ready money for the enterprise, stipulating, in turn, that his daughter, Lola, should be made queen. When, after a long time, during which she trembled with fear, she was allowed to leave the room, Ferdinand Gomez, who was near the door, bent over and whispered in her ear: 'Heed him not—the madman. Whether he be king or not, you shall never be his bride. I have loved you long, and love you now, too well to give you up to him. Rather than have him marry you I would kill him. And rather than give you to another, I would kill you. Remember, peace or war, success or failure, you are mine.'

"As you may suppose, General, the poor girl was doubly frightened at this, and made haste to tell me all on the following day. Before I could act, however, on the morning of the 6th, Don Juan Garza, his daughter, Gomez and Philip of Aragon were missing. I was much alarmed, and with my tried and true friend here, Jack Tempest, visited the Venezuelan consul, among others in New York. At the consul's office we learned that the steamship Agostura had sailed from New York that morning with the conspirators and a cargo of arms for Bolivar. Therefore, it is certain that Venezuela is the country to be turned into a monarchy with Philip of Aragon on the throne. Now where are the conspirators?"

Salvarez laughed, and said:

"You need not fear. Your Lola is now probably safe in the hands of the Republic, and will not be harmed if your story is true. The Agostura is so long overdue that I do not expect to see her at Bolivar."

Notwithstanding this opinion of General Salvarez, the smoke of a steamer was seen approaching on the 22d. Activity began at once, and Salvarez prepared to receive into captivity the enemies of his country.

When the steamer drew nearer, they were surprised to see that she carried the Custom House flag, thus showing that she had been examined and passed at La Guayra.

Then it could not be the Agostura.

But it was the Agostura.

Slowly she swung into the dock; the bustle of landing occupied some little time, and the captain presented his papers.

Not a passenger was on board; no Gomez, no Garza, no Lola, no Philip of Aragon.

The invoice was examined. The seal of the custom house was genuine.

The work of unloading began.

Case after case was brought ashore, and by the command of Salvarez broken open.

The contents of one was a plow, of another a harrow.

So on, until the dock was strewn with agricultural implements.

Not a gun, not a cartridge, was on board.

General Salvarez, his chief officers, Medworth and Tempest, stood on the dock at Bolivar, and looked at each other in chagrin.

Some one had blundered terribly.

"It is a trick!" exclaimed Medworth, huskily. "I know they left New York on that ship!"

"Then where are they now?" asked Salvarez.

He was soon to learn.

CHAPTER II.

A Shrewd Move.

It will be necessary, in order that the reader, who is interested, may understand the mystifying event which upset all the calculations of General Salvarez, and filled Arthur Medworth with dismay, to turn our attention to the men who were conspiring against the peace and liberty of Venezuela, and follow them in one of the shrewdest moves the brain of plotter ever devised.

It had seemed to Salvarez, who recalled the words in the message of President Crespo, that the consul at New York had been too hasty in jumping to a conclusion.

But the sailing of the Agostura laden with arms for the royalist cause was a fact. The consul at New York, in cabling his information to President Crespo at Caracas, had stated nothing but the truth. Where, then, the mystery? Shrewd as Medworth had been, shrewd as the consul had been, they were but children compared to the shrewdness of Ferdinand Gomez.

The first thing was to discover a king. It may be wondered at that Gomez did not aim to the crown himself. But the astute Spaniard was experienced enough to know that if he, as father of the scheme, admitted that he wished to be king, he would drive from his side his strongest supporters, for it would stand bare as the selfish, grasping plot of an adventurer. He discovered the man he wanted, and supported by the glory of the house of Aragon, they began operations.

They found plenty of sympathizers in Spain, but mostly among men who were ready to join the expedition with visions of old-time Spanish conquests before them. But there were two great difficulties that confronted Gomez. The Monroe Doctrine, so positively enforced and maitained by the United States government, made it impossible for the royalist movement to emanate from Spain. The impulse must come in the way of a revolution in Venezuela, and for this there was no money available. But Gomez was not the man to sit down and acknowledge himself defeated.

He went to Venezuela. He felt the political pulse. He appointed agents to all the states and provinces. Then he went to New York.

The reports of his agents were favorable. Men were ready to take up arms for the royalist cause. But the arms were lacking.

Now Gomez showed himself a master. He carefully studied all sources from which assistance might safely be derived.

One after another he cast aside as undesirable or impossible.

In a splendid house in New York lived a proud old Spaniard, Don Juan Garza. Don Juan had, in his own way and time, been something of an adventurer. Born in Castile, of a very proud, very aristocratic and very poor family, he inherited all the love of pomp and royalty and nobility without the means to gratify it. For a time he served in the army, but at the age of twenty-two he left Spain and went to Venezuela. That country had, after a thirty years' war, enjoyed ten years of liberty from Spanish rule. The country was unsettled and dangerous, and Don Juan had his fill of exciting adventure, but did little to fill his depleted coffers. He remained in Venezuela long enough to bring down upon his head the anger of the government for intrigue and political treachery, and was forced to leave. From there he went to New York city, where he met and won the beautiful daughter of a wealthy merchant. His married life proved happy enough to keep him out of political miscief, but his mind often turned longingly to the pomp and glory of courts.

The merchant died, leaving his fortune so arranged that, at the death of Don Juan's wife, it should descend to the daughter, then a pretty little thing of six.

When Lola was fifteen years of age her mother died, and the old Spaniard's mind turned with greater longing to political fields.

Thus it was, when Ferdinand Gomez was looking for some one to assist in his great enterprise, Don Juan Garza was looking for an enterprise to assist.

They met, these two, and conferred. Don Juan was sixty years old, and was shrewd. He desired to know the exact position of the new movement in Venezuela. Gomez, therefore, sent for his agents, and for Philip of Aragon. While waiting for them to arrive, Gomez fell violently in love with Lola Garza, who was herself in love with Arthur Medworth, against whom the father had issued his decree.

Philip and the agents arrived. A meeting was held at Don Juan's house, and it was made apparent to the old man that one hundred thousand people in Venezuela stood sworn to support Philip of Aragon. The pride and ambition of Don Juan was touched. He agreed to furnish the arms and ammunition for the enterprise, if Philip would agree to a contract in writing whereby he bound himself to marry Lola Garza as soon as the crown of Venezuela was on his head. To this Philip assented, and Gomez found himself confronted by a coalition between Philip and Don Juan that bade fair to defeat his own secret purposes.

So, when the contract was signed, Don Juan went to a certain wealthy man in New York who frequently became the backer of shady enterprises, invariably exacting a great return for his money; and this person, upon the promise of Don Juan to furnish a contract, signed by Philip of Aragon, to give him, Solima, the backer of the state, the full control of all trade between Venezuela and the United States, agreed to furnish twenty thousand rifles, millions of cartridges, and a million dollars to promote the success of the royal cause.

The plans worked smoothly without a break. The Agostura was chosen as the vessel to carry the arms out of New York; and this was where Gomez proved himself to be the master-hand in the whole conspiracy.

Up to this time the success had all depended upon him, with the one exceptional instance of Garza's aid financially. But then, Gomez had chosen Garza.

He had selected his agents shrewdly, managed their movements, and guided their hands. He had been all over the ground to prepare the way for his emissaries. He had met Pedro Francisco, and had trusted him. He alone, Gomez, controlled the situation.

At the same time the Agostura was being laden with arms in the East River, the Turtle, a ship in the carrying trade between Boston and the peninsula, lay at her dock in Boston receiving a cargo of bona-fide agricultural implements, ostensibly for Nicaragua.

The invoices of the Turtle and the Agostura, one false, the other true, were identically the same. The invoice of the Agostura tallied correctly with the invoice of the Turtle.

The morning of the 6th was a memorable one to Lola Garza.

She had been awakened before daylight by her father and ordered to dress.

"Come," he said, "we go to place you on a throne."

She had rebelled. A struggle had actually taken place. Lola had been dragged forth against her will, thrust into a carriage with her father, Gomez and Philip of Aragon, and taken to Port Morris.

They boarded the Agostura. The ship sailed at five o'clock.

Gomez was radiant. His plans had, so far, been signally successful. His associates wondered at his hopefulness. They knew nothing about the purchase of the Turtle.

But Gomez had a surprise in store for them.

When the Agostura had reached a point about five degrees east of Washington and thirty-five degrees north latitude, she hung about as if waiting for something.

That something was the Turtle.

"We are lost!" Don Juan had exclaimed when he saw the strange steamer coming toward them.

"We govern," Gomez replied. "Venezuela is ours from to-day."

The two steamers were lashed together.

Each had been furnished with donkey-engines and hoisting apparatus.

The cargo of the Agostura was transferred to the Turtle.

The Agostura unloaded at Bolivar, as we have seen. General Salvarez had started for home in disgust. There was no way for Medworth and Tempest to leave before El Callao sailed, which would be in five days. Castle Salvarez was only twenty miles away. They accepted the offer of hospitality, Salvarez held out to them, and accompanied him up the Coroni valley.

In the meantime, the Turtle, free from all hindrance, had followed the Agostura, and at the very hour the Agostura was unloading at Bolivar, the Turtle, loaded with twenty thousand rifles, came to anchor in the Orinoco at a shorter distance below the mouth of the Coroni River than Bolivar was above it. Gomez had outwitted them all.

How to Become Wealthy.

In a New Hampshire city there dwells an octogenarian physician who, in addition to his wide medical skill, is known far and wide as a dispenser of blunt philosophy. The other day a young man of his acquaintance called at his office. "I have not come for pills this time, doctor," said the visitor, "but for advice. You have lived many years in this world of toil and trouble and have had much experience. I am young and I want you to tell me how to get rich." The aged practitioner gazed through his glasses at the young man and in a deliberate tone, said: "Yes, I can tell you. You are young and can accomplish your object if you will. Your plan is this: First, be industrious and economical. Save as much as possible and spend as little. Pile up the dollars and put them at interest. If you follow out these instructions by the time you reach my age you'll be as rich as Croesus and as mean as h—l."—Buffalo Commercial.

Sailor Poets Wanted.

An English literary writer says that "the time is fully ripe for the advent of a sailor poet and the marine engineer poet. "Whether they write in terms of rhyme or no I care not. A virgin field awaits them, a noble inheritance, maturing for ages. They can, if they come, utterly refute the false and foolish prattle of the armchair philosophers and prove triumphantly that so far from the romance and poetry of the sea being dead, it has hardly yet been given any adequate expression whatever."

Street of Skulls.

There is a street in Gwandu, Africa, which is a veritable place of skulls. The town, oval in shape, has round it a ring of poles, every one of which is crowned with a human skull. There are six gates to the town, and each is approached by a pavement of skulls, of which something like 12,000 were used. This pavement is snowy white.

DAZED WITH PAIN.

The Sufferings of a Citizen of Olympia, Wash.

L. S. Gorham, of 516 East 4th St., Olympia, Wash., says: "Six years ago I got wet and took cold, and was soon flat in bed, suffering tortures with my back. Every movement caused an agonizing pain, and the persistency of it exhausted me, so that for a time I was dazed and stupid. On the advice of a friend I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, and soon noticed a change for the better. The kidney secretions had been disordered and irregular, and contained a heavy sediment, but in a week's time the urine was clear and natural again and the passages regular. Gradually the aching and soreness left my back and then the lameness. I used six boxes to make sure of a cure, and the trouble has never returned."

DE LAVAL SEPARATORS

have been placed by the Beatrice Creamery Co., of Lincoln, Neb., with its patrons during the past five or six years. The Beatrice Company is the largest and most successful creamery concern in the world. Its success and growth have been nothing short of marvelous. Before the adoption of the farm separator system the Beatrice Company used from 500 to 600 DE LAVAL factory separators. Their experience with these machines proved the DE LAVAL to be the most profitable of all cream separators. When their patrons demanded separators for home use they were given the benefit of this experience. The Beatrice Company realized that its success depended upon the success of its patrons. In view of this the DE LAVAL was chosen by them as the only separator which would bring about the desired result. That the DE LAVAL has come up to their expectation goes without saying. TWO OPEN LETTERS

IMPORTANT TO MARRIED WOMEN

Mrs. Mary Dimmick of Washington tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well.

It is with great pleasure we publish the following letters, as they convincingly prove the claim we have so many times made in our columns that Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., is fully qualified to give helpful advice to sick women. Read Mrs. Dimmick's letters.

Mrs. Mary Dimmick

Her first letter:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I have been a sufferer for the past eight years with a trouble which first originated from painful periods—the pains were excruciating, with inflammation and ulceration of the female organs. The doctor says I must have an operation or I cannot live. I do not want to submit to an operation if I can possibly avoid it. Please help me."—Mrs. Mary Dimmick, Washington, D. C.

Her second letter:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"You will remember my condition when I last wrote you, and that the doctor said I must have an operation or I could not live. I received your kind letter and followed your advice very carefully and am now entirely well. As my case was so serious it seems a miracle that I am cured. I know that I owe not only my health but my life to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and to your advice. I can walk miles without an ache or a pain, and I wish every suffering woman would read this letter and realize what you can do for them."—Mrs. Mary Dimmick, 59th and East Capitol Streets, Washington, D. C.

How easy it was for Mrs. Dimmick to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and how little it cost her—a two-cent stamp. Yet how valuable was the reply! As Mrs. Dimmick says—it saved her life.

Mrs. Pinkham has on file thousands of just such letters as the above, and offers ailing women helpful advice.

WORST FORM OF ECZEMA.

Black Splotches All Over Face—Affected Parts Now Clear as Ever—Cured by the Cuticura Remedies.

"About four years ago I was afflicted with black splotches all over my face and a few covering my body, which produced a severe itching irritation, and which caused me a great deal of annoyance and suffering, to such an extent that I was forced to call in two of the leading physicians of my town. After a thorough examination of the dreaded complaint they announced it to be skin eczema in its worst form. They treated me for the same for the length of one year, but the treatment did me no good. Finally my husband purchased a set of the Cuticura remedies, and after using the contents of the first bottle of Cuticura Resolvent in connection with the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, the breaking out entirely stopped. I continued the use of the Cuticura Remedies for six months, and after that every splotch was entirely gone and the affected parts were left as clear as ever. The Cuticura Remedies not only cured me of that dreadful disease, eczema, but other complicated troubles as well. Lizzie E. Sledge, 540 Jones Ave., Selma, Ala. Oct. 28, 1905."

HER USE OF THE DIRECTORY.

Woman Explains Why She Kept a Line of People Waiting.

A stylishly dressed and altogether good looking woman was turning over the leaves of a directory in a leisurely manner when an irascible old gentleman, known to many of his acquaintances as a man with a very small stock of patience, entered. He wished to use the directory, too, possibly to look up the address of a man who owed him money. He stood about, now and then casting heavy looks in the direction of the directory and coughing suggestively.

A business man in a hurry followed. He wanted to know where Walter Jones lived. It is a block or two away, but he had forgotten the number. He fell into line.

Then a man who sought some city official but knew nothing of his office except that it closed in a few minutes, joined the ranks of waiters.

Still the woman placidly turned over leaf after leaf, without any apparent intention to decide whether the name she was seeking was Brown, Smith or Jones.

Finally, when matters were beginning to grow very tense, a young man rushed in. His mission would positively admit of no delay, so he politely offered to assist the woman, suggesting that his experience might tend to save time and lessen her labor. When he asked her what she sought, with a sweet smile of appreciation, she replied:

"Oh, thank you. You are very kind. I am trying to find a real pretty name for my baby."

A NECESSARY EVIL.

Experience of a Minister Who Tried to Think That of Coffee.

"A descendant of the Danes, a nation of coffee drinkers, I used coffee freely till I was 20 years old," writes a clergyman from Iowa. "At that time I was a student at a Biblical Institute, and suddenly became aware of the fact that my nerves had become demoralized, my brain dull and sluggish and that insomnia was fastening its hold upon me.

"I was loth to believe that these things came from the coffee I was drinking, but at last was forced to that conclusion and quit it.

"I was so accustomed to a hot table beverage and felt the need of it so much, that after abstaining from coffee for a time and recovering my health, I went back to it. I did this several times, but always with disastrous results. I had about made up my mind that coffee was a necessary evil.

"About this time a friend told me that I would find Postum Food Coffee very fine and in many respects away ahead of coffee. So I bought some and, making it very carefully according to the directions, we were delighted to find that he had not exaggerated in the least. From that day to this we have liked it better than the old kind of coffee or anything else in the way of a table drink.

"Its use gave me, in a very short time, an increase in strength, clearness of brain and steadiness of nerves; and sleep, restful and restoring, came back to me.

"I am thankful that we heard of Postum and shall be glad to testify at any time to the good it has done me." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek., Mich.

DAIRY NOTES

The National Dairy Show.

Regarding the National Dairy Show, I would like to inform the dairymen through your valuable columns that the exhibition of dairy cattle will be very complete.

The floor space in the great Coliseum has practically all been taken, and the exhibits comprise everything that the creamery man, cheese man, milk dealer and dairy farmer uses in his factory or on the farm. Much of the machinery will be in actual operation and in addition to these exhibits there will be a sanitary city milk plant with all the latest improved machinery in actual operation, showing how milk can and should be handled for city consumers. In another part of the building there will be in daily operation a full model creamery, where the whole process of manufacturing butter will be carried on. Large refrigerator show cases will be erected in which will be life-size figures of dairy cows and other subjects, modeled by Mr. John K. Daniels, the greatest butter sculptor in the world.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture will have an educational exhibit which will be of interest to every dairyman, and will also have the direction of the milk and cream contest which will be held in connection with the show.

An interesting feature of the National Dairy Show will be the food section. In this will be shown the very highest grade of pure foods, under the direction of Mr. Paul Pierce, formerly the superintendent of food exhibits at the St. Louis World's Fair, who has also arranged for a number of working exhibits, such as a cooking school for housewives and lectures on the proper feeding of children. The ten days are very thoroughly covered by lectures on subjects of interest, both to city and country people.

The railroads throughout the country have granted such low rates for this great exhibition that it is within the reach of every progressive dairyman in all parts of the country to come and learn what great progress is being made in the dairy industry of this country.

E. Sudendorf, Secretary.

Ice in the Dairy.

As to the use I make of ice in the dairy, I will give you my methods. First, I have my own icehouse. I built my house myself. It is a plain house, 14 feet square and 14 feet to the eaves, built with a double wall eight inches thick, filled with sawdust. I put in from 22 to 25 loads of ice—to run me all summer. I buy this ice cut and loaded on platform for 40c to 50c per load, all I can put on a common farm wagon. I have to haul it 2½ miles, but as it comes at a time of the year that we are not rushed with the farm work it does not cost so much to fill the house. I figure that $30 will pay for the ice and hauling of same for 40 tons of ice. I have an ice box that I had built in the milk house. It is my own plan. I find it very satisfactory. It is double-wall, filled with sawdust. The box is 6 feet high, 7 feet long and 4½ feet wide inside measure. I have a shelf 20 inches wide across one end and one side on which I put the ice, with outlet at end of box. The shelf is covered with zinc. The shelf is about 2½ feet from the floor. It will hold 600 pounds of ice at once. I place the cream can and butter box in the box on the floor. I find the ice very convenient and do not think that any dairyman can afford to make butter without ice. The above amount of ice is enough for all my needs for a dairy that turns out about 9,000 pounds of butter per year. For the general farmer I would suggest that he build an ice house 10x10 and 10 feet to the eaves. It will do to have it made of common rough lumber, and I would suggest that he use hemlock for the inside wall, as it is cheaper and is better for the purpose than pine that we get now.—Eli Crosias, LaSalle Co., Ill.

Jerseys in the South.

The Farmers' Review having taken up recently the question of pure breeds for the South, I wish to say along that line that about one-fifth of the Jerseys are produced south of the Texas fever line. We find it advisable in the South to produce most of our own cattle. Very few females are imported from the North on account of the danger from Texas fever to those that come into this region. We do, however, import males now and then. From this locality a great many dairy cattle are being shipped to Mexico and a few to Cuba, Central and South America. The possibilities of expanding this trade are not easily determined. The greatest obstacle is the refusal of the American Jersey Cattle Club to register Jerseys in the countries named. Cows that are shipped from here to those countries do not have to be acclimated, as they have been exposed to Texas fever and grew up under those conditions. This, of course, would not be true of Jerseys shipped from the northern part of the United States, where Texas fever is not prevalent. The cost of shipping varies greatly. I do not know that I would care to make any estimate on the cost of shipping cattle to different countries. That would depend on what part of the country the cattle came from and to what country they were to go. When we, in Texas, ship cattle to Mexico we figure about $10 per head as the cost of shipment. Most of the Jersey cows that we ship to Mexico bring about $85 cash on an average.—F. O. Terrell, Bexar Co., Tex., in Farmers' Review.

NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA

A Desperately Serious Case Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Brought to the very verge of starvation by the rejection of all nourishment, her vitality almost destroyed, the recovery of Mrs. J. A. Wyatt, of No. 1189 Seventh street, Des Moines, Iowa, seemed hopeless. Her physicians utterly failed to reach the seat of the difficulty and death must have resulted if she had not pursued an independent course suggested by her sister's experience.

Mrs. Wyatt says: "I had pain in the region of the heart, palpitation and shortness of breath so that I could not walk very fast. My head ached very badly and I was seized with vomiting spells whenever I took any food. A doctor was called who pronounced the trouble gastritis, but he gave me no relief. Then I tried a second doctor without benefit. By this time I had become very weak. I could not keep the most delicate broth on my stomach, and at the end of a month I was scarcely more than skin and bone and was really starving to death.

"Then I recalled how much benefit my sister had got from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to take them in place of the doctor's medicine. It proved a wise decision for they helped me as nothing else had done. Soon I could take weak tea and crackers and steadily more nourishment. In two weeks I was able to leave my bed. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were the only thing that checked the vomiting and as soon as that was stopped my other difficulties left me. I have a vigorous appetite now and am able to attend to all the duties of my home. I praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People to all my friends because I am thoroughly convinced of their merit."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists and by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N.Y.

"Hamlet Out West.

At the Lambs' club one night a number of the members were discussing the tendency of the average comedian to insist that his forte is really tragedy, when some one chanced to ask Billy Crane whether he was an exception to the rule in that respect.

"No," replied Crane, "I can't say that I am. Years ago in the West I tackled Hamlet."

"I suppose," continued the questioner, "the audience called you before the curtain?"

"Called me?" reiterated Crane. Why, man, they dared me."

"'Varsity Betting."

As is the case everywhere in England, betting on horse races has attained a prevalence in Oxford never dreamed of at any American university. An Oxford man who belongs to one of the "decent" sets (for of course there exist the same social distinctions at Oxford as everywhere else, only more accentuated) knows every horse of note upon the English turf, his record and his pedigree back a few generations. And they all bet.

Driven to Drink by Lions.

A hundred natives employed on the Fort Hall road, British East Africa, who were recently charged by six lions, sought refuge in the water, where they remained for more than an hour, the lions in the meantime resting quietly on their haunches near the bank of the river, until the report of a revolver dispersed them, much to the relief of the frightened blacks.

A Mighty Canal System.

Zurich newspapers are discussing a great scheme proposed by a Swiss engineer to unite Switzerland with the North sea and the Mediterranean by two great canal systems. The first system would connect Lake Constance with Rotterdam by means of the Rhine and the second would join Lake Como and the Mediterranean by means of the River Po.

DIED SUDDENLY OF HEART DISEASE.

How frequently does a head line similar to the above greet us in the newspapers. The rush, push and strenuousness of the American people has a strong tendency to lead up to valvular and other affections of the heart, attended by irregular action, palpitation, dizziness, smothered sensations and other distressing symptoms.

Three of the prominent ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made are recommended by some of the leading writers on Materia Medica for the cure of just such cases. Golden Seal root, for instance, is said by the UNITED STATES DISPENSATORY, a standard authority, "to impart tone and increased power to the heart's action." Numerous other leading authorities represent Golden Seal as an unsurpassed tonic for the muscular system in general, and as the heart is almost wholly composed of muscular tissue, it naturally follows that it must be greatly strengthened by this superb, general tonic. But probably the most important ingredient of "Golden Medical Discovery," so far as its marvelous cures of valvular and other affections of the heart are concerned, is Stone root, or Collinsonia Can., Prof. Wm. Paine, author of Paine's Epitomy of Medicine, says of it:

"I, not long since, had a patient who was so much oppressed with valvular disease of the heart that his friends were obliged to carry him up-stairs. He, however, gradually recovered under the influence of Collinsonin (medicinal principle extracted from Stone root), and is now attending to his business. Heretofore physicians knew of no remedy for the removal of so distressing and so dangerous a malady. With them it was all guess-work, and it fearfully warned the afflicted that death was near at hand. Collinsonin unquestionably affords relief in such cases, and in most instances effects a cure."

Stone root is also recommended by Drs. Hale and Ellingwood, of Chicago, for valvular and other diseases of the heart. The latter says: "It is a heart tonic of direct and permanent influence."

"Golden Medical Discovery," not only cures serious heart affections, but is a most efficient general tonic and invigorator, strengthening the stomach, invigorating the liver, regulating the bowels and curing catarrhal affections in all parts of the system.

There were very few taken. All of the homesteaders are holding off until after the first day of May when the taxes are to be paid. By doing this they will avoid the payment of the taxes for the coming year on the property which in the aggregate through the Red Lake Indian reservation would amount to many thousands of dollars. Directly after May Mr. Lanman says there will be a rush of busines for the land office to handle.

S. F. Fullerton, executive agent of the state game and fish commission, has given out the following statement relative to the fish laws of Minnesota: "A great deal of misunderstanding exists in regard to the fish laws. No fishing is allowed in Minnesota during March and April with hook and line, that is, no one can use the hook and line in these two months, as they are the spawning months for fish, and every body who wishes to protect the fish will realize that this is a necessity. Spearing can be done, pickerel and trout fish, at all times, but these fish are only for domestic use and not for sale."

Order for Hearing on Petition for Determination of Heirs of Homestead Settler

STATE OF MINNESOTA } ss
County of Red Lake }
IN PROBATE COURT
Special Term, January 29, 1906.

In the matter of the determination of the Heirs of Lars Thorson, deceased homestead settler.

Order for Hearing

On reading and filing the petition of John Larson praying, among other things, for the judicial determination by this court, of who are the heirs of Lars Thorson, deceased homestead settler, and what are the respective rights and interests of such heirs in the homestead land of said deceased, and to assign said homestead to the parties legally entitled to the same.

It is ordered, that said petition and said matter be heard and examined on Saturday, the 10th day of March, A. D., 1906, at two o'clock p. m., of said day, at the office of the Probate Court at Red Lake Falls, in said county and state.

It is further ordered, that notice thereof be given to all persons interested by publishing this order once in each week for five (5) successive weeks immediately prior to said date of hearing in the Red Lake Courier, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls in said county and state.

Dated at Red Lake Falls, this 29th day of January, A. D., 1906.

SCHOOLS GET STATE HELP

March Apportionment Larger Than Ever Made Heretofore—Red Lake Receives $5,965.30.

The March apportionment of the current school fund, certified Monday by the state superintendent, is the largest spring distribution of the school fund ever made. The 375,284 pupils entitled to share in it are given $1.70 each, making $637,991.30 distributed to school districts. Last year $547,635 was sent out to 365,090 pupils, on a basis of $1.50 each.

Red Lake county gets $5,965.30, on a return of 3,509 pupils. Besides the state apportionment Auditor Ford has on hand $2,192 collected in fines, liquor licenses, etc., which goes to the school fund. This makes a total of $8,157.30 to be distributed to the schools on a per capita basis, making $2.33 for each pupil.

Notice of Mortgage Foreclosure Sale.

DEFAULT HAS BEEN MADE IN THE conditions of a certain mortgage executed and delivered by William F. Lehman, an unmarried man, as mortgagor, to Arthur D. Warner and Earle F. Andrus, as mortgagees, upon the following described tract or parcel of land situate and being in the county of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, to-wit: The northwest quarter (NW¼) of Section twenty-seven (27), in township one hundred and fifty (150), North of Range forty-four (44), West of the Fifth Principal Meridian, which said mortgage was dated the 4th day of June, A. D., 1901, and was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said County of Red Lake on the 15th day of November, A. D. 1902, at 4 o'clock and 10 minutes in the afternoon, in Book 22 of Mortgages on page 198, and

WHEREAS, there is claimed to be due, and is due upon said mortgage and the notes therein described, at the date of this notice, the sum of Three hundred and ninety-three and 60-100 ($393.60) Dollars, and no action or proceeding at law or in equity has been instituted to recover the same or any part thereof,

Now, Therefore, notice is hereby given that under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed and the real property therein described, being the same premises hereinbefore described, together with the hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging, will be sold by the Sheriff of said County of Red Lake, or his deputy, at public auction to the highest bidder therefor, for cash, at the office of said sheriff, in the Court House at Red Lake Falls, in said County of Red Lake, on the 21st day of April, A. D., 1906, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, to pay the amount which shall then be due on said mortgage including an attorney's fee of $25.00, stipulated in said mortgage in case of foreclosure thereof, and the other costs and disbursements allowed by law in such foreclosure proceedings.

Dated March 1, 1906.

RHEUMATISM AN INSIDIOUS DISEASE THAT BREAKS DOWN THE STRONGEST

Rheumatism does not come on in a day; the causes that produce it work silently in the system for years. This insidious disease becomes intrenched in the blood, and some exposure to cold or damp weather, or slight indiscretion brings on an attack. Poor digestion, stomach troubles, weak Kidneys, torpid Liver, and a general sluggish condition of the system are responsible for Rheumatism. Food souring in the stomach poisons the blood, the failure of the Kidneys and Liver to act properly leaves waste matter and impurities in the system, which, coming in contact with the natural acids of the body, form uric acid. This is absorbed by the blood, and as it penetrates to the muscles, nerves and bones produces the terrible pains and aches and other disagreeable symptoms of Rheumatism. Life is made a torture by its excruciating pains, nerves are shattered, the health undermined, and if the disease is not checked it breaks down the strongest constitution. It will not do to depend on plasters, liniments, etc.; such treatment is helpful in easing the pain and reducing the inflammation, but does not reach the blood where the real trouble is located. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism by purifying and invigorating the thin, acrid blood, driving out all impurities and poisons and sending a stream of strong, rich blood to wash out all irritating particles that are causing the pain and inflammation. S. S. S. stimulates the sluggish organs to better action, tones up the stomach and digestion, restores nervous energy and builds up the entire health. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, whether acute or chronic, and the cure is thorough and lasting. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice desired without charge.

LAND OFFICE RULING.

Defines the Special Homestead Rights of Soldiers.

The officials of the Duluth land office have received a communication from the general land office which defines the home-stead rights of a soldier or naval sailor. This ruling and definition was made by the general land office, not in a case in the office, but in response to an inquiry received from Lieut. Ivan C. Wettengel, in charge of the naval recruiting station at Minneapolis. Lieut. Wettengel asked if a member of the naval corps who intended, after his term of service was over to settle down upon a piece of land and farm it, could file on the land during his term of service, go away and attend to his duties and still hold the land until he was ready to settle upon it. The general land office rules that he could do this only in time of war; but service in the army or navy in times of peace do not entitle him to this privilege unless he has a family and that family continues to live upon the land in question.

The lieutenant also asked if service in the Spanish-American or Philippine wars would entitle a man to any privileges in connection with a homestead entry. The general land office replied that if he is honorably discharged after ninety days service in either of these wars, he may file upon the land, live there for one year and after, if he makes, in that time, certain bona fide improvements, he may secure a patent to the land.

Shoe on the Other Foot.

Halstad Reporter: The Crookston Times says, "the Democrats won't have any trouble nominating a governor; it's electing him that bothers them." Any fair-minded person knows that the last statement is not very good judgment, or in other words the Republican party may have trouble in nominating a governor, and the nominee has got to scratch for "dear life" if he is elected.

THINK BEFORE YOU ACT.

Trade at Home and Keep Money Among Your People.

In discussing the growth of the mail order business and why so much money is being sent from the country districts to the mail order concerns of the big cities, the Red Wing Republican takes the view that it is simply because there are so many people who act before they think; so many who do not stop to consider the fact that whenever they send a dollar out of town, they'll never see that dollar again, while if they spent it at home it would come back to them again and again in the form of better markets, better roads and increased land values.

The story is told that a farmer in this state put his initials on a dollar piece before he gave it to his home merchant in exchange for reliable merchandise and that dollar came back to him half a dozen times in three years. Then he sent it away to a mail order house for some don't-know-what-I'll-get stuff and he hasn't seen that dollar since. And thus it goes with every cent you send to these out-of-town mail order houses. You don't know what you will get for it, and it is lost to you forever.

The statement is often heard that the home merchant charges exorbitant prices for his good, but if you will deal with him in the same manner that you have to deal with the mail order houses he can meet any prices quoted by these houses, and in most instances, do better.

Stop and consider this before you make out that next mail order—then take it to your home dealer and he will save you money and worry and give you reliable merchandise at honest prices, and besides, give you better roads, better markets, better schools.

GREAT NORTHERN WRECK

Nine Loaded Box Cars Jump the Track Mile North of City and Are Badly Wrecked.

Nine loaded cars of the local south bound Great Northern freight jumped the track last Thursday afternoon about a mile north of this city. The train was running at ordinary speed and the accident was probably due to the spreading of the rails.

The cars wrecked were all loaded with lumber and were piled up promiscuously. One car was as squarely across the track as though it had been hoisted by machinery, measured and then placed in position.

There were several passengers in the caboose and they report the car stopped rather suddenly but they had no idea that there had been a wreck. Brakeman Maher jumped from the top of one of the cars and suffered a broken ankle. He was the only one injured.

The south bound passenger ran to the wreck and a special came up from Crookstom and the passengers were transferred the same evening. The special ran to the wreck Friday morning and the passengers were transferred to the regular train. The line was open Friday evening.

The wrecking train and a crew of 40 men were here most of the week clearing up the wreck and re-loading the cars.

MEET AT ST HILAIRE.

Teachers' Protective Association to Meet There in May.

The Red Lake County Teachers' Protective association is making elaborate plans for an interesting meeting of the association to be held at St. Hilaire May 4 and 5, and from the interest that is being shown this early, it is apparent that the meeting will eclipse all former efforts.

At this meeting "Rural School Agriculture" will be made the leading topic, and the plans for the state rural school grain growing contest will be gone into thoroughly. Mathematics will also be made an important feature of the meeting, and, with the excellent program that the teachers are capable of putting on, it is a sure thing that the meeting will not be devoid of interest.

The complete program, etc., will be published as soon as possible and every effort made to keep up the good work that has already been so favorably started.

Town Officers, Take Notice.

The township authorities of the county at their regular meeting should be careful to comply with the terms of the Revised Code, which went into effect March 1st. The old law provided for the election of two supervisors and a chairman. The new law provides for the election of one supervisor each year and this one, with the two who hold over, shall meet, organize and elect a chairman from their own number. This new law now affects those towns only where the term of the chairman who was elected expires at this time. If the term of the chairman expires at this time, then the electors, instead of electing a chairman, shall elect a supervisor for three years and this supervisor together with the two who hold over shall meet and elect one of their number who shall be chairman for the ensuing year, but no longer. If the term of the chairman who was last elected does not expire this year, then that chairman shall serve until the time expires for which he was elected, and in that case a supervisor is elected the same as under the prior law for three years.

By the old law one overseer was elected at the town meeting for each road district in the town, the whole of the electors of the town voting for each road overseer. Under the new Revised Code the legal voters of each road district shall at the annual town meeting elect a road overseer for their respective districts, such road overseer, so elected, to be a resident of the district wherein he is overseer. In other words, each road district elects its own overseer and the remainder of the electors of the town have no vote on the matter outside of their own road district.

   "Coppelia"
9. Coronation March - - Meyerbeer

ANOTHER CHANCE.

Warroad School Teacher Allowed to Make Another Final Proof.

Some time ago at the Crookston U. S. land office, when Miss Veshti Gilpatrick, of Warroad, offered her final proof to the officials, the fact was brought out that it had been generally advertised throughout the country that school teachers were allowed special privileges with regard to the time that they were required to live on their claims in order to obtain clear titles to the land. She was very frank in stating the time that she had resided on the land, thinking that she had met all the requirements in the best of faith. The proof was turned down at the general land office, but notice has been received at the Crookston office that she will be allowed to file on the land again, which will in the end make the land hers.

The case is a sample of how strict the officials of the government are at the present time in making those who want government land live up to all the requirements of the law before they obtain title to it. This was, nevertheless, a very unfortunate one, as the young lady had acted to the best of her knowledge and judgment. She will make entry on the land at once and start her residence on the valuable tract that she hopes to soon call her own.

To a New Field.

Dentist Freeman F. Fletcher who has been located here for the past three years has concluded to get into a larger field. He and Dr. Saunderson of Fargo have bought out Dr. Ramsey's practice at Grand Forks and are to take immediate possession. He has enjoyed a splendid clientage but feels that the field here is too limited.

He is busy packing up and leaves Friday for his new field. It is to be regretted that he is to leave us but his many friends trust that the move will be even better than he anticipates. To the people of Grand Forks we recommend Dr. Fletcher as a thoroughly competent and reliable dentist and a good citizen.

After Many Trials.

"Find a way or make one," was the slogan of the opera party from here to take in "Faust" at Grand Forks last Thursday evening. Mrs. E. F. Marshall, Mrs. L. C. Simons, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Sivertson, Messrs. Haislet, Hennings, Healy, Pouliot and Freund had made all arrangements to take the G. N. passenger Thursday evening but the freight wreck made a change in their plans.

Arrangements were made however to hold the Duluth passenger west bound at Tilden until the Northern Pacific arrived there. The party arrived at Grand Forks about fifteen minutes late and missed only a part of the first act. They all report the opera as the best ever.

Frank E. Hunt made a business trip to Fertile and Grand Forks the latter part of last week.

FOR BEST TILLED FARM

J. J. Hill Offers Three Prizes for Best Tilled and Best Managed Farm.

Pres. J. J. Hill of the Great Northern railroad offers to the farmers for the best tilled and best managed farm, prizes, to be competed for in 1906 by the farmers of the states of Minnesota, North and South Dakota.

This is a laudable enterprise and even though you fail to reach a prize yet it is fair to presume you will profit by the extra care given your farm.

Three prizes are offered, $300, $156 and $75 respectively and each and every farmer in the states mentioned may compete for said prizes without any expense. Entries are to be made in April through the Orange Judd farmer of Chicago application blanks may be obtained at this office or J. L. Tracy, Great Northern Agent.

POWER IS CURTAILED.

Mayors Cannot Revoke Saloon Licenses at Will.

The mayors of cities in Minnesota who have been given power to regulate the liquor traffic, have had their power fettered, according to the belief of leading lawyers after reading the provisions governing the liquor traffic, in the new code.

Referring to Section 1,535, which begins the provisions for governing the liquor traffic, it is discovered that a new law has been made for the state. Many following sections are simply old laws codified, which is what was expected, but the compilers have made strong new laws governing liquor licenses.

A liquor license, under the new code, ceases to be a "special privilege" and becomes personal property. So say the legal lights. Being personal property, it can not be taken away from any one without a due course of law.

There is little question that the supreme court will be called upon to decide the right of a mayor, under the new code, to take away the license of any keeper of a saloon, except in cases where it is specifically provided by law licenses shall be forfeited. Heretofore there was no question but what a mayor could take away a license without cause at any time if he saw fit.

The new code provides that a license may be transferred whenever a holder wishes to move, sell his business, go out of business or transfer his business, and a license is forfeited by death or due process of law only. In cases of loss or revocation, a holder is entitled to receive back money for all unused time.

A Birthday Surprise.

Last Friday afternoon a few of Mrs. D. W. Brown's friends gave her a pleasant surprise in honor of her sixty-first birthday. Each one on arriving presented her with a birthday gift which carefully treasured in years to come will bring back memories of the kindly friends whose good wishes helped to make this birthday a red letter day in her calendar. At five o'clock a bountiful supper was served after which a short time was spent pleasantly. Judging from the laughter issuing from the rooms a sixty-first birthday gathering is fully as enjoyable an affair as a sixteenth birthday party.

The News of the Week

From Washington.

The interstate commerce commission will begin its investigation of alleged combinations of railroads carrying oil and coal at Kansas City, March 12. The commission will ask for $100,000 for the expense of the inquiry. Eminent lawyers will be employed, among them William J. Calhoun and ex-Attorney General Monnett of Ohio.

The supreme court of the United States decided the case of Louisiana vs. Mississippi, involving the water boundry line between the two states, in favor of Louisiana. The dispute involved the peninsula of St. Bernard.

Crimes.

Two alleged members of the famous Hole-in-the-Wall gang of horse thieves, Albert and Flood Howe, were convicted in the United States court at Helena.

J. W. Hillyard, a prominent attorney of Dows, Iowa., who pleaded guilty to forgery, was sentenced to five years at hard labor in the penitentiary at Anamosa.

James Montain, a Montana man, attempted to hold up a saloon at Canyon City, Or., and was killed by Bud Greenwell, its proprietor. Montain is not known in this section.

Mrs. Margaret Hickey of Urbana, Ill., aged fifty years, who was committed to the hospital for the insane recently, eluded her attendants and committed suicide by hanging herself to a window bar with her stockings.

Louis Longpre, principal of the recent $18,000 pay check forgery of Illinois Steel company pay checks in South Chicago, has been arrested in Chicago, where he has been employed as an engraver. His wife was also arrested.

Seven Baltimore & Ohio railway engineers and conductors were fined $4 and costs each by Justice John Boyle at Uniontown, Pa., for violating the Sunday law by running trains through that place. Eleven additional warrants are to be served.

On a warrant issued by the officials of Ely, Minn., Lawrence Zoretic was arrested in Chicago after a fight with four detectives. Zoretic, it is charged, entered the store of Mack Zoretic, a brother, and stole jewelry and other articles valued at $3,000.

Three men held up a street car at Albright, a suburb of South Omaha, shortly after midnight. Conductor Flory resisted their attempts to rob him and one of the men shot him in the wrist and the side. They then fled without securing any money. Flory is seriously injured.

"His crime is almost as bad as murder," declared Judge Dolan in the district court at Butte, in response to a plea for leniency in sentencing Alex Fairgraves, a blacksmith who had been convicted of throwing acid in the face of Annie Rhudy, his sweetheart. The court then sentenced the prisoner to fourteen years in the penitentiary.

Henry V. Bemis—"Cardinal" Bemis—who was proprietor of the old Chicago Richelieu when it was considered one of the finest hotels in America, committed suicide. Despondent over ill health, distressed by what he regarded as poverty, and crying out against the ingratitude of friends, he shot himself, dying instantly. He was sixty-three years old, and his widow is left with scarcely a dollar.

Foreign Notes.

The chief of police and the gendarmes who were charged with beating and torturing political prisoners have, after a sensational trial at Kharkoff, Russia, each been condemned to a month's imprisonment.

The Berlin Tageblatt says that Emperor William and King Edward probably will meet at Breslau at the beginning of September, when King Edward will be the guest of the emperor at the maneuvers at Silesia.

At the village of Fucecchio, twenty-three miles west of Florence, Italy, a house where a dance was in progress took fire. In the panic among the guests which ensued the floor gave way and sixteen persons perished, while many others were injured.

It is declared in official quarters at Constantinople that orders have been sent to Bierut, Syria, to refund the customs duties paid under protest on educational materials for the American schools there, and in future to admit such consignments free, but no communication on the subject has yet been sent here to Mr. Leishman, the American minister.

Some gypsy brigands attacked a hamlet near Keeskemet, Bulgaria, with the object of pillaging it, but residents offered a stout resistance and succeeded in mortally wounding the chief of the tribe, Jean Forgach. The gypsies picked him up, and, carrying him to their vehicle, left the place. On the following day they announced the death of their chief, and after the customary formalities were given permission to bury him.

Walter Wellman sailed from Havre on the French line steamer La Lorraine. His polar dirigible balloon will be completed by May, after which the expedition will proceed to Spitzbergen for trial trips preparatory to departing for the pole.

Off for two months' holiday and traveling as the duke of Lancaster, King Edward visited Paris last week. From Paris the king goes to Biarritz, where he will stay until the end of March. There he will receive King Alfonso and discuss with him the details of the king's marriage to Princess Ena of Battenberg.

Casualties.

600 MOROS ARE SLAIN IN BATTLE

AMERICAN FORCES COMPLETELY WIPE OUT BAND OF OUTLAWS.

ARMY CASUALTIES ARE 83

FIFTEEN AMERICANS ARE KILLED AND SIXTY-EIGHT ARE WOUNDED.

Manila, March 11. — An important action between American forces and hostile Moros has taken place near Jolo. Fifteen enlisted men were killed, four commissioned officers and thirty-two enlisted men were wounded and a naval contingent operating with the military sustained thirty-two casualties. The Moros lost 600 men killed.

Gen. Wood Reports.

Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, commander of the division of the Philippines, reports as follows from Jolo, capital of the Sulu islands:

"A severe action between troops, a naval detachment and constabulary and hostile Moros has taken place at Mount Dajo, near Jolo. The engagement opened during the afternoon of March 6 and ended in the morning of March 8. The action involved the capture of Mount Dajo, a lava cone 2,100 feet high, with a crater at its summit and extremely steep. The last 400 feet were at an angle of 60 degrees and there were fifty perpendicular ridges, covered with a growth of timber and strongly fortified and defended by an invisible force of Moros.

Army Casualties, 83.

"The army casualties were fifteen enlisted men killed, four commissioned officers and thirty-two enlisted men wounded. The naval casualties numbered thirty-two.

"The constabulary casualties were Captain John R. White, wounded in the thigh, severely; three enlisted men killed and thirteen wounded.

"Col. Joseph W. Duncan of the Sixth infantry directed the operations. All the defenders of the Moro stronghold were killed. Six hundred bodies were found on the field

"The action resulted in the extinction of a band of outlaws, who, recognizing no chief, had been raiding friendly Moros, and owing to their defiance of the American authorities, had stirred up a dangerous condition of affairs.

Lift Artillery 300 Feet.

"The artillery was lifted by block and tackle a distance of 300 feet into a position on the lip of the crater.

"Brig. Gen. Bliss and myself were present throughout the action. The attacking columns were commanded by Maj. Omar Bundy, Capt. K. H. Lawton, Capt. Rivers, Capt. L. M. Koehler, Capt. McGlachlin and Lieut. Johnson.

"The officers and men engaged highly commend the Moro constabulary, who did excellent work, their casualties numbering seventeen out of the force of forty-four engaged.

"It is impossible to conceive a stronger natural position than that attacked."

FOOTBALL STAR WAS PAID.

Findlay Testifies That He Received Cash for Playing.

Washington, March 10. — The executive officers of the government believe in the old maxim, "In time of peace, prepare for war." Theodore Roosevelt is a believer in that principle.

One of the most important functions of the general staff is to prepare plans for possible campaigns against a foreign enemy. At the time when the boycott against American goods was instituted in the southern provinces of China the general staff immediately began preparing for trouble in the Chinese empire, and a complete plan for military operations is the result of its work in that direction.

The scheme outlined will be kept confidential by the authorities of the war department. But sufficient has leaked out to indicate that it contemplates the throwing of an army of 20,000 men into Southern China as soon as it becomes evident that the Chinese government is unable or unwilling to protect American interests and lives in its empire.

The question of transportation, subsistence and equipment have been worked out in detail and the final orders looking to preparations for an expedition to China have been formulated.

ANARCHISTS KILLING MEN.

Daily Slaughter Continues in Neighborhood of Odessa.

Odessa, March 11.—The anarchists and communists continue to make raids daily. Four persons have been killed and twenty-nine injured in those of the last five days. They have obtained 3,000 rubles and, when receiving money, always give printed receipts with a seal bearing the image of a raven. Their mysterious head center is known among them as the Black Raven.

INSURANCE MEN ARE INDICTED

OFFICIALS OF MUTUAL RESERVE COMPANY ARE UNDER A CLOUD.

New York, March 10.—Indictments charging grand larceny in the first degree and forgery in the third degree by Frederick A. Burnham, president; George D. Eldridge, first vice president, and George Burnham, Jr., second vice president of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance company, were found by the grand jury here yesterday. Five indictments were brought against each officer, two for grand larceny and three for forgery. The alleged larceny and forgery was brought about, according to the indictments, by payments of $9,000 of the company's money to law firms with of settling claims against the company, while the real object is alleged to have been to settle actions which had been brought against officers of the company as individuals. The indictments on which the charges of larceny are based alleged that the officers embezzled two sums, one of $7,500 and the other of $1,500 on Oct. 24, 1901.

The three officers appeared in the court of general sessions, where Judge O'Sullivan fixed their bail at $12,500 for each and set next Thursday as the time of pleading.

TAFT FOR SUPREME BENCH.

President Will Appoint Him to the Next Vacancy.

Washington, March 11. — The Post says:

"President Roosevelt has decided to appoint William H. Taft of Ohio, now secretary of war, to the next vacancy in the United States supreme court. That vacancy is to be created by the voluntary retirement of Associate Justice Menry B. Brown, who was appointed in 1890 by President Harrison from the State of Michigan. When Chief Justice Fuller retires—provided it is during the administration of Mr. Roosevelt—Mr. Taft will be promoted to his exalted position. The president has discussed the entire situation with his secretary of war, and the latter, it was learned last night, has given his assent to the program."

TO HONOR IRELAND IN ROME.

Archbishop May Be Retained in Vatican as Counsellor.

Washington, March 11.—The New York Tribune prints the following:

"Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul sailed for Rome yesterday on a secret mission. He was summoned by Pope Pius X., and in ecclesiastical circles of this city there were strong rumors that the pope would ask him to stay in Rome permanently. Friends of the archbishop, who have been expecting him to be made a cardinal at every consistory for the last five years, declared that the pope would honor him in some way.

"The general opinion is that he will be asked to remain in Rome as special counsellor to the pope, and that later he will be made a resident cardinal."

MRS. TOLLA IS NOT TO HANG.

New Jersey Woman's Death Sentence Commuted to 7 Years Six Months.

Trenton, N. J., March 9.—The sentence of death imposed on Mrs. Antoinette Tolla, the Bergen county murderess, for the killing of Jose Sonta, was commuted to-day to seven and a half years' imprisonment by the court of pardons. The vote stood 6 to 2. Mrs. Tolla was to have been hanged in Hackensack next Monday.

This is the first time the court of pardons ever has commuted a death sentence to other than life imprisonment.

Congress.

Resume of the Week's Proceedings.

Monday.

Washington, March 6.—Legislation by unanimous consent and under suspension of the rules occupied the attention of the house yesterday and resulted in the passage of several bills, some of considerable importance. The adoption of a resolution of inquiry as to whether any criminal prosecutions have been begun against individuals in the Northern Securities company, furnished the text for a speech of criticism by Mr. Williams, the Democratic leader, directed against the administration. Brief answers were made by Mr. Jenkins of Wisconsin and Mr. Grosvenor of Ohio. Mr. Jenkins showed that the statute of limitations had run against any action that might be taken in this case and that any effort at prosecution would be useless.

In the senate yesterday Mr. Nelson continued the discussion of the statehood bill, urging the passage of the measure as reported from the committee on territories.

Tuesday.

Washington, March 7.—The question of the enlargement of the medical department of the army occupied the major portion of the time of the senate yesterday. The bill was not disposed of.

The only speech of the day on the statehood bill was made by Mr. Long, who advocated the passage of the bill as reported by the committee on territories.

The house began its session yesterday by passing without opposition or discussion a bill for the relief of tobacco growers by permitting them to sell leaf tobacco without paying the tax of 6 cents a pound heretofore charged. The balance of the day was devoted to tariff discussion, the Indian appropriation bill being the vehicle to carry the debate. Preceding this Mr. Sherman explained the provisions of the bill.

Wednesday.

Washington, March 8.—That there is still a sharp difference of opinion between the supposed friends of the Dolliver-Hepburn railway rate bill was made decidedly manifest yesterday. The division is over the question whether a rate made by the interstate commerce commission shall be suspended by the courts pending final adjudication, and was brought to the surface in a brief debate which followed a set speech by Mr. Clapp in support of the bill. In reply to a question by Mr. Tillman, Mr. Clapp expressed doubt as to the power so to legislate as to enforce penalties proposed by the bill pending a review of any given findings by the courts. Mr. Tillman and Mr. Bailey took sharp issue with this statement. During the day there were two speeches on the rate bill, the one by Mr. Clapp in support of it and another by Mr. Scott in opposition.

With six set speeches and permission to print two others in the Record without delivery, no two of which were on the same subject, the house closed general debate on the Indian appropriation bill and to-day will take that measure up for amendment.

Thursday.

Washington, March 9. — The house yesterday passed the Indian appropriation bill, carrying $7,785,528. It then proceeded to tangle itself up over the bill to abolish the grade of lieutenant general in the army. The result was an adjournment for lack of a quorum after members had been locked in the hall for half an hour and the assistant sergeant-at-arms had been scurrying to the various hotels in search of members. The vote to consider the bill showed an overwhelming sentiment in its favor, and as it is the pending business under call of committees, it will probably be reached and passed in due course.

Yesterday afforded the last opportunity for general debate in the senate on the statehood bill and the entire time of the session was devoted to that order of business. The whole time was occupied by three senators, Mr. Beveridge, supporting the bill, and Messrs. McCumber and Patterson opposing it.

Friday.

Washington, March 9. — Yesterday at 5:35 p. m. the senate passed a bill for the admission of a new state to be called Oklahoma and to be composed of the Territory of Oklahoma and Indian Territory. It was the house joint statehood bill with all the provisions relating to Arizona and New Mexico stricken out. The motion to strike out was made by Mr. Burrows and it was carried by the close vote of 37 to 35, after having been lost in committee of the whole by the still closer vote of 35 to 36.

Immediately after the disposal of the statehood bill the house railroad rate bill was made the unfinished business, but as the senate adjourned over Saturday and Sunday, formal consideration of that measure will not begin until Monday.

What Bill Provides.

As amended by the senate the bill provides for the creation of the State of Oklahoma out of Oklahoma and Indian Territories upon the adoption of a constitution. The state is allowed the usual quota of executive, judicial and legislative officers, two United States senators and five members of the national house of representatives. A constitutional convention with 110 members, 55 of which are to be chosen by each of the territories comprising the state, is provided for.

The State DAY BY DAY

WILL INCREASE REVENUE.

Nicollet County Commissioners Find Way to Raise Receipts.

It is believed that Nicollet county's tax receipts will be increased between $25,000 and $30,000 per annum as the result of a policy that has just been adopted by the board of county commissioners. They are out after resident investors who hold mortgages on real property in adjoining counties and propose to list all the securities they can find.

Although there was talk of engaging tax ferrets severeal years ago, no action was taken and the mortgagors remained unmolested until last month, when one of the county officials learned that a St. Peter business man heeld mortgages in Le Sueur county. He communicated with Auditor Ziebarth of Le Sueur Center and that officer returned a certified list showing that the local man had mortgages valued at $17,934 on file in 1905. The year before he was credited with $8,134 and for three years prior to that he had a $2,000 certificate on record.

When the list was placed before the county board by Auditor A. H. Freeman, the board ordered the securities assessed at 50 per cent of their face value, and that back taxes for a period of five years, with interest at 7 per cent be collected, and the assessment of the delinquent one was raised from $24 to $547.

Instructions were also issued to the auditor to procure certified lists of all the mortgages owned by Nicollet county people and on file in the counties of Le Sueur, Brown, Blue Earth and Sibley, and to place them on the tax lists in accordance with law. As there are loans aggregating approximately $500,000 in Le Sueur county, and sums nearly as large in others, the county's revenue will be added to materially, but the new system is being criticised from the fact that it will compel Nicollet to pay a larger proportionate state tax than her neighbors.

The first collection is nearly enough to pay the cost of preparing plans and specifications for the new $20,000 county jail, and it is predicted that the commissioners will be able to complete the structure without changing the present tax rate of 4 mills.

DEFECT IN TAX LAWS.

No Penalty Provided for Corporations That Become Delinquent.

Railroads, telegraph companies and other corporations paying taxes under special laws are not assessed any penalty for failure to pay their taxes when due. Private citizens suffer a 10 per cent. penalty when they become delinquent, but state officers can find nothing in the law to authorize collecting either penalty or interest from the corporations. This defect will be called to the attention of the next legislature.

The Western Union tied up its taxes for 1899 and 1900 for five years by a legal contest. The supreme court compelled the company to pay on a one million-dollar basis. Still the company has refused to pay taxes on that valuation for 1901, 1902, 1903 and 1904. It has paid on a lower valuation, but the state has had to bring suit for the balance due, and about $50,000 is involved. The 1905 tax is now overdue and the state will have to sue to collect it. The company can defer payment for years by appeals and retain the use of the money, though the supreme court's ruling already made makes the outcome certain.

The Great Western is in default on all of its taxes. Railroad rates are collectable in February and become delinquent March 1. Last year the Great Western held back payment until April 26. This year the road will contest the 4 per cent tax, but has not even paid the 3 per cent yet. Under the law this must be paid before the road can contest the increase. The Great Northern has paid its 3 per cent and has refused to honor the state's draft for the other 1 per cent. It will soon be placed in the hands of the attorney general for action. No penalty or interest, however, can be collected

ST. CLOUD'S BUILDING BOOM.

Quarter of Million Dollars to Be Expended This Summer.

There will be a building boom in St. Cloud this summer which will eclipse that of former years. More than $250,000 will be expended in erecting new buildings. The largest will be those at the car shops. They will cost $100,000; the gas plant to be built by A. G. Whitney of St. Cloud will cost $65,000; the St. Cloud Granite works will expend $8,000 on improvements in its plant; the Swedish Lutheran church on the East side will rebuild at a cost of $8,000; the $25,000 model school at the state normal will be built this summer, and many city residences are planned.

HUMBOLDT WINS DEBATE.

The Humboldt high school of St. Paul defeated the Farmington high school at debate. The arguments were conducted in the high school at Farmington before one of the biggest audiences that has ever congregated in that city.

The subject was, "Resolved, That all elective state, district county and city officers should be nominated by direct primaries held under state regulations, rather than by delegate convention." The affirmative was taken by the Farmington debaters, and the negative by the St. Paul debaters. The judges decided in favor of the negative—two to one.

The St. Paul debaters outclassed the local debaters in delivery. The debaters were: Farmington, Nellie Baine, E'Toile Baine and Joseph Clements; Humboldt, Belle Blumenfeld, Eugene Coyne and Benjamin Harmon. A. B. White of the University of Minnesota, Prof. E. S. Innis of Hamline university and E. E. Stoffard of Carleton college were the judges. Lloyd Peabody of St. Paul presided.

WILL EDUCATE FOOD DEALERS.

A Conciliatory Pure Food Policy Is Outlined.

All the food inspectors of the state dairy and food department have received instructions on the enforcement of the provisions of the new code. Commissioner E. K. Slater told them that while they are to enforce the law without fear or favor, the department does not aim to impose any unnecessary hardship on the retailers. The department is for education rather than punishment, and the inspectors will devote their time as much to instructing grocers in the provisions of the law as in spying out violations. Retailers will be given an opportunity to obey the law before they are arrested.

In the case of baking powders, for instance, where the new law makes a change in the requirements, many brands which may be illegal under the new code would be legal under a different label. The department will give the grocers a chance to change the labels to comply with the provisions of the law. In many cases this can be done by scratching out some of the fancy adjectives attached to the names of the ingredients. Baking powder on which the label states that it contains "exsiccated soda will be allowed to remain on the shelves if the word "exsiccated" is scratched. Where the label states that the powder contains among other things "the finest starch," the product can be made legal by striking out the words "the finest and leaving the simple word "starch."

The law prohibiting the use of coal tar dyes, terra alba, barytes and paraffine in candies must be strictly enforced, Mr. Slater told his inspectors. Retailers who have a large stock of candies made illegal by the code will have a chance to destroy or return them before they will be prosecuted, but should they continue selling them they will incur the danger of a fine.

There has been some discussion of the provision of the code against selling poultry and game which have not been drawn. The provision applies only to retail merchants and will allow wholesale dealers and storage hauses to keep on handling undrawn poultry as they have been doing under the old law. The section provides that

"Every person who shall offer or expose for sale at retail, for human food, at any public market, store, shop or house or in or about and street or other public place, any domestic or wild fowls, or any slaughtered rabbits, squirrels or other small animal, wild or tame, unless the entrails, crops and other offensive parts are properly drawn and removed, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

The dairy and food department will co-aperate with the health departments of the cities in enforcing this provision of the code.

STATE CASH BOX IS FULL AGAIN.

Deficiency in Revenue Fund Turned to a Balance.

For the first time since lat May the state revenue fund has a balance on the right hand side of the ledger. The balances made by State Treasurer Julius H. Block showed a balance of $446,097.83 in the revenue fund. A month ago there was an overdraft on the other funds of $505,145, and in addition to that loans on banks amounting to $1,725,000. All these interest-bearing warrants have been taken up, and in addition there is a cash balance. During the month $2,488,022.69 was turned into the fund and only $320,000 was taken out for running expenses.

Thus in about two months the state treasury has been turned from the worst condition to the best condition it has been in for years.

The total cash in the treasury is now $1,636,420.08, as against $740,840 a month ago.

LODGE BUILDS NEW HALL.

Midway Lodge, A. O. U. W., Will Own Its Own Quarters.

The foundation is in for a new building for Midway Lodge No. 37, Ancient Order of United Workmen. The structure is being erected on the south side of Front street, between Oxford and Churchill streets, near Como Park, St. Paul.

The building will be 40x60 feet, and will cost about $3,000. Work was begun on the foundation Nov. 1. The foundation is of cement blocks and the superstructure will be frame.

The purchase price of the lost and all the construction work so far completed has been paid for. The money for the building is raised almost entirely from among the membership of the lodge. A large surplus in the treasury was also turned over to the building account when the project was undertaken.

SHOULD A HORSE BE CLIPPED?

CLIPPING IN THE EARLY SPRING RECOMMENDED BY LEADING VETERINARIANS.

All Thinking Men Readily Recognize Its Advantages.

"A horse is a valuable asset, and should receive the best care possible. He should be well fed, comfortably stabled, carefully groomed and clipped in the early spring. If he receives these attentions he will work well and improve in value. A horse lives under artificial conditions. In his wild state he required none of these attentions, for he was able to look out for himself. The domesticated animal, being worked under conditions that are in themselves artificial, must be kept in condition for such work.

The clipping of a horse in the early spring is now conceded by all the leading veterinarians to be as essential to a horse's well being as shoeing him or giving him a comfortable bed to lie on. Farmers in England and France have been clipping their horses for many years, and American farmers are not slow to realize its advantages. A clipped horse dries out rapidly after a hard day's work, and will rest comfortably and be refreshed for the work the following day. An unclipped horse is liable to catch the heaves, pneumonia and all sorts of colds, rheumatism, etc. More especially is this so in the early spring, when his hair is long and he is "soft." If worked hard he will perspire freely and the moisture will be held by his long hair, and the food that should go to nourish him will be used to replenish the heat that is being constantly taken from his body by the mass of cold wet hair. If clipped, the perspiration will evaporate almost as soon as secreted, and when put in the stable he rests comfortably and his food does him good.

Some years ago a Buffalo street car company tested the value of clipping in the following manner: They owned 500 horses, and 250 of these were clipped early in the spring and 250 were not clipped. A careful record was kept of results, and it was found that of the 250 unclipped horses 153 were afflicted with coughs and pneumonia, while of the 250 clipped not one case of sickness was reported.

A man would not expect to enjoy very good health if he did hard manual work clothed with heavy underwear, a heavy suit and a fur overcoat, and after perspiring freely, as he naturally would, go to sleep without removing same. It is just as ridiculous to expect a horse to be in perfect health if worked under the same conditions.

If you would get the best returns from your investment in your horse, treat him right, and be sure and clip him in the early spring. A first-class horse-clipping machine can be bought at almost any hardware store for less than $7.00.—Horse Review, Dec. 5th, 1905.

Honi Soit.

"There's no use talking," sighed the young man who had received a note telling him that it could never be, "there's no use talking, you can't tell anything about women."

"You shouldn't tell anything about them," replied the gray-bearded philosopher, wagging his head sagely.—Judge.

Scholarly Mrs. Lodge.

Perhaps the most scholarly woman in society at the capital is Mrs. Henry Cabot Lodge. She took a college course in Wellesley and has taken a keen interest in Greek studies. She has never sought the laurels of authorship, but she has been an invaluable aid to her husband and his chief dependence in research and the reading of proof sheets.

Wanted All the Glory.

Mark Train, at a dinner in New York, was talking about political leaders and the undue credit they take for their country's prosperity.

He told of a certain senator, Senator Dash, who was always on hand to receive the praise for any blessing that had befollen his state. He pointed out several benefits for which the senator took undue credit, and then looking gravely around the table, he said:

"But what Senator Dash particularly prides himself on is the late excellent harvest."

THE EDITOR.

Explains How to Keep Up Mental and Physical Vigor.

A New Jersey editor writes:

"A long indulgence in improper food brought on a condition of nervous dyspepsia, nearly three years ago, so severe that I had to quit work entirely. I put myself on a strict regimen of Grape-Nuts food, with plenty of outdoor exercise and in a few months found my stomach so far restored that the process of digestion gave me pleasure instead of distress.

"It also built up my strength so that I was able to resume my business, which is onerous, as I not only edit my paper, but also do a great deal of 'outside' writing.

"I find that the Grape-Nuts diet enables me to write with greater vigor than ever before, and without the feeling of brain fag with which I used to be troubled. As to bodily vigor—I can and do walk miles every day without fatigue—a few squares used to weary me before I began to live on Grape-Nuts!" Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

NEWS OF THE Northwest.

WEST WILL HAVE FOOTBALL

"BIG NINE" WILL PLAY GAME WITH BRUTALITY AND DANGER ELIMINATED.

Chicago, March 11. — Western colleges are to have football this year, although the style of game will be modified to such an extent that all brutality and unnecessary danger will be eliminated. This was the decision reached here last night by faculty representatives of the "Big Nine" colleges in a second "reform" conference called by President Angell of the University of Michigan. The conference was held to consider the recommendations made at the last conference, as several of the universities were dissatisfied at the recommendations made there.

The recommendations which were objected to chiefly were the abolishing of the professional coach and the training table and the three-year rule. The professional coach is to remain only as long as existing contracts are in force. This means that Indiana and Michigan will be the only colleges in the organization this year which will have the services of a professional coach. The teams of the other seven universities will be either taught the game by members of the faculty or will use the graduate coach system.

The training table, one of the principal adjuncts of a football team, is a thing of the past. An effort was made by some of the colleges to have this rule rescinded, but the sentiment was in favor of its abolishment.

In regard to the style of game to be played, a committee was appointed with authority to pass judgment on the rules adopted by the American rules committee.

INDIAN BURIED ALIVE.

Found to Have Turned Over in Frenzied Efforts to Escape.

Billings, Mont., March 11. — Big Rock, a member of the Crow tribe, was buried alive by mistake near Pryor, on the Crow agency, Thursday. Big Rock, who was a buck about forty years of age, had been ill for some time, and apparently died and was interred with all the honors of tribal custom. His squaw, while mourning over the grave, which was comparatively shallow, heard sounds seemingly coming from the resting place of the brave whom she thought dead. Terrified, the squaw hurried away and imparted the news to the other Indians, and the grave was opened. Big Rock, it was discovered, had kicked the top from the coffin, and had turned over in his frenzied efforts to escape. He was dead, however, when the grave was opened, and was reinterred.

WAKES ON HER BIER.

Mrs. W. R. Sherwood of Mabel, Bride of a Week, Will Recover.

La Crosse, Mis., March 11.—By waking from a deathlike trance in the nick of time, Mrs. W. R. Sherwood, a bride of a week, and twenty-five years old, saved herself from being buried alive. She so frightened two women who were sitting up with her supposed corpse that their condition is serious. Mrs. Sherwood, who lives at Mabel, Minn., apparently died of pneumonia at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Her body was placed upon a bier and an undertaker sent for. Just before dawn two friends, sitting with the corpse, were startled by a wild shriek, and, peering into the death chamber, found the corpse sitting up. She was delirious from fright, having realized her harrowing position without being able to move. Mrs. Sherwood will recover.

BOY'S SCALP IS TORN OFF.

Sweep in Grist Mill Strips Head of Skin and Hair.

Manchester, Iowa, March 11.—Francis, the twelve-year-old son of Michael Fitzpatrick, a prominent farmer of Greeley, was literally "snatched baldheaded" by being caught in a grist mill. The boy's father was engaged in grinding feed in the mill and had left the hopper in charge of the lad for a few moments. The boy attempted to look into the hopper when the old-fashioned sweep, which was being operated by horse power, struck him in the back of the head and tore off his scalp. Fortunately the bones of the skull were uninjured and it is expected the child will recover.

SPINSTER HANGS HERSELF.

Wisconsin Woman Found Dead in Barn.

Poynette, Wis., March 11.—Returning to the barn with her horse after taking her children to school, Mrs. Dixon, living near Hartman station, discovered the body of her sister, Helen Nelson, hanging at the end of a rope, one end of which had been fastened about a beam over the manger. Miss Nelson, who was forty-five years old, had been acting strangely of late, but on the day of her suicide had seemed in good spirits.

A challenge to a wolf hunt has been issued to any six men in the state of Minnesota, for a purse, by Frank Froelke, James McGuire, Tom McGuire, William Dahlros, Will Lind and J. J. Kinney of Rush City.

FOOTBALL STAR WAS PAID

FINDLAY TESTIFIES THAT HE RECEIVED CASH FOR PLAYING.

Madison, Wis., March 10.—Albion J. Findlay, star end, tackle and half-back on the University of Wisconsin football team for four years, testified yesterday before the legislative investigating committee that he received from the University Athletic association last fall $92 in cash as salary for playing on the university football team.

It is understood that E. J. Vanderboom, captain of the eleven last fall, is possessed of detailed information as to how much money was paid by the athletic association to the football players, and he will be examined by the committee on these facts.

Findlay also testified that after the victory over Minnesota last fall about $100 worth of champagne was bought for the team in St. Paul.

Students and professors in the agricultural college testified to conditions in the agricultural college being bad.

Students charge that jealousy exists among the members of the faculty which works to the disadvantage of students. Loose business methods is also charged.

GIRL WINS ODD WAGER.

Loser of Election Bet Wheels Her on Crowded Street.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, March 10. — A novel election bet was paid yesterday when Charles Newman wheeled Anna Biederman ten blocks through the business district in a wheelbarrow. The young lady selected A. H. Connor as the winner of the contest for mayor and Newman backed C. D. Huston, the Democratic candidate, and paid the bet without a murmur. The wheelbarrow was gaily decorated and ornamented with a huge portrait of the successful candidate. Both are employed by the Cedar Rapids Candy company, and nearly the entire force accompanied Newman over the route. Hundreds of people congregated on the streets, and the young lady was cheered to the echo.

BANK BOOK IS ONLY CLUE.

Unknown Man Is Unconscious in Hospital at Park Rapids.

Little Falls, Minn., March 10.—The city authorities of Park Rapids have telephoned to the First National bank here in the hope of being able to identify an unknown man who is sick and unconscious in the hospital at Park Rapids. The only clue the Park Rapids officials found as to the man's identity was a certificate of deposit at the First National Bank of Little Falls, made payable to Gus Johnson. Upon examination of its books the bank officials found that such a certificate had been issued by them, but all endeavors to discover the identity of the man to whom it was issued have so far proved unavailing.

OVER 200 CASES SETTLED.

End of Copper War Causes Cessation of Litigation.

Helena, Mont., March 10. — There was filed in United States court yesterday a stipulation dismissing as settled eighteen cases which were pending between the Heinze and Amalgamated interests, and which involved properties in Butte worth many millions of dollars. Eleven of the cases were instituted by the Amalgamated and the balance by the Heinze interests. More than 200 state court cases have also been settled in this manner as a result of the settlement of the copper war.

TO BUILD MASONIC TEMPLE.

Winona Is to Have a $50,000 Building.

Winona, Minn., March 10.—The Masonic Benevolent association has in contemplation the erection of a handsome Masonic temple in this city and already plans for the building are being are being considered. It is proposed to erect a building that will cost at least $50,000, which will be used exclusively for lodge purposes. It probably will stand upon a site just across Fourth street from the new Y. M. C. A. building, for which ground will be broken the end of the present month.

STOCK KILLED ON C., B. & Q.

First Section of Train Parts and Collision Results.

Burlington, Iowa, March 10.—A rear-end collision here yesterday between two sections of a freight train on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railway resulted in the injury of four men. A stockman, S. Heaton of New Virginia, Iowa, was fatally injured. A large amount of live stock was killed and fifteen cars and one engine were demolished. The accident was caused by the first section of the train breaking in two.

Legislature Pays Tribute.

Des Moines, March 10.—The Iowa legislature yesterday convened in joint assembly to pay tribute to the memory of ex-Speaker David B. Henderson of the national house of congress. Speaker Clarke and Senator Dunham, personal friends of the late speaker, delivered eulogies.

Alex McKinnon of Crookston was badly burned about the face and hands by the explosion of a gasoline torch he was using to put rubber tires on a carriage. It was feared that his eyes were permanently injured, but physicians say his burns will not prove serious.

: : : :

The general store of W. F. Krienke at Hutchinson was destroyed by an early morning fire which is supposed to have had its origin in an overheated stove. This is the third fire that has damaged the stock of Mr. Krienke in recent years. His loss on stock and fixtures amounts to about $5,400, partially insured.

: : : :

Rev. I. O. Nothstein, pastor of the English Lutheran church at St. Peter, has announced his resignation, to take effect in April. He will preach his farewell sermon Easter Sunday. Mr. Nothstein has received a call from a large church in one of the principal cities of Pennsylvania and decided to accept. He has been the pastor of the local church for four years.

: : : :

At a second meeting at Lamberton to discuss the local telephone situation it was unanimously decided to organize a corporation at once with the intention of installing a local plant and make connections with the farmers in this territory. Albert H. Enerson, L. Redding and George J. Grimm were appointed a committee to draft articles of incorporation and by-laws.

: : : :

Articles of incorporation have been drawn and will in a few days be filed with the secretary of state for the organization of a corporation to be known as the Mississippi River Power company, with a capital of $50,000. It was organized by E. F. Moore, president of the First National bank, and D. H. Freeman and George A. Moore, all well-known St. Cloud men. They will build a dam and operate a pulp and paper mill near Clearwater.

The Backus-Brooks Lumber company has purchased about 80,000,000 feet of standing pine, representing the holdings in northern Minnesota and Canada of the Keewatin Lumber company of Keewatin, Ont. The latter company's mill was destroyed by fire last fall, and for that reason it disposed of its holdings to the Backus-Brooks company. Most of the timber is in Itasca county and is contiguous to International Falls. It is expected that most of it will be sawed there.

JAPAN is possibly no more inconsistent than some other countries, but it does look questionable to increase war expenditure by a million and a half while famine is stalking the land with its guant and hungry face.

THE Iowa legislature is gravely considering a bill to keep honey bees from running loose in the streets of her towns. When it has attended to this it intends to make it an offense punishable by imprisonment and fine for the wind to blow more than eight miles an hour.

THE binding twine trust threatens to attack the Minnesota state prison binding twine industry, says the Duluth Herald, and Governor Johnson suggests very properly that the next legislature should make it possible to retaliate by selling twine in trust territory outside the state.

THE essence of good Republicanism according to Frank Eddy, is a liberal contribution to the proposed $75,000 campaign fund. But the average citizen is apt to conclude that indirectly he pays enough in tarriff taxes. And then the railroads and insurance companies are still doing business.

SENATOR HOLE probably has some reason to criticize the general staff of the army. To the members every organization is too likely to become an institution to be glorified. What is the army to the general staff but a weapon to be used? Wars mean action, promotion, glory for the soldier. Fortunately the general staff cannot declare war.

MUNICIPAL ownership might be a force in Chicago, as Editor Patterson believes. He declares they cannot run the dog pound in Chicago without graft. Well, the Golden Rule might not be a success in hades but the general deduction is that the reflection is on hades and not on the Golden Rule.

"SAVED MY LIFE"

—That's what a prominent druggist said of Scott's Emulsion a short time ago. As a rule we don't use or refer to testimonials in addressing the public, but the above remark and similar expressions are made so often in connection with Scott's Emulsion that they are worthy of occasional note. From infancy to old age Scott's Emulsion offers a reliable means of remedying improper and weak development, restoring lost flesh and vitality, and repairing waste. The action of Scott's Emulsion is no more of a secret than the composition of the Emulsion itself. What it does it does through nourishment—the kind of nourishment that cannot be obtained in ordinary food. No system is too weak or delicate to retain Scott's Emulsion and gather good from it.

FRANK EDDY'S reputation for political astuteness does not suffer by his refusal to be led to the gubernatorial sacrifice this year. Frank knows pretty well that the chance of defeating Governor Johnson is remote, and he would just a little rather let someone else sustain a defeat.

STATE TREASURER BLOCK has declared his willingness to become a sacrificial offering on his party's altar. The last issue of the St. Peter Tribune is filled with praise of his eminent services. Just at present it looks as though Julius had the best chance to land the nomination. The worst thing about it is the fact that at last a St. Peter man is doomed to defeat—and it isn't Johnson, either.

THE Red Wing News charges that once more has Congressman Tawney proved that he is with the trusts by defeating the proposition to appropriate $300,000 for a government powder plant, to relieve the war department of the extortion of the Dupont powder combine. Tawney has revealed himself this way so many times that the people of the First district discredit their own intelligence when they keep him in office.

HERE is spelling reform with a vengeance, as advocated by the National Educational association: "Bizness" for "business," "enuf " for "enough, "fethers" for "feathers," "mesure" for "measure," "plesure" for "pleasure," "red" for "read," "ruf" for rough," "trauf" for "trough," "thru" for "through," "tuff" for "tough," "tung" for "tongue," "yung" for "young"

ONCE more Governor Johnson has proven himself the right man in the right place, says the Perham Enterprise. He has refused to call an extra session of the legislature, and has thus saved the state $100,000 or more. In the meantime the needs of the state institutions will be provided for, despite the defects in the new code, until the regular session of the legislature next year. Economy in the expenditure of state funds is the watchword of the present administration.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER has substantially gained the whole world, says the Windom Reporter. Now what doth it profit him? Despised, hated, loathed by his fellow-man, in hiding from the service of a process in lawsuits requiring his evidence, evading the plain duties of good citizenship, and practically abandoned by good men. With all his wealth he is unable to enjoy the common courtesies of mankind which even a begger receives from the every-day public. Wealth and wealth alone he has.

THE present first class at the naval academy has adopted resolutions to abolish "absolutely and without reservation, hazing, class fighting, running, fagging and all similar practices." The preamble recites that this is done "in deference to the wish of congress and the will of the people of the United States, and with the belief that our action will minister to good discipline, law and order, but without apology for a system that has been supported in good faith, and in the main with only good intentions have been adopted by the last class with the encouragement finally given."

LORD ROBERTS has discovered a substitute for football. In his effort to create a public sentiment in Great Britain in behalf of national defense he is trying to induce the citizens, and especially the young men, to substitute rifle clubs for games of cricket and football. His hope is to promote the growth of the military spirit by developing a force of 1,000,000 men having a considerable military training ready to reenforce the first line of national defense in case of an invasion. If our universities are to abolish foootball maybe the gladiatorial instinct that some professors see in the young idea may be successfully evolved into useful channels by the rifle club.

IT is not generally believed that such a sordid avocation as politics has any poetry in it, but Sam Clark of the Thief River Press lately hit the pipe and while still under the influence delivered himself of this rythmic effort: "It will probably be a pretty warm struggle, but let us hope that when the smoke of battle has cleared away and we kneel at the grave of Red Lake Falls, that the bitterness of the fight will pass like an uneasy dream; that we will stretch forth our hands across the tomb and a rain of penitential tears will wash away all the bitterness of the strife from our hearts and that we will start down life's pathway once again, hand in hand, as in the days of old when harmony was lord of our lives and the lost court-house was cradled upon its mother's breast." This deserves sixty days with nothing off for good behavior.

Labor Law Orders.

The state labor bureau issued a number of orders to employers during 1905 according to the annual report. There were 206 orders directing the safeguarding of machinery, stairways and hoistways; 77 orders requiring the covering or removal of exposed collar set screws on shafting; 56 orders for better sanitary conditions in workrooms and bakeries; 23 for observance of the child labor law; 12 for erection of outside fire escapes, and 4 called for better fire protection. Eight orders covered other features of the general factory law. Railroads were ordered to supply defective or missing switch blocking in 167 cases. The officials had no trouble in securing compliance with these orders.

U. S. Army Life Insurance.

After thirty years service, the government gives to every soldier whose service has been honest and faithful, the privilege of retiring on three quarters of his pay and allowance, the latter being commuted at $9.50 per month.

In computing the thirty year's service all foreign service is counted double, it is therefore practicable for a soldier remaining continuously in the service to complete the term in from 20 to 23 years service. After 20 years service the retired pay and allowances would be as follows: Private, $25.25 per month; corporal, $26.75 per month; sergeant, $29.00 per month; Ist. Sgt., $34.25 per month: N. C. S. O., $41.00 per month.

In order to obtain the above income in an investment paying three per cent. interest, the following capital in each case would be required: For that of a private, $10,000.00., for that of a corporal, $10,700.00; for that of a sergeant, $11,600.00; for that of a Ist. Sgt., $13,000.00 for that of a N. C. S. O., $16,400.00.

A man at 23 years of age taking out a 20 year paid up policy would have to pay the following rates: For $10,000.00, $25.00 per month; for $10,500.00, $26.80 per month; for $12,000.00, $30.60 per month; for $13,000.00, $33.09; for $16,500.00, $42.10 per month.

This would indicate that besides providing and caring for the soldier during the time of his service, the government is for long and faithful service giving him a pretty good insurance policy, certainly more than the ordinary laborer could hope to provide for himself.

The above information is compiled in order that all applicants for enlistment may fully understand before entering the service what is required of them and what the government is doing for the soldier, a careful consideration of what has been stated should convince any young man that a soldier's pay and allowances compare favorably with what he can earn as a laboring man, and in addition to this he will be better housed, better clothed and better carred for in every way than the laboring man, he has besides more time for recreation and pleasure than the average working man can hope to obtain.

Many so-called Webster Vest Pocket Dictionaries have been put upon the market, but until now there has been no authentic dictionary of this class, abridged directly from "Webster's International." Such a vest pocket manual has just been issued, entitled "Webster's Little Gem Dictionary." It is scholarly and strictly reliable, being the best, most concise, and most complete of its kind. The main vocabulary includes by actual count more words than are found in any other pronouncing dictionary of its scope although some books make exorbitant claims to the contrary. The "Little Gem" also contains a very full and up-to-date Gazetteer of the world, many valuable tables and lists, and also twelve pages of colored maps, seldom published in a book of this size. It is just the guide you need to answer your many questions with accuracy. All copies are supplied with the marginal index and will be sent postpaid on receipt of price. M. P. Dargan was over from Wylie last Thursday looking after business matters. Mr. Dargan says the farmers of that vicinity have decided to build an elevator, and will have it ready to receive grain before September 1. It is probable the elevator will have a capacity of 25,000 bushels.

Crookston Journal: It is rumored that Sam Clark and Greeley Carr have sold their paper at Thief River Falls, known as the Press, and that Mr. Clark will go west in the near future. The deal was to have been closed today but the names of the purchasers have not been given out.

Doria, the eight year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hance died Friday from pneumonia after an illness of but a few days. Funeral services were held at St. Joseph's church Sunday afternoon and were largely attended by the many friends of the family. The sympathy of the community goes out to the relatives left to mourn her untimely demise.

At the meeting of the commercial club of Grand Forks on Friday evening Tracy R. Bangs announced that Messrs. Healy, Savage and others, who are organizing the new power company will in the very near future make application to the city council for a franchise and will be in a position in a very short time to furnish an abundance of electric power for light, heat and power at very low rates. The announcement was received with the livliest enthusiasm.

American Goods Abroad.

Several English Journals express the opinion that the Americans will shortly supersede the English in the trade of the world. As they say, "America has superseded our agriculture, has beaten our coal output, has left us far behind in the production of iron and steel, and has commenced a final onslaught on our carrying trade." Why? Is the natural question that arises. The solution is that our products are better. One of the greatest of America's products is golden grain belt beer. There is nothing better for insuring good health and happiness. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson Crookston.

May Be A Candidate.

Bemidji News: The friends of Attorney Henry Funklev are freely discussing his availability as a candidate for the republican nomination for state senator from this district, and it is wholly possible that Mr. Funkley will go into the race in the event that Sen. Swedback decides to retire from the field. Mr. Funkley is exceptionally well equipped to perform the functions of a state senator, and he has a wide acquaintance over the district, with the possible exception of Red Lake county. He is broad in his views, well informed as to the needs of the territory, an able debater and a good mixer and he would serve the district with credit.

HERITAGE OF CIVIL WAR.

Thousands of Soldiers Contracted Chronic Kidney Trouble While in the Service.

The experience of Capt. John L. Ely, of Co. E, 17th Ohio, now living at 500 East Second street, Newton, Kansas, will interest the thousands of veterans who came back from the Civil War suffering tortures with kidney complaint. Capt. Ely says: "I contracted kidney trouble during the civil war, and the occasional attacks finally developed into a chronic case. At one time I had to use a crutch and cane to get about. My back was lame and weak, and besides the aching, there was a distressing retention of the kidney secretions.' I was in a bad way when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills in 1901, but the remedy cured me and I have been well ever since."

A Church With Living Rooms.

With the plans for the new Bronx Episcopal church house at Fulton avenue and 171st street, approved by Bishop Greer, it was said yesterday ground for the new building would be broken within a week and the work of constructing the church house would be carried on with all possible speed. The building will have cost more than $125,000. Besides living rooms for five deacons, it will contain clubrooms, a meeting hall, a gymnasium, bowling alley, and billiard room. There also will be a running track and in summer the roof will be converted into a roof garden.

Bishop Greer obtained the money for the new building from several persons who refused to have their names made known. He is confident he will obtain further funds with which to maintain the church house in a way that will make it of use to the upper section of the city.

Full to Running Over.

The little girl was sitting in a Sunday school class one Sunday, and, growing very thirsty, asked her teacher for a drink of water. The teacher brought her the glass of water and the little girl, in her eagerness to drink, spilled some of the water down the front of her clean dress. Handing the half-filled glass back to her teacher, she exclaimed:

"I must be so full now I'm running over."—Judge's Magazine of Fun.

Habit-forming Medicines

Whatever may be the fact as to many of the so-called patent medicines containing injurious ingredients as broadly published in some journals of more or less influence, this publicity has certainly been of great interest in arousing needed attention to this subject. It has, in a considerable measure, resulted in the most intelligent people avoiding such foods and medicines as may be fairly suspected of containing the injurious ingredients complained of. Recognizing this fact some time ago, Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., "took time by the forelock," as it were, and published broadcast all the ingredients of which his popular medicines are composed. Thus he has completely forestalled all harping critics and all opposition that might otherwise be urged against his medicines, because they are now OF KNOWN COMPOSITION. Furthermore, from the formula printed on every bottle wrapper, it will be seen that these medicines contain no alcohol or other habit-forming drugs. Neither do they contain any narcotics or injurious agents, their ingredients being purely vegetable, extracted from the roots of medicinal plants found growing in the depths of our American forests and of well recognized curative virtues.

Instead of alcohol, which even in small portions long continued, as in obstinate cases of diseases, becomes highly objectionable from its tendency to produce a craving for stimulants, Dr. Pierce employs chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine, which of itself is a valuable remedy in many cases of chronic diseases, being a superior demulcent, antiseptic, antiferment and supporting nutritive. It enhances the curative action of the Golden Seal root, Stone root, Black Cherrybark and Bloodroot, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery," in all bronchial, throat and lung affections attended with severe coughs. As will be seen from the writings of the eminent Drs. Grover Coe, of New York; Bartholow, of Jefferson Medical College, Phila.; Scudder, of Cincinnati; Ellingwood, of Chicago; Hale, of Chicago, and others, who stand as leaders in their several schools of practice, the foregoing agents are the very best ingredients that Dr. Pierce could have chosen to make up his famous "Discovery" for the cure of not only bronchial, throat and lung affections, but also of chronic catarrh in all its various forms wherever located.

The Happiest Time Is Now

Talk not to me of future bliss!
  Talk not to me of joys gone by!
For us, the happiest hour is this,
  When love bids time to fly;
The future—doubt may overcast,
  To shadow Hope's young brow;
Oblivion's veil may shroud the past—
  The happiest time is now!

Tho' flowers in spicy vases thrown
  Some odor yet exhale,
Their fragrance, e'er the bloom was flown
  Breathed sweeter on the gale;
Like faded flowers, each parted bliss
  Let memory keep—but how
Can joy that's past be like to this?
  The happiest time is now.

Unmark'd our course before us lies
  O'er time's eternal tide;
And soon the sparkling ripple dies
  We raise, as on we glide.
Our barks the brightest bubbles fling
  For ever from the prow;—
Then let us gaily sail and sing
  "The happiest time is now!"
—Samuel Lover.

The Knowledge of O Taya San

BY DORA AYDELOTTE

(Copyright, 1906, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

Because of rouge skilfully applied, the little geisha's cheeks were rosy, and because of paint her lips were very, very red, like threads of crimson silk.

She wore a kimona of cool, shimmering gray, with storks in erratic flight, all up and down it; her blue obi—like an overgrown pillow—was adjusted with care, and atop of all was her face, lily-fair under the high, satiny black coiffure, her slanting eyebrows—ah, Art helped Nature there—her eyes at once luring and childlike, and the scarlet line that was her mouth.

When Raeburn, lately arrived in Tokio, came to the teahouse under the wistarias his beauty-loving nature rejoiced, and he told her that she was "like roses and gray mist."

O Taya San looked pleased, though all she understood was the young 'Merican's smiling eyes: but she poured his tea, and clapped her shell-pink palms together for more cakes, and, when another girl shuffled in, they danced, in movements as graceful as roses swaying in the wind.

It was late before Raeburn remembered that he hadn't stopped in Tokio merely to visit teahouses, and that he must get back to Dunn's rooms as fast as a 'rickshaw and a long-legged coolie would take him.

He was comforted to find that Dunn had turned in: it saved the bother of explanations; only a sleepy servant remained in the hall, to be gently prodded and kicked into wakefulness.

There was a late and hurried breakfast the next morning, after which Dunn, as a good servant of governmental red tape, went to his office, leaving his friend to spend the day as he liked. He was pleased to loaf throughout the morning, to write a few letters, to scribble some of the inevitable post-cards, and, late in the afternoon, clad in creaseless white, to travel via 'rickshaw to a teahouse—a certain teahouse with purple curtains of wistaria flowing all around it.

O Taya San was there, and tinkled away at an instrument that seemed a cross between a banjo and guitar; Raeburn sat himself down, with easy grace, in the cross-legged manner of his vis-a-vis; they laughed together over her quaint efforts to talk 'Merican, and the task of teaching was so pleasant that when O Taya San lifted her thick lashes and said, "You come 'gain—some more?" he answered, "Sure," quite as if he were in Tokio only for the pleasure of talking to pretty teahouse girls.

"She's beautiful," he confided to Dunn, a few days later, after that lean-jawed, cynical person had been jeering at him for "going daffy over a mere teahouse girl, kept there for such chumps as you." "My dear boy," replied Dunn, languidly interested, "they're all beautiful—in Tokio—but you're bound for Manila on serious business matters, and then home, and, let me tell you, if you've a sweetheart back in the States, better let this little what's-her-name—"

O Taya San.

"O Taya San."

"That it? Well, let her and all her kind alone; even a geisha may have a heart, you know."

Raeburn towered above him, handsome, flushing with anger: "That's the limit, Dunn; I never broke a heart yet, and I'll not begin with this little beauty."

His companion laughed—a laugh of unbelief—but he told his irate friend to calm down, and wheedled him into going for a ride.

Now, Dunn knew his Tokio well, likewise his Yokohoma; perhaps that is why he made it a point of trotting Raeburn around to the nicest people he knew, and giving him a chance to meet a lot of friendly English girls.

But, the boy was blind to whatever charm they possessed—blind to the memory of a girl back home, who saw no other face than his; his eyes were only for a little figure in a gray kimona, for a face with welcoming eyes, with red lips pouting childishly for his kisses.

So he forgot, and continued not to remember, in spite of Dunn's occasional protests, and the smiling faces of those nice English girls.

The teahouse under the wistarias knew him for a frequent guest; O Taya San blossomed like some wondrous flower in a new kimona of blue, with glints of silver woven through it: she danced, she sang to him the songs of Nippon, and he taught her—for she was a willing pupil—much of his speech.

There had been other 'Mericans, but none like him.

Perhaps, too, there were other things he taught her: for what should a pretty geisha learn, but love?

There had been other 'Mericans, but none like him; when he came, straight and tall, fair as a young god, blue-eyed, with bright hair curling from his forehead, with his six feet of immaculate white drill, his gleaming smile, who could resist him?

Certainly O Taya San could not.

* * * * * * *

Raeburn's luggage was piled in the hall; his steamer was due to leave the next day for Manila, and he was solacing himself with cigarettes.

"You can't take her along, you know," was Dunn's silence-breaking remark.

"Who?"

"Your pagan friend, O Taya San: who else?"

"Don't you know," continued the informing one, "that the girl is a slave, owned, body and soul, by the grinning old devil who owns that teahouse and others like it: don't you know that you would have to buy her, just as you would buy horses at home?"

"Don't: I can't stand it"; Raeburn jumped up, pushing his chair away noisily: "pagan or not, slave or not, she's a dear little girl, and I'm all broke up at leaving."

"What about her?" came the pitiless query.

For answer, Raeburn said things which would have to be represented on this page by dashes, and flung himself out; Dunn heard him in the street, whistling for his 'rickshaw.

"The boy's a fool," he mused, "but he's got a lifetime to learn it in."

* * * * * * *

A curtain of purple blooms lifting to the breeze: in a teahouse, two that clasped, and said goodbye, and clasped again—clinging arms and pleading eyes, tears and kisses—kisses and tears. One to stay, weeping—say not that to be a geisha is to be heartless—and one to go whirling back to the city.

The ship was gone, and day after day, all cruelly alike, followed it: other coolies dashed up to the teahouse steps, and other 'Mericans in white suits sat at the little tables, but life was not the same.

Because of rouge, skilfully applied, the little geisha's cheeks were rosy, and because of paint her lips were very, very red, like threads of crimson silk; her gray kimona shimmered like a silken mist, and storks in crazy flight trailed all across it; but the eyes of O Taya San were closed, and she did not answer when they called her name.

As for Raeburn—but Raeburn would never know.

IDIOMS OF THE MOUNTAINEERS.

Very Old English Used in Parts of West Virginia.

Last summer some persons from the North were spending a month in the mountains of West Virginia in a log cabin on the mountainside. One morning, as they sat on the porch admiring the views, a little mountain girl in short blue calico dress and bright pink sunbonnet bounced round the side of the cabin.

"Howdy!" she said. "Mammy wants to know if you-all don't want a poke of snapples this mohning."

"A what?" the Northerners asked, in amazement.

"A poke of snapples," sissy repeated. Then, evidently overcome with shyness, she darted through the underbrush before the newcomers could decide whether or not they wanted a "poke of snapples."

The expression got into the systems of the visitors, until curiosity made one of them take her way to the little farmhouse.

"I will take a poke of snapples, please," she said, fearing all the while the mountain woman would laugh in her face or think her an escaped lunatic.

But very gravely the woman disappeared, and soon returned, handing the caller a bag of string beans. The beans, which snap in the fingers are called "snapples" by the mountaineers; and "poke," which is a good old word for bag that has survived from the Shakespearean English of the early English settlers.—Youth's Companions.

Race Discrimination.

A small French-Italian coasting steamer was proceeding on its way. The passengers were of various nationalities — English, American, French, Italian and one large German. Most of the male passengers were gathered in the smoking room, when the steward appeared at the door and with a bow announced: "Dinner, it is serve!"

The English and American contingent arose and started toward the dining saloon. The steward, seeing that his announcement had not been understood by all, continued: "Messieurs, c'est servi!" and as a portion of the passengers still remained seated: "Il pranzo e servito!"

The French and Italians followed the English and Americans, leaving the large German in solitary state.

"Gott in himmel!" he muttered hungrily. "Is it dot no Germanmans gets somedings to eat on dis boat, nein?"—Harper's Weekly.

Green Flame.

Give the turquoise to betrothed ones true!
'Tis the deep of the zenith blue;
But slake my heart's desire
With the liquid flame of emerald fire!

'Tis the glimmer of salt waves a-breaking,
  And the shimmer of young leaves in spring;
With light and love awaking
  Wakes the glitter of the emerald ring!

And the diamond's sparkling light
Give to fame and beauty bright!
But slake my mind's desire
With the rippling flame of emerald fire!

'Tis the green of the storm sign gleaming
  Through the gold in lowering skies.
'Tis the couch where April lies a-dreaming
  In the iris of the jonquil eyes.

And the blood-red ruby wine
Give to dame of ancient line!
But to quench ill thought accurst,
And to slake sweet souls athirst.

Give the glimmer of the March's stars glancing,
  And the shimmer of the dragon flies' wing!
With life and love advancing,
  Flash! Fountains of eternal spring!
—Pall Mall Gazette.

Compliment from the Heart.

If there is one place more than another where the term "lady" carries mighty little weight it is over on the East Side of Manhattan. The qualities that are naturally associated with this designation in less congested sections of the city are recognized readily enough, but the term itself is held in contempt. This, at least, is the opinion of a settlement worker who has spent several years years on the East Side. "The most sincere compliment I ever received," she says, "was at a meeting of working girls where, when one of the audience referred to me as 'a lady,' the chairman indignantly replied:

"'Mrs. I.—— is no lady. She iss von of us.'"—New York Times.

His Friends Were Few.

"Mose" Porter was the name of a witness appearing in the Wood contested election case from St. Louis, according to the story told by Col. "Bill" Zevelly of the Indian territory.

"What is your nationality?" asked Chairman Olmsted.

"Half black and half white," answered Porter.

"What do you do for a living?"

"J jes' jog around St. Louis."

"Were any of your friends present when you made this affidavit?" asked Mr. Olmsted.

"'Deed, Mr. Committee, I ain't got a single frien' in St. Louis, and I's dead suah I ain't got none here."

Force of Habit.

"That new prison warden they appointed was not a success, was he?"

"A dead failure. You see, his previous business was against him."

"How was that?"

"He ran a laundry, you know, and when he tried to run the prison he did it on his old familiar lines."

"In what way?"

"He began by mangling his accounts and then ironed all the convicts."

A Hero.

"I saved that girl's life once, and she doesn't appear a bit grateful."

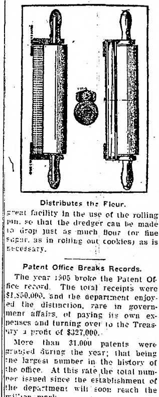
"How did you save her life?"

"She said she'd die if she had to marry me and I refrained from urging her."

SHOWING THE WORLD'S PROGRESS

New Rolling Pin.

A Pennsylvania man has invented a rolling pin which has an attachment which feeds flour on the dough while the latter is being rolled, thus preventing the rolling pin sticking to the dough. The rolling pin carries a trough and a dredger for flour, by which the dough is more or less covered while it is under manipulation on the molding-board. The rolling pin is of any suitable construction, the handles being detachable and the roll turning on the handles. The ends of the trough are attached to the handles and extend above the top of the roll, the sides of the trough extending so close to the roller that the latter can barely turn without contact with the trough. Thus the rolling pin is surmounted by a trough, which is open at the bottom, save as the roller itself forms a bottom to the trough. Inside the trough is a hollow cylinder, formed of perforated sheet metal, the cylinder moving within the trough and closed by a cover. When the cylinder or dredger is partly full of flour and is placed on top of the roller the latter can be so operated as to sprinkle more or less flour onto the roller, whence it will be carried onto the dough. A little experience gives great facility in the use of the rolling pin, so that the dredger can be made to drop just as much flour (or fine sugar, as in rolling out cookies) as is necessary.



Distributes the Flour.

Patent Office Breaks Records.

The year 1905 broke the Patent Office record. The total receipts were $1,850,000, and the department enjoyed the distinction, rare in government affairs, of paying its own expenses and turning over to the Treasury a profit of $327,000.

More than 31,000 patents were granted during the year; that being the largest number in the history of the office. At this rate the total number issued since the establishment of the department will soon reach the million mark.

Just now the automobile industry is the chief field for the inventor. There has been a great falling off in patents on agricultural machinery, where there is supposed to be little room left for invention.

Beneficial Effects of Yawning.

Yawning is beneficial. It serves the purpose of lung ventilation. The lungs are not filled or exhausted by ordinary respiration. There is a certain quantity of air which physiologists call "residual air" left in the recesses of the lungs after the ordinary respiration. This in time becomes vitiated and affects the blood, and, through it, the nervous centers. The result is a yawn, which is really a stretching of the respiratory chamber to its fullest capacity and the filling of it with freshly inspired air, which drives the vitiated air out. Yawning also opens, stretches and ventilates the vocal, nasal and auditory chambers in immediate connection with the mouth.

Ancestors of the Dog.

Dr Lindsay Johnson, the celebrated opthalmologist, says that the dog has two ancestors, one round-eyed, the other oval-eyed. The first is the hyena, the second the bear, through the raccoon. All dogs descend from these animals. The "corpus niger," or black body of pigment in the eye of the horse, which has puzzled veterinarians, naturalists and zoologists so much, provides, through the opthalmoscope, a new means of tracing the ancestry and relationship of the horse. It is the same eye curtain that is found in tropical animals—the onager, the camel and the antelope—for protection from sunlight.

New Street-Lighting Material.

The Paris municipal authorities are extending their street-lighting trials with "lusol," a hydrocarbon recovered as a by-product in making blast-furnace coke. The light is said to be even softer than that from alcohol; and a 100-candle lamp of the type hitherto employed costs only a farthing per hour, while the domestic lusol lamp gives double the light at half the cost of a good paraffin lamp. One great use of the new illuminant will be to form a reserve in case of unforeseen gas or electric light extinction.

New Storage Battery.

A Milwaukee firm has placed upon the market a new form of storage battery, light in weight, for which it claims 100 miles on country roads on a single charge.

RESTORE STRENGTH

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually Make New Blood and Good Health Follows.

The evil effects that follow many diseases — particularly the grip and the wasting fevers, such as typhoid and malaria, are caused by the bad condition in which these diseases leave the blood. As a result, the flesh continues to fall away, the sufferer grows nervous and irritable, and even slight exertion causes shortness of breath. These are dangerous symptoms and indicate that the system is in a state that invites pneumonia, bronchitis or even consumption. What is needed is a new supply of rich, red blood to carry health and strength to every part of the body.

"I was all run down from the effects of the grip," says Mrs. Amelia Hall, of No. 5 High street, Norwich Conn., "and could not seem to get strength to walk; could not eat a full meal, my stomach was so weak, and I was so nervous that I could not sleep. I could only stay in bed a few minutes at a time, either night or day. The least little thing would startle me. I had difficulty in breathing and had frequent fainting spells.

"My general health was completely wrecked and I had neuralgic and rheumatic pains, dyspepsia, constipation, and female weakness. My physician attended me for the grip and again for the condition that it left me in, but I got no strength from the tonics he prescribed. In fact, nothing helped me until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they cured me.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.

BABY'S TORTURING HUMOR.

Ears Looked as if They Would Drop Off—Face Mass of Sores—Cured by Cuticura in Two Weeks for 75c.

"I feel it my duty to parents of other poor suffering babies to tell you what Cuticura has done for my little daughter. She broke out all over her body with a humor, and we used everything recommended, but without results. I called in three doctors, they all claimed they could help her, but she continued to grow worse. Her body was a mass of sores, and her little face was being eaten away; her ears looked as if they would drop off. Neighbors advised me to get Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and before I had used half of the cake of Soap and box of ointment the sores had all healed and my little one's face and body were as clear as a new-born babe's. I would not be without it again if it cost five dollars instead of seventy-five cents. Mrs. George J. Steese, 701 Colburn St., Akron, Ohio."

The First Lesson.

An Alabama negro, who had spent several years as a servant in a New York family, returning to his home, attempted to instruct the members of his family in correct usage, especially in their language. One day at the table his brother said to him:

"Gimme some 'lasses," Sam."

"You mustn't say 'lasses," corrected Sam. "You must say molasses."

"What is yo' talking 'bout?" grunted his brother. 'How's I gwine to say molasses when I ain't had none yet?"

"I want to get a head of cabbage," said the man who had been sent to market.

"Large or small head?" asked the grocer.

"Oh, about 7¼," said the man, absent-mindedly.

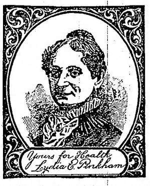
WHO SHE WAS

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF LYDIA E. PINKHAM

And a True Story of How the Vegetable Compound Had Its Birth and How the "Panic of '73" Caused it to be Offered for Public Sale in Drug Stores.

This remarkable woman, whose maiden name was Estes, was born in Lynn, Mass., February 9th, 1819, coming from a good old Quaker family. For some years she taught school, and became known as a woman of an alert and investigating mind, an earnest seeker after knowledge, and above all, possessed of a wonderfully sympathetic nature.



Yours for Health
Lydia E. Pinkham

In 1843 she married Isaac Pinkham, a builder and real estate operator, and their early married life was marked by prosperity and happiness. They had four children, three sons and a daughter

In those good old fashioned days it was common for mothers to make their own home medicines from roots and herbs, nature's own remedies—calling in a physician only in specially urgent cases. By tradition and experience many of them gained a wonderful knowledge of the curative properties of the various roots and herbs.

Mrs. Pinkham took a great interest in the study of roots and herbs, their characteristics and power over disease. She maintained that just as nature so bountifully provides in the harvest-fields and orchards vegetable foods of all kinds; so, if we but take the pains to find them, in the roots and herbs of the field there are remedies expressly designed to cure the various ills and weaknesses of the body, and it was her pleasure to search these out, and prepare simple and effective medicines for her own family and friends.

Chief of these was a rare combination of the choicest medicinal roots and herbs found best adapted for the cure of the ills and weaknesses peculiar to the female sex, and Lydia E. Pinkham's friends and neighbors learned that her compound relieved and cured and it became quite popular among them.

All this so far was done freely, without money and without price, as a labor of love.

But in 1873 the financial crisis struck Lynn. Its length and severity were too much for the large real estate interests of the Pinkham family, as this class of business suffered most from fearful depression, so when the Centennial year dawned it found their property swept away. Some other source of income had to be found.

At this point Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was made known to the world.

The three sons and the daughter, with their mother, combined forces to restore the family fortune. They argued that the medicine which was so good for their woman friends and neighbors was equally good for the women of the whole world.

The Pinkhams had no money, and little credit. Their first laboratory was the kitchen, where roots and herbs were steeped on the stove, gradually filling a gross of bottles. Then came the question of selling it, for always before they had given it away freely. They hired a job printer to run off some pamphlets setting forth the merits of the medicine, now called Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and these were distributed by the Pinkham sons in Boston, New York, and Brooklyn.

The wonderful curative properties of the medicine were, to a great extent, self-advertising, for whoever used it recommended it to others, and the demand gradually increased.

In 1877, by combined efforts the family had saved enough money to commence newspaper advertising and from that time the growth and success of the enterprise were assured, until to-day Lydia E. Pinkham and her Vegetable Compound have become household words everywhere, and many tons of roots and herbs are used annually in its manufacture.

Lydia E. Pinkham herself did not live to see the great success of this work. She passed to her reward years ago, but not till she had provided means for continuing her work as effectively as she could have done it herself.

During her long and eventful experience she was ever methodical in her work and she was always careful to preserve a record of every case that came to her attention. The case of every sick woman who applied to her for advice—and there were thousands—received careful study, and the details, including symptoms, treatment and results were recorded for future reference, and to-day these records, together with hundreds of thousands made since, are available to sick women the world over, and represent a vast collaboration of information regarding the treatment of woman's ills, which for authenticity and accuracy can hardly be equaled in any library in the world.

With Lydia E. Pinkham worked her daughter-in-law, the present Mrs. Pinkham. She was carefully instructed in all her hard-won knowledge, and for years she assisted her in her vast correspondence.

To her hands naturally fell the direction of the work when its originator passed away. For nearly twenty-five years she has continued it, and nothing in the work shows when the first Lydia E. Pinkham dropped her pen, and the present Mrs. Pinkham, now the mother of a large family, took it up. With women assistants, some as capable as herself, the present Mrs. Pinkham continues this great work, and probably from the office of no other person have so many women been advised how to regain health. Sick women, this advice is "Yours for Health" freely given if you only write to ask for it.

Such is the history of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; made from simple roots and herbs; the one great medicine for women's ailments, and the fitting monument to the noble woman whose name it bears.

HORTICULTURE

Marketing Fruit.

A. L. Hatch, in an address before the Wisconsin State Horticultural Society, said:

There is a general impression that to keep fruit well, fruit should be picked before it is fully matured. It is true that dead-ripe fruit does not market well, and soft fruit is at a discount in all markets. It is also true that some fruits, like strawberries, will color up and become apparently ripe in two days or less. With some fruits, notably the apple and peach, my observation and experience are that they keep best if fully grown and well colored when picked. Not only this, but green fruit will never become of good quality and is often extremely poor. If you do not believe this, try it on your Wealthy apples. No fruit can mature unless the tree or plant upon which it grows has good, healthy foliage the entire growing season; hence one necessity for spraying.

Another essential in marketing fruit is to prevent bruising. This means careful handling and transporting from the first to the last of the life of the fruit. It means taking the fruit directly from the plant or tree to the package in which it goes to market, with the least possible handling. In apples I have already sorted as I picked and pack at once in the orchard. Of course, I continue sorting all fruit as long as it is in sight, always throwing out imperfect fruits until the package is ready to cover.

In packages I have used barrels, bushel baskets and boxes for apples. For home market where packages can be returned bushel boxes are convenient and best, but for shipment I prefer barrels. For plums I know of nothing better than one-fifth bushel baskets, with side slatted, raised cover with slats set somewhat closer than for peaches. For cherries, blackberries, strawberries, gooseberries and currants I prefer the sixteen-quart crate with wooden boxes. For raspberries I use twenty-four-quart crates.

Where reasonable contracts can be made with reliable grocers and merchants, and where deliveries can be made with reasonable certainty, that method of marketing is usually satisfactory. But whatever method of marketing is adopted, the shipper and grower should have telephone connection with their markets and full information about their market at the latest possible moment before every shipment.

The Orchard on Pasture Lands.

In regard to planting an orchard on pasture land that has had no preparation previous to this, I would advise that the owner plow the soil as early in the spring as possible to kill grubs and all insects and set the trees thirty feet apart each way. Plant them two inches deeper in the earth than they grew in the nursery. I would also suggest that he take a bucket of soap suds and wash the trees twice, first of May and the last, as this treatment tends to harden the bark and kills any insects that may be upon them. I would suggest further that he buy the trees as near home as possible, in order to secure trees that have not been out of the ground long, and plant such varieties as are best suited to his soil or the neighboring soil, I should have said. We have the Ben Davis as the most reliable apple crop in this vicinity. I think if he will follow this plan and cultivate the orchard for two years, viz., plant corn or potatoes, and keep the grass out (to prevent the ravages of the field mouse), he will have an orchard that is all right.

J. A. French, Nurseryman.
Green Co., Ill.

The Roots of Evergreens.

The roots of evergreens differ very much from the roots of deciduous trees, and for this reason cannot be treated in the same way when evergreens are being transplanted. The roots of these trees exude a gummy substance that remains moist while the roots are moist, but becomes dry and hard and impervious to water when exposed to sun and dry air. Many evergreens are killed by being dug and their roots allowed to dry in the air. After that the little rootlets are unable to perform their natural functions when the trees are again in the ground. Keep the roots moist and get the evergreens planted as soon as possible. Then the number lost from transplanting will be small. We have heard men say that they did not care to put out evergreens because they were never able to make them grow, but we believe if they will keep the roots moist from the time they are taken from the ground till they are again in the ground, and then have the new soil packed hard around the tree roots, they will have very little trouble with transplanted evergreens.

Trees on Hillsides.

In the case of the man that wants to plant trees on a hillside, I would advise digging several feet around each tree and then cultivate with a hoe; or, plough a strip where you wish to set a row of trees, crosswise of the slope, leaving the middle of the row in grass to prevent washing.—G. A. Haper, Calhoun Co., Ill.

Cement can be used for the standing place of the cows, but it should be kept covered with bedding.

A Sorry Prospect.

It is, of course, a platitude to say that the frankness of the young is, on certain occasions, most appalling; but the truth of the statement is illustrated in a new way by the following story of the little boy who was taken out to dine.

Ralph had, to the comfort of his mother, conducted himself in a most exemplary manner throughout the repast. At dessert the lad gazed longingly at some fruit at the farther end of the table, but, much to his disappointment, he was not asked to have any of it. It chanced that the hostess, boy's face, and being, of course, enboy's face, an dbeing, of course, entirely ignorant of the cause thereof, said:

"And of what are you thinking so earnestly, little man?"

"Mother told me," came in swift response, "not to take two apples, and I was thinking I'd be mighty lucky to get one."

Did He Get Them?

"Why don't you go to work?" said a charitable lady to a tramp, before whom she placed a nicely cooked meal.

"I would," replied the vagrant, "if I had the tools."

"What sort of tools do you want?" asked the hostess.

"A knife and fork," said the tramp.

WAIL OF ROYAL CHEF

WELL PAID BUT MASTERS ARE MOST EXACTING.

How the Kingly Menus Are Prepared—Franz Joseph Selects His Own—Kaiser Eats in Four Languages—Sultan Fears Poison.

London.—"Menus are the greatest burden of sovereignty," once remarked the emperor of Austria, and this, coupled with the statement of the late Czar Alexander III. that a monarch required more diplomacy in dealing with his cooks than with his ministers leads one to believe that culinary matters are a source of unceasing worry to every crowned head.

Emperor Franz Josef has, however, good cause to grumble, because although the actual cost of the food he consumes himself does not amount to $5,000 a year, he pays his chef—a Belgian—a salary of $10,000 per annum, and the kitchen expenses at the palace are never less than $75,000. The reason for this is that, whereas the emperor always takes his meals alone in his study, his palace dinners are produced regardless of expense.

The emperor's chef always submits a menu for the following day's dinner to his royal master when dinner is served. Punctually at six o'clock his valet enters with a large tray, which he places on the emperor's desk, and while Franz Josef is negotiating his soup he scans to-morrow's menu and crosses off with a blue pencil anything he does not care for.

At the German court things are somewhat different. There are four chefs—a German, a Frenchman, an Englishman and an Italian—because the kaiser never decides till the day arrives whether he will have a German, a French, an English or an Italian meal, with the result that there is much scurrying to prepare a menu. This is not an easy matter if there are many guests present, because each chef is only allowed so much a head, and he must serve up an elegant meal at that figure. Each chef has five assistants and has to render an account of each day's expenses to the head steward.

The chef at the Portuguese court is an Englishman and he receives only $4,000 a year. When King Carlos paid his first visit to England and was staying with the late Lord Salisbury, he said that what struck him most about Britain was the roast beef, and he forthwith took back with him an English chef. King Carlos insists on an English meal every day, but the queen and the members of the household have two French chefs to study their wants, and they each receive salaries of $5,500 per annum.

The most trying post any man can wish for is that of chef to the sultan of Turkey at the palace at Yildiz. Here the royal kitchen is situated right under the royal apartments; it is quite a small room, strongly guarded, and even the windows are barred. The sultan's horror of poison led him on one occasion to install a soldier whom he trusted as chef, and for two years he endured badly cooked food rather than face the risk of poison.

The present chef has held his post seven years, but he is only responsible to Kelarji, the chief steward, for the food, and this official is in his turn responsible to the sultan. When the meal is ready it is placed on a tray and the tray is then covered with a black cloth, the ends of which are sealed by Kelarji before it is borne into the imperial apartment.

The czar of Russia's chef is likewise a much harassed individual, but as he is well paid—his salary from all sources being over $10,000 a year—he is not to be pitied.

THIRTEEN PROVES UNLUCKY

Courtship Lasted 13 Months; April 13 Set for Wedding; Groom Dies After 13 Days' Illness.

Muskegon, Mich.—The number "13" proved unlucky to F. Delong, who died here after all preparations had been completed for his marriage to one of the most prominent young women of this section.

After a courtship of just 13 months Delong proposed and was accepted. April 13 was set as the wedding day, and all preparations for the wedding were completed when the prospective bridegroom became ill. For 13 days and 13 nights the bride-to-be was his constant attendant, even to eating her meals at his bedside.

The unlucky combination of thirteens had been noted, and when the thirteenth day of illness ended to-day the sudden death of the patient was hardly a surprise to his superstitious friends.

The young woman who was to be a bride April 13 is hysterical, and refused to leave the hospital or be consoled.

Never Had Seen White Men.

Nordenskjold, the famous arctic explorer, has returned to Montevideo, Paraguay, from an expedition into the interior of South America to the borders of Brazil, Bolivia and Peru, where he found Indians who had never seen white men. They are among the most primitive people in the world. They believed him to be some god because he gave them flesh of monkeys he had hunted. They begged him to remain as their chief, but he did not accept the offer, knowing the prestige would not outlive his ammunition.

Reaching the Goal.

Russia is to carry on the war to "the bitter end." There must be rather a bad taste in the Russian mouth already.

S.S.S. OUR RECORD
40 YEARS of CURES
With medicines as with other things, the surest test of worth is the length of time they have the confidence of the people. The efficacy of S. S. S. has been thoroughly proven by experience, and so successful has it been that today it is the best known and most widely used blood remedy in the world. For diseases such as Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, Sores and Ulcers, Contagious Blood Poison, and other troubles due to an impure and poisoned condition of the blood, no remedy acts so promptly and thoroughly as does S. S. S., and thousands throughout the country, cured of such diseases, are daily recommending it to others similarly afflicted. ITS FORTY YEARS OF EXISTENCE HAVE BEEN FORTY YEARS OF CURES. S. S. S. is a blood purifier of the highest order, containing properties necessary to cure blood troubles of every character, and which make it the greatest of all tonics. It goes into the blood and drives out any and all impurities, and makes this stream of life strong and healthy, and when this is done disease cannot remain. Being made entirely from roots, herbs and barks, chosen for their healing, purifying and building-up properties, it does not injure any of the delicate organs or tissues of the body as do those medicines which contain Potash, Mercury, Arsenic or other harmful minerals, but cures safely as well as permanently. S. S. S. reaches deep-seated and inherited cases on which the ordinary Sarsaparillas and tonics have no effect. It is no experiment to use S. S. S.; it is a remedy with a record; it has proven its worth and ability by its forty years of cures. If you need a blood remedy begin the use of S. S. S.; write us about your case and let our physicians advise you and send book on the blood; no charge for either.
